This rejection of his affection has led the young man to make several efforts to commit suicide, the last attempt having been made Friday evening when his friends say he took 150 grains of chloral.

The young man has been placed in a barred room, and a most diligent watch is constantly kept to prevent him from doing himself bodily injury. A special nurse has been placed at his door, and the house physicians are constantly on guard. Dr. H. L. Johnson and Dr. Tompkins have had the patient in charge, but refuse to say anything about the case.

Hour after hour the man paces the narrow room and cries piteously for "Irene, Irene, angel of my life, come to me ere I die! Come to my arms, Irene, my Irene!"

But Irene has left Washington. She took her departure recently and is said to be bestowing her affections upon another. Who the young lady is the friends of the man refuse to state.

Edwin Doren is 30 years of age. He came to Washington from California when he was a boy, when his father was made paymaster in the navy. Finally he became acquainted with a handsome young lady. It is said that he intended to marry her. His father was proud of him and sent him to the universities of Europe to be educated.

Had Passed Some Time In Paris.

For a number of years he has been in the gay French capital, but his love for the Washington girl has never grown cold. Some time ago he returned to America, after having become master of six languages and proficient in many branches of science and philosophy. His attentions were directed toward the young lady Irene, whom he had left behind. During all the time he remained absent he communicated often with the young lady, but in the meantime her devotion had become estranged.

Last Friday, it is said, he made a final proposal to her and upon being refused decided to end his life. Owing to his conduct Irene has fled from him, and where she has gone only her friends know.

Young Doren managed to break through the door of his room during one of his ravings and threatened to throw himself down the elevator shaft. An attendant seized him and again locked him up.

The young man is wealthy and is well connected with several prominent families in Washington. His brother and sister have lately been in Washington, but it is understood that they have now returned to their home in California.

Big Haul of Stolen Goods.

New Haven, June 15.—The local detective bureau has made the biggest haul of stolen goods that has ever been unearthed in this city and captured a gang of Italian shoplifters who had over $2,000 worth of plunder secreted. Two wagon loads of stolen silks, satins and the various articles found in a dry goods store were carried to the police station to await identification. The persons arrested are: Raymond Maresca and wife, 10 Prindle street; Mrs. Eugene Maresca, 12 Fair street, and Catherine Fedell, 18 Union street. Alphonso and Mary Resigno, who run a lodging house at 12 Fair street, were arrested for complicity.

Assistant Attorney General Retires.

Washington, June 15.—Assistant Attorney General Edward B. Whitney has retired from office. He has had charge of the litigation arising out of the tariff laws and argued in the supreme court the income tax case, the sugar bounty case, the Debs case, the long pension case and the recent interstate commerce and filibustering cases. Mr. Whitney will return to New York and be succeeded by a Yale classmate, Henry M. Hoyt of Philadelphia.

No More Signs of Yellow Fever.

New York, June 15.—Health Officer Doty has returned to quarantine from the city. The second cabin passengers of the Advance, detained at Hoffman island, are all well. They will probably be discharged within the next few hours. There were no other removals to Swinburne island. The body of Seaman Otto Wernersen, who died of yellow fever at Swinburne island, will be cremated.

Fire on Board a Cotton Steamer.

Antwerp, June 15.—The British steamer Highland Prince, Captain Thomas, which arrived here on the 10th from New Orleans via Havre, had a slight fire on the same day in the cotton stored in hold No. 4. Before the fire was extinguished, 30 bales of the cotton were badly scorched and others badly damaged.

Cyclone Visits Virginia.

Richmond, June 15.—Upper Hanover and lower Caroline counties have been visited by a cyclone. Trees were uprooted, fences prostrated, wheat blown out of the ground in some places, and several barns were destroyed. At Bullfield the race track stand was blown away. No fatalities are reported.

Strike In Novelty Works.

New Britain, Conn., June 15.—All but 2 of the 23 buffers employed by the Traut & Hine company, manufacturers of suspender trimmings and novelties, have quit work, owing to a readjustment of prices, which the men claim amount to an average reduction of their wages of from 20 to 30 per cent.

Trying to Save a Steamer.

London, June 15.—The British steamer Ohio, from Rotterdam for Baltimore, which was towed to Sinclair bay after having been ashore at Freswick bay, near Wick, has been beached on the sand stern foremost, and the holes in her bottom are being patched to enable her to reach a port to repair.

REPORTERS SNUBBED

Refused Entrance to George Vanderbilt's Residence.

THE PRESIDENT CHAMPIONS THEM.

He Said the Newspaper Men Were His Invited Guests, and as Such They Were Admitted to the Famous Biltmore House.

Asheville, N. C., June 15.—An unexpected incident of President McKinley's visit developed when it became known to newspaper men accompanying the party that permission to enter Biltmore House, George W. Vanderbilt's splendid mansion, had been refused to them while extended to other members of the party. Mr. Vanderbilt is abroad, and his representative, Charles McNamee, is with him. In the absence of both the estate is governed by E. J. Harding, said to be an Englishman by birth.

When waited on by the local committee of arrangements a day or two ago for permission for the president and party to enter Biltmore House, he objected strongly to receiving any members of the party other than the president and his cabinet and the ladies with them.

He even refused permission to Manager McKissick of the Battery Park hotel, in charge of the party here, and in the course of conversation had with two members of the committee said, "Mr. Vanderbilt spits on newspaper notoriety, and so do I."

The President Arrives.

After this there was nothing for the local committee to do but withdraw. So the matter rested until yesterday, when the president arrived, and J. Addison Porter, his secretary, was told of the incident. He must have informed the president, for later Mr. Harding was called up on the telephone by Mr. Porter and asked if it were true that newspaper men would not be admitted to the mansion.

Porter was told that it was, and then he informed Mr. Harding that the president considered the newspaper men were his invited guests on the trip and that they were as much a contingent of the party as members of the cabinet.

Furthermore, Mr. Porter notified Mr. Harding that the president had authorized him to say that if the newspaper men were barred from the mansion he would not step his foot inside the estate. This brought things to a crisis, and Mr. Harding capitulated with the best grace possible, and the newspaper men were admitted to the mansion on the same footing as the president and his cabinet.

Wintersteen Renews His Bail.

Bloomsburg, Pa., June 15.—L. S. Wintersteen, the accused dynamiter whose trial lasted three weeks and resulted in the jury disagreeing and being discharged late Saturday night, has appeared in court and renewed his bail in the sum of $7,000. E. B. Brewer and F. P. Drinker became his sureties. Clifton Knorr, who turned state's evidence and said he was hired by Wintersteen to blow up Lawyer Waller's house, did not appear, as it was not necessary for him to renew his bail. He is simply awaiting sentence. Wintersteen is to appear for trial again at the September term of court.

Lawyer Charged With Forgery.

Newburg, N. Y., June 15.—Three indictments have been found by the grand jury at Goshen against Grant P. Taylor, a lawyer of this city, who is accused of forgery in connection with a mortgage transaction. One indictment is for forgery in the first degree, one for forgery in the second degree and a third for grand larceny. Taylor pleaded not guilty to each indictment. His counsel made a special plea of insanity for Taylor. The prisoner was remanded to jail for trial at the next term of court, bail having been fixed at $7,500.

Detroit Raises a Big Flag.

Detroit, June 15.—A feature of flag day in this city was the raising of the big flag and union jack presented to the city of Detroit by the crew of the United States cruiser Detroit. The banners were hoisted from the ground in front of the city hall to the flagstaff on top of the building shortly after noon by some United States marines amid cheers of the crowd. Mayor Maybury and others made short appropriate addresses, and the bright new emblems of patriotism fluttered finely in the fresh breeze.

Fell From His Bicycle.

Philadelphia, June 15.—Ralph D. Paine, a newspaper man, well known in this city and state and in New York city, was thrown from his bicycle at Milford, Pa., and his left arm was fractured in six places. The physicians state that he will never again have the use of the limb. Mr. Paine had been for a week at Milford reporting the Schulz murder trial for a Philadelphia paper. He but recently returned from a trip through Cuba, which he made for a New York newspaper.

THE SHAKERS DO THEIR DUTY.

"If a man discovers a valuable medicine," said Horace Greeley," it is his duty to advertise it." Yes, and at once; for suffering demands the speediest relief possible. But let the man first be sure. Suffering had better wait than be deluded by false hopes. Medicine, like surgery, must often seem cruel in order to be really kind. On this principle the Shakers, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y., withheld their great indigestion and dyspepsia remedy from the public for several years. With them right doing is everything—money comparatively nothing. Hence the popularity and success of whatever they offer for sale. Having satisfied themselves of the merit of their medicine by employing it in the worst cases of digestive disorders in their own vicinity for years, they did their duty—they advertised it, under the name of the Shaker Digestive Cordial. In all cases where there is distress after eating, pain in the stomach, chest and back; aversion to food with the resulting symtoms, such as headache, furred tongue, eructation of gas, with weakness and loss of flesh, etc., the Cordial has a most happy effect. Being itself a digestive food with power to digest other foods, it relieves the weak and possibly inflamed stomach of the labor it is in no condition to perform, gives new strength to the body and presently restores to the digestive organs their normal vigor. Taken immediatly after eating this remedy insures the digestion of the meal and prevents the fermentation of the food, which is the source of lost of the afflicted symptoms which accompany dyspepsia. It is also as agreeable to the taste as it is potent as a medicine.

To show their own confidence in it, and to hasten its universal adoption, the Shakers authorize druggists to sell trial bottles at the nominal price of ten cents.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., meet this evening.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The educational committee of the Y. M. C. A. will meet in the Association Hall this evening.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, has returned to Hoboken to train with the Steven's Institute crew in the Naval Reserve for a race with the New York Naval Reserve crew.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

MASONS CELEBRATE JUBILEE.

Prince of Wales Presides at Their Meeting In London.

London, June 15.—The Masonic meeting at the Royal Albert hall in commemoration of the queen's diamond jubilee was a notable function. The hall was packed by over 10,000 Masons in gorgeous regalia. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught arrived, preceded by trumpeters sounding fanfares. When they entered the hall, the organ played a grand processional march, and all present rose to their feet.

The grand officers lined the aisle to the dais. The Prince of Wales, as grand master of England, followed by an imposing staff composed of grand officers, moved to the sound of the majestic music to his throne, where, surrounded by a brilliant phalanx of officers, he was received and greeted in the united form of salutation reserved for his high station.

The prince then addressed the audience and announced that the admission fees for the ceremony amounted to £7,000 ($35,000), half of which would go to the Prince of Wales hospital fund and the other half to the different Masonic charities.

The Duke of Connaught moved an address to the queen in behalf of the Masons, and it was carried with loud applause, after which the whole assemblage joined in singing the national anthem to the accompaniment of the organ.

SUICIDE OF BARNATO

LEAPED OVERBOARD FROM A SHIP.

His Real Name Was Barnett Isaacs—Began His Career as an Impecunious Showman and Acquired a Vast Fortune by Speculation.

London, June 15.—A special dispatch from Funchal, island of Madeira, off the west coast of Marocco, says that on the arrival there of the British steamship Scot, which left Table bay, Cape Town, on June 2 for Southampton, it was announced that Barney Barnato, the South Africa diamond king, who was among the passengers, had committed suicide by leaping overboard. His body was recovered.

The late Barney Barnato was in many respects the most remarkable speculator of the century. Of all the Englishmen who have taken part in the development of South Africa two only have secured a worldwide reputation. These have been Cecil Rhodes and Barnett Isaacs, more often and less respectfully styled Barney. Barnato was an assumed name, a sort of stage name, for he began his life in South Africa by exhibiting a trick donkey about 25 years ago. He was then about 20 years of age.

Barnato was an English Jew and illustrated in an extraordinary way the financial genius of his race. Up to the point where his fortunes began to decline he made money by leaps and bounds, and in 1895, when his good fortune was at its zenith, it was estimated that he controlled interests worth in the neighborhood of £100,000,000.

Called the Richest Man In the World.

It was the fashion to call him the richest man in the world. At that time he was virtually the king of the London money market. In the autumn of 1895, when the boom in "Kaffirs," the shares of the comparatively new gold mines of the Transvaal, South Africa, was at its height, every man, woman and child in London with money to invest invested it in "Kaffirs." The craze was the last of those financial fevers which periodically attack conservative England, the "South sea bubble" being the first. For months it was the controlling passion in London, and it was scarcely less rampant in Paris and Berlin. The shares went to unheard of figures, and fortunes were made in a day.

The center of this tremendous financial outburst was Barney Barnato, and he was conservatively estimated at that time as worth between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000. Among his assets was a bank originally capitalized at $12,500,000. In a very few months its capital stock rose in value to $45,000,000.

Barnato was born in London. But little is known as to his early life, except that he received his instruction from a private tutor instead of attending the public schools. He was a younger son, and at the age of 20 went to South Africa, then a much more savage territory than it is now and but scantily populated by Englishmen or persons of English descent, to seek his fortune. The Kimberley diamond mines were just beginning to be productive. With his few pounds of capital he began dealing in diamonds in a small way. He was clever and pushing. Everything he touched he made successful. In five years he had earned enough in the retail sale of diamonds to purchase shares in the mines from which his merchandise had come. Before another five years had elapsed his holdings at Kimberley had become very large, and when the Transvaal goldfields were discovered he had profits to invest in them.

He Was a Money Power.

In 1886 Barney Barnato was a definite power in South Africa and began to be spoken of as the rival of Cecil Rhodes. Unlike in temperament and even more unlike in personal ambition, the two men started in to be hot opponents. But in 1888 they reached the conclusion simultaneously that their respective interests could be best promoted by combining forces, and the De Beers consolidated mines were the result, one of the most valuable pieces of property of the kind in the world.

Barnato repeatedly and persistently denied the story that he began life in South Africa by exhibiting a trick donkey, but there are many Afrikanders entirely familiar with his career in that part of the world who have as persistently and repeatedly asserted this to be the fact. There is no truth, however, in the story that he was ever a clown or a juggler in a wandering show. He used to say the only foundation for this report was the fact that when he first went to South Africa he frequently took part in private theatricals for the benefit of hospitals and similar charities. He had considerable ability in this direction, and his favorite roles in later years were Othello and Mathias in "The Bells."

Although Barnato represented Kimberley twice in the Cape legislature, he had little time to give to politics and little interest in that field of activity. Cecil Rhodes uses wealth only as a means to political control. Barnato aspired only to such control of men as comes from being fabulously rich. His record in the Cape legislature was quite devoid of incident. When the tremendous increase in his mining interests called for the establishment of a London branch, this took the form of the Barnato bank. From that date he spent most of his time in London, living at first in Earl Spencer's town residence, but moving finally into a magnificent mansion overlooking Hyde park.

While in Africa he married and had three children, two sons and a daughter, who survive him.

THE MARTIN ACT.

Some taxpayers in Plainfield propose to test the constitutionality of the Martin act, or the vital feature of the act, which gives valid title to properties sold for taxes in conformity with the act. It appears that about all other points of the law have been adjudicated, except that of giving title, which is the essential principle of the law. No lawyer can safely say in advance what the decision of the Supreme Court or Court of Errors and Appeals in any case will be, and the courts have recently treated the State to some genuine surprises in their opinions. The Martin act is one of the most beneficent laws ever passed by the New Jersey Legislature. The act was framed by Newark and Elizabeth lawyers at a time when Elizabeth had defaulted in her bonds and was bankrupt, when Rahway was in the same condition, when the tax books of Jersey City contained records of millions of arrears of taxes and assessments, and when there were hundreds of thousands of tax arrears in Newark. It was only recently that the act was made to apply to towns like Plainfield, and why the property-owners in Plainfield should object to its operation is not quite clear to people in the larger cities of the State, who have witnessed and who appreciate its great benefits. There can be no reasonable opposition to the law, which could proceed only from chronic tax shirkers or that class of real estate speculators who hold vacant land without improvement and without paying taxes or assessments in the expectation of getting the "unearned increment," accruing from the enterprise of their neighbors, by selling out finally at a big profit to purchasers who will pay off the tax liens.—Newark Advertiser.

GEN. STOCKTON DEFEATED.

History of Washington's Somerville Headquarters Accepted as Authentic.

Members of the State Revolutionary Memorial Society and of the Daughters of the Revolution deny the statement alleged to have been made by Gen. Robert F. Stockton, of Princeton, to the effect that those organizations had been imposed on in the purchase of the Wallace house at Somerville as a headquarters of Washington. The statements that the societies will investigate the alleged swindle and that the formal opening of the headquarters on June 17th will be postponed, is denounced by the Executive Committee as false. A leading member of the Executive Committee said last night:

"The committee held its final meeting at Somerville on June 10th. The sworn statements of Mrs. VanDoren Vredenburg, James Rockafellow and John VanMiddlesworth, highly respectable residents of Somerset county, all above 80 years of age, were produced. The immediate ancestors of the witnesses were survivors of the Revolutionary war, and left undisputed evidence to their descendents that Gen. and Mrs. Washington occupied the Wallace house. An early history of Somerset county, written by the Rev. Abraham Messler, whose father served under Washington in the Raritan Valley, and who obtained his historical facts from many of the survivors of the Revolutionary war, repeatedly names the Wallace house as Washington's headquarters during his sojourn in the Raritan Valley. There is also an original letter in the possession of the society, written by a Continental staff officer, which names the Wallace house as Washington's headquarters.

"Every member of the committee, with the exception of Gen. Stockton, concurred in the report that the history of the Wallace house as the headquarters of Gen. Washington was established beyond a doubt. Gen. Stockton read a minority report in which he sought to establish Washington's headquarters near Bound Brook. The Board of Trustees unanimously accepted the majority report, and the Wallace house will be formally dedicated on June 17th.

THE EMPLOYER'S SIDE.

L. J. Ellis States His Side of the Case in the Servant Girl Trouble.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—My attention has just been called to the article in your paper of Friday last in reference to "suit between servant and her mistress."

The article is unjust to the defendant in the case, in that it alleges that the plaintiff was dismissed for incompetence. Now there are few people in this world who would dismiss a girl for incompetence and refuse to pay her anything for her services, although they can legally do so, provided the servant has contracted to do that which she afterwards proves herself incompetent to do.

Mary Gartland was dismissed for insubordination and disobedience. Allow me to add that the plaintiff was offered by the defendant wages for the time she had served, but she refused, demanding her whole month's pay or none. On arriving home and hearing of the plaintiff's conduct I declined to allow her to be paid anything, and insisted that we avail ourselves of the law in the case as the only means of punishing her.

A little reflection will satisfy the person of ordinary intelligence that in a case of this kind much more is involved than the wages claimed to be due the servant.

The course I have pursued in this matter I have felt was nothing more nor less than my duty to my family and in protection of them. The decision of the jury, if right, would give free riot in every family to any virago whom they might through some mischance employ.

By the way, your article states that the jury was out only five minutes. The fact is they were out three hours or more. L. J. Ellis.

WESTFIELD

SCHEME OF ANNEXATION

GARWOOD LOOKS TO WESTFIELD FOR RELIEF.

Effort May Be Made to Include Her School System in That of the Township—Committee Proceedings Secret.

At the meeting of the special committee of the Westfield Board of Education with the Cranford school trustees at Garwood Saturday night, some comment was caused by what was termed the star chamber proceedings of the committee in excluding from the meeting the newspaper reporters and the representative of the Garwood Land Improvement Company. The meeting was called to consider the question of establishing a public school at Garwood, and the Garwood company, which in the presence of complications between the trustees of the two towns, has this winter maintained a school at its own expense, was naturally a most interested party, and felt itself entitled to take part in the discussion or at least to hear what was said. But the public was excluded and no one but the trustees can say what took place in the meeting. But as the committee from Westfield was not appointed with power, it is certain that no definite action was taken binding either Board. The meeting was one for discussion, and the Boards in separate session will hereafter consider and act upon suggestions put forward at Saturday night's meeting. No immediate action can be looked for, and in the meantime the people of Garwood are asking what the prospects are for securing a public school. What will Cranford do? It is the action of her trustees that has caused trouble in the past, and interest now centers in what she will do. If no agreement can be reached, the Garwood people will probably petition the State Board of Education to secure the annexation of the whole district to Westfield. Her property valuation is large, and all her taxes would then be paid to Westfield, who would provide school facilities. And present indications are that this annexation scheme is not at all displeasing to Westfield.

Memories of Famous Friends.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, who is original in all things, discovered a unique way of celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday. That was to write his recollections of some of the eminent men who were his closest friends, among them Lowell, Longfellow, Emerson, Dr. Holmes and Wendell Phillips. The Youth's Companion has had the good fortune to secure these intimate and charming papers, and the first in the series appears in its issue of June 10th. Edward Everett, Dr. Hale's uncle, is the subject, and a very lifelike picture is given of this famous Massachusetts man, the hero of countless interesting incidents, who entered many fields of effort—ranging all the way from preacher to diplomat—and won success in all.

FOUND A COLUMBUS LETTER.

And Other Interesting Relics of the Discoverer of America.

W. C. Zimmerman, circuit court clerk of Citrus County, Florida, and an archaeologist of note, has recently reached Atlanta from San Carlos Bay islands, south of Fort Myers where with a number of friends he has been on a camp-hunt. On one of the islands Zimmerman and his friends found the relics of a Spanish expedition sent out from Cuba by Christopher Columbus when the great discoverer was Governor of that island. While hunting, the men passed a low mound, and at Zimmerman's request an investigation was made. After a little digging, something hard was struck, and when unearthed it was found to be a complete suit of armor. Further digging unearthed three more suits of armor. Zimmerman pried open the helmet of one of the suits and was shocked to see a skull. The entire suit was then opened, and found to contain a skeleton. The other suits were opened, and also found to contain skeletons. Four swords made in Toledo were found near the skeletons. Further digging brought to light an iron box filled with Spanish doubloons, worth $6,000, a few blunderbuses, and cutlasses of antique pattern bearing the name Sebastian Velasquez ,and the date 1490. Zimmerman continued to dig, and was rewarded by unearthing another iron box, which proved the most interesting find of all. In this box were found a portrait of a beautiful woman painted on an ivory, a medallion dated 1497, on which was a raised figure of Christopher Columbus, and a roll of parchment covered with writing. Zimmerman, who is a linguist, soon saw that the parchment was a letter from Columbus to Sebastian Velasquez, and related to an expedition which the latter was to lead from Cuba to explore the coasts of Florida. The letter was one of instructions, and was signed by Columbus as Governor of Cuba.

The Atlanta Constitution further says that the doubloons will be divided among members of the party, and the relics disposed of to the government, or to one of the universities.

THE BRITISH SOLDIER'S CLOTHES.

It costs the British government $7,250,000 annually for the clothing furnished to its army all over the world. Each of the foreign possessions, however, has to pay back, to a certain extent, the amount which the uniforms of the troops stationed or sent there has cost, and this entails no end of bookkeeping. India pays for clothing of its own troops, and also for the uniforms of the men which England sends there. The latter item is about $675,000 annually. On the other hand, when a regiment comes here from India, that country has to be paid back the full value of the clothes it wears. The government sells old worn-out articles to the second-hand dealers, who, by-the-way, usually accumulate fortunes in a short tme. The value of cast-off clothes so disposed of is about $150,000 yearly. The best quality of everything is used in the manufacture of uniforms. In fact, it is said they are too good for durable wear. A huge factory in Pimlico makes a large share of the furnishings, but vast quantities of foot and head gear are bought ready made. Boots and leggings, for example, cost $1,165,000, and headdresses $250,000. The thousands of miles of flannel, linen, calico, cloth, velvet, etc., the millons of buttons, the tons of cotton-wool, the billions of yards of sewing-cotton, that are made into tunics, trousers, and shirts, cost $2,500,000, and the wages paid for making these up are over $5,000 a week. But all this vast expense is much less than the annual outlay that France or Germany makes for keeping its soldiers. In Germany every man in the army has four complete suits of military clothing.—Harper's Round Table.

An African Duel.

In the Boer war of 1881, a Mr. Sampson and Botha found themselves behind stones on a level plain, shooting at each other. Sampson made sure that he had hit Botha, and raised his head, when a bullet ploughed through his neck.

"My man is dead," cried Botha, and exposed himself. Just then a bullet from Sampson's rifle struck him.

"This time I've got him!" shouted Sampson, and raised himself up; but a bullet grazed his side, and he dropped. Botha now had no doubt that he had ended his antagonist, and jumped upon his feet, only to be again laid low.

Though the men were now past fighting, with two bad wounds apiece, both recovered, and when Sampson settled in the Transvaal they became great friends, and often chaffed each other about this encounter.—Harper's Round Table.

Power of Insects and Shell Fish.

The shelless limpet pulls 1984 times its own weight when in the air, and about double when measured in the water. Fleas pull 1493 times their own dead weight. The Mediterranean cockle, Venus verrucosa, can exert a pulling power equal to 2071 times the weight of its own body. So great is the power possessed by the oyster, that to open it a force equal to 1319-5 times the weight of its shelless body is required. If the human being possessed strength as great in proportion as these shellfish, the average man would be able to lift the enormous weight of 2,976,000 pounds, pulling in the same degree as the limpet. And if the man pulled in the same proportionate degree as the cockle, he would sustain 3,106,500 pounds.—Scientific American.

White, the owner of all the land embraced within the lines of the proposed street hereinafter referred to, has dedicated said proposed street to the public, and has agreed, in case the City shall accept said proposed street, that he will, at his own expense, and before October first, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, put the proposed street to the grade shown by the map hereinafter referred to, and that he will, at his own expense, and before July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, macadamize the road-bed to a width of sixteen feet and a depth of six inches, and further, at his own expense, will maintain and keep in repair the gutters of said proposed street until such time as he shall, at his own expense, construct permanent paving in said gutters; and also that he will provide, as soon as the street is brought to the new grade, suitable pipes to drain the surface water to the brook, and also that he will indemnify and save harmless the City of Plainfield from any and all expense in and about the opening, acceptance, macadamizing, paving and repair of said proposed street, down to the time that the said street shall be permanently macadamized, paved and flagged; and said George F. White has filed with the City Treasurer a bond, with sureties, in the sum of three thousand dollars, to secure the performance on his part of his said agreement herein above referred to;

AND WHEREAS, the Common Council have judged and do hereby judge that the public good requires that said proposed street should be accepted upon the terms and under the agreements aforesaid, and have accepted, and do hereby accept said agreements and the bond above referred to, therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the proposed street with center and side lines as heretofore dedicated to the public by George F. White, and shown on map signed by said George F. White, and filed with the City Clerk May 11th, 1897, entitled "Application Map for the laying out and opening of Sycamore Avenue from the Northwesterly side of West Front Street to the City line in the center of Green Brook, City of Plainfield, New Jersey, Jan. 1896." be and the same is hereby accepted as a public street of the City of Plainfield, to be known as Sycamore Avenue, and that the center and side lines and the grade of said proposed street are hereby established as delineated and set forth on said map.

Adopted by the Common Council June 7, 1897; approved by the Mayor June 14, 1897.

is a disease which if allowed to fasten its hold upon the victim will surely land him in a premature grave. It is caused by inactive kidneys. They fail to filter from the blood the impurities and poisons which it takes up from the food, and which should be eliminated by way of the urine.

This inactivity can be

Your doctors may not know it, but eight out of every ten of the boys in the railroading line are constantly complaining of their kidneys and waterworks. I suppose it comes from the jolting and jerking of the cars. Anyway it's a fact. I suffered for over four years with pains in my back and loins, frequent calls to urinate, my water scalding and burning me off and on, and constant sense of distress over my bladder. Ed. Firman spoke to me about your kidney pills, and I tried them just for an flyer, same as I've tried so many things. But it wasn't the same. They did the business, and did it well. In two weeks I hadn't a pain or a bad symptom and never had to get up in the night. I take them now every few days, and they keep me straight and right. Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Another Victory
In Paterson. This Endorses What Others are Saying.

Mr. James Booth can be found at 155 Ward street, Paterson, N. J., where our representative learned the following facts of his case, which are published here for the benefit of the public; his experience had been the same as that of many other citizens, and it is no wonder they have set people talking. Mr. Booth says: "I have been troubld from my back for about six years. Being a bookkeeper I am on my feet most of the time and it appears to me that this has much to do with my troubles. Besides the backache in the region of the kidneys there are many minor ailments. They have, however, all disappeared in this way: I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and having sufferered so long from my back I thought I would try them. I began taking them and found within two weeks that they were helping me greatly, I had suffered with headaches but they are very rare now, stooping over or any strain across the back would always hurt me; but since using Doan's Kidney Pills I can stand on my feet or take long walks without any inconvenience whatever. I also sleep well at nights now and feel good generally. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy and think it worthy of highest recommendation."

'Tis evidence like this that starts people talking about Doan's Kidney Pills. They cure, and grateful people are telling their neighbors about them. Merit will tell, and no medical compound can show so many proofs of merit as can be procured by proprietors of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Price 50 cents per box. For sale by all dealers or mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

TRAIN DERAILED.

Richmond, Ind., June 15.—Train No 2, south bound express on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad, was derailed at Stone Station, near Ridgeville, 30 miles north of here. The rails are said to have spread, ditching the engine, tender, mail and baggage cars. The smoker was partially derailed.

The engine was totally demolished, instantly killing Engineer David Kramer of Fort Wayne, aged 50 years. He did not leave his seat and was found under the engine. Fireman Grabel of Fort Wayne was seriously injured. He fell under the tender. Baggage Master Martin Minch of Fort Wayne was also injured. S. W. Mundy, express messenger, of Grand Rapids, was slightly injured.

The smoker and other coaches were not damaged. No passengers were hurt. Heat is supposed to have caused the spreading of the rails.

BRIGHTER PROSPECTS.

Iron Companies Resuming Business After a Term of Idleness.

Pittsburg, June 15.—The puddling, finishing and nail departments of the Oliver Bros.' Tenth street mill have resumed operations after an idleness of a week, due to lack of orders. About 300 men are benefited by the resumption.

The Lockhart Iron and Steel company has also started three furnaces in the 16-inch bar mill, and a large number of men were put to work in the puddling department. The mill has been idle for some time, owing to lack of orders. More men will be put to work in the near future. The mills of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company, limited, on the south side, present a normal appearance.

All departments affected by the recent strike are again in full operation, and everything about the plant betokens industry and quiet.

RUSH FOR PENSIONS.

Extra Clerks Had to Be Appointed to Look After the Claims.

Washington, June 15.—The war veterans are rushing forward their applications for pensions under the new administration, and the increase in the volume of such business has been so extraordinary as to necessitate the detail of 30 additional clerks to the record division of the pension bureau to look after the claims.

These employees were taken from the various adjudicating divisions. In the ten days ending last Saturday the number of applications of all kinds for pensions aggregated 14,200.

During the 82 days subsequent to March 8 last the record division of the office disposed of 84,100 applications. The approximate number of such claims now pending in the bureau is 35,000.

LAW STUDENT KILLED.

Utica, N. Y., June 15.—In Boonville, this county, John J. Burroughs received injuries from which he died. Mr. Burroughs was 24 years of age and a student of Columbia College Law school. He had been home for some weeks on account of ill health and was out to see the operations of men engaged in building waterworks.

They were blasting in Charles street, and Burroughs stood under a tree 75 yards away. The chain that held the covering to a blast broke, and a piece of log weighing 20 pounds was hurled through the air, striking the young man with great force. Slivers on the log penetrated to his lungs.

THE DAUNTLESS.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 15.—A special from Key West says: The Dauntless has left on another expedition. After taking on 33 Cubans she attempted to go through the northwest passage and ran ashore. Assistance was sent for, and the tugs Clyde and Childs pulled her off. About half past 4 o'clock in the morning the Dauntless changed her course in returning to the harbor, and, passing the Marblehead, put to sea. The Marblehead started in pursuit.

The schooner Adams took 40 tons of merchandise from the Biscayne and went to sea to meet the Dauntless.

Imprisoned by a Bicycle Chain.

Nashua, N. H., June 15.—While William Robichaud, a bicyclist, was about to chain his wheel to a post opposite Odd Fellows' hall a stranger came up behind him and, snatching the chain, slipped it around Robichaud's arms and body and snapped the padlock. Robichaud could not move his hands and was securely imprisoned for two hours. Finally a policeman secured a hammer and a cold chisel, with which he cut the chain. If the stranger intended robbery, he must have been frightened away.

Children Burned to Death.

Dayton, O., June 15.—When the firemen extinguished the fire at the home of Frank Prestel, a laborer, on Nassau street, they found the badly charred bodies of Rosa, aged 6, and Albert, aged 2 years, locked in each other's arms. The children had played with matches and set fire to the upper part of the house. So rapid were the flames in their deadly work that the mother discovered the danger of her children too late to save them.

Foreclosure Suit Begun.

Chicago, June 15.—A bill has been filed to foreclose a trust deed for $190,934 on the property of the Cheltonham Beach company. The deed is dated June 25, 1891, and was given to secure a loan. The company was organized in 1891 to create a summer resort and bathing beach on Lake Michigan just south of Jackson park. About 160 acres were purchased and a hotel and minor buildings erected. The place was never a financial success.

Cubans Escape to Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 15.—Dr Viete, chief surgeon of the Cuban insurgent army commanded by General Garcia, arrived at Rio Buena, this island, on Saturday, accompanied by 11 Cubans. They had escaped from the province of Santiago de Cuba in an open boat and brought with them dispatches for the Cuban junta at New York. These dispatches were seized by the Jamaican officials.

TALK STILL ON SUGAR

Mr. Hoar and Mr. Tillman Have a Tilt During the Discussion.

ONE VOTE TAKEN DURING THE DAY.

Lindsay's Amendment Has Been Rejected. Senator Tillman Submits a Report on His Bill For the Amendment of the Wilson Law.

Washington, June 15.—The senate debate on the sugar schedule of the tariff bill proceeded with only one diverting incident to relieve the monotony into which the discussion has lapsed. This was the sharp exchange between Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts and Mr. Tillman of South Carolina, representing the two extremes of senatorial procedure.

Mr. Tillman again referred to published charges of irregularity in connection with the sugar schedule and asserted that the senate would stand convicted before the American people if it failed to investigate the charges. Mr. Hoar calmly and impressively repelled this statement, his tone and language being calculated as a rebuke.

He declared that the vague charges of irregularity were not only preposterous, but infamous. Mr. Tillman reiterated that senators would stand convicted by the people if they sought to hide behind the senatorial toga.

Allison Makes a Speech.

Mr. Allison, in charge of the bill, made another speech in defense of the schedule, presenting tables which he declared proved that the sugar refiners received less protection under the senate schedule than under the existing law. Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota spoke at length in favor of his amendment to place on the free list articles controlled by trusts, severely arraigning the various large trusts. Mr. Allen of Nebraska urged legal procedure against the trusts. Only one roll call occurred during the day, on Mr. Lindsay's amendment to place all sugars on the same basis. This was rejected—26 to 29—Mr. McEnery of Louisiana voting with the Republicans in the negative and Senators Pettigrew and Mantle with the Democrats in the affirmative.

Senator Tillman from the committee on interstate commerce has submitted a report on his bill for the amendment of the Wilson law concerning the commerce in liquor between the states. His bill is intended to legalize the South Carolina system, and the report just made says its enactment in view of the recent decision of Judge Simonton is necessary to protect the state from the evils of intemperance.

The report also says: "If the state of South Carolina is to be flooded, as it will be, by liquors under the pretext that they are for private use, when in fact they are for sale without analysis, it is readily seen what obstacles are thrown in the way of state control."

The conclusion is drawn that no remedy is left for restricting intemperance except prohibition, and that, the report adds, is a pronounced failure.

Republicans Hold a Caucus.

Washington, June 15.—The Republican senators were in caucus for more than three hours last night, and when adjournment was reached not very much progress had been made. Three propositions only were under consideration. These were the question of what to do with the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty, the advisability of giving a bounty on beet sugar and the question of an antitrust amendment.

The Hawaiian treaty question was passed over, the beet sugar bounty proposition was withdrawn, and the antitrust amendment was referred to the Republican members of the judiciary committee.

In reference to the Hawaiian treaty proposition several senators expressed the opinion that if it was true that a treaty of annexation was to be sent in that it would be absurd to enact legislation looking to the abrogation of the treaty of reciprocity. Senators who were aware of the progress of the annexation treaty did not feel at liberty to give the caucus full information.

Millionaire Charged With Abandonment.

Mount Vernon, Ills., June 15.—The young millionaire James E. Berry was arraigned before Judge Wells on a charge of wife abandonment preferred by his wife, Mrs. Sadie Miller Berry. The case was set for trial tomorrow, and Berry was required to give bond for $300 for his appearance. Great excitement ensued when Berry objected to furnishing bond and began displaying all kinds of bills and saying that he would furnish the bond himself without the aid of other people, and this not being permitted he made things lively by tearing a $500 bill in two while the spectators stood struck with awe at his actions. Several people signed the bond.

Swindlers Sentenced.

Boston, June 15.—J. Richard Mulrey, convicted in two trials of obtaining money from the city of Boston by false pretenses, has been sentenced in the superior court to eight years in the state prison. P. J. Finneran, convicted with Mulrey at the first trial, received a sentence of 28 months in the House of Correction and a fine of $1,400.

Fire on Ellis Island.

New York, June 15.—The main building for the reception and clearance of immigrants at Ellis island was burned this morning. This building contained the valuable records relating to the passage of immigrants into this country through this port, many of which were destroyed.

Small Town Ablaze.

Detroit, June 15.—A special from Weidman, Mich., a town of 400 inhabitants in Isabella county, says: The town is all afire. A high west wind is blowing. There is no hope of saving the main part of the town.

Heavy Rains Affect Crops.

Saratoga, June 15.—Agriculturists complain of the frequent heavy storms that have drenched this section of late, seriously affecting growing crops. The rainfall during the past four weeks has been unusually heavy.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage

The Select Few enjoyed a run to Princeton, Sunday.

The Boys' Bicycle Brigade of the Y. M. C. A. held a run on Saturday afternoon to Dunellen to see the baseball game there. Walter Long was in command.

The Prospect Wheelmen, of Brooklyn, to the number of about 50, Sunday enjoyed a club run to Elizabeth and New Brunswick, returning by way of this city. At Scott's Printing Press Works, they dismounted and were photographed in a group.

Captain T. A. Cuming and Physical Director C. E. A. Hayward of the Y. M. C. A. Cyclers went over the route for the Patriotic Holiday trip, Friday, and picked out the roads and measured the distance. The distance will about sixty-five miles by going the shortest way. The trip takes in Rahway, Perth Amboy, Tottenville, S. I., South Beach, Fort Wadsworth, Fort George, New York City, Riverside Drive, Grant's Tomb, Fort Lee, the Hudson County Boulevard, Bergen Point, Elizabeth and back to Plainfield. The run will be held on July 5th, and will be captained by Thomas A. Cuming. The cost of the entire trip will be less than one dollar, including everything. The colors are blue and white.

AROUND THE BASES.

McLarney, of Staten Island, has been signed as pitcher by the Crescent management.

The Westfield team will meet the Crescents in this city next Saturday. The former has been playing good ball.

In the last game of a series of three, the Plainfield High School team defeated the Leal's School team, Friday afternoon, by a score of 15 to 9. Sutphen and Lederer were the regular battery for the High School. Dupee and Moore, both outsiders, were the other battery. The game was played on the Crescents grounds.

There should be a rule on the Crescents grounds that a hit knocked into the chicken yard should entitle the batter to two or at the most three bases. In the opening game of the season, Charley Mumford batted one in there and made the complete circuit of the bases. In the High School-Leal School game, last week, Charley Denise did the same with the same result. In either case had the ball been fielded promptly, it would have been but a two base hit.

Pitcher Cox was in hard luck Saturday in his game for the Crescents. There is no doubt but that the Somersets found him an easy prey at that time but then every pitcher has an off day and Cox is not differ from the rest. McLarney, who pitched the last few innings for the Crescents, is from the New Jersey State League and he has been signed to play regularly for the Crescents. The only trouble Saturday was that Kipling could not hold him and so he could not let himself out. Bolsterli will be tried behind the bat this week and it takes a pretty swift ball to be too hot for him.

George Schoonmaker will retire from the diamond for a time on account of water on the knee. He started the season as third base for the Crescents but he was unable to play last week and Bolsterli took his place. John Cooney, one of the well-known local players, has been signed to play third for the Crescents hereafter. It is with sorrow that a good bye is said to Schoonmaker as he has been a prominent figure on the amateur diamond for several years. He was one of the best hitters to be found and was always to be counted on for something in time of need. His abilities as a base-runner and infielder were well known.

Heretofore, there has been a lack of good baseball in this city but this year, there promised to be more than enough. It is probably a good thing for the sport and all the teams concerned that the Y. M. C. A. has at last decided not to put a team on the field. When the Crescents were organized early in the year, many of the best players of the Y. M. C. A. were taken into that team. When Mr. Hayward talked of organizing a nine, some of these players said that they would return to the Y. M. C. A. if needed. Then there were other players who wanted to play on the Y. M. C. A. team. Mr. Hayward has been on the best of terms with the Crescent management and did not wish to take away their players. As there were no available grounds and two strong teams on the field already from this city, it was finally decided to give up all thought of a team this year. Then the financial part of the plan had to be be considered and altogether it was deemed best not to play this year.

WHIST.

The Park Club challenge whist trophy was played for last week and the Passaic Gun Club four succeeded in takin it away from the Roseville Athletic Association representatives.

STATE COMMITTEE TO MEET.

Money Question, It Is Said, Will Play No Part in Democrats' Fall Campaign.

The Democratic State Committee, over which Colonel E. Livingston Price presided during the campaign, will hold its first meeting since last fall, in Newark on Wednesday. The object of the meeting is to consider a plan for action for the coming fall contest and to secure the co-operation of all the democrats in the State.

It is said that only State issues will be discussed and that the money question will play a part in the campaign. The sound money democratic committee, of which former State Senator Henry C. Winton is chairman, are to hold a meeting to decide whether to continue the organization or to join with Colonel Price's committee and work for the election of a United States Senator and democratic Governor.

The democrats believe they are in a fair way to secure both, because of factional quarrels in the republican party. Former Vice Chancellor Bird, Quartermaster General Donnelly, Judge Job Lippincott and Mayor Seymour, of Newark, are considered available men.

The Union county democrats are going to have a harmony dinner in Elizabeth on June 28. Senator W. D. Daly, of Hudson, is to be the orator. He says that the democrats who stood by the organization last year will not allow the gold democrats to come back into the camp unless they show repentance.

FROM PULPIT TO SANCTUM.

The Rev. J. A. Wells, pastor of the Liberty Corner Presbyterian church, who last year caused so much comment by running for Congress in the Third District on the Silver Democractic ticket, has branched forth as an aspirant for editoral honors. A short time ago he sent in his regination to the elders of the church, to take effect the first of October next. He has announced that he intends to become the editor of the "Bernardsville News," a Democratic weekly, now run by his son, J. E. Wills.

He is now doing most of the editorial work on the paper. Bernardsville is only a short distance from Liberty Corner. Considerable comment was prevalent among his parishoners last fall by his action in accepting the nomination and touring the country in quest of votes. There was some talk of asking for his resignation, but this was forgotten when he was defeated. He returned home and took up the charge after the campaign.

It is not known who will be called to fill his vacancy.

His Hand Operated On.

Nathan Titsworth, of Madison avenue, was obliged to undergo an operation a few days ago for the removal of a growth on the hand. The growth was the result of an accident Mr. Titsworth met with a few days ago when he fell off of his wheel.

Mayor Fisk paid his first visit to the City Court this morning and found much to interest him. Bridget Cunningham, one of the city's charges, was arraigned for swearing at Councilman Westphal, chairman of the alms committee, because he wanted her to live on the city farm. Sentence was suspended.

John Smith, a cigarmaker, was drunk and disorderly on Somerset street, when found by Patrolman Saffron and locked up. He was fined $5. Sentence was suspended on Max Hanson, who was helplessly drunk.

Joseph Konkosy didn't "know nothing," according to his own statement. The police knew that he had been drunk and he was fined $19. He came from Bound Brook.

W. D. Hazeltine was arrested for being a suspicious character and for peddling without a license. Sentence was suspendud on him.

A Bicycle Party.

Miss Daisy Elsberg, of Prospect place, gave a bicycle party to about thirty of her friends, last evening. The party started from home on Prospect place in the borough and rode over to Park avenue and out that wide thoroughfare to Pumptown and Metuchen. Some of the party went all the way to Metuchen while others waited at Pumptown. On the return refreshments were enjoyed at Miss Elsberg's home and all the party adjourned to the Park Club house where an informal dance in bicycle costume was held.

Died in the Far West.

The many friends of Insley Gardner will learn with sorrow of his death which occurred at his home in Helena, Mon., Monday, May 31st, after an illness of a year, with paralysis. During the past year Mr. Gardner was unable to work and was confined to his home continually. He leaves a wife and two children, one of whom, a son, is in Yale College. Mr. Gardner many years ago was a resident of Plainfield and carried on the butcher business. There are many older people who will remember him for he was well known in this locality.

FINE MUSICAL PROGRAMME GIVEN AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

"The Daughter of Jairus" Rendered by Talented Local Vocalists Under Direction of Messrs. McCutchen and Fitzhugh.

The large audience that gathered at the First Baptist church last evening was a critically musical one and the general opinion expressed was that the musical service presented was one of the finest ever listened to in this city. It was given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church and Charles W. McCutchen, who has charge of the music, offered the services of the members of church choir for the production of that very musical cantata, "The Daughter of Jairus," by Sir John Stainer, of Cambridge, England. The cantata was written for a certain festival held in England and while it has been produced in this country a number of times it was entirely new to Plainfielders. The entire service was under the leadership of E. J. Fitzhugh, who has charge of the church choir, and at the close Mr. Fitzhugh deservedly complimented the members who took part.

Part first of the service was devoted to the rendition of two very pretty anthems, "Whoso Dwelleth Under the Defence of the Most High," and "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee," while the organ prelude, "Fiat Lux," and "Andante," by Howard Case, organist, preceded the above selections. The last anthem contained an alto solo which was given by Mrs. S. A. Ward, contralto. The rendition was perfect and the rich sweet voice of the singer has never been heard to better advantage.

The last part of the programme was given to the presentation of the cantata which was given in its entirety. The solo parts were taken by Miss Harris, soprano; G. W. Smith, tenor; and William Holmes, basso. Especially noteworthy was the rendition of that part entitled "The Wailing," by the chorus of women, and the duet for soprano and tenor, while the parts given by the chorus were equally effective.

The cantata contains a great deal of work for the soprano and Miss Harris performed her part with credit. She has a most pleasing voice and it has improved wonderfully since she made her first appearance in this city It has a sufficient volume while the quality and tone is rich and full. Regarding Mr. Smith, tenor, and Mr. Holmes, basso, it can be said that their work was fully up to the standard. Their work last evening was highly praised by all. In the part where Miss Harris and Mr. Smith sang the duet a grand effect was obtained. The chorus work throughout was superb, being clear and strong. The choir was assisted by Miss Petrie, Miss Bowers, Miss Carman, Miss Carroll, Mrs. Biglow, Maxwell Honeyman, John Steiner, Everett Peck, W. K. Dwight, A. J. Moore, of this city; Herbert Forrest and J. A. Rumrill, tenors, of Brooklyn.

The last two named persons are members of Mr. Fitzhugh's Choral Society, in Brooklyn. They strengthened the chorus very much, as did also the others who are not members of the choir.

A very pretty effect was obtained through the decorations, which consisted of potted plants and flowers, arranged about the pulpit platform in front of the singers.

Much praise is due Mr. Fitzhugh and Mr. Case for the very efficient manner in which they assisted in the service.

A Caveat Filed.

The will of Rachael B. Clark, of Rahway, who died recently, was offered for probate to the Surrogate of Union county Monday. A caveat has been filed against the probate of the will and the same will be contested in court. James Clark, of West Seventh street, is the executor named in the will and former Mayor John H. Van Winkle, of the borough, is his counsel. The will involves an estate of considerable value.

To Be Sentenced Tomorrow.

John Risberg, who was convicted last Thursday by a jury in a Newark court, will come up before Judge Fort tomorrow. He was charged with being implicated in the death of Mrs. Mary Noble. He has retained Senator Charles A. Reed and Judge G. W. DeMeza, of this city, to represent him. An appeal will be made for a new trial.

Secrecy About This Marriage.

Monday evening at 6:15 o'clock Justice Mosher was summoned to a Plainfield residence to marry a couple from out of town. As all the formalities had been complied with and the parties were of full age, the Justice performed the ceremony and the couple left town rejoicing.

SWEET GIRL GRADUATES.

EXERCISES OF GRADUATING CLASS AT THE SEMINARY.

Two Bright Young Ladies Receive Diplomas Testifying to Their Accomplishments in the Great World of Books.

The exercises of the graduating class of the Plainfield Seminary were held held yesterday morning in Seminary Hall, when Miss Caroline Edith Boone, daughter of Dr. W. C. Boone, and Miss Jennie L. Churchill, of Dunellen, received their diplomas, surrounded by their comrades in the school, relatives and a few friends. A pretty back ground to the hall was made by screens draped with vines and roses, against which the girl graduates, in dainty white dresses, made a very pleasing picture. A hymn sung by the school and the repeating of the Lord's prayer were followed by instrumental music, Miss Harriet Efner Strong rendering effectively "The Shepherd's Tale" and "Papillon" on the piano.

Miss Jennie L. Churchill read a deeply interesting thesis on the subject, England's Poets Laureate." She referred briefly to the origin of the poet's laurel crowning in ancient days of Greece and Rome, out of which grew the custom of appointing a poet to sing to order of the notable events of England's King and Kingdom. The impossibility of commanding inspiration was hinted at, and the criticism made, that instead of unrivalled genuis being the necessary qualification to the office, sympathy with the policy of the government had often controlled the choice. Of the fourteen poets laureate who had served the crown in their verse writing, she referred to the five more distinguished than the others, Ben Jonson, Dryden, Southey, Wordsworth and Tennyson, giving the influence of the poet on the office and the office on the poet. Of these, Dryden was the only one who degraded it, Southey the only one who took it ever seriously. Wordsworth and Tennyson were the only great poets who had honored the office and been honored by it

Miss Kenyon, the principal, explained that according to the custom of the school a graduate in preparation for college was excused from writing a thesis, and therefore Miss Boone was excused from this task. Two instrumental selections, charmingly executed by Miss Ruby Kieb preceded the presentation of diplomas by Miss E. E. Kenyon. In a few well-chosen words Miss Kenyon referred to the thesis that was read, showing that worldly honor sometimes came when well deserved, and sometimes without merit, but she wished for these graduates an ambition above worldly honor, the faithfulness to duty and loyalty to truth that would gain the approval of One higher than any earthly potentate, and would win an unfading crown. The exercises closed with the singing of "Roses Blow," the farewell of the school to the class.

Miss Churchill intends to enter the Conservatory of Music at Boston for musical training, and Miss Boone is planning to enter Cornell University in the autumn.

FAVORABLE FOR THE TROLLEY.

Fifty Per Cent of the Consents Said to Have Been Secured.

The trolley magnates have secured nearly all of the 50 per cent of the property owners' signatures along the proposed route, says the Elizabeth Journal, and is now probable that the franchise will be asked for at the next meeting of the township committee.

The proposed route of the Elizabeth and Plainfield trolley line is as follows: From the union depot at Elizabeth, out Morris avenue to Sayre street, to Westfield avenue, which is the county road; along said county road through North avenue at Cranford, directly into Westfield by Picton street, to Elmer, to Broad street, down Elm to the depot and thence out North avenue to Plainfield. Surveyors have been very busy surveying all the streets in the township, but the above named route is the one most desired by the trolley company.

Weather Against Crops.

The following is Weather Observer Neagle's report of crops in this vicinity for the past week: The weather for the past week has been much against the advancement of crops; corn not doing well and troubled by cut worms; grass and grain fine.

A Venerable Parrot.

P. Marron, of West Second street, has a venerable parrot which he says is over 100 years old. The bird was the property of Mr. Marron's grandparents, and in all its actions it displays a wisdom befitting its great age.

A Master in Chancery.

Francis J. Blatz, of Somerset street, has been appointed Master in Chancery by Chancellor McGill upon the recommendation of ex-Mayor John H. VanWinkle.

RECTOR STAYED TO RUIN

THE PASSING OF A FAMOUS AND COMPLICATED CHURCH QUARREL.

A Once Prosperous Westfield Church Sold by the Sheriff Today After Passing Through a Career of Dissensions.

The sale of the Grace Episcopal church property, in Westfield, which took place today, is the last chapter in the history of one of the most remarkable legal struggles ever passed through by a church corporation in this State. The story is that of a rector who was distasteful to his congregation, but who would not leave when asked to do so. An effort was made to compel him to go, and the struggle involved the church in a maze of legal difficulties which grew denser from year to year, and resulted in the dispersion of the congregation and the loss of its once valuable property.

The history of the case is a long one. The land upon which the church edifice stood was originally donated to the corporation known as the Rector, Warden and Vestry of Grace church, Westfield, by the wealthy Mills estate, whose representatives live at Summit. In the deed of gift there was a condition that the land should be forever devoted to maintaining the worship of the Episcopal church. At the time of the gift, $1,500 was borrowed on bond and mortgage from the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, and this mortgage upon the land was consented to in the Mills deed.

The affairs of the little congregation prospered until the vestry in 1890 called Rev. J. B. Jennings to the pastorate. Then a change came. It was soon evident that the church was no longer prospering.

The attendance and revenue were falling off, so the vestry met and requested Mr. Jennings to resign. To this letter the rector paid no attention, and the vestry took the matter to Bishop Scarborough who tried, without success, to arbitrate between the parties.

Some grave things began about this time to be whispered about concerning the rector. Members of the congregation found themselves differing quite often with him upon questions of fact. Another appeal was now made to the Bishop of the diocese, and he, treating the complaint as one affecting the moral character of the rector, appointed a commission in the name of a grand jury to investigate the matter, and report whether or not a trial was necessary. The commission after holding its hearings reported that the charges were not proved and refused to make a presentation

Not discouraged by this decision the vestry again appealed to the Bishop. This time the appeal was classed differently, and the case was considered merely as one of difference between a rector and his congregation. In such cases the canon law gives the Bishop the right, where he cannot arbitrate, to make such a decision as may seem to him right and just. In accordance with this right, the Bishop made a decision to the effect that Jennings should leave within thirty days and should receive his salary up to the date of his going. The salary had run considerably in arrears and amounted at this time to about $700. The vestry gladly accepted the decision but Mr. Jennings appealed from it. The appeal was tried by the standing commission of the diocese, consisting of clergymen and laymen, and the Bishop's decision was confirmed.

Jennings now carried the matter into the Supreme Court of New Jersey and there obtained a decision to the effect that the Bishop and the commission had not followed the canon law, and that the order removing the rector was therefore void.

This decision was rendered early in 1893. Up to this time the interest upon the mortgage of $1,500 had been paid by individual members of the congregation, but upon the announcement of the Supreme Court's verdict, payment of interest ceased, and foreclosure proceedings were begun by the holders of the mortgage. The congregation had before this all deserted the church, and nothing remained of the corporation except the pastor. By advice of his counsel he went regularly to church on Sunday, rang the bell, and went through the form of conducting services. Elections had not been held; no vestry was in existence, and there was no one who could by law make a new appeal to the Bishop for Jennings' removal.

During all this time the pastor's salary had been running at the rate of $1,000 a year. When it reached the amount of $2,700 he made an assignment of the claim to William Davidson, who easily secured judgments for the amount, as no defense was made.

FIRST C. E. BICYCLE RUN.

A TRIPLE ALLIANCE OF BICYCLING, RELIGION AND SOCIABILITY.

An Innovation in Local Church Circles Proves a Great Success—The Ride to Mt. Pleasant Followed by Brief Service.

A triple alliance was formed of bicycling, religion and sociability, last evening, by the Christian Endeavorers, and it proved to be a powerful one, indeed. The bicycling squad of the Christian Endeavor Local Union held its first run to Mount Pleasant, and successfully combined a prayer meeting, a sociable and a bicycle ride.

Church runs were inaugurated in this city last year, but it was merely the gathering of the congregation for a little spin on the fine roads. Monday night the Epworth League of the First M. E. church held its first bicycle sociable. Last night the long talked-of visitation run of the Endeavorers was scheduled to be held. It was held and its complete success, so far as those who went were concerned, gave the officers of the Local Union something to think about. Certain it is that many went on the run and attended the meeting who could not have otherwise been persuaded to attend a service last evening. The novelty of the affair had its effect, while the bicycle drew many there who would not have otherwise come.

Weather Observer Neagle promised showers for yesterday afternoon and evening. The showers came in the afternoon all right and laid the dust, but in the evening they were luckily absent. The rain of the afternoon had its effect, however. Many who had planned to go on the run gave it up when they saw the dark clouds. Then the reputation of the road to Mount Pleasant from Avon Park had spread among the Endeavorers and some did not care to ride over the narrow side path or experiment with the rocky and sandy places in the dark. Both these facts combined to lessen the number of participants.

At first it looked as if the Endeavorers were going to be scarce, indeed, and the captain, Miss Ernestine Smith, was in despair. The party grew, however, in numbers, and finally Captain Smith decided that it was time to start.

Headed by Miss Smith and her aide, Robert Randolph, who acted in the capacity of lieutenant, the column of wheelmen and wheelwomen started. Following closely came Miss Elizabeth Allis, the color bearer, carrying the pretty green and white silk pennant of the Local Union. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mosher acted as chaperones of the party, which at the start from the Seventh day Baptist church, numbered twenty-three. New recruits joined the procession as it continued up Park avenue, stopping a moment at the Park avenue Baptist church to pick up the Endeavorers who had gathered there. Some had ridden on ahead and others followed and caught the column before it arrived at its destination.

It was still light when the long line of wheels turned off Park avenue and up the road to Mount Pleasant. There was a side path most of the way which was fairly smooth, but, to tell the truth, it was by no means the best riding that could be found. The experienced riders had no difficulty, but the others found side-path riding no easy task. The riders were carefully separated by La Rue Bliss and Stanley Mosher, who acted as aides, and kept the required distance, ten feet, between them. Dismounts were frequent, but the careful managament of the run prevented accidents.

The brightness of the setting sun in the west was fast fading as the single line of wheelmen and wheelwomen, numbering fifty, rode up the hill that led to the chapel. The pennant waved gaily in the breeze as the officers dismounted and advanced to meet DeWitt DeForrest, president of the Mount Pleasant Christian Endeavor Society, who was waiting to receive them. The other members of the Mount Pleasant Society grouped themselves on the steps of their pretty little chapel and made a charming picture. A welcome hand was extended to the visitors and they were directed to store their wheels in the large barn in the rear of the home of Mr. DeForrest, which is next to the chapel. Miss Florence G Hawkins, secretary of the Local Union, who had driven up with a number of other Endeavorers, joined the group.

The visitors were all in wheeling costume, quiet and modest, a trifle dusty, perhaps, for the rain of the afternoon had hardly laid the dust.

The bicyclists tramped into the chapel and the meeting was opened by Mr. DeForrest with a song service. After a short address by the leader, an enthusiastic service of testimony

FIREMEN THEIR GUESTS.

DRUMMER BOYS CELEBRATE THEIR FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

City, Borough and Somerville Fire Laddies Invited to Assemble Around the Festive Board—A Jovial Time Was Enjoyed.

The fifth anniversary of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps was celebrated last evening in an appropriate manner and to make the event an auspicious one the corps invited the members of No. 2 Engine Company, of this city, Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, and Central Hook and Latter Company, of Somerville, to join in partaking of a supper at the Hotel Tuilleries. The members of the Corps were attired in their handsome new uniforms. After meeting their guests they held a short parade about town after which they proceeded to the hotel where they set down to the feast. While seated at the table there were speeches by Chief Schenck, ex-Chief John Wherley, and Mr. Vandeventer, of Somerville; Chief T. O. Doane, Andrew Jennings, of this city, ex-Chief Fairchild and J. D. Anderson, of the borough, and Councilman Newman, of this city.

The social part of the affair was marked. An unlooked for surprise was given when Mr. Vandeventer, on behalf of Central Hook and Ladder Company, of Somerville, presented the corps with a picture of the members of his company together with their apparatus and horses. The presentation was made in a neat speech. The gift was received for the Corps by Major Frank Manchester with a few appropriate remarks.

After the supper the guests were escorted to the various fire department houses where they expressed many compliments on the fine appearance of everything. Later in the evening all hands visited the headquarters of the North Plainfield company and here the good time was continued. It was rather late when the Somerville boys departed for home but they all agreed that they had been treated royally by their friends.

BIDS FOR SCHOOL ADDITION.

A meeting of the commitee on buildings and repairs of the Board of Education was held last evening and revised bids were received for the addition to the Stillman School. The committee decided that the successful bidder should be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $1,000 for the faithful performance of his contract, and also decided the amount of the contract should be paid in two payments.

The bids were opened and were as follows: Henry H. Jessup, $1,571; John Emmons, $1,789; Mundy Bros., $1,600; Hummer Bros., $1,562; John Abbott, $1,725. It was decided to award the contract to the lowest bidder, Messrs. Hummer Bros.

The committee discussed the question of repairs on the various school buildings, and decided to obtain estimates in order that the same might be acted upon at the next meeting.

MISSIONARY ENTERTAINMENT.

A missionary entertainment was held at Warren chapel, yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the chapel. The programme consisted of recitations by Edith Squires, Jennie Smith, Jennie Everitt and Frankie Whitely. The superintendent Mrs. McKelvey, read a letter from Mrs. Edward Taylor, formerly a member of the chapel, but now living in the west. Mrs. Taylor enclosed $3 for the society.

The programme concluded with the singing of "Why I Love Jesus," by ten little girls, members of the society. The last part of the afternoon was devoted to the serving of refreshments. Gussie Seader, Minnie Frieze and Mary Seader served the cake, while Theodore Kohler and Henry Wilson passed the lemonade. Mrs. William Wilson had charge of the cake and she was assisted by Miss Hattie Taynor. The pastor, Rev. J. McKelvey, acted as master of ceremonies.

—Carried unanimously—the fans sold at Peck's.

—The latest of the exhilerating summer drinks to be offered to the sweltering public is the "fruit ices" now being served at Armstrong's model pharmacy at the corner of Park and North avenues. On a real warm day this decoction seems to strike just the right spot for the thirsty person. It not only has a cooling effect, but tickles the palate as well. The ingredients are perfectly pure and wonderfully enervating to the system. Step in and give it a trial.

CRUSHED BOTH HIS LEGS.

EDWARD SMITH SEVERELY INJURED BY COLLIDING COAL CARS.

Caught Between Two Cars and Saved His Life by Jumping and Having His Feet Pinioned and Crushed in a Cruel Manner

In his efforts to stop a collision between two empty coal cars, at South Plainfield yesterday morning, Edward Smith had both legs crushed and narrowly escaped with his life. Smith is the man who was robbed some time ago of $500 by his son and several small boys from Plainfield.

Smith lives on the road between South Plainfield and Holly's Corners and is employed by the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. He was working in the yard, yesterday, when the accident occurred. In one place in the yard two tracks run side by side for a distance and then cross each other. Smith was on an empty coal car that was coming down one of the tracks with considerable speed. On the other track was another coal car moving very slowly. Smith waited until the two cars almost reached the crossing and jumped to the ground in front of the slowly moving car and tried to stop it. Before he could do it, the car was on the crossing and the other car close at hand. Smith was between them. He did not see his predicament until too late to run. As the cars came together, he jumped hoping to grasp one of the cars. The effort was made in time to save his life for instead of having his body crushed between the two heavy cars, he was pinnioned fast by the legs.

There were a number of other employes in the yard at the time but they could not reach the cars in time to prevent the crash. They soon released Smith from his very painful position and an engine was sent to Metuchen for medical aid. Smith's lower limbs were frightfully crushed just above the knee and it is probable that he will lose both of them. The bones were ground to powder. The cars were wrecked a little by the crash and a heavy hickory beam on one of them was completely ground to splinters by the force of the collision.

Drs. Andress and Dana, of Metuchen, were brought as soon as possible and did all in their power to relieve the injured man. After his wounds were dressed, he was conveyed in a train to St. Michael's Hospital, in Newark

Smith is fifty-five years old. He has a wife and two children, who will be looked after by the Relief Association of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. He has lived near South Plainfield for twelve years.

THE DANDY POLICE.

They Are Now Attired in Stylish New Uniforms.

The Plainfield police made their initial appearance in their new summer uniforms, last evening, when the members of the Plainfield Police Board inspected the patrolmen and roundsmen of the force. The inspection was held at the Pierce Cycle Academy.

All the members of the Police Board and several of the other Councilmen were present. The entire regular force, including Chief Grant, Sergeant Kiely, Roundsmen Frederickson and Flynn and twelve patrolmen, were present and passed through some simple evolutions under the command of Councilman Barrows.

The new uniform consists of a blue single breasted frock coat, instead of the old sack coat; blue trousers, with white stripe at the side, and grey helmets. All the day patrolmen turned out for regular duty in their new uniforms this morning.

ANXIOUS FOR A CLEAR TITLE.

Trinity Reformed Church Members Hope to Avoid a Mortgage.

The committee appointed by the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church to solicit subscriptions to defray the expenses of building the new Sunday school room under the present church building, met for conference last evening in the lecture-room of the church. Robert Clark, Jr., was elected permanent chairman of the committee and F. S. Cutter secretary. In the absence of Mr. Clark, George L. Van Emburgh was elected temporary chairman for the evening. There were eighteen members of the committee present and all seemed thoroughly enthused on the subject of raising the entire amount necessary to complete the improvement, and thus not place a mortgage on the church property. Each one present was given a subscription blank to solicit money for the object and today a start will be made by those in possession of the subscription blanks to try to raise the amount necessary.

Look Out For Oscar.

Oscar Vaughn, the new borough dog catcher, is meeting with great success.

GREAT STRIDE MADE

Consideration of Sugar Schedule Nearly Completed.

THE HAWAIIAN PROVISION PUZZLE.

Mr. Pettigrew, Whose Antitrust Amendment Was Laid on the Table, Offered Another—Mr. Chilton Also Has an Antitrust Article.

Washington, June 16.—The senate has made a great stride forward by completing the consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill except the provision relating to Hawaii, which went over. This schedule has been the storm center of the entire bill, and with it disposed of there is better prospect for speedy action on the bill as a whole. The first paragraph of the sugar schedule has served to bring out all the speeches and the test votes, and when this was passed the other paragraphs of the schedule were agreed to without further opposition.

As agreed to the schedule places on sugar not above No. 16, Dutch standard, 1 cent per pound and .03 of a cent for every degree above 75 and on sugars above No. 16, Dutch standard, 1.95 per pound. The other provisions of the schedule relate to maple sugar, maple sirup, candy, etc.

Only one yea and nay vote was taken during the day, on the amendment of Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky, to make the rate 1.8 cent per pound on sugar above No. 16, Dutch standard. The amendment was defeated—32 to 35.

The Pettigrew amendment relating to trusts was then taken up and discussed at length. It developed considerable divergence of view on both sides of the chamber, the two Alabama senators, Messrs. Morgan and Pettus, joining Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts in opposition.

Mr. Allison finally tested the sense of the senate by moving to table the amendment, which motion prevailed—yeas, 35; nays, 32—two Democrats, Morgan and McEnery, voting with the Republicans to table and thus turning the scale against the amendment.

More Antitrust Amendments.

Immediately after Senator Pettigrew's antitrust amendment to the tariff bill was laid on the table he gave notice of another amendment of the same character in the shape of a proviso, as follows:

"That none of the increased rates of duty provided for in this act shall apply to any articles or commodities the sale or manufacture of which is controlled by trusts in this country."

Senator Chilton of Texas also offered an antitrust amendmen, as follows:

"If any manufacturer, dealer, carrier or other person knowing that any article or articles of like character to those upon which duties are levied under this act are manufactured or their sale controlled or their price affected by a trust or combination shall send or transmit any such articles from one state to another, such manufacturer, dealer or carrier shall, upon conviction before any circuit court of the United States, be punished by imprisonment not more than three years."

Senator Pasco gave notice of an amendment which differs from Senator Pettigrew's original amendment only in detail, principally as to the means of proceeding in court to determine the existence of a trust. One of the provisions requires the court to determine whether a trust proved to exist affects the raw material or improved article. In case the court finds an article to be the product of a trust the secretary of the interior is to make an order directing the customs officers to permit its admission free of duty.

United Workmen's Doings.

Milwaukee, June 16.—The supreme lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen has reached final adjournment. After a lively fight Asbury Park, N. J., was selected as the next meeting place. J. G. Tate was engaged as a supreme lecturer for the order for the coming year. A move to amend the constitution so as to have a "suicide" clause, refusing to pay death benefits in cases of suicides, was laid over without debate until the next annual session. The supreme master workman was empowered to recognize the order in Oklahoma, where it has been conducted in a clandestine manner for some time.

Alleged Fugitives From Justice.

Providence, June 16.—William Smith, alias Connors; Frank Emerson, alias Gilchrist; James Sheridan, James Morrisey and Harry C. Mills, the five men who were arrested as suspicious persons by detectives three weeks ago, were brought into the district court and were rearraigned on two warrants charging them with being fugitives from justice from Albany, where, it is stated, they were wanted for safe breaking. The men pleaded not guilty and were held under $5,000 each for trial next Tuesday.

Ex-Congressman's Father Dead.

New York, June 16.—Benjamin Fairchild, father of former Congressman Benjamin L. Fairchild, died at his home in Pelham. Mr. Fairchild was a southerner by birth and an officer in the United States treasury department at Washington under the administrations of Presidents Lincoln and Grant. He was 68 years of age and is survived by two sons.

Railroad to Issue Bonds.

Concord, N. H., June 16.—At the special meeting of the Concord and Montreal railroad stockholders it was voted to issue bonds to the amount of $650,000 at a rate of interest not exceeding 2 per cent semiannually, to reimburse the Boston and Maine railroad for whatever sums it might pay upon the claim of the Manchester and Lawrence road.

Boston's Naval Prison In Good Order.

Washington, June 16.—Judge Advocate General Lemly has just returned to Washington from Boston, where he made the annual inspection of the naval prison, with the result that the institution was found to be in admirable order and the prisoners hearty and strong.

A Veteran Drops Dead.

Saratoga, June 16.—John Reed, aged 53 years, of Ballston Spa, dropped dead at Rock City Falls. He was a veteran of the late war. Coroner Varney is investigating the case.

HAWAII ANNEXATION

The Treaty Ready For Signatures of Negotiators.

THE ISLAND'S DEBT TO BE ASSUMED.

The Question Will Probably Go Before Congress This Week—No Action of the House Can Change the Situation if Ratified by the Senate.

Washington, June 16.—The Hawaiian annexation treaty is now ready for the formal signatures of the negotiators, Secretary Sherman for the United States government and either Minister Hatch or Mr. Lorin Thurston as a special commissioner for the government of Hawaii. It will probably be sent to the senate this week.

At a cabinet meeting, in the course of the discussion of the treaty, it was decided that its pendency in the senate would not necessarily cause any considerable obstruction to the progress of the tariff bill, and while there is every disposition on the part of the president to avoid any interference with the rights of the senate in the matter it can be stated that the treaty will not go in with any idea that it is not the wish of the executive that it should be acted on promptly. While the treaty is in the senate, either in the hands of the committee on foreign relations or on the calendar of executive business, it is the expectation that the people of the United States will have an opportunity through the press and other mediums to declare their sentiments upon the matter, and if, as is expected, there is an overwhelming declaration for annexation, it is believed that the senate will be quick to respond to the demand. In this case the treaty, it is believed, can be taken up and ratified in the course of one or two executive sessions, while the regular tariff debates are in progress daily.

To Assume Hawaii's Debt.

The manner in which the Hawaiian treaty will come before the house is in the paragraph which provides that the United States shall assume the present debt of Hawaii. This will not in any way affect the treaty or interfere with its adoption. Irrespective and before any action will be submitted to the house will come the ratification of the treaty by the senate. If the treaty is ratified, no action by the house can change the condition. Failure of the house to appropriate money to pay the debt or the interest on it may become a future complication, but the ratification of the treaty by the senate will annex the islands.

The treaty which made Alaska a part of this country carried with it an appropriation of several million dollars. There was a most bitter contention in the house about making the appropriation, but the senate had by treaty ratified the agreement. Of course, if congress by action of the house had refused to make the appropriation, then Russia would have held possession of Alaska. The refusal of the house to appropriate funds for the debt of Hawaii or the interest thereon will not, it is said, prevent annexation, but the payment of the debt or the interest would be a subject for future consideration and a question between the province, colony or territory of Hawaii and the holders of the debt if congress should not pay it.

No Annuity For Queen Lil.

The one point of importance in which the treaty differs from the convention negotiated by Secretary Foster in President Harrison's administration is in the omission of any provision for ex-Queen Liliuokalani and the Princess Kaiulani.

In the original treaty it was provided that the government of the United States should pay the ex-queen the sum of $20,000 cash and the same amount of money as a pension each year during the remainder of her natural life, provided she in good faith submitted to the government of the United States and the local government of the islands.

The Princess Kaiulani, being the next in line of royal blood, was to receive a cash payment of $150,000, but no pension under a similar proviso, as in the case of the ex-queen.

It is understood that any objection that might have been expected to the annexation of the islands based on the large proportion of coolies in the population has been forestalled by an article not only prohibiting the further emigration of such laborers to the Hawaiian Islands, but also prohibiting the coming of any of the Chinese from the islands to other parts of the United States.

Attorney Exonerated.

Geneseo, N. Y., June 16.—The indictment of forgery against John N. Bates, an attorney of Beloit, Wis., has been nolle prossed in the county court on the motion of Bates' attorney. Mr. Bates was attorney for Mrs. Curtin, who bequeathed several thousand dollars to Charles Lewis Robinson, a minor. After Mrs. Curtin's death Mr. Bates still continued to look after the estate. Young Robinson's legacy was in the county treasurer's infant fund. In the fall of 1895, it was alleged, Mr. Bates came to Geneseo and forged an order for $855 on young Robinsen's estate. The indictment which has been nolle prossed was issued on this allegation.

Death of a Prominent Judge.

St. Marys, Kan., June 16.—Judge J. S. Fitzgerald died here yesterday after a short illness. He was prominent in Kansas Democratic state politics, as he had been in Ohio before coming here. While police judge of Cincinnati several years ago he drove the gamblers out of that city, and his life was several times endangered by them. He was formerly prominent in national Irish affairs.

When a mistake is easily avoided it's scarcely worth while to run the risk of making one. Buying poor paint is a needless waste of money. It's paying for something you don't want, because it won't answer the purpose. Only paint that wears and is proof against the exposure of our climate is worth the cost of putting on. CAPSULOIDS CURE A NEW YORK MODISTE.

The Story of a Woman who Suffered for Seven Years—Her Case Baffled Medical Skill—Her Recovery Creates Widespread Interest.

Miss E. Vance, of 205 Columbus Ave., a well known modiste, is attracting much attention from the medical world because of her experience with Capsuloids, the new discovery of science.

It was late in the evening when a reporter called on Miss Vance to hear her own version of the story but notwithstanding the long day's work she had just finished he was cordially greeted.

"Yes," she said, "I believe I am one of the first in this country to try Capsuloids.

"Seven years ago owing to hard work and close confinement in cutting and fitting for a large tailoring business my health gave way and I was compelled to begin doctoring and take a rest. My trouble seemed to centre in and about my stomach; the liver was torpid and the stomach seemed a bundle of irritated nerves; I could not digest anything without discomfort; I was weak, anæmic and nervous to such a degree that life was almost unbearable; a drink of cold water, or a spoonful of ice cream taken in the evening would produce at first, a feeling of discomfort in the stomach and then a nervous spasm when it seemed to me my stomach was turning round and round. I vomited the bitterest stuff you can imagine, but the nervousness and weakness and distress which I can only describe by the word misery, in and about the stomach, troubled me most. Two years ago I took the grip, and again a year ago last March it attacked me. After this second attack I became so much more nervous and weak that I then felt like screaming at customers as they came towards me, and one day when alone with three or four of my assistants I flung my scissors to the other side of the room and declared I could not remain on duty another hour. Change of climate, rest, doctoring and many cures were tried but without success.

"Six weeks ago I heard of Capsuloids. When I learned they contained iron, I shook my head and said I could not take them.

"To make a long story short, I determined to try this remedy, and an improvement in my condition was manifest before the first box was finished. Now I am taking the third box and when I look in the mirror and recall my appearance six weeks ago, I am reminded of those pictures which one sees in advertisements marked 'before and after;' truly, Capsuloids have done wonders for me.

"I have taken them regularly three times a day for six weeks and although there never was a stomach more sensitive than mine, I have not experienced the slightest irritation or inconvenience. To-day I consider myself in perfect health, my stomach is strong, can eat ice cream or any other cold or warm food at any hour of the day without feeling any inconvenience. I feel strong, enjoy my food, sleep well am never nervous and the old feeling in the stomach has entirely disappeared, while the liver seems to be doing its work with perfect regularity."

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids cure disease by renewing the iron in the blood in a natural way. When a Capsuloid is taken into the stomach the gelatine dissolves immediately, the blood takes up the iron and becomes rich and red. Oxygen is attracted from the air cells of the lungs and the germs of disease are destroyed. It has been clearly proven that few diseases are exempt from this method of treatment, even those long considered incurable disappearing in a most marvelous manner.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids can now be secured of all druggists, the price being 50 cents a large box, or $2.50 for six boxes. If the druggist has exhausted his supply they can be procured by remitting the price to The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—A public meeting of the Town Improvement Association will be held next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought; all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Former Mayor W. L. Saunders and wife, of Washington Park, will leave July 1st for Wolfeboro, N. H., where they will spend their vacation.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, held a meeting on Monday evening, and one candidate was initiated.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A strawberry festival will be held in the parish building of the Holy Cross church on next Tuesday evening.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and any-one who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

FOUND IN AN OLD SOFA

Capture of Counterfeit Currency of Costa Rica.

HALF A MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH.

United States Secret Service Men Find Further Evidence of the Conspiracy to Overthrow the Little Central American Republic.

New York, June 16.—A half million dollars of the Costa Rican counterfeit money, with which plotters planned to flood that country and ruin its government, was brought by secret service men to this city concealed in an ordinary sofa.

It arrived on the Atlas line steamer Alene, which was docked at pier 6, North river. Eight witnesses to the conspiracy were also brought by the detectives.

Patrick Looby and Owen Owen are the names of the men who brought the telltale "queer" in the strange package in which it was consigned to Central America. They were met on the way up the bay by Chief Hazen of the United States secret service bureau.

The half million in bad money was found in the custom house at Port Limon after the story of the conspiracy to overthrow the government came out in this city through the arrest of Ricardo de Requeseus and his sweetheart, Eugenia Reineman. They were charged with the counterfeiting. Requeseus had a printing plant in Long Island City and did business under the name of the Spanish-American Printing union.

After the discovery of the counterfeiting the United States secret service men were sent to Costa Rica to trace the money and if possible prevent it from being floated.

Found the Notes In a Sofa.

The detectives had apparently received a hint to look out for a sofa. They found it waiting to be claimed in the custom house and without ceremony began to rip it open.

No sooner had they torn the cover off than they beheld layer after layer of bright, stiff, new notes of the Bank of Costa Rica—fifties and one hundreds mainly—all forming an excellent stuffing for the innocent looking sofa.

The Costa Rican officials shivered as they thought of the harm that counterfeit laden sofa would have caused had it not miscarried.

Among the witnesses brought here were Gerardo Iglesias, a cousin of the president of Costa Rica; Cresanto Fernandez, cashier of the Bank of Costa Rica, and Prospero Chaloni, an Italian, the proprietor of a hotel at Port Limon.

The sofa containing the notes was removed to Chief Hazen's office, on the fourth floor of the Federal building. The witnesses from Costa Rica were also taken there, and Chief Hazen held a long conference with them. The Costa Ricans unhesitatingly pronounced the notes to be counterfeits.

The sofa in which the Costa Rican counterfeits were concealed is an ordinary piece of furniture, covered with red plush. The back was removed from the sofa before it was shipped here, for convenience in handling, and both parts were covered with thick canvas. This covering has not yet been removed.

American Alcohol Sent to Japan.

San Francisco, June 16.—Alcohol is now being shipped to Japan under circumstances which promise that the American article will be able to come into profitable competition with the German product. The latter has almost a monopoly of the trade, as with the advantage of an export bounty it has been laid down at rates that could not be met by the makers of American corn spirits. Recently, however, reduced transportation rates have been obtained, making it possible to ship alcohol to Yokohama from Peria at a profit. Thus far three carloads have been forwarded to their destination. This is expected to be the opening of a trade which will amount to millions annually.

Good Price For Iron.

Duluth, June 16.—Thomas B. Arden of Ashland, one of the managing directors of the Pioneer mine at Ely, is authority for the statement that the entire allotment of the Pioneer under the Bessemer ore pool, amounting to 225,000 tons, has been sold at about $3 a ton, the highest price paid for Lake Superior ore this season. This sale insures the operation of the mine for the balance of the season. Shipments are being made direct from the shaft, the stock pile of 160,000 tons remaining untouched.

College Professor Elected.

Lexington, Va., June 16.—Ex-Representative Harry St. George Tucker has been elected by the board of trustees of Washington and Lee university to fill the chair of constitutional and international law made vacant by the death of his father. Mr. Tucker will accept. William Reynolds Vance of Shelbyville, Ky., was elected assistant professor of law to succeed Professor John W. Davis, resigned.

GUARD OUR PATENTS

Proposed Tariff Addition to Prevent Misuse of Them.

FOREIGNERS OFTEN UNDERSELL US.

By Means of Cheaper Methods of Manufacture They Can Use Our Ideas and So Get All the Trade Away From Us.

New York, June 16.—Acting Collector Couch, Appraiser Bunn and Colonel Phelps of the law division of the custom house held a conference regarding the provisions of a proposed section to the tariff act, which has for its main object the protection of American patentees, more especially manufacturers of coal tar products.

The proposed act was referred to the secretary of the treasury by the finance committee of the senate. Secretary Gage turned it over to the customs officials of this port for an opinion as to its practicability.

The act directs that the collector of the port of entry shall take and retain samples of any product brought into the United States and shall keep them for one year, together with the customs papers, so that American manufacturers may be enabled to ascertain whether or not their protests have been infringed upon.

Claim That Foreigners Infringe.

It is claimed that certain German and Swiss manufacturers of drugs like phenacetine, antipyrine and like mixtures, have for a long time infringed on the rights of domestic manufacturers and have smuggled in large quantities of these drugs, selling them at prices way below the market price.

At the conference no decision was reached, but it was the opinion that not only will the act, if it becomes a law, add materially to the already arduous duties of the customs officials, but will also enable unscrupulous merchants to get an inside track of the business of their foreign competitors, many of whom are of the highest standing.

Wouldn't Stand Hazing.

West Point, N. Y., June 16.—Bertram Sanders and a youth from Arkansas whose name could not be learned, have returned to their respective homes and declined to further take part in the examination for cadetships on the ground that they had been severely hazed. They entered the examination with a class of 1896 to undergo the examination for admission to the United States Military academy, but later resigned their nominations and immediately left West Point. They alleged that Cadets Scott, Maginnis and Nesbit had hazed them; that they were unwilling to submit to it and would no longer put themselves in the way of such experiences. Sanders comes from the Sixth Indiana district.

Firemen's Association In Session.

Newburg, N. Y., June 16.—The Firemen's association, representing river counties, also Newburg, Kingston, New Paltz, Catskill, Hudson, Coxsackie, Saugerties and Valatie, is in session here. The Newburg fire department is celebrating the centennial of its organization. About 65 companies, mainly from the river counties, and nearly as many bands, will be in the parade. Races between hose and hook and ladder companies will take place at Ramsdell park, and prizes will be awarded. The city is resplendent with flags and decorations in honor of the event.

Montreal Preparing For the Jubilee.

Montreal, June 16.—Montreal is assuming a holiday appearance. The work of decoration and illumination for the jubilee, which has been going on for some days, is progressing fast, and the bunting and electric globes are being strung everywhere. The electric light companies have orders for 25,000 extra lights for private illumination and will illuminate Dominion and Victoria squares and Mount Royal in addition with 1,500 lights each at their own expense. Immense stands for the purpose of viewing the procession are also being erected.

Boston Working For an Elevated Road.

Boston, June 16.—The directors of the Boston Elevated Railroad company have held a meeting to take preliminary steps toward the construction of an elevated railway in Boston. President William A. Gaston presided, and the executive committee was authorized to get estimates for the complete construction of the elevated railway structure and to prepare a complete schedule of the value of the property to be affected, with a view to estimating accurately the entire cost of the system.

THE CITY'S OWN FAULT.

The editorial reproduced from the Newark Advertiser in these columns yesterday, concerning the enforcement of the Martin Act, was evidently written without an understanding of the situation in Plainfield. Those citizens who have taken the initiative in opposing the provisions of this law in their cases—innocent holders of encumbered property—have good ground to make a fight on The opposition does not come, as The Advertiser intimates, from tax-shirkers or real estate speculators, but from honorable men who purchased property with supposedly clear titles and who had exhausted every reasonable means in learning what they understood was true until the disgraceful condition of the city's own method of bookkeeping previous to 1880 was brought to light. Much of the delinquent taxes previous to that year are simply and solely in existence because of the neglect of city officials in not keeping a legible record during the time they were accumulating. If a proper record had been at hand when the transfers were made to the present holders the encumbersnces would have been wiped out in many cases. As it was, Tax Collectors of late years have informed intending purchasers that there were no taxes due on properties, which were afterward purchased and are now coming under the enforcement of Martin Act for collection of sums ranging from small amounts to several hundred dollars.

With reference to those properties that are now in the possession of the same owners as when the encumberances were created before 1880, it is generally conceded that they should be compelled to pay, for they are in no way innocent debtors of the city.

EARLY CHILDHOUD STUDY.

The importance of studying foreign languages in early childhood was demonstrated at the closing exercises of the Plainfield French Kindergarten, which is connected with the Misses Scribner & Newton's school. The three points especially commented on were: Purity of pronunciation, extensive amount of work accomplished, and last, but by no means least, the evident fondness of the children for their work which has been a happy feature of the year's course throughout. Miss Hellwig, who is one of the principals, has given this matter careful consideration and the results achieved certainly prove that the riget chord has been struck.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. RECTOR STAYED TO RUIN

Jennings assigned the claim because he himself was all that was left of the corporation against whom the action for salary was brought. After he had assigned his claim, process in the suit to collect the salary was served upon the pastor himself, which was a rather humorous situation.

While these judgments were being secured, the mortgage foreclosure proceedings were also being carried on, and the judgment creditors were made co-defendants with Grace church corporation in the suit.

A new and surprising movement was made by Mr. Mills, the representative of the estate which had originally donated the land for the church.

Mr. Mills appeared in Chancery and prayed that whatever surplus remained after the payment of the mortgage should be used for the original purposes specified in the deed of gift—namely, to maintain the worship of the Episcopal church.

Chancellor McGill held that Mr. Mills had no case.

The suit was then carried to the Court of Errors and Appeals, the highest tribunal in the State, and there a decision was rendered about six months ago in Mr. Mills' favor.

This decision renders the judgments against the church property worthless, and means the defeat of Jennings' cause.

For a long time no Episcopal services whatever were held in Westfield as Grace church was wholly deserted by its congregation and was frequented only by the rector.

In March, 1894, however, the remnant of Grace church congregation met and organized religious services. St. Paul's parish was erected and incorporated in April, 1895, and the following month it was admitted into union with the diocese as a church in regular standing. There are, therefore, in existence at this time two Episcopal churches in Westfield, the rector, wardens and vestry of Grace church, which is Mr. Jennings, and the rector, wardens and vestry of St. Paul's church. The latter has an efficient rector in Rev. Wm. S. Barrows. Its services are held regularly in Etta Hall, on Broad street.

Today the property of Grace church is sold to satisfy the mortgage Under the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals, the proceeds in excess of the amount needed to pay the mortgage, will be used for carrying on Episcopal services in Westfield. It will as a matter of fact be placed in the hands of St. Paul's church, which will be the natural custodian of such a fund.

Grace church is in a ruinous condition from the years of neglect that it has suffered.

RUNAWAY SPILLED MILK

HORSE OF JOHN DICKSON TOOK A WILD FLIGHT ON BROAD STREET.

A runaway, which caused considerable damage, happened on South Broad street at an early hour this morning. A horse, attached to the milk wagon of John Dickson, proprietor of the Willow Grove Dairy, ran away at 5:30 o'clock, while Mr Dickson was in the house of a customer delivering milk. The animal headed for the railroad crossing, but before reaching there it encountered another horse and wagon and turned out to avoid it. The swing overturned the wagon and threw the horse to the ground. Before the animal could rise upon its feet again it was caught. The wagon was badly smashed and about 100 quarts of milk was spilled. Seventy-two bottles that were in the wagon were broken. As soon as possible Mr. Dickson secured a new wagon and more milk and started to supply his customers.

The Westfield Fire Depariment went to Garwood last night in response to a false alarm. Passengers who alighted from the westbound train reaching Westfield at 8 o'clock called out that the hotel of Michael Huber at Garwood was on fire. The alarm was sounded and the firemen made quick time to Garwood, to find when they reached there that the fire was only a blazing brushheap near the hotel building. A large crowd which had followed the firemen from Westfield in the expectation of seeing an exciting fire, watched the bon fire for a short while, and then returned home dejectedly.

John McCormick, the member of the high school graduating class who has been going about for two weeks with a revolver bullet in his right leg, had a practical demonstration of the value of the X-ray, on Sunday evening. All efforts of the physicians to find the ball by probing have proved useless. Sunday evening McCormick was taken to Dr. Allen of Cranford, who has an X-ray machine, and a search was made for the bullet. It was discovered about two inches above the right knee. The surgeons will now have no difficulty in removing in by an operation.

A meeting of the wheelmen of the town was held last evening to determine the question of a bicycle parade on July 5th. GIFT TO SUPERINTENDENT WARDE.

North Plainfield Teachers Express Their Good Will by a Presentation.

Last Monday evening an agreeable surprise was given to Dr. A. D. Warde, superintendent of the North Plainfield Public High School, when the teachers of the school called at his home on Manning avenue and presented him with a very handsome silver inkstand, including pen, penholder and silver-mounted blotter, and the gift was accompanied with a list of the teachers' names neatly written in a small book. The presentation was made by Miss Luella A. Crowther who expressed the feelings of appreciation of the other teachers in a short address. Dr. Warde was so completely surprised that for a few minutes he was almost speechless. Finally, he responded in his usual happy manner and thanked all of the teachers heartly for the gift. Following this bit of pleasantry a social time was passed and the serving of refreshments was a feature of the event.

FAITHFUL UNCLE BOB.

Gov. Atkinson's Family Friend and the Story of the Friendship.

No official in the United States has a more faithful servitor than has W. Y. Atkinson, Governor of Georgia, in old Uncle Bob. The old negro is now over sixty years old, past the time when he can earn his living by hard work. So, when first elected Governor, three years ago, Gov. Atkinson wrote a letter to Uncle Bob, then living in Griffin, and offered him a place as janitor at the Capitol at a salary of $20 a month, and the old darky gladly accepted the place. He stood sadly in need of assistance, for he had been turned out of his own domicile by a girl whom he had dopted when she was a little thing, and had reared and educated out of his own earnings.

When Gov. Atkinson was suffering with the attack of appendicitis that came near proving mortal last year Uncle Bob sat on the doorsteps in front of the sanitarium where the Governor was being treated night after night, and never left his post unless he was required to go on an errand for his sick master. When the operation was performed he sat up the whole night, and his was among the first voices to cheer the Governor in his convalescence. One day the Governor was indisposed and Uncle Bob heard of it and went to the mansion to spend the night with his master and to cheer his lonely hours. The Governor was restless. Uncle Bob began to recount the occurrences of his past life so as to help while away the hours, and for the first time related his war experience. He was sent to the front with Gov. Atkinson's eldest brother, John B. Atkinson, who was a member of the Seventh Georgia Regiment, and he recounted the story of his master's death and his own fidelity, apparently unconscious of his own heroism in the affair.

"Hit was on de mawnin' of de fus' Manassas," said he in his old plantation lingo, "an' we had stopped to get breakfus. I wus busy wid de camp fire tryin' to hurry up de breakfus, 'case dem wus sich squally times dat we didn't know w'at minit we'd hatter jump and run, w'en de Gin'l ordered de Sebent Geawgy to forrerd. I watch Mars' John as he lip to his feet an' grab his musket an' fall inter line.

"In er mighty few minits de ridgment come tearin' back, but Mars' John was slow 'bout comin', an' des fo' dey got to de camp de Eight' Geawgy wus ordered to forrerd, an' dey bein' er lot o' Mars' John's kinfolks 'mong dem Eight' Geawgy people, w'en he meet 'em he turned an' started back inter de fight. I wus whar I could keep my eye on 'im, 'case I done promus ol' Missis I gwine ter watch out fo' de young Marster, an' I seed 'im way in front er de flag des er chargin' an' er hurrayin', an' den dey wus er flash lack lightnin' in front an' he fall.

"I neber had such feelin's in all my borned days. De bullits wus er flyin' thick as hailstones, an' I seed de men waver an' fall back, an' I knowed dat dey'd done let dat po' boy all lone on de fiel', and I look roun' fo some way ter git to 'im. Dey wus er little ravine dat led off in erroun'erbout way, an' I slid inter dat an' crawled fo' er quarter uv er mile, tell I got nigh 'nough ter retch 'im 'dout 'sposin' myse'f ter de bullits. I crope up ter whar he laid, an' he wus er tryin' to load 'is muskit. Er great big ball done struck 'im in de side an' tore er hole w'at look lack I could ram my fis' in, but he wusn't payin' no 'tention to de woun', but wus er tryin' to load de gun. I 'splained to 'im how bad hurt he was, an' 'suaded 'im ter git on my back and hol' on ter me twel I could git out er dat place. De bullits wus er singin' roun' my head, an' I had ter crawl back ter de ravine wid him on my back, an' den creep erlong twel I got over de hill an' out er range er de bullits.

"He was bleedin' tur'ble an' I knowed dat ef I didn't get he'p soon dat he'd bleed ter die. So I walked an' run as fas as I could go fo' six miles ter de station an' den I had ter wait eber so long fo' de train come gwine ter Richmon'. De ball wus lodged in 'is lef' side an' I des knowed dat 'is insides wus all tore up, an' I give 'im water an' sot an' fanned 'im an' bathed 'is face all dat long Sunday mawnin' twel de train come.

"Well, sah, at las' de train come an' I managed ter git de po' boy on boa'd an' we started on dat ride ter Richmon'. W'en we got dar de hospitals was so crowded dat I t'ought I'd never git er comfo'terble place fo' Mars' John. He was out'n 'is head an' kep' er talkin' 'bout home and de home folks and hit almost bruk my heart to lis'n ter his child talk. Hit was late Monday night 'fo' I could git er surgeon to dress de woun' an' den hit was too late. Death done struck de po' boy w'en de doctor 'examined de woun' an' shuck 'is head an' said mortification done sot in. All dat I could do wus ter set by de bed an' wet 'is lips an' for'ed an' bresh back de long ha'r dat looked so boyish an' curly as he laid dar gaspin' fo' breath.

Hit wus 'way pas' midnight, an' I wus des drappin' inter a lil' doze, w'en he spoke ter me, an' he ax whar he wus, an' I tol' 'im dat he wus safe an' I wus dar to see dat he wus tuck good care uv, an' den he ax me w'at time hit wus, an' I tol' 'im hit's soon be daylight. I ax 'im ef he feel better, an' he sorter smile lack an' say he feel fus' rate. Den he 'gun ter tell me w'at to tell he maw w'en I git back ter Geawgy, an' I couldn' keep down de tears, an' he tol' me I mus' be er better sojer dan dat, an' ter tell de folks dat he done 'is bes'.

"I gin 'im some water an' he drink a sip an' den tell me ter tell all de folks good-by fo' he'd never see ol' Geawgy no mo', an' den I des bruk down. He beg me ter raise 'im up an' I lif' 'is head an' he fetch one long breff and was gone."—New York Sun.

TO PLAY NEWCOMB.

For the game called "Newcomb," which originated with Miss Clara Baer of Newcomb College, New Orleans, La., a limited space, either in or out of doors, and a football are all the essentials. It teaches lightness, alertness, the ability to remain on one's feet, good judgment in a sure aim, gives strength to throw, and power to hold.

The method of procedure is as follows: Divide the space at command, the lawn, say, into two equal parts, by means of lines of white paint, as for a tennis court. This is the division line. About seven feet each side of the line draw shorter lines for the bases. The spaces between the bases, separated by the division line, is called the "inside" of the base, beyond where the players stand "outside." The boundary line must also be marked out. The players are designated by colors; one team, for instance, play pink, the others blue. The blues guard the ground of the pinks, and the reverse. The players are arranged at irregular intervals beyond the bases, which they are not permitted to cross except where the ball is thrown up by the referee. This is done at the beginning of the game to decide which side shall have possession of the ball, and after each foul. In order to prevent too great a rush for the ball, each side has a captain, and the captains alone are permitted to cross the bases.

yond the base, when it is called a "touchdown," and counts for the side sending the ball. At first, touchdowns are easily made, but when the players become expert in handling the ball, it is seldom permitted to reach the floor, and the interest in the game increases proportionately. A touchdown counts one for the side sending the ball. A majority of points, within a given time, decided upon beforehand by the players, decides the game.

The following are the rules:

The players must not stop inside of the bases, except when the ball is thrown up at the beginning of the game and after each foul.

The ball must be thrown by the hands; it may be thrown by one or both hands; it cannot be kicked.

No player may catch or throw the ball while on her knees; she must be on her feet.

No player must fall on the ball.

The referee must throw the ball directly upward from the division line at the beginning of each game and after each foul. The referee decides the time of play, keeps account of touchdowns and fouls.

Throwing the ball between the division line and either base is a foul; also kicking a ball or falling on a ball.

As the object of the game is to guard the ground on which you stand, cover it as effectually as possible by an even distribution of players. For a long distance, throw high, or the ball may be intercepted. A low ball, when well sent, is very effectual, for, unless a player has her movements well under control, in stooping she is apt to fall on the ball, which is a foul against her side.

ZIMMERHACKLE'S OBSERVATIONS.

Kill their "moth"ers and the moths will take care of themselves.

Danger lies everywhere, but it is not alone. Some other people do.

Laughter never kills. Don't be afraid of it.

The only way you can get even on some shows is to buy your ticket with a bogus quarter.

The man who does five hour's work in three, and then spends the other two hours in blowing about it, hasn't gained any time.

It is now announced that the bride, not the groom, should pay the minister. Where will this women's rights movement end?—Dansville N. Y., Breeze.

The young man who prides himself in being a "brick" should remember that the ordinary brick can't stand very much soaking, without disintegrating.

Nature doesn't clean up the last year's rubbish she simply puts down a new green carpet and covers it all up. Nature would make a good wife for men who hate housecleaning.

When you ask an editor to suppress an item of news because it does not please you then go and ask your grocer to exclude pickles from his store because you can't eat them, or your butcher not to keep bologna because it goes against your stomach. There is just as much fairness in one as in the other. News is an editor's stock in trade. So are pickles a grocer's and bologna and nockwurst a butcher's.—Dansville N. Y., Breeze.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

ACTIVITY IN COAL MINING.

A General Order Goes Into Effect Increasing the Time Schedule.

Scranton, Pa., June 16.—An order, which is so general as to include about all the large operating companies in the upper valley of the Lackawanna, and which has put the mines on a five day per week schedule, has just gone into effect. For over two months the working average has been but two or three days per week.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western collieries are all included in the order. The Delaware and Hudson mines will work about four days a week for three weeks, when the time will be increased to five days.

It is believed here that the activity will continue until the latter part of September and that the present 12 months' state production will exceed that of 1896, which was 3,000,000 tons less than in 1895. The mines from Pittston to Carbondale have begun increasing their output in response to the general order.

NIAGARA ELECTRIC POWER.

Satisfactory Transmission From That Place to Buffalo.

Buffalo, June 16.—Seven months ago the transmission to Buffalo of electric power generated by the cataract of Niagara was begun, the Buffalo Street Railway company receiving some 2,000 horsepower at the street car powerhouse in this city. The transmission of this power was looked upon as an experiment, and no further contracts for its delivery in Buffalo were made.

The power has come to Buffalo so steadily and regularly that the experimental stage has now been passed, and other contracts are being entered into. Arrangements have been made for 1,250 horsepower by the Great Northern Elevator company, which has now in course of construction in this city one of the largest grain elevators in the world.

GENERAL MILES IN LONDON.

London, June 16.—General Nelson A. Miles, who will represent the United States army at the queen's jubilee, and Rear Admiral J. N. Miller, who will represent the United States navy upon the same occasion, have arrived in this city. General Miles, Admiral Miller, their staffs and Mrs. Miles, were the guests at dinner last evening of Mr. Whitelaw Reid, the special envoy of the United States at the jubilee.

General Miles, in addition to visiting the Turkish and Greek armies, inspected the ordnance made at the Armstrong factory at Naples for the Italian, Spanish and Argentine governments. He also inspected the gun factories and coast defenses of Austria, Italy and France and was courteously treated everywhere.

General Miles did not find any of the governments secretive in regard to their military equipment. He thinks Edhem Pasha is a great general and that his troops are a fine lot of men. The Greeks, the general adds, are glad at the prospect of peace, but they are good soldiers, and the junior officers and men showed a wonderful devotion to their cause.

AN ALLEGED CONFESSION.

A Colored Man Said to Have Acknowledged Committing a Crime.

Boston, June 16.—A great sensation was caused at West Kingston, R. I., when it became known that William Brown, colored, had surrendered to Police Officer Joseph T. Northup and confessed that he murdered Aunt Martha Watson, also colored, Oct. 5, 1885.

On the night referred to a one armed burglar went into the house, seized the woman by the throat and beat her with the stump of the other arm. The burglar demanded money, and Aunt Martha said she would get it if the burglar would let her loose.

She was released, and when a candle was lighted the woman, although she was then 86 years of age, jumped out of a window and escaped to a neighbor's.

The burglar fled. Three days later Aunt Martha died of her injuries. In an ante mortem statement the woman said Brown was her assailant.

Brown has been taken to Cranston prison.

TIN PLATE STRIKE.

Statistics of the Industry That May Be Affected.

Pittsburg, June 16.—A strike in the tin plate industry seems certain, and the conference on the wage scale is not likely to accomplish anything tending to a settlement, as both sides are firm and assert that no concessions will be made.

There are 39 tin plate plants in the United States, operated by 38 companies, the American Tin Plate company operating two plants, one at Ellwood and the other at Montpelier, Ind. These 39 plants represent 188 mills, but nine of them are small affairs and do not figure to any great extent in the industry.

The total number of skilled workmen employed in the industry is 2,327, of which 273 are nonunion men. The number of workers outside of the tonnage men employed at tin plate plants is 6,265, and a strike for the new wage scale will throw about 8,000 people out of employment.

CIVIL SERVICE QUANDARY.

The Syracuse Fire Department Is Unable to Fill Vacancies.

Syracuse, June 16.—The inability of the civil service commissioners to revise their regulations to comply with the new state civil service law and the result of that law in wiping out the eligible lists in all city departments has caused a dilemma that threatens trouble in the fire department.

Chief Nicholas Eckel died last week, and First Assistant John P. Quigley is acting as chief. Second Assistant Thomas F. Ryan is ill and off duty. The fire board is unable to fill any of the vacancies, even temporarily, and all of the work consequently devolves on Acting Chief Quigley.

It will be several weeks before the trouble can be repaired.

THE SAILORS' STRIKE.

The Demand of the Men Is For a Regular Scale of Wages.

Boston, June 16.—The sailors of the port of Boston, who are on strike for higher wages, now number about 300 men. Their demands have been made known. They are that a minimum scale of wages be fixed at $22 per month for long southern trips and $25 per month for short coasting trips, such as to Philadelphia, New York, etc.

Incidents of the strike inspired considerable hope. One ship, the Massasoit, bound for a coasting trip, signed a crew for the desired $25 per month. Two other coasters offered $20 and $22, which was refused.

A mass meeting will be held in the rooms of the Seamen's union, when addresses will be made by prominent labor men.

MONEY IN SUBTREASURY.

Experts Finish Counting the Cash In the Subtreasury Vaults.

New York, June 16.—The experts who came on from Washington some three weeks ago to count the money in the vaults of the subtreasury have completed their labors. The experts counted exactly $195,383,000, divided as follows:

Notes, $64,465,000; gold, $77,940,000; silver coin, $52,739,000; minor coin, $239,000. The weight of the gold handled was 155 tons, and the silver weighed about ten times as much more. The accounts were "straight," save for a discrepancy of something like a dollar in the petty cash.

Suicide Caused by Ill Health.

Worcester, Mass., June 16.—Eldon B. Watkins, aged 45 years, committed suicide by taking a solution of cyanide of potash. He was janitor of Sons of Veterans hall and was found by two members of that order in the hall shortly after he had drunk the poison. He died on the way to the hospital. The cause of the suicide is ascribed to ill health.

Rumors About Barnato.

London, June 16.—The papers publish columns of obituary, reminiscence, anecdote and history as to the late Barney Barnato. It is said that he thrice attempted to commit suicide before he left Cape Town.

The Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company have just received a lot of fifty Keating wheels which they are offering at prices to suit all.

Rogers, the North avenue cycle dealer, deals in one of the best cycle lamps on the market. One only has to examine it to be convinced of its superiority over other makes.

A QUIET MARRIAGE.

Popular Young Couple Joined in Matrimony by Father Miller.

A quiet wedding was solemnized last evening by Rev. Father Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, when Miss Margaret Fosbrey, of the borough, and William Nichols, of this city, were united in marriage at the home of the rector. A reception followed at the home prepared and furnished by the groom on West Sixth street, where a few intimate friends gathered to congratulate the happy couple. A fine supper was served to the guests during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols received a large number of useful and handsome presents from their friends.

The bride was formerly in the employ of former Mayor B. A Hegeman, Jr., of Washington Park, while the groom is an employee at the Pond Tool Works.

NOW OWNED BY THE COUNTY.

Sheridan House Will Soon be Utilized for Official Purposes.

The old Sheridan House property adjoining the Court House in Elizabeth, was purchased yesterday by the county and was turned over to Warden Blore, as Custodian of Buildings.

The property is nearly one hundred and fifty years old. The Freeholders had been trying to purchase it for fifteen years. During the life of the late Postmaster Sheridan all offers were refused, but since then the executors have consented to part with the property.

A wing to the Court House will be erected as soon as the old hotel is torn down.

Feast of Corpus Christi.

Tomorrow will be an important day at St. Joseph's church. In the morning, at 7 o'clock, there will be communion in honor of the Feast of Corpus Christi. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be the confirmation of the class, numbering between forty and fifty children. The Sacrament will be administered by Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, who will also confirm the class.

Profits of the Fete

The profits of the Fete Champetre of the Woman's Town Improvement Association, which was held last Saturday, will be about $1,500, which will be used to improve the condition of the city park. The Fete will probably become a permanent feature of summer life in Plainfield.

Cut His Knee Pan.

Charles Mason, aged seven years, living at 525 West Third street; was taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon suffering with a deep and severe cut in the knee pan caused by a fall over a large stone. Dr. Long closed up the wound by taking several stitches in it.

and prayer was held in which the true Endeavor spirit prevaded. After the meeting, the visitors were invited to stop for a social time and refreshments which were bountifully served.

The clouds had almost entirely disappeared and the full round moon was just peeping above the horizon when the visitors gathered in front of the chapel once more. Everybody was pleased with the success of the run and experiences of the ride were exchanged.

The Society at the Seventh-Day Baptist church was most largely represented. All the other societies in the city, except three, had one or more members in line. There was only one tandem in the party and that came from the Society at the First Presbyterian church.

Near the chapel, the road was particularly rough and sandy so many of the party walked to the home of Mrs. Reune Randolph, half a mile away, where a halt was called until the moon rose sufficiently to light the road. Soon, the moonlight made the scene almost as light as day, and the party started on their return trip. The ride was enlivened by bright remarks from the Endeavorers. Nobody wanted to go home when Park avenue was reached and so the run was continued to Oak Tree and Pumptown, a delightful spin in the moonlight, and then back to Plainfield where the party disbanded.

NOT ABLE TO GET ENOUGH VOTES.

A meeting of the taxpayers of Washingtonville was held last evening in the schoolhouse for the purpose of ascertaining whether it was their wish that a new schoolhouse should be erected at an expense of $3,000.

The law requires that a two-third vote of the taxpayers present be secured to adopt or reject such a proposition, and as there was such a division among those present, it was impossible to secure the desired vote. There was considerable dissension among the taxpayers and very few seemed to be agreed as to what should be done. Robert Clark, Jr., was chairman of the meeting, and W. H. Morris, secretary. There were about thirty persons present, and after spending a good deal of time doing nothing and adjournment was made to July 6th, when an effort will be made to reach some decision in the matter.

A Noonday Borough Fire.

While William Barry, coachman for M. I. Cooley, of Rockview avenue, was working in his employer's yard today forenoon at 11:40, he discovered a fire in the top of the barn on the property occupied by Mr. Perry. He ran at once to box 154 and sent in an alarm. The West End Hose Company was the first to arrive. The upper part of the barn was destroyed, including a number of things belonging to Mrs. Morgan Taylor. The building and contents were insured. While Warren Engine Company's hose wagon was being taken to the fire by a team of horses owned by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, one of the horses was thrown while turning from Somerset street into Linden avenue, and his hind legs were sprained. From that point the wagon was taken to the fire by hand.

Falling Window Crushed Two Fingers.

Mrs. Josepn Humble, of Somerset street, met with a painful accident this morning while attempting to raise a window at her home. One hand was on the window when the weight-cords broke allowing the window to fall on the hand. Three fingers were caught and severely crushed. Mrs. Humble called to her husband who hastened and assisted her in extracting her hand from beneath the window. The injured fingers were dressed at once, but Mrs. Humble suffers great pain as the result of the accident.

Chattel Mortgage Foreclosure.

Judge George W. DeMeza has commenced foreclosure proceedings under a chattel mortgage held by Baumann Bros., of New York, upon the goods of Dr. John D. Wood, of this city. This news comes as a surprise to those who have secured attachments upon Wood's property, as they are practically shut out by this proceeding.

Ministers Met on the Mountain.

The members of the Plainfield Ministers' Association were entertained at Hilltop Cottage, Mrs. F. O. Herring's cottage on the mountain, yesterday afternoon, by Rev. E. M. Rodman. Rev. Dr. D J. Yerkes read a paper on "The Names of Our Saviour," after which there was a general discussion of the subject. Supper was served under the charge of Mrs. E. M. Rodman, Mrs. F. O. Herring and Mrs. C. E. Brooks, assisted by Mrs. E. M. VanBuren and Miss Rodman.

—Assemblyman W. R. Codington gave notice in the Court of Chancery, yesterday, of a motion to fix the date for the hearing in the case of Stansbury against Baker, in which he represents the plaintiff. Vice-Chancellor Emory postponed the fixing of the day until the defendant has joined issue.

AUK AND THE DODO GONE.

Before the white man came there was a large and clumsy bird on the island of Mauritius called the "dodo." It was related to the family of pigeons. Being incapable of flight and good to eat, the species was destroyed wholesale by sailors, and the eggs and young were eaten by hogs. So it disappeared and not a single specimen remains in any museum to tell its melancholy story. Mauritius had also a small but peculiar owl and a big parrot, a large heron with short wings, and a big rail, all of which are now extinct, as well as a good many other birds which are now only known by the stories of early voyagers and the bones found in caves on the island. Far to the eastward of Mauritius, on Rodriguez Island, dwelt a near relative of the dodo, called the solitaire. It became extinct about the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Of all birds recently extinct none is more interesting than the gare fowl, or great auk. The last two living specimens were seen and taken on a rocky islet off the southwestern point of Ireland. A single egg of a great auk was sold not long ago at auction for $1,500. And yet sixty years ago birds of this species were found on Funk Island, off the Newfoundland coast, in countless numbers. People from the mainland used to go over to the island in summer and kill them by myriads to eat and for their feathers. They were so fat that they served as fuel. Ships used to land there and get boatloads of the auks by the simple process of placing a plank between the boat and the shore, and driving the helpless creatures over it. The Smithsonian Institution has practically a corner on their bones. A while ago it sent an agent to Funk Island for the purpose, and he brought back nearly a barrelful of auk bones. If you want a skeleton you will have to send to Washington for it, and it will cost you about $600.—Washington Post.

FEATS OF HINDOO PORTERS.

Hardy Hill-Men Climb Steep Mountains Carrying Cumbersome Packs.

Darjeeling tea, said Mr. George W. Christison, in a recent lecture before the British Society of Arts, is all carried by the hardy hill-men up the steep mountain roads to the nearest railway station on the way to market. It is no unusual day's work for a coolie to carry from 110 to 130 pounds a distance of five or six miles, making at the same time an ascent of from 2,500 to 3,500 feet in sheer vertical elevation.

There can be no deception about a task like that, and we can not but have an admiration for the powers of endurance of those who perform such a feat. Of course these people are trained to load carrying and mountain climbing from their very infancy, and hence the peculiar set of muscular faculties required for them are fully developed, if not actually called into existence at a cost of others—so much so that walking on a level, after a few miles, becomes positively painful to them.

In the prosecution of their own trade, or in domestic affairs, they frequently undertake long, arduous journeys over ridges and along and across hot valleys, varying many thousands of feet in elevation, occupying many days, carrying heavy loads of from 150 to 200 pounds and over, and in addition to their food and bedding most cheerfully lighting a fire, cooking and eating their scanty meal, and going to sleep by the wayside.

There is a story still current of a Bhootean in old times having carried a grand piano up a hill to Darjeeling, a distance of fifty miles forward, and involving a rise of more than 5,000 feet in elevation by the old road. These hill tribes are a hardy people, capable of performing marvelous journeys without partaking of food, or on the most meagre fare.—New York World.

In Better Business.

"Why did I cease to be an agitator, a socialist and an advocate of utopian ideas?" echoed the man of affairs to a former friend who is still working on the problem of making this an ideal world.

"I'll tell you just as frankly as I can. While I was sentimentalizing about the masses and grinding out humanitarian cant wherever I could get an audience, I made the startling discovery that I was not making my own home as much of a heaven on earth as it might be. I was neglecting my household in an effort to reclaim the world..

"But such sacrifices must be made in the great cause."

"Not a bit of it. Our first duty is to those akin to us. What awakened me was a wife working night and day to get along on scanty means, one little one staying at home from school because he had no shoes, another wearing clothes that excited ridicule of other children, the coal bin empty and a very short allowance in the larder. I concluded then and there that the rest of the world would have to get along the best it could until I had created some sunshine in my own home. I've been kept very busy in this new line of work, finding some time, however, to afford relief where immediate relief was needed."

The visiting agitator looked much paler than when he had entered and went out chewing his mustache.—

Sweet Peas to Drive Away Flies.

The odor of the sweet pea, according to a contributor to the Medical Record, "is so offensive to flies that it will drive them out of the sick room, though it is not usually in the slightest degree disagreeable to the patient." It is, therefore, recommended that sweet peas be placed in the sick room during fly time.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Limit.

"How much do you weigh?" said a friend to Speaker Reed the other day.

"I weigh 200 pounds," he replied slowly and smilingly.

"Oh," said his friend, "you weigh more than that. You must weigh nearly 300 pounds."

"No," said the speaker, "no gentleman weighs more than 200 pounds."—New York Tribune.

MARTIN ACT INJUSTICES

A REVIEW OF THE TAX PROBLEMS CONFRONTING THE CITY.

Fred C. Lounsbury Advances Many Strong Points Why Innocent Property Owners Should Not Pay Back Taxes.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In accepting your invitation to present my views on the Martin Act and its application to the city of Plainfield it shall be my endeavor to acquaint the public with certain facts which seem to have been lost sight of heretofore.

Some have been led to believe that the recent act of the Common Council was to result in simply a rounding up of dead beats who had studiously and persistently neglected to pay their just debts; in a measure this may be so, but it applies to only a very small portion of those who are affected. It is the opinion of those in a position to know, that a large portion of the property upon which taxes are in arrears for the year 1881 and prior thereto, has changed hands, some of it many times, since the said taxes were levied, and as much of the property has been subdivided and resold, the result is that of those who are affected at the present day a large majority are absolutely innocent purchasers, and it is to this class that I belong and for whose rights I propose to put forth every effort in my power. It is somewhat difficult to conceive that those who framed and passed the socalled Martin Act ever intended that it should apply under such circumstances as exist in connection with our city, and until the Supreme Court of the State finally passes upon the question involved we shall feel compelled to believe that our Common Council acted hastily and without due consideration of the rights of others in attempting to apply this act so far as it concerns taxes for 1881 and prior thereto

In 1880 and 1881 the city of Plainfield found themselves in a very serious predicament regarding the collection of taxes, and the local newspapers at that time set forth this difficulty in no uncertain way. I quote from an editorial of the Central New Jersey Times as follows:

Plainfield is in great danger. Our tax system has been stirred up during the past two years and been found utterly rotten. In the first place this appears in regard to city taxes. In the beginning of 1880 the Common Council attempted to compell City Judge Runyon, then just elected, to issue his warrant for the forcible collection of city taxes at that time unpaid for the year 1879 and previous years, and the Supreme Court decided upon the hearing of that case that the City Judge had no power to issue any warrant for the collection of taxes assessed previous to his term of office.

But when we come to look for the oridnary power given to other communities in the State to collect taxes assessed against real estate our plight is still worse; the Charter of the City of Plainfield does not contain a provision authorizing in any way, shape or manner the collection of city taxes out of the real estate upon or against which it is assessed.

Then again, during the past year, the Corporation Counsel in mere desperation has attempted to collect those taxes which could not be collected by warrant, by civil suit, and thus far the courts have decided that the city cannot maintain any such suits. Secondly, when we turn to State and county taxes the condition is still worse. The Mayor and Common Council, lawyers in New York, and one of the most eminent counsellors in the State of New Jersey, have for a year past been engaged in a fruitless search for some legal authority which enables the city of Plainfield or its officers to collect the State and county taxes.

* * * * * *

Mr. Cortland Parker in an opinion to the Council dated Nov. 28th, 1881, points out the defects in charter and mistakes of city officials and recommends that the Legislature be requested to pass an act to correct the difficulty, and under such act the taxes since 1881 have been made a lien upon real estate and against the collection of these taxes no reasonable man can enter a protest; the old taxes, however, were considered a dead letter. Council after Council has been organized and disbanded without any attempt to resurrect these old matters principally because they believed it to be impossible to obtain any particular result through such an effort. It remained for the Council of 1897, seeking to cover themselves with the glory commonly supposed to be associated with antiques, to discover or claim to discover that the Martin act passed more than ten years ago would really apply to this case, and hence we have today this unprecedented act on the part of the city of Plainfield in which innocent parties are invited under threats of losing their property to step up and pay a debt a quarter of a century old, and due in many instances from parties who have long since been in their graves. Such an act on the part of an individual would not be considered legal for a moment. A city is simply a combination of individuals and as such should not have any such extraordinary rights, and should be held accountable as an individual

BRYAN MEN IN CONTROL

MEMBERS ON THE STATE COMMITTEE FOR "NO COMPROMISE."

Chairman Price Refuses to Name Any One Who Deliberately Aided and Abetted Republicans in Any Contest.

Every county in the State was represented at the meeting of the Democratic State Committee at Trenton yesterday, and more interest was manifested in the gathering than was displayed toward any held during the last National campaign. This was largely because it was expected that the committee would definitely decide what recognition, if any, should be given the sound money wing of the party, and on that score there was no disappointment.

No resolutions were adopted, but action was taken and sentiment expressed during the selection of members of the several county boards of election, which declared emphatically for "no compromise," and established a rule that while the present committee is in control, no Democrat who opposed the cause of Bryanism and free silver last year should be given a voice in the party councils.

"Personally, I cannot recognize as a Democrat any one who deliberately aided and abetted the Republican party in either a National, State or local contest," said Chairman Price, "and I will not knowingly name such a person as a member of the election board of any county, unless a majority of the committee so orders."

Inasmuch as the law required that list of county election officers should be submitted to the Governor not later than July 1, the chairman said he had called this meeting to settle the question. He asked the committee to bear in mind that the Chicago platform was and would remain, at least until 1900, the Democratic doctrine, and one antagonistic to it could not be classed as a Democrat.

The committee approved the following list of county election officers every one of them an approved silver Democrat or one credited to be such by the representative from his county:

Union—John L Crowell and Patrick J. Ryan.

Somerset—J. H. Madison and Jacob Shurts.

Morris—Paul Revere and Oscar Lindsley.

Neither Johnston Cornish, Senator Daly nor General Donnelly had a word to say relative to the Gubernatorial nomination except that it was rather premature to discuss it.

Very little was said relative to the candidacy of Senator Smith for re-election, except by former State Senator Keys and a few other warm friends of the Senator.

No action was taken with reference to the pending constitutional amendments, the committee deciding that the questions involved were not properly party issues.

CYCLIST TOOK A TUMBLE.

THE RIDER RAN PELLMELL INTO FARMER MARTINE'S RIG.

Free silver did not have anything to do with it, but "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine was the indirect cause of considerable of the tumble last night. A young man from New Brunswick, was the victim of the accident. He did not see the Democratic statesman and Mr. Martine did not see him until he rose in the air and set sail for the opposite side of the road.

Mr. Martine went out for a drive, last evening. He was returning on Park avenue, in the vicinity of Avon Park, when a bunch of wheelmen approached from the rear. The moon had not risen and the streets that overhung the road made it rather dark and Mr. Martine drove on the right side of the road to allow them to pass.

The wheelmen were coming at a lively pace and one of them evidently did not see the carriage, for he struck the rear wheel squarely and was sent flying across the road. His wheel was a complete wreck and when Mr. Martine and his comrades reached him, they found the rider half-stunned from the fall and bleeding profusely from a deep cut in the side of the head. His right thumb was broken.

He was carefully lifted up and placed in the carriage together with the remains of his wheel, while his wounds were dressed. Mr. Martine then brought the injured man to Plainfield where his wounds were carefully dressed at a drug store and he was then sent home to New Brunswick by train under the care of a companion while the rest of the party set a slower pace home on their wheels.

A JERSEY JUNE BRIDE.

A CHURCH WEDDING CELEBRATED IN DUNELLEN LAST NIGHT.

A New Market Girl Becomes the Better Half of a Prosperous Red Bank Merchant—Details of the Nuptial Event.

The Dunellen Presbyterian church was the scene last evening of a pretty wedding when Miss Helen Coriell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Coriell, of New Market, and Clarence White, a prosperous merchant of Red Bank, were united in marriage by Rev. D. W. Skellinger, of Washington, D. C., who was formerly a pastor of the church in which the ceremony was performed. A pleasing arrangement of choice flowers, ferns and palms made the church beautiful and attractive. Those present to witness the ceremony comprised the best people in Dunellen and New Market, while there was a large number of out-of-town guests. Previous to the appointed hour Joseph Neuman, of Dunellen, rendered a programme of classical selections on the organ, and while the bridal party were entering the church the Lohengrin wedding march was played.

The ushers, Gilbert Boughton Fletcher, of Dunellen; William Wallace Coriell, Harry Johnson, of Plainfield, and Frederick Coriell, of Bound Brook, made their appearance first, followed by the bridemaids, Miss Kate Coriell, sister of the bride, of New Market, Miss Evelyn White, Miss Maide L. White, sisters of the groom, of Red Bank, and Miss Mary Giles, of Plainfield, all gowned in white organdie over green, and carrying baskets of carnations The maid of honor, Miss Florence Coriell, niece of the bride, of Dunellen, came next, gowned in white and she carried a mother-of pearl tray bearing the wedding ring. Lastly, came the bride leaning on the arm of her father who gave her away in marriage. She wore a gown of white satin en train, also a tulle veil held in place by a diamond and pearl cluster, the gift of the groom.

At the altar the bridal party were met by the groom and best man, James S. Martin, of Brooklyn, and the officiating clergyman. The beautiful and impressive Episcopal service was used and the responses were very distinct. While the service was being performed pretty selections were rendered on the organ, and as the bridal party left the church the favorite Mendelssohn wedding march was played.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in New Market from 8 to 10, and only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The house was attractively decorated in pink and white, the same colors as were used at the church. During the above hours Mr. and Mrs. White received the congratulations of those present and a bountiful wedding supper was served. The bride and groom left early enough to catch the 10:17 train at Plainfield for New York. This morning they left for a two weeks' wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, White Mountains, to Boston, thence to Red Bank where they will reside.

They received a great many costly and useful presents from their relatives and friends. The groom's gifts to the ushers were gold stick pins set with torquoise.

RENTED WHEEL IS GONE.

A Sharper's Clever Trick Found One Victim.

There is one less wheel in the rental department of the Eldridge Bicycle Company at present. Last Saturday afternoon a man came into the salesrooms of the company on Park avenue and said that he wanted to hire a wheel. He said that his name was George Goodwin and that he lived at 37 Washington avenue. He wanted to hire the wheel for over Sunday, so he said. He took the wheel and rode away and not a sign of Goodwin or the wheel has been seen since. The wheel was a '96 Columbia.

The man also called at one of the local livery stables and represented himself as a guest of Mayor Gilbert. The little game did not work, however, and the liveryman refused to let him have the rig he wanted.

Stole His Employer's Rig.

Tuesday afternoon last George Hilbert, a farmer living at Myersville, Morris county, had a bay horse attached to a black buggy, stolen from his place by an employee named David Morris, who had worked for Mr. Hilbert for a few weeks. The rig was traced as far as Demler's store at Washingtonville and there all trace of it was lost. The matter was reported to the borough police and the police of the city, both of whom are now on the lookout for the stolen property.

THE PLAY WAS THE THING

ENTERTAINING DRAMATIC EFFORTS OF SCRIBNER & NEWTON PUPILS.

Closing Exercises of the School Held Yesterday Afternoon and Witnessed by a Large and Appreciative Audience Present

The closing exercises of the Misses Scribner & Newton's school, 303 LaGrande avenue, were held yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The room was attractively adorned with ferns and roses, and a large and appreciative audience was present.

The programme opened with a song, "The Violet's Plea," by a chorus of young ladies, followed by a recitation, "Cicely Croak," by Eleanor B. Williams, which showed ability on the part of the young lady, as well as careful training by her teacher.

A French play came next on the programme, "Le Testament de Madame Patural." This was acted in a sprightly, intelligent manner by the young performers, who showed great readiness and ease in the parts as signed them. The cast was as follows:

Madame Robin..... .....Helen Louise Brown
Madame la Marquise de Rocencoef.
Josephine Herrick Lapsley
Madame de Lorieux.....Margaret Goddard
Jeanneton.....Florence Ball Patterson
Gertrude.....Mary Lee Mann

The song, "Well-a-day," was very effectively rendered by the following chorus of young ladies: The Misses Mary Anderson Reinhart, Harriet Goddard, Margaret Goddard, Constance Salstonstall Patton, Josephine Herrick Lapsley, Georginna Hpadley Smith, Marie Newman, Florence Taylor, Jessie Little, Stephanie Krom, Mary Chapman, Sara Richards, Mary Lee Mann, Elizabeth Goddard, Charlotte Suydam and Elsa Pfeiffer. The instructor, Miss Anna O. Marsh, deserves especial praise for the excellent drill she has given the class in this work.

The last exercise of the afternoon was a play in which the members of the intermediate department took part. By the aid of a wonderful machine, the Chronothanatoletron, which recalls the dead to life, we are made to see many famous women of the past, "in their habit, as they lived." The parts were taken with great success, and the perfect adaptation of of each to the character she represented was remarkable. Miss Green is the teacher who selected the characters and trained the children for this play. The cast was:

Genius of the Nineteenth Century.

AN OLD CITIZEN PASSES AWAY.

William Britton Moore Finally Succumbs to a Long Illness.

The death of William Britton Moore, aged seventy-seven years, occurred last evening at the home of his son, Fred S. Moore, of Orchard place, after a long illness. Mr. Moore was well known in this locality where he has resided for the past twenty-five years, and for the most part followed the trade of a painter. He was taken several months ago with a paralytic stroke and from that he never recovered. He was a patient sufferer throughout his entire illness and his last days were made as comfortable as possible by kind and loving hands. The funeral services will be held from the house, 433 Orchard place, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will be at Rahway. A widow, one daughter and three sons survive the deceased.

Wedding Party Drove to This City.

People in the city were much interested last evening about 8 o'clock when a coach passed through Front street toward the North Avenue station. The coach itself was the same as any other, but the fact that it was gayly decorated with white satin ribbons, while on top floated a streamer, attracted the attention of those on the street. Inquiry revealed the fact that the coach contained Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wagoner, of Bound Brook, who a short time before were married at the home of the bride, who was formerly a Miss Stryker. The married couple took the 8:20 train from this city to Philadelphia, where they will spend their honeymoon.

W. L. Fursman, formerly of this city, is now connected with the management of The Clark, Elizabeth, where the Democratic harmony dinner will be held.

CRESCENT'S TO BUILD

THE WHEELMEN OF THE CITY WILL BE ASKED TO SUBSCRIBE.

A Committee was Appointed at the Meeting of the Crescent Wheelmen Last Evening to Decide About Building.

The Crescent Wheelmen are unanimously in favor of having a club house of their own. That was very evident at the club meeting held at the present quarters of the club last evening. All that now remains to be done is to raise the rest of the funds necessary to assure the building of the house. Some has already been pledged, and more will undoubtedly be given by the members and friends of the club who have not already come forward.

There was a large attendance at the meeting and all the members present seemed to be very much in favor of the scheme. There was considerable discussion regarding the details of the question. It was the sentiment of the members that it was far better to buy the ground for the new club house outright instead of leasing it as was first spoken of by the committee. The club could then mortgage the property if the subscriptions did not reach the amount needed to buy the land and pay for the erection of the house.

The only definite action was the appointment of a committee to select the suitable place on which to build the new club house, to decide on plans for the new building and to canvass the members of the club and the business men of the city for subscriptions. The committee was appointed to consist of the following: Edward White, chairman L. B. Woolston, former Judge W. A. Coddington, Judge George W. DeMeza, Councilman Tunis J. Carey, William H. Rogers, J. D. Runyon, Ralph I. Tolles, William M. McClintock, and J. A. Haynes.

Regarding the location of the club house it is understood that it is to be on Park avenue in the neighborhood of the Crescent Oval so as to be within easy walking distance of the Oval. The house itself will be left to the discretion of the members of the committee.

The meeting adjourned and the members decided to have another meeting in two weeks when the committee will makes its final report regarding the finances. If the necessary money has been raised, the location of the house will be adopted as will be the design for the club house, and work on it will proceed immediately so as to give the members a chance to use it as soon as possible.

ALMOST A FATAL DOSE.

IODINE GIVEN AS RHUBARB TO A CHILD BY MISTAKE.

Both Liquids in Similar Bottles—A Strong Emetic Admistered and the Life of the Little One was Thereby Finally Saved.

It was almost a fatal mistake that Mrs. William Tragman, of Somerset street, made this morning when she gave her three-year-old daughter, Luella, a teaspoonful of iodine in place of tincture of rhubarb, for a severe cold.

The accident happened soon after 8 o'clock this morning, after Luella had just awakened from her sleep. Mrs. Tragman went to the closet where she keeps both iodine and rhubarb in bottles that are exactly alike. She took up what she thought was the bottle containing the rhubarb, and pouring out a teaspoonful gave it to her daughter. Almost instantly the mother realized what she had done, and grasping her child ran hastily across the street to Dr. Mattison's drug store. The doctor gave a strong emetic. In a few seconds the child began to vomit the deadly stuff and it was not long before it was entirely out of the stomach. The child was in a weak condition and it was sometime before she rallied from the effects of the poisoning.

In the meantime Mrs. Tragman was half crazed with grief as for a time it looked as though the child might succumb to the evil effects of the iodine. After an hour or so the child began to recover and regain her strength and she is now out of danger.

Graduates Danced.

The last of the events of Commencement week at the Seminary was held at the Seminary Hall last evening. It was the graduation dance, arranged by the young women in the school. It proved a very pleasant affair. The hall was crowded, nearly a hundred guests being present. The music was furnished by Miss Morgan on the piano. The committee from the school by whom the dance was arranged consisted of the Misses Corlies, Helen Talmage and Agnes Minford.

NO NEED TO BE ALARMED

A SLIGHT EPIDEMIC OF SCARLET FEVER PREVALENT IN TOWN.

Twenty-eight Cases of What is Termed Scarletina Reported to the Board of Health—Not Necessary to Close Schools.

There is no use of denying the fact, Plainfield is experiencing a small epidemic of scarlet fever, which is, however, of a very mild form. While there have been times when Plainfield has had a greater number of cases than at present within the city limits, yet the mystery of the origin of the present cases is unusually perplexing to the health officials of the city.

While on May 28th there was not a single case of contagious disease reported in all the borders of the city, today there are twenty-eight cases reported to the Board of Health. None of the cases are serious, however, but are in a very mild form.

Neither are the cases confined to any one locality, set or color. Rich and poor are suffering alike. One of the first to come down with the disease was a lad living in a tenement on Stiger's alley, and today one of the sons of Mayor Chas. J. Fisk is reported ill with it.

There have been several cases in the public schools, but they were so isolated that the Board of Health has decided not to take any action to close the schools at present unless new cases appear. At present there is one case at the Franklin School, one at the Washington, five at the Bryant and one at the Parochial. As already stated, none of the cases are at all serious, and the victims are able to be around the house reading and enjoying themselves as best they can under the circumstances.

It has only been within the last few weeks that there was any sign of the disease and then it appeared all over the city simultaneously. Nine cases were reported yesterday. The Board of Health immediately investigated and tried to ascertain, if possible, how it was spread. The members have been unceasing in their efforts to locate the source, but so far they have been unsuccessful. The remarkable manner in which it has been spread among all classes quite baffles solution.

An officer of the State Board of Health will arrive in Plainfield today and will assist the local Board to trace it.

Dr. Murray, of the Board of Health, and Dr. Probasco, of the Board of Education, visited the Bryant school, this morning, and decided that it would not be necessary to close the schools for the present at least. Each case in the city has been thoroughly quarantined and will remain so until the patient has completely recovered from the effects.

While the Board of Health is anxious to locate the source of the trouble, the members are by no means worried about the spread of the fever. It comes in such mild a form, commonly known as roseola or scarletina, that there is little to fear from it if properly taken care of.

To the Editor of The Daily Press: As some fears have been expressed regarding the danger of contagion from scarlet fever in the public schools, I desire to state that I have conferred with the health authorities and President of the Board of Education, and am satisfied that all the cases in the city are of an extremely mild nature; that but few of them are pupils in the public schools, and that little, if any, danger exists to other pupils. Every precaution has been taken and all public school buildings will be regularly and thoroughly inspected.

Chas. J. Fisk,
Mayor.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

Seventh-day Baptist Women Arranged a Pleasant Time.

The Ladies Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-day Baptist church gave its last social affair for the season in the church parlors last evening. A strawberry festival was held instead of a regular sociable. The night was one that made ice cream very popular, and so there was a steady trade at the tables that were arranged about the rooms.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. A. M. Ross, chairman; Mrs. F. A. Dunham, Mrs. George Titsworth, and Mrs. Arthur L. Titsworth. The waitresses were the Misses Elizabeth Allis, Ernestine Smith, Matie Green, Louise Clawson, Ida Randolph and Anna Wooden.

Nate Laing Very Sick.

Nathan Laing, a veteran newspaper reporter and compositor of The Daily Press, who has been seriously ill for some time, is no better, and he seems to be gradually growing weaker. Mr. Laing is confined to the house at 417 Central avenue, where he has the kind and affectionate care of his mother.

WOODFORD FOR SPAIN

The President Selects Him For Minister at Madrid.

PROMINENT NEW YORK REPUBLICAN.

Has Been a Representative In Congress, United States District Attorney, Presidential Elector and Lieutenant Governor—Has a War Record.

Washington, June 17.—The president has nominated Stewart L. Woodford of New York to be minister to Spain.

He has been a representaive in congress, United States district attorney, Republican presidential elector and lieutenant governor.

In 1870 he was the unsuccessful candidate for governor against John T. Hoffman, and in 1876 he was a candidate in the Republican national convention for vice president, receiving 60 votes.

General Woodford was born in New York city Sept. 3, 1835. He is descended from early settlers of Connecticut. His grandfather fought in the Revolution and in the war of 1812. General Woodford entered Columbia college at 15, but spent the sophomore year at Yale, completing his education at Columbia and graduating in 1854. He delivered the centennial oration of the college.

Woodford's War Record.

He was admitted to the bar in 1857 and entered politics in the first Lincoln campaign, 1860. Later he became assistant United States district attorney. He resigned to enter the army as a volunteer in company H, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh New York volunteers.

He was made captain and served till 1864 in Virginia, South Carolina and the District of Columbia. He was judge advocate general of the department of the south, provost marshal general and chief of staff of General Gilmore.

He rapidly rose and was brevetted brigadier general for gallantry in action. After the war he was military governor of the city of Charleston and later of Savannah, putting the affairs of those cieties in splendid shape.

He resigned his commission Aug. 22, 1865, and resumed his law practice. In 1866 he was elected lieutenant governor. He presided over the Grant electoral college of the state in 1872 and defeated W. W. Goodrich for congress the same year.

He nominated Arthur for vice president in 1880. Under Grant he was United States district attorney. General Woodford is president of the Phi Beta Kappa Alumni of New York, a member of the New England society and of the G. A. R.; has been vice president of the Society of the Army of the Potomac.

He is an officer of the City Savings bank, Sprague National bank and Farragut Fire Insurance company and stands high in financial circles. Yale, Columbia and Trinity have bestowed the degree of M. A. upon him, and the latter gave him the degree of L.L. D.

A Friend of Mr. Platt.

Mr. Woodford is an old friend of Senator Platt, and the two have been on intimate terms since they were colleagues in congress a score of years ago. The incident in the early eighties, when Mr. Woodford refused to support for governor Judge Folger, later secretary of the treasury, saying he would not support a Republican nominated on a "forged telegram," put him at odds with the Republicans of the state for some years, but he finally went back into the fold. Senator Platt vigorously urged him for a cabinet position, trying to have him made secretary of the interior. Mr. Woodford has made a fortune in his law practice, and Republican friends speak of him as a natural diplomat.

His nomination has been foreshadowed in gossip about the office for some weeks, but the actual decision to appoint him was not reached until last evening. The cabinet talked the matter over, and the president referred to several persons suggested for the post and intimated that the preference was for Woodford. Secretary Bliss was called to the White House, and shortly after the nomination was sent to the senate. There is excellent authority for the statement that Mr. Woodford will accept.

Washington and Lee University.

P. Sanger, U. S. A., inspected the corps of cadets of Virginia Military institute.

Simla, June 17.—The reports that all the buildings at Shillong had been destroyed are confirmed. Mr. McCabe, the British resident deputy commissioner, was killed by a falling house, and the English ladies and children are suffering intensely from exposure. The towns of Sylhet and Cherrapunji were leveled to the ground, and whole villages submerged.

Prominent Railroad Man Ill.

St. Louis, June 17.—S. H. H. Clarke, president of the Union Pacific railway and one of its receivers, is quite ill at his home in this city. He is under the treatment of a specialist in diseases of the throat and lungs. As soon as possible it is the intention to move the patient to some place in the west where the climate is dry.

Eclectic Medical Association.

Minneapolis, June 17.—The National Eclectic Medical association has begun its twenty-seventh annual session at the Hotel St. Louis, Minnetonka. More than 150 eclectic physicians from all parts of the country are in attendance. Dr. McLean of San Francisco is the president.

Bucharest, June 17.—Great damage has been done in Roumania by the recent rainstorm. The Danube has overflowed its banks, and an immense lake nine miles long has formed between Fetesti and Tchernavoda.

A HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Rich Man's Son Charged With Holding Up a Companion

THE VICTIM WAS A HOTEL MANAGER.

Found Near St. Louis Dazed and Wounded—About $4,000 Was Taken From Him—The Accused a Well Known Southern Society Man.

St. Louis, June 17.—C. B. Collins of Nashville, who said he had but recently disposed of his hotel in that city and had the proceeds, $6,000, on his person, was found badly wounded at Meramec Highlands, 15 miles from this city.

He was bleeding from several wounds and was so badly injured that he could not be moved. He told the watchman of the inn near which he was found that he had been stabbed and robbed of the $6,000 by Martin Ensley, a traveling man, whom he had met in Nashville.

Shortly after Ensley was arrested while waiting for a car. He denied the robbery and said a third person had held up both him and Collins. Ensley's vest was covered with blood, so the officers say, and they found several hundred dollars on his person. Ensley registered at the Southern hotel as from Memphis.

Martin Ensley's father was Colonel Enoch Ensley, a man of more than national fame and regarded until his death three or four years ago as the richest man in the south.

An Intimate Friend of Carnegie.

Colonel Ensley was a leading spirit in the development of the mineral resources of the south. He was largely interested in the Tennessee Coal and Iron company, established works at Bessemer, Ala., helped make Sheffield, Ala., a great mining place, founded several towns, one of which bears his name; owned several big cotton plantations and was an intimate friend of Andrew Carnegie.

He had two children, Martin, who is almost 32, and Lady, a year or two younger. For the latter he named the Lady Ensley mine, one of the largest in Alabama.

Martin occupied a high position in the social circles of Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham and other southern cities during his father's life. He was married to Betty E. Selden, daughter of a wealthy Memphis man and regarded as the handsomest woman in the state. When Colonel Ensley died, it developed that his estate was encumbered so heavily that it was doubtful if anything would be saved.

About two years ago southern society was startled by the announcement that Martin Ensley's wife was suing him for divorce on the ground of nonsupport. Since the divorce Martin has divided his time between Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham and other cities where his father had interests.

Bicyclist Attacked by Soldiers.

Cheyenne, Wy., June 17.—Charles S. Erswell, a telegraph operator, while riding home on his bicycle, was attacked by a party of 10 or 12 soldiers from Fort Russell. After he had been knocked from his wheel Erswell shot one of the soldiers. He then managed to get inside his home, which the soldiers immediately bombarded with rocks and pieces of timber. They broke windows and forced in the kitchen door. As they rushed into the house Erswell shot a second time, dropping another of the soldiers. The city police arrived at this time, and the soldiers retreated. Both the wounded men belong to company G. One of them is seriously wounded. Erswell was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Steamer Damaged In Collision.

St. Johns, N. F., June 17.—The British steamer Torr Head, from Montreal June 10 for Belfast, laden with grain, has arrived at St. Pierre in a damaged condition, having struck on Miquelon island, near Point Platte, during a thick fog. The fact that she had six tanks of water ballast below the hold saved her from total destruction, as they were all pierced by jagged rocks. The main compartments, however, are making no water. The Torr Head has a crew of 48 men.

Sailors Win Their Strike.

Boston, June 17.—The seamen at this port who struck on Monday for $22 and $25 per month believe that they have gained their object. Six vessels engaged in the coastwise trade shipped crews for $25 per month. As nearly as the picket committees of the Seamen's union can judge, none of the ship owners and masters is endeavoring to hire sailors for lower wages than those now demanded by the strikers.

Carriage Company's Troubles.

Cincinnati, June 17.—Nicholas Curtis, vice president of the Anderson-Harris Carriage company, has petitioned the court for a receiver. The capital stock is $100,000. The petition says no dividends have been paid for seven years, and the company is in arrears for taxes. Other stockholders oppose the application for a receiver.

Mr James Booth can be found at 155 Ward street, Paterson, N. J., where our representative learned the following facts of his case, which are published here for the benefit of the public; his experience had been the same as that of many other citizens, and it is no wonder they have set people talking. Mr. Booth says: "I have been troubld from my back for about six years. Being a bookkeeper I am on my feet most of the time and it appears to me that this has much to do with my troubles. Besides the backache in the region of the kidneys there are many minor ailments. They have, however, all disappeared in this way: I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and having sufferered so long from my back I thought I would try them. I began taking them and found within two weeks that they were helping me greatly, I had suffered with headaches but they are very rare now, stooping over or any strain across the back would always hurt me; but since using Doan's Kidney Pills I can stand on my feet or take long walks without any inconvenience whatever. I also sleep well at nights now and feel good generally. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy and think it worthy of highest recommendation."

'Tis evidence like this that starts people talking about Doan's Kidney Pills. They cure, and grateful people are telling their neighbors about them. Merit will tell, and no medical compound can show so many proofs of merit as can be procured by proprietors of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Robert Wyckoff, of Arlington avenue, visited friends in New York, last evening.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Edwin Beekman, who has charge of the freight station at Plainfield avenue, has been suffering with an ulcerated sore throat.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A party of young people from Evona will attend the strawberry and ice cream festival to be held at Finderne Friday evening.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Gertrude Snodgrass, of Central avenue, is home from the Newark High School for a few days before graduation.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

CITY EMPLOYEES INJURED.

A Derrick Falls Upon Men Working In a Trench.

Boston, Mass., June 17.—Three city employees have been seriously injured by the falling of a derrick in the Roxbury district while engaged in laying water pipes. The names of the injured are: Timothy Donovan, 21 years, of South Boston; Patrick Hurley, 38, and Michael McDonough, 32, of Boston.

The derrick, a comparatively light affair, worked by hand, was set across a trench. A heavy 12 foot water main, weighing 2½ tons, was being lowered into the trench when one of the legs of the derrick slipped from its position, capsizing the whole affair.

Hurley was struck on the head by the derrick in its descent, and his skull was fractured. Donovan was thrown into the trench, striking on a water pipe below; McDonough was struck on the head by a leg of the derrick.

INDIANS AS WITNESSES.

They Appear In a Murder Case In Canandaigua, N. Y.

Canandaigua, N. Y., June 17.—When Judge Coxe of Utica took his seat in the United States circuit court here, the room was filled with dark, solemn faced Indians, who listened intently to the proceedings. One of their race was on trial for his life.

The prisoner is George F. Wilson, who is accused of killing George Greenblanket, another Indian, on Dec. 5, 1896. It is alleged that Wilson and Greenblanket quarreled on that evening while in the village of Irving. Late that night, it is alleged, Wilson overtook Greenblanket in the Cattaraugus reservation and stabbed him so badly that he died. About 20 Indian witnesses were examined and told what they knew of Wilson's connection with the killing of Greenblanket.

CUBANS WIN A BATTLE

A Force of Spaniards Led Into Ambush and Slain.

ANOTHER AMERICAN UNDER ARREST.

He Will Protest Against Trial by Court Martial—More Men and Arms Landed on the Island to Aid Insurgents.

Havana, via Key West, June 17.—A large force under General Quintin Bandera succeeded in destroying a body of Spanish near Sabana. General Bandera placed his men in ambush and then instructed five scouts to approach a fort where the Spaniards were barricaded.

The Spaniards sallied from the fort in pursuit of the scouts, who cunningly fell back, leading their pursuers into the heart of Bandera's ambush. A hot fight ensued, first with musketry, but finally hand to hand. All of General Bandera's men were negroes with machetes.

Ten of the insurgents were killed and the entire pursuing party of the Spaniards.

At Alguiza, a town of 3,000 souls, 178 died last month from hunger and destitution.

Joaquin Vargas, an American citizen, has been arrested at Remedios. He has retained Jose Pando as his counsel, and the latter will make a protest if the authorities proceed to try Vargas by court martial.

It is reported from Remedios that Pancho Carrillo has directed that the insurgent leader Fanteya, a mulatto, be court martialed and shot.

Cuban Dispatch Bearer Arrives.

New York, June 17.—On the Ward line steamship Seguranca, which has just arrived from Havana, was F. R. Winn of Sherman, Tex., who for some time has been with the insurgent forces at Pinar del Rio, Cuba. Mr. Winn crossed the trocha and reached Havana last Thursday. He eluded the Spanish officials and got on board the Seguranca. Mr. Winn is the bearer of important dispatches to the Cuban junta in this city. He is quite sanguine of the ultimate success of the Cuban cause and says that the Spaniards are disheartened and weary of the fight.

Reported Surrender of Nunez's Sisters.

Havana, June 17.—It is officially announced that General Fuentes has defeated a force of insurgents, killing 23 and capturing 5 men and 5 dynamite bombs. The Spanish lost 5 men killed and 1 officer and 17 soldiers wounded.

An official dispatch from Artemisa says that two sisters of the insurgent leader Federico Nunez surrendered there to the Spanish authorities.

Advices from official sources at Sagua la Grand, province of Santa Clara, announce that a detachment of Spanish guerrillas has raided several insurgent camps in Gustavo and Zayas, near Manacas.

The Vesuvius at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 17.—The dynamite cruiser Vesuvius has arrived in port. She was last reported at West Palm Beach.

Released From Quarantine.

New York, June 17.—The passengers of the steamer Advance, which arrived from Colon last Thursday night with cases of yellow fever on board, were released from observation at Hoffman island and transferred to the city, there being no further development among them. Dr. Pena, the ship's surgeon, who has been suffering from malarial fever, visited quanantine at the request of Dr. Doty. It has been a rule established by Dr. Doty to keep such cases of illness under observation when from vessels on which suspicious cases of disease have occurred. Dr. Pena is much better and expects to sail with the steamer on the 21st inst.

Clayton, N. Y., June 17.—The state fish commission has been here locating points and islands for the international park of the St. Lawrence river. The appropriation of $30,000 will be expended between Cape Vincent and the state line below Ogdensburg. Three days will be spent upon the river by the commissioners to complete their work. Points between Clayton and Cape Vincent have been visited, and places near Alexandria bay will also claim attention. Friday will be spent in the vicinity of Ogdensburg. The commissioners here are President Davis, H. S. Holden, Edward Thompson and W. B. Weed.

Funeral of Charlotte Wolter.

Vienna, June 17.—The funeral of Charlotte Wolter, the distinguished Austrian actress, took place yesterday afternoon, with interment at Hietzing cemetery. The remains were followed to the grave by Prince Lichtenstein, the court chamberlain; Dr. Lueger, burgomaster of Vienna; Baron Bersecny, director of the Court theater, and all the leading lights in Viennese literary and theatrical circles, with a vast concourse of the general public. Impressive addresses were delivered at the grave by Herr von Burckhard, director of the Burg theater, and Herr Sonnethal, the leading actor of the Court theater.

Berlin's Diamond Jubilee Dinner.

Berlin, June 17.—Many Americans, among them United States Consul General Charles de Kay and Mrs. de Kay, attended the diamond jubilee banquet given last evening by the British colony at the Kaiserhof. Sir Frank Lascelles, the British embassador, presided, and the hall was decorated with British, American and German flags and busts of Queen Victoria and Emperor William. There were the usual toasts and patriotic speeches, and a telegram of congratulation was sent to the queen.

Arson Trial Begun.

Reading, Pa., June 17.—Dr. Percy L. Archer of New York, his mother, Mrs. Samuel Snyder and his stepfather have been placed on trial here to answer the charge of burning the house and barn on the Snyder property at Frush Valley, this county. At the time of the arrests, several weeks ago, there was great excitement, owing to the prominence of the accused parties. It is alleged that the buildings were burned for the insurance.

DO OUR EYES DECEIVE US?

We do not suppose for the 'eenth part of a second that Editor Runyon will lose one of his 47,672,538 subscribers, or that his 603 columns of advertisements will be diminished, or that he will pay his typesetter more than $3 a week, or that he will stop butchering The Press in his dyspeptic editorials, or that he will come off his high horse and be an ordinary citizen of the community, or that he will see how emptily presumptious and egotistical he is in criticising The Press for mistakes which his sheet is rankly prevalent with, or that he will do any of the things that we might suggest that he could do to his credit, by what we are going to say. If we did suppose any of these things, the madhouse would probably claim us, since we know Editor Runyon so well. But here is a sentence, printed in Tuesday's News, that we wish to call attention to:

About forty wheelmen of both sexes were in the party.

Is Editor Runyon conscious, after this, that the News may not be quite such a model and perfection of English as he is wont to infer; or is he propagating a theory that may eclipse Darwin. An editorial on "men of both sexes" would be interesting.

WHAT IS WOMAN?

A novel phase of the woman question is interesting a section of California, bothering the Railroad Commissioners of that state, and bidding fair to worry the courts. The point involved is whether a woman is unqualifiedly a person, or belongs to one of the classes, determined by sex, of which persons are composed. It has arisen through the act of the railroad company, whose road connects San Francisce and San Rafael, in giving woman commuters a monthly $3 rate while requiring men commuters to pay $5. The reason for the discrimination is not specifically stated, albeit it is understood that the reason is the acknowledged inability of the woman to pay as the men, the railroad company proceeding upon the old plan of charging what the traffic would bear. But, whatever the reason, the ungallant men dispute the right of the company to make the discrimination, alleging that it is class distinction. The defence of the railroad company is the interesting one that women are a class, and that under the law which leaves it optional with a railway to discriminate in regard to "class of freight or persons" it has a right to differentiate in favor of women, if it chooses, as in the case of children.

VERY SEARCHING.

Some things which David B. Hill said at Niagara Falls on Friday were very searching. He said: "I have no confidence in financiers without finances, in farmers who do not own farms, in laborers who do not labor, in political women without husbands, or in political adventurers who seek power in time of adversity."—Brooklyn Eagle.

DANDY OF THE ORIENT.

Satin His Favorite for Robes and the Jade His Special Fancy in Sontes.

Chang Yen Huan is famous throughout the Chinese Empire as the Dandy of the Orient. Rich and radiant is the far East in color and magnificence of costume, but by the side of the most resplendent of his contemporaries Chang Yen Huan stands out like a peacock in a crowd of barnyard poultry.

Satin is his favorite material, and as far as possible he sticks to satin. But with regard to color there is no exclusiveness in his taste. He has satin robes in all the bright colors of the rainbow, and when he takes a walk in the grounds of his palace in Pekin the populace knows of the circumstance by the reflection of the sky.

And not only in his clothes is he resplendent. His diamonds are the envy and admiration of all the most famous burlesque actresses in China, and his collection of precious stones is the most valuable in the empire. He never wears the same gown twice in the same season, and for every fresh gown he wears a special set of jewels to match. But not his diamonds, nor his rubies, nor his emeralds, are his chiefest glory. Fortune, said the philosopher, is a jade. But Chang Yen Huan's jade is worth forty fortunes. Jade is of all highly prized stones, the one which is most highly prized in China. He has one necklace of the rarest and most beautiful green jade which is valued at over £5,000, and he never wears this except with a special costume which exactly matches in color. He has examples of jade carving which are upwards of 2,000 years old, and he has carved jades which show the progress of Chinese art from the dawn of history down to modern times.

Chang Yen's is a fine figure for the display of glowing costumes and glittering jewels, for he stands over 6 feet in height, is broad in proportion, and, notwithstanding his 57 years, carries himself as erect as a tower.—London Mail.

HER UNHAPPY INFIRMITY.

He Tried to be Sympathetic to the Lady, but She Would not Have It.

He was an angular man with gray ear whiskers. He gave up his seat in the crowded car with an alacrity that spoke well for the cheerfulness of his disposition. The lady who took the proferred seat was stout and haughty. She slipped into the vacant place without a word.

The angular man looked at her thoughtfully. Then he stooped over and said:

"I had an uncle, ma'am, that had just that same affliction."

"Sir!" said the stout lady with an insulted toss of her head.

"Yes," continued the angular man, "he couldn't pronounce any word beginning with 'th' to save his blessed neck. That's right. He'd stutter and stammer, an' the best he could do would be to give it the sound of 's.' It was a dreadful affliction. His oldest son's name was Theophilus, but he always called him 'Sophilus.' Had it long, ma'am?"

The stout lady was red from vexation.

"You are insulting," she snorted.

"Well, I don't wonder you hate to hear anybody refer to it," said the angular man with great cheerfulness. "But I couldn't help noticing it when you took my seat and wasn't able to say 'thank you.' I wouldn't have minded in the least if you'd said 'sank you'—oh, do you get off here? Good day, ma'am—never mind the thanks."

And the stout lady flounced down the street to take the next car.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Westfield has two very efficient gatemen in charge of its railroad crossings. Pierce McCormick has had charge of the Central avenue crossing over twelve years, and W. M. Stamets has been at the Broad street crossing 14 years. Each of these men carries a watch presented by the citizens in recognition of faithful service. Plainfield's Busiest Store.

It is Well to Remember

That the production of merchandise far outstrips its consumption. This will go far towards explaining the apparent modesty of prices on many seasonable goods. Hardly a day passes but what we have shown to us some special things that the manufacturer is overstocked—he needs money and the goods are offered to us in many cases at less than the cost of production. It's a wise loss for the maker, a good purchase for us, and a big bargain benefit for you.

A SOCIETY GIRL WHO POSES.

How Miss Bradley of Washington Became a Professional Model.

Miss Kate Mickles Bradley, daughter of the late Col. George W. Bradley, U. S. A., has become a professional model, and her adoption of this rather unusual vocation has come about in a most natural way, and makes a pretty story.

A few months ago Miss Bradley and her mother returned to their home after eight years' absence in the West. At the time of her departure Miss Bradley was an almost helpless invalid, but during her sojourn West she seemed to have been touched by a fairy's wand and transformed into a perfection of physical vigor and grace.

Miss Bradley moves in Washington's most exclusive army and social circles, and her unique and beautiful "song pantomines," in which she illustrated melodies by means of gestures, have been the feature of many entertainments given by the smart set during the season just closed.

While giving these prose poems she wore an aesthetic gown with Greek effects, the bodice low and the arms bare, and her dark hair caught in a classic knot at the back of her shapely head.

Mr. Lucien Powell, the artist, was present on one of these occasions, when he was so impressed with the beauty of her work that he gave her a letter of introduction to Mr. Jerome Uhl, and another to Mr. Richard Brooke. Mr. Brooke, in turn, sent her with a letter to the Art League, where she was immediately accepted, and began her experience as a model by posing for the head and shoulders before the portrait class of the league. She then posed for Mr. Uhl's painting, "A Morning Call," which was intended for the Cosmos exhibition, but was reported by the jury on selection as being too large.

The Bradley home is exquisitely artistic in its appointments, and numbers among its attractions a small but complete conservatory, Mrs. Bradley being as devoted to her flowers as her gifted young daughter is to her art.—Washington Times.

SHE GETS PHOTOGRAPHS.

A New Vocation which a Woman Pursues on the Fringe of Society.

The craze for illustration in the weeklies and monthlies and recreation and fashion journals of the day has created a new occupation, that of the photograph getter. The photograph getter accumulates a collection of rare likenesses and rents them out at so much a head, to be used for illustrating articles. People who are known to be approachable are not worth so much in the field as those who are suspected of objecting to notoriety. The pictures of conspicuous society women who are frequently heard to declare that they would not give their photographs to anybody for publication are rated at $5, or perhaps as high as $7. Those of women whose features have appeared once or twice in proximity to type bring only $2.50, but all have a value. Only pictures of professionals are valueless to the photograph getter. They are a drug in the market, no matter how fair of form and feature or how unique or artistic. The fact that the subjects go to the photographer on business and not for diversion spoils the pictures for the photograph getter.

The photograph getter, whether gently born or not, old or young, fair or homely, must be a diplomatist of no mean pretensions in order to succeed at her task. It is also essential that she should be if not actually in the swim at least so close on the verge thereof that the little eddying currents reach her and she obtains more than a superficial idea of what is going on in mid-stream.—New York Sun.

BASE INGRATITUDE.

The Redbirds Assaulted the Saver of their Nest.

I got into a row with a pair of cardinals one morning, says Maurice Thompson, in the Atlantic Monthly, the whole proceeding on their part showing shameless ingratitude. Hearing some bluejays making a great noise in a wild plum thicket not far from the tent, I took up my bow and went to see what was the matter for such a hubbub. A mob of jays had surrounded a little hawk, which I soon discovered in the middle of a plum tree, where he sat quite still, evidently afraid. He saw me, however, and made a dash to break the line of his enemies; but he could not go far, they worried him so. I ran forward under cover of some low foliage, presently reaching a point from which I could shoot at short range, and brought him down. Now the jays turned tail and flew away. But it had chanced that I shot from very close beside a cardinal's nest; indeed, my right elbow jostled it at the recoil of the bow. Then came trouble. Both redbirds assaulted me, pouncing at me with vicious beak-snappings, almost striking me in the face. They seemed not to account it anything that I had slain the marauder who would have made a meal upon one of them or their tender nestlings. Such is avian gratitude.

Fairy Tales.

A chamber where camphor is manufactured is a veritable fairy palace of pure white crystals. Fac-similes of palms, ferns and masses of tropical vegetation droop in graceful festoons from the roof and cover the walls.

Dandelion Leaves.

Some one who has tried it says that if two or three dandelion leaves be chewed before going to bed they will induce sleep, no matter how nervous or worried one may be.

Respectfully yours,

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

CONVICT KILLED.

Caught In the Shafting and Whirled to Death at Elmira Reformatory.

Elmira, N. Y., June 17.—A fatal accident has occurred at the Elmira reformatory by which convict No. 7,301, Aaron J. Van Name, lost his life. Van Name was received from Brooklyn and had been an inmate of the institution about one year. He was employed in the brass repair shop, which contains a number of lathes and other machinery.

It became necessary to adjust a belt on a revolving shaft, and Van Name secured a ladder and climbed up to adjust it. While he was at work he in some manner was caught in the belt and whirled rapidly about the shaft. He was then thrown violently to the floor, and, although assistance was rendered as soon as possible, his death occurred in about ten minutes.

Van Name's arm was torn from the socket, and he was otherwise bruised and mutilated. His remains were taken to the hospital. The coroner was notified of the accident and will investigate. The young man was about 20 years of age, and his parents, who reside in Brooklyn, have been notified. Van Name was in the first grade.

Cited as a Poor Debtor.

Boston, June 17.—Hon. Isaac B. Allen of the governor's council has been cited to appear in the poor debtor's court. The notice requests him to appear next Wednesday and show cause why he should not take the poor debtor's oath or pay a bill of $48 against him. The debt is one of old standing. On May 20, 1891, Allen borrowed $23.50 on his joint note with Florence R. Allen on household furniture at 26 Westminster street. The money was loaned to him at an interest of $2 a month by Louis Meyer, a money lender, who claims that Allen still owes $15 on the note in addition to interest.

A Hyena Escapes.

Chicago, June 17.—Prowling about Graceland cemetery, Jim, the big hyena which escaped from Lincoln park by gnawing a hole through the door of his cage, ravaged a number of graves in the burying ground, where, with unerring instinct, he had made his way immediately after his escape and made night hideous with his howls. When the police were asked to assist, they refused flatly, saying they had no particular objection to being shot at by burglars, but had an unconquerable prejudice against being chewed by a hyena. Jim has not yet been captured.

To Be Sentenced For Wife Murder.

Baltimore, June 17.—Peter Monahan, aged 61, charged with the murder of his wife Bridget with an ax on May 25 last, was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The crime of which Monahan stands convicted was most brutal and unprovoked. The evidence showed that he drank to excess and had frequently threatened his wife's life. On the morning of the crime he approached his wife with a request for money and upon being refused went to the yard, where he procured an ax, and returning literally chopped her head to pieces.

Death From Assault.

Saratoga, June 17.—On June 1 Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Wilson, an aged couple, were found unconscious in their home at Wilton, a few miles from this place. They were in a terrible condition from their injuries and were brought in an unconscious condition to the hospital at Saratoga. The old man died yesterday, and his wife is still in a critical condition. They had been murderously assaulted, and every effort to find their assailants was made, but without success. The assault still continues to be a mystery.

Receiver For Bicycle Manufacturers.

Trenton, June 17.—Vice Chancellor Emery has appointed J. T. Rossell temporary receiver for the A. A. Zimmerman Manufacturing company of Freehold, N. J., a bicycle manufacturing concern organized two or three years ago with Champion Arthur A. Zimmerman as the principal stockholder. The liabilities of the concern are placed at $17,000. The assets are made up of real estate valued at $3,000, and machinery and stock of an uncertain value, according to the bill of the complainants.

The Dolphin Arrives at Boston.

Boston, June 17.—The United States dispatch boat Dolphin, from New York, with Secretary of the Navy Hon. John D. Long and Mrs. Long on board, came to an anchorage in Nantasket roads. A steam launch was lowered, and the secretary and his wife were landed at Pemberton, where they took the train for their home in Hingham. The Dolphin will probably remain in the roads and will be joined by Secretary Long, when she will proceed to the navy yard.

Fighting Grasshoppers.

Redfield, S. D., June 17.—State Irrigation Commissioner Cochrane has just returned from Edmunds county, where he has been directing measures to destroy grasshoppers which have alarmed settlers there and in Brown county. Professor Saunders of the State Agricultural college is on the ground superintending the work. Fourteen hopper dosers are in use. Crude petroleum is shipped in by the railways free and used in the work.

Randall Was Murdered.

Taunton, Mass., June 17.—Medical Examiner Presbrey has filed his report of the autopsy performed upon the body of William M. Randall of South Easton, which was found in the woods of that place last Sunday, and in connection with which Henry Willis is in jail here under charge of murder. The report finds that death was due to the shock following injuries to the face and head inflicted by persons or person unknown.

Telegraph Men Meet.

Niagara Falls, June 17.—The Association of Railway Telegraph Superintendents are here for a two days' session. About 30 of the 100 members were present at the opening meeting. Among the technical subjects discussed were "How Best to Deliver Commercial Messages at Railway Stations" and "The General Methods of Telegraphic Distribution."

Circus Manager Dead.

Chicago, June 17.—M. F. Young, general manager of the Barnum-Bailey show, died at the Auditorium of typhoid fever. He was 48 years of age and for seven years had been treasurer of the big show and was a close friend of Mr. Bailey.

HAWAIIAN TREATY.

Signed by the Negotiators and Sent to the Senate.

WILL BE A PART OF UNITED STATES.

The President's Message Accompanying the Document—Provision Made For Five Commissioners, Who Are to Formulate Laws For the Island.

Washington, June 17.—As foreshadowed in these dispatches, the Hawaiian treaty has been signed and sent to the senate for its approval.

The senate at once went into executive session, and as soon as the doors were closed the message of President McKinley accompanying the treaty and the treaty itself were read to the senate. They were listened to attentively.

In one part of the chamber there was a group of senators who will bitterly oppose the ratification of the treaty. Among them were Senators Gray, Mills, Pasco, White, Caffery, Pettigrew and McEnery. As soon as the reading of the documents was completed Senator Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, moved that the message and treaty be made public. Senator Gray objected to a vote on the motion, and under the rules a single objection carried the motion over.

Senator Davis gave notice that at the next executive session he would press the motion for publication, as all the essential facts and an almost verbatim copy of the treaty had been published in the press of the country.

There was some discussion as to when the treaty might be considered, and Senator White asked if it was the intention to push it at this session, and upon the reply being made that it was possible the California senator said:

"I desire to announce that I am prepared to stay here all summer to prevent the ratification of the treaty, which I consider a very bad proposition."

The President's Message.

The message of the president was not a very long document. It dealt with historic facts concerning the islands and showed that the United States and Hawaii yearly grew more closely bound to each other. This was not really annexation, he said, but a continuation of existing relations with closer bonds between the people closely related by blood and kindred ties.

Since 1820, said the president, the predominance of the United States had been known. The sending of the first envoy there brought the islands in closer relations with the United States, and those relations had grown more firm by succeeding events.

At the same time the tripartite agreement was made for the government of Samoa, he said, Great Britain and Germany wanted to include Hawaii in the group over which a protectorate was established, but the suggestion was rejected by the United States because this government held that there already existed relations between Hawaii and the United States which placed the islands under the especial care of this country and that this government could not allow any other country to interfere in the affairs of Hawaii.

The annexation of the islands, said the president, and making them a part of the United States was in accordance with the established policy of this country.

The president called attention to the fact that a legitimate and existing government of Hawaii offered to annex the islands to the United States in 1851, but on account of what was deemed best policy the annexation was not accepted by this country. He stated that the United States virtually exercised a protectorate over the islands since the first American mission and guaranteed the autonomy of the governments of the group. The islands had been largely settled by our own people, and our people were now interested in them. American interests predominated, and we had grown to consider them under our protection. The present treaty was in the light of a consummation of what had practically been in existence for years.

Referring to the treaty negotiated under the Harrison administration, President McKinley said that the failure to accept the proffer of annexation in 1893, while not a subject of congratulation, was not wholly without its value, as it had demonstrated the existing government could maintain itself, and no question could be raised of the authority of the present government to negotiate the present treaty or of its right to yield the sovereignty of the islands.

The five commissioners provided for in the treaty are expected to make recommendations to congress as to new laws and also as regards the form of government. The present form of local government is to continue in the islands for the present, except that the president of the United States is to have immediate veto power over the acts of the Hawaiian legislative assembly.

Senate Work on the Tariff.

Washington, June 17.—The senate made rapid work on the tariff bill. There were no long speeches, and the debate was of a snappy character, which at times enlivened but did not delay the serious work on the bill. Thirteen pages were disposed of, carrying the senate through the agricultural schedule and up to schedule H, relating to spirits, wines, etc.

During the day the paragraphs on dairy products, farm products, fish, fruit and nuts, meat products and miscellaneous agricultural products were acted on. The finance committee proposed many changes, in the main advancing rates somewhat over those heretofore reported.

The committee was sustained on every vote, although a contest was made on almost every paragraph. Mr. Vest's motion to restore salt to the free list was rejected—yeas, 24; nays, 31. The important paragraph proposing a tax on tea went over at the suggestion of Mr. Allison, who expressed hope that this duty on tea might be dispensed with.

A Schooner Beached.

Boston, June 17.—The schooner Jeannie T. Phillips, which struck on Harding's ledge Sunday morning, has been beached on Long Island. One of her sides is completely gone, and the vessel is not worth repairing. Wreckers have stripped the vessel of all her running rigging, blocks, etc.

Councilman and Mrs. J. C. Peck, of Myrtle avenue, have purchased new Spalding wheels.

Mrs. J. C. Peck, of Myrtle avenue, has conquered the mysteries of the wheel riding and is fast gaining confidence in the art.

John Sutphen, of West Second street, has seen many wheels but the Keating had the most attractions for him and he is now riding a new one, purchased of the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company.

The Young Men's Association of the Monroe Avenue church enjoyed a bicycle run to Westfield and return, on Monday evening. About 25 young men and women were in the party. The night was a perfect one for wheeling and the event was successful from start to finish. When the party returned to this city they went to Tier's Lake House and were there treated to ice cream by Walter McGee.

"TOMBSTONE BROWN'S ORGAN."

Lacking an Imposing-Stone, a Neighboring Graveyard Supplied the Want.

One of the most fin de siecle products of far western "wild and woolly-ism" is "Tombstone Brown." Brown had been alternately hobo or tramp printer, according as climate and opportunity dictated, but he finally drifted to California and anchored in Mendocino and Lake counties, where he began to take notice in matters social and political. Brown managed to scrape together a little money, and one day he came over the "grade" from San Francisco with a brand new second-hand organ, on which were loaded a Franklin press, a few fonts of type, ink, rollers and bundles of paper. Brown gave it out cold that he was going to start a paper, but said that the whole of society was so blank rotten that he wouldn't mingle with it. He drove on through town and off down into the bottom of a picturesque canyon, where he staked out his horses and began writing the first issue of his paper. He was the whole staff in himself.

When it came to setting the matter up in type, Brown discovered that he hadn't bought any imposing-stone, and with something of old Ben Franklin's "savoir faire," the editor made a quiet sneak into a graveyard, and selecting a not overprosperous gravestone, he carried it off to the perambulating printing office. The stone episode got out on him, and thence his name of "Tombstone Brown," but Brown was not in the least worried, and, turning the title to account, named his journal "Tombstone Brown's Organ," and he soon made the county howl. "Brown's Organ" had a front seat in every issue that showed above the grass, and when one canyon got too warm he would hitch up and print the next issue a "little farther on." The title of the paper, drawn and engraved by Brown himself, showed a gigantic tombstone crushing to earth the emblems of opposition. The paper soon had a great vogue, but "Tombstone" could not stand success, and when last seen was moving north with a row of citizens marching up the grade behind him.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

would be, within reasonable bounds, for the official acts of its agents and employes. Let us consider what these acts have been regarding this question. We find first that the city maintained in office a tax collector and that the tax records were kept in his office, that people about to purchase property within the city were in the habit of visiting this office and inquiring of the collector as to the amount of taxes due and unpaid on any certain piece of property. Every lawyer in Plainfield can testify as to the action of the collector in such cases; it was his custom to look over the books as far back as 1881 and no further and if he found no taxes unpaid during those years his reply was that the property was free and clear of taxes (not that it was free and clear back in 1881). In the case of the property in which I am interested this report was made three different times. Instance after instance can be recited of this kind showing that the people have taken advantage of every facility afforded by the city for ascertaining the facts of the case. Nor is it to be wondered at that the collector disliked to search through these old books; they are in a most dilapidated and untidy condition and a positive disgrace to the art of book-keeping. Many books are missing entirely, those that the city still have in their possession consist of what are called tax duplicates; two for each year, one containing the list of city taxes and the other the state and county tax, which in those years were collected separated from city taxes; the names are placed in alphabetical order with the amounts opposite and when payment was made the collector was supposed to make proper entry in a blank space at the extreme right-hand side of the book. This space is removed as far as possible from the name, and it would be very easy to make a mistake and place the entry on the wrong line. This last column is a regular patch work, some lines marked "Paid" with the date of payment, others are marked "Paid" without any date, others "Paid" with a cross mark, others are simply marked "Pd.," while still others have marks evidently intended to mean paid but in reality merely a scrawl or scratch. Some are in ink, some in red pencil, some in black pencil and various hand-writings are to be found on the same page. No book of any kind in which daily receipts were entered is to be found. Some record of such receipts must have been kept but the city does not possess them. No list of delinquents was made at the end of the year, or if made it cannot now be found, and if delinquent taxes for any particular year were paid in subsequent years the collector was supposed to hunt through the old records, and insert the mystic symbols "Pd." in the proper place, and if through rush of temporary work or oversight he failed to do so then the payment was all in vain and the unfortunate is handed down to posterity as declining or unable to pay his just debts and after the lapse of a quarter of a century (during which time most receipts have been destroyed) his heirs, etc., are asked to pay up or prove payment, and if they "prove to the satisfaction of the committee that the taxes have been paid," as some have so proved, they are calmly informed that upon payment of a further sum of one dollar the city will correct its error and insert those joy inspiring letters pd. in the proper location. Cheap enough, surely, two little letters, only fifty cents each, and yet most people are willing to apologize when they find they have been trying to collect a claim which has been duly paid. No individual would attempt to go into court with such an outfit to prove a claim, and yet with such miserable, unreliable and incomplete records the City of Plainfield propose to force its respected and law abiding citizens to pay dead men's debts, and all this at a time when the business interests of the country are struggling to recover from an unprecedented depression, and while real estate owners are suffering unusual loss by reason of reduced rents and no rents at all, and increased expenses in general taxes, sewer taxes, assessments to open streets, etc.

I do not believe it possible that the laws of our State can be so construed as to permit success in these efforts, nor do I believe that anyone else in their calm judgment expects any such result, but the mere fact that such an attempt should have been made is enough to make one blush for our fair city. Let us congratulate ourselves that this step has met with the condemnation of a large majority of our citizens. I have heard directly and indirectly from hundreds, among them many of our prominent men, including our most prominent citizen, ex-Mayor Alexander Gilbert, and without exception they all pronounce it an inequitable and unjustifiable act so far as it applies to taxes prior to 1881.

They have told us that the Martin Act has been tested in the highest courts and confirmed and will be enforced regardless of all opposition. This may be and possibly is true regarding the act applied under different circumstances, but as to its application in the present instance I would simply quote the following decision from the experience of the city of Camden with the Martin act:

Garrison J. Upon exceptions taken to the report of the commissioners appointed under the act of March 30th, 1886, the following state of facts is presented: The report of the commissioners revives as against certain real estate the taxes of the years 1876 to 1884, both inclusive. During these years the lands belonged to sundry heirs in common and the taxes annually imposed were suffered to go unpaid. In 1884 the city caused the lands to be put up and sold under the provisions of the city charter and itself took a declaration of sale for a term of years. Subsequently one of the tenants in common by releases from the others became seized in severalty of the land and now resists the revival of these taxes upon two grounds:

1st. That all taxes back of 1883 are outlawed under the provisions of the charter of the city of Camden, which makes taxes a lien for five years.

2d. That the city of Camden cannot collect these taxes because of its purchase at the tax sale.

The effect, however, of the sale and of the declaration of sale is not to be vest title in the city and thereby to satisfy its claim for taxes, but on the contrary, its effect is to continue and prevent the lapsing of the lien of all taxes the period of whose lien had not expired at the time of the tax sale. (In re commissioners of Elizabeth, 20 Vr. 488). The report is correct in so far as it revives unpaid taxes whose lien had not expired at the date of the tax sale. The commissioners are advised to ascertain what taxes were subsisting liens at the time of the tax sale and include only such in their report, remitting all whose lien had at that time expired.

In our case the city never had a lien of any kind, either perfect or imperfect.

Over 500 bills are still in the hands of Collector Bird and it will be months before we will know just who are affected; anyone who owns real estate within the city limits or who has owned and sold within the past sixteen years may be called upon to step up and settle either with the collector or with those to whom they have given their warranty deed.

Is it any wonder that under such circumstances property owners are talking of forming a Taxpayers' Association for the protection of their interests? Fred C. Lounsbury.

The Cigar Mouthpiece.

A rich Russian banker had been discovered murdered in his house in St. Petersburg, says a writer in The Green Bag. There was no clue, but in the room there was found a cigar mouthpiece containing part of a cigar of such an expensive kind that it was supposed the banker himself had been smoking it just before the crime had been committed. On close examination the mouthpiece was found to be worn away by the teeth of its owner, but the dead man's teeth did not fit the indentation. The servants were one by one examined, and it was then found that the hollows of the mouthpiece compared exactly to the formation of the front teeth of the cook, to whom no suspicion had been attached. He afterward confessed to the murder.

A Large Inkpot.

The largest inkpot I ever knew (writes a correspondent to Scraps) was used by one of the innumerable minor poets of Scotland. It exactly held thirty gallons—surely enough to write miles of poetry with. This particular poet used to be employed in a large drysaltery warehouse, where one of his many duties was to superintend the making of ink. It had to be kept boiling all the night; so the poet mended the fire, stirring the seething liquid, composed immortal verse to charm and delight mankind, and wrote the same on sugar paper with hot ink from a thirty-gallon pot.—Harper's Round Table.

FOUNDATION FOR SUCCESS ACQUIRED BY STUDIOUS YOUNG MEN.

End of the Year's Studies at Leal's School—Ten Pupils Finished Their Courses and Will go to College or Business Places.

A pleasing variation from the ordinary run of school and college commencements were the closing exercises of Prof. John Leal's School, held in the Y. M. C. A. hall, last evening. The exercises opened with a violin solo by Miss Nellie Udell, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Charles L. Lewis.

Mr. Leal next introduced his old and valued friend, George Richmond, of New York, as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Richmond is a scientist of note and a very learned man. While more of an author than a speaker, his address of last evening showed him perfectly capable of filling the latter role. In his address he characterized the school days as the foundation of the life of a young man and spoke of the necessity of building a broad foundation which would support any structure that might be placed upon it. The young man, he said, never knew what he would build in the future.

A complete education, he said, includes science and letters. No one is compelled to choose between the two, for short as life is there is time to treat of both. Nobody pretends that the study is merely for the learning acquired but it seems best that what is studied should be practical. What is wanted is not only the facts but the ability to handle and utilize these facts.

After Miss Udell played again, Mr. Leal made a short speech to the boys and then announced that ten young men had completed their work with him. Of these Messrs. Boone, Curren and Dumont will enter business careers at once and the others, Messrs. Anderson, Dwight, Honeyman, Miller, Peck, Rittenhouse and Stevenson, will enter college.

The honorable mentions in the different classes were then announced: English composition, senior class, Dwight and Miller, junior class, Harman and Hall, third class, Richards and Terriberry; rhetoric, Glenny and Thomas; beginning Greek, Richards and White; beginning Latin, Terriberry; history, Crowe and Reinhart; first year work, Talmage and Schwed; ancient history, Glenny, Wadsworth and O. Waring; German, Glenny, Miller and Terriberry, French, Hall and Honeyman; arithmetic, Crowe and H. Roome; algebra, O. Waring, Richards and Leal; geometry, O. Waring and Glenny; Cæsar, Fleming. Special prize for improvement in penmanship, Terriberry.

The hall was prettily decorated with American flags and maroon and old gold bunting, the colors of the school The decorating committee consisted of E. Maxwell Honeyman, chairman; J. P. Welles Taylor, Walter Glenny, Willard Wadsworth, Owen Fleming and Henry Leal. The ushers were: E. Maxwell Honeyman, J. P. Welles Taylor and Aubrey Crowe.

CONFIRMED BY THE BISHOP.

Impressive Services at St. Joseph's Church Last Night.

St. Joseph's church was crowded to its very doors last evening when a class of fifty boys and girls was confirmed by Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, assisted by Rev. Father McCloskey, Chancellor of the Diocese, Rev. Father Shandle, of Stony Hill, Rev. Father Carey, of Carteret, Rev. Father Eagan, of New Brunswick, and Rev. Father Miller, pastor of the church.

The members of the class marched into the church at the proper hour. The boys were attired in black and the girls in white. The sight was an impressive one. The Bishop preached a short confirmation sermon previous to the administering of the sacramehts, and while the latter were being performed, there was a vocal trio by the choir and a vocal solo by Miss Betts. Mrs. LaPorte presided at the organ.

The altar of the church looked pretty and attractive. It was completely covered with roses, while the lighted candles added to the beautiful scene.

Hop at The Hunterston.

The second hop of the season will be held at the Hunterston Hotel tomorrow evening, and hereafter there will be a hop every Saturday evening through the season. There will be no invitations issued, as it is customary for those having received invitations to the first hop to understand that this covers all the hops through the season.

—The building of stone columns at the gateways and corners of J. F. Parker's grounds on Grove street, adds another beauty to the handsome place.

TONGUES WAG GOSSIP.

A PRETTY GIRL BOUND OVER TO KEEP THE PEACE.

She Applauded Her Brother's Action in Escaping a Constable and, it is Said, Made Other Aggravating Remarks.

Two young women and a young man have combined to stir South Plainfield to its very depths. The trouble arose between the young man and one of the young women. Names were called and a warrant for slander followed. Then the young man waved a farewell to the constable from the rear end of a Lehigh Valley train and his sister gloried in his departure. Her arrest followed and now she has been bound over to keep the peace and the tongues of the South Plainfield gossips find plenty to wag about.

Patrick Heenan lives, or did live until last Monday, in the little hamlet of South Plainfield. He was in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company and was well-known in town. Now, Heeenan is a good-looking fellow and his sister, Miss Julia Heenan, is one of the belles of the town. In a contest for the prettiest girl in the place, about a month ago, she distanced all her rivals and received the prize. So it was that other girls were jealous.

Heenan was proud of his sister and was not afraid to say so. Perhaps that was the real cause of all the trouble. At any rate, Heenan met Mrs. Anna Tracy, the widowed daughter of Mrs. Fitzgerald, who keeps the Fitzgerald Hotel, South Plainfield, in front of the hotel, last Sunday afternoon. They talked and talked and Heenan grew strong in his language. Mrs. Tracy say that he insulted her and abused her with his tongue until she could stand it no longer. Therefore, she hurried into the house, had the horse harnessed up and drove away to Metuchen to find Justice Wood.

Mrs. Tracy told her story and the Justice issued a warrant for the South Plainfield young man. Monday morning, bright and early, Constable Geding drove over to South Plainfield with his old sorrel mare to serve the warrant.

It was not according to precedent that the defendent in the case should skip, so the constable stopped to chat with a friend or two before serving the warrant. Meanwhile, Heenan heard that the constable had arrived and was preparing to take him back to jail.

"Not on your life," was the characteristic remark of Heenan as he gathered a few necessary articles in his grip and hurried for the station. So it was that when the constable looked for Heenan, he saw him disappearing in the distance on a Lehigh Valley Railroad train. It is said that his destination was Atlantic City. The constable was wroth, but Miss Julia Heenan laughed at the disgrunted officer of the law.

Tuesday, Miss Heenan strolled past Mrs. Tracy's home and said that she thought her brother was in the right. She also laid the blame for the trouble on Mrs. Tracy, so the latter says. She passed by the house several times that day, Mrs. Tracy says, and continued to make remarks of the same character.

Mrs. Tracy didn't like it and she again tried Justice Wood. Yesterday, Miss Julia Heenan was summoned to appear before Justice Wood in Metuchen. The Justice makes his office in the sanctum of the Metuchen Recorder. The crowd was even worse than on pay day and Constable Geding was called to give the court breathing room. The Judge bound the young woman over to keep the peace and she was allowed to go. What will be the next act in this little drama remains to be seen.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

Justice Newcorn issued a batch of summons yesterday in suits started by former Judge W. A. Coddington as assignee in winding up the affairs of J. P. Laire. The defendants in the cases were Reed, Lyman, Hann, Scribner, Stevens, King, Adams, Kelly, Drake, Hargan, McCarty, Timpson, Hand, Stevens, Adams, Lord, Martine, Pike, Lister, and Bowden. All are contract cases returnable on the 24th. Summons were also issued in the cases of Linke against Freeman, on contract, returnable on the 23d, and McCarty against Dorgan, landlord and tenant, returnable on the 21st. The contract cases of the Plainfield Beef Company against Coffey and Westphal at als against Hall was tried and in each case judgment rendered in full for the plaintiff.

Appointed a Delegate.

Miss Elma Thayer, who will visit California this summer, has been appointed by Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., a delegate to the International Christian Endeavor Convention which will be held in San Francisco early in July.

FESTIVAL OF THE ROSES

BEAUTIFUL AND SEASONABLE AFFAIR ARRANGED BY WOMEN.

Sunday-school Room in First Presbyterian Church Transformed Into a Bower of Floral Beauty and Womanly Grace.

The Sunday school room of the First Presbyterian church presented a truly beautiful sight last evening when the Woman's Auxiliary of the church gave a "Rose Festival" for the benefit of the church. The room was gorgeously decked with roses of every known variety. In the centre of the room was the chief attraction in a flower booth made of lawn tennis nets with a thatched roof of straw and completely covered with a profusion of roses. The flowers were on sale and many buyers were found to relieve the booth of its beauty.

Another very attractive affair was the lemonade booth. The receptacle holding the favorite beverage was covered with daisies, while an arch was formed overhead with roses and on the top poised a white dove. Miss Kittie Glen, Miss Nora Williams, Miss Margaret Cave and Miss E. A. Haven were in charge of the flower booth and the arrangement of it, a novel one, was the work of their hands. This was the case of the lemonade booth which was in charge of Miss Mary Luckey and Miss Lillian Glen.

There was a mystery table where a number of sealed packages were on sale and the purchaser knew not their contents until he paid his money and opened the package. At this table were Mrs. Hand, Miss Mabelle Force, Miss Charlotte Messersmith and Miss Luella Mills. The fancy table, loaded with lots of useful and pretty articles, was in charge of the Misses Abbott and Miss Maag, while Mrs John Messersmith and Miss Van Winkle looked after the cake table. At the candy table where all of the "Sweets" were to be found there was always a good crowd. Miss Petrie, Miss Blair, Mrs. Gates, Miss Remsen and Miss Helen Boice were in charge. Hidden away in a back room were J. A. Haynes and Howard Pope serving ice cream to the waitresses. They were kept busy all the evening. At the door was stationed Augustus Searing. Those who served as waitresses were the Misses Mabel Pruden, Evelyn Searing, Lillian Remsen, Julia Williams, Ethel Laing, Grace McKee, Louise Wilbur, Grace Overton, Nellie Vandeventer, Olive Newell, Jessie Pruden, Kittie Nevius, Fanny Mills, Bertha Wilcox, Mildred Ulrich, Beatrice Miner, Ada Dunham and Clara Van Fleet.

The whole affair was arranged by Mrs. W. L. Kemsen, president of the Auxiliary, and she was assisted by Mrs. J. A. Haynes. The decorations were entirely under the supervision of Miss Pansy Jeane Herring, and much praise is due all who succeeded in giving everybody such a pleasant time.

A programme consisting of instrumental solos by Miss Maude Van Dyke and Miss Mabelle Force and an instrumental duet by Miss Remsen and Mrs. Gates was rendered during the evening.

"MOUSE TRAP" FUNNY.

WOMAN'S TIMIDITY EXHIBITED BY CLEVER YOUNG PEOPLE.

A Happy Diversion From the Customary Sociable at the First M. E. Church—The Humorous Story of the Farce Given.

A happy diversion from the customary social was the entertainment given in Vincent chapel last evening under the auspices of the Epworth League for the benefit of the library fund of the Sunday-school. The programme opened with a recitation by Miss Rita Pond, who pleased her audience with her good work. An alto solo by Miss Charlotte Messerschmith, accompanied by Miss Etta Raybert, followed. The next number was a recitation by Miss Lucy Palmer Davis, given in an excellent manner. The last selection in part first was a vocal selection by Miss Eva Jenkins, Miss Lucy Palmer Davis, Thomas McDonald and Robert Davis, with Frank McDonald as accompanist.

The feature of the evening was the production of W. Dean Howells' one-act farce, entitled "Mouse Trap," which was arranged and given under the direction of Miss Etta Raybert. Those who are familiar with the piece need not be told that it is a most capital story and furnishes any amount of fun. The play opens with a drawing room scene in which Miss Raybert as "Mrs. Amy Somers," and Ray T. Snodgrass as "Willis Campbell," are busily engaged discussing a newspaper story written by the latter in which woman is pictured as being cowardly and much afraid of everything in general. The discussion becomes exceedingly animated. Mrs. Somers is thoroughly disgusted with the idea that her sex are afraid and inclined to be cowardly, while Mr. Campbell still maintains that the fair sex are very timid. Suddenly the latter, for effect, pretends that a mouse has entered the room, and just as quickly Mrs. Somers gives an unearthly scream and jumps upon a chair. Thereafter every move or sound sends a thrill of terror to the heart of Mrs. Somers, and she firmly declares that she will not leave the room until her friend chases the innocent and much-abused mouse from her presence.

While this is going on Mrs. Somers has several callers: Miss Jenkins as Mrs. Miller; Miss Edna French as Mrs. LuBemis; Miss Alice Jenkins as Mrs. Curwen; Miss Lucy Palmer Davis as Mrs. Roberts. They are shown to the room by Miss Bessie Day who takes the part of Jane. On entering the room the visitors are informed that a mouse has secreted itself within the four walls and instantly all hands make use of a chair or a sofa, and girl-fashion make every effort to escape the rodent. They plead with Mr. Campbell to make some effort to chase the mouse out of the room and every time he makes a move they scream like mad. Finally Mrs. Roberts offers a solution and suggests that while Mr. Campbell makes a great noise they all make one wild dash for liberty. This is done and all go except Mrs. Somers and Mr. Campbell. They remain and the former persists in asking her only friend to remove the mouse from the room. He tries to tell her that there never was a mouse there but this she refuses to believe and the more he tries to explain the worse Mrs. Campbell goes on until finally she says that if he was any kind of a man he would help her out of the difficulty. He offers to carry her from the room. This she refuses to let him do, and finally, losing all patience, he leaves Mrs. Somers where she is and gains his point in proving that woman is just what he said she was in the published article.

Every character in the play was well taken and it produced the heartiest laughter on the part of all present. Credit is due Miss Raybert in the arrangement of the play and those who took part for the able manner in which they presented it.

Vacation Almost Here.

Monday will bring the regular examinations at the Plainfield High School to an end. All this week has been devoted to them and the students have found plenty to keep them busy. Of course everybody did not have an examination every day, and when they did not they were excused and allowed to go home. The examinations in mathematics will be held on Monday. Then will come the prize examinations.

A Ghastly View.

The members of the class of '97 of Leal's School had their pictures taken on the front steps of the school house, Wednesday. A remarkable feature of the picture was that the skeleton was dragged forth from the anatomical cabinet and was seated in the midst of the boys with a cigarette between its teeth.

SAYS KEELEY HAS A PULL

BELCHER SAYS KEELEY VIOLATES ORDINANCES WITH IMMUNITY.

The Result Is That Charges Have Been Proferred Against Roundsman Flynn—The Mayor To Hear Belcher's Story.

The long-continued troubles between the hackmen at the North avenue station have reached a climax. Two of the hackmen are charged with violating the hack ordinance and one of the Plainfield police force has had a charge preferred against him alleging favoritism to one of the hackmen and using language unbecoming an officer.

Several days ago a complaint was made against John Keeley, the hackman, for soliciting passengers from the curb. The complaint was made by George Belcher, another hackman. He claims that Keeley has been constantly violating the ordinance, and that Roundsmon Flynn turns his back on Keeley and refuses to see him when he violates the law.

Wednesday afternoon, Roundsman Flynn was at the North avenue station on duty. Belcher alleges that Keeley went forward for a regular customer but seeing another man, tried to get the fare for another of his carriages. Belcher said that he went up to Flynn and called his attention to the circumstance. Flynn, he said, used language unbecoming an officer and ordered Belcher back to his place, saying that if Keeley was not doing right he could make a complaint against him.

Belcher saw Chief Grant later in the afternoon and Belcher was notified to appear before the Mayor, yesterday afternoon, and relate his story. He went to the Mayor's office but did not see him. He will appear this afternoon, however.

As a result of the trouble between John Keeley and George Belcher, Patrick Keeley, father of John, was very angry and, it is alleged, applied profane epithets to Belcher. This happened Wednesday, Belcher alleges. A complaint was made against Patrick Keeley, yesterday.

Colored Couple Married.

A wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening at the residence of Capt. William B. Ostrom, 249 East Ninth street, when Mrs. Annie Gillam and Worden Watkins, both well-known in colored society circles of this city, were united in marriage by Rev. Philip S. Gibson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church. The ceremony took place at 8:30 o'clock. The bride was attired in a gown of old rose colored silk. Mrs. Lizzie Wilson was bridemaid and John Reed acted as best man. About 35 guests were present, including some friends of Captain and Mrs. Ostrom and many members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, to which the bride and the groom belong.

Footbridge to be Moved.

Workmen have been ordered to tear up the Watchung avenue foot bridge, and as the new structure will not be completed until November, people who have been using the foot bridge are seeking to have it moved a short distance where it can be used, as heretofore, and at the same time be out of the way of the new bridge. The cost of having the bridge moved will be about $25, and an effort is being made among interested ones to secure this sum. Subscriptions are being received at Leggett's pharmacy.

Petition for Arc Lights.

The Common Council has received a petition signed by ninety-five business men, urging that arc lights be substituted for the incandescent lights now used to illuminate Front street and Park avenue, and Watchung and North avenues. Tonight a committee consisting of Councilmen Tolles, Baker and Westphal will meet to consider the petition, and they would be glad to hear an expression of opinion upon the matter from the citizens.

To Take a Well Earned Rest.

Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of schools, who is now residing on Putnam avenue, will enjoy a well earned vacation beginning with June 26th. The night before he will attend the closing exercises at the Morristown Public School, and will then start for the Rangeley Lakes, Me., to be absent until August 1st. Last year, he worked all through the summer without a vacation.

An Endeavor Rally.

The Local Union of the Christian Endeavor societies will hold a rally in the Congregational church on Tuesday evening. Rev. Cornelius E. Brett, vice-president of the State Union, will be the speaker and Rev. C. E. Herring, of this city, will take charge of the after service.

SCARLET FEVER CASES.

THE EPIDEMIC SHOWS NO SIGNS OF INCREASING RAPIDLY.

State Officials Assisting Local Board of Health to Determine the Cause—H. P. Reynolds to Examine Samples of Water.

The members of the Plainfield Board of Health were greatly reassured, this morning, when it was learned that only two new scarlet fever causes were reported yesterday. The cause of the disease still remains a mystery although Drs. Hunt and Mitchell, of the State Board, were in town yesterday investigating. They were not at all alarmed by the prevalence on the disease.

The two new cases reported yesterday were Townsend Rushmore, of West Eighth street, and Edward Waring, of Park avenue. Both are doing well and have but very light attacks.

In searching out the origin of the present epidemic of scarlet fever, the Plainfield Board of Health omits no clue, spares neither labor nor time. For example: to forestall inquiry as to the purity of the water used by druggists and confectioners in compounding the beverages so popular among young people, the Board has procured samples from a number of these dealers and placed them in the hands of H. P. Reynolds for examination and report. It is not supposed that the contagion of scarletina has been conveyed through drinking water, but the Board is justified in taking a step which may contribute greatly to allay suspicion and uneasiness. Mr. Reynolds has had much experience in the examination of drinking waters, particularly the waters of Plainfield and vicinity.

An examination is being made of all the children in the Public and Parochial schools by the Board of Health and all children who do not appear to be in perfect health will be sent home. The work of thoroughly disenfecting the schools has been started.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY ELECT.

German Reformed Auxiliary Select Leaders and Celebrate an Anniversary.

Yesterday afternoon the women of the German Reformed church, who compose the membership of the Ladies' Aid Society, met in annual session and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. Angerbauer; vice-president, Mrs. Frank Conde; secretary, Mrs. Philip Giese; treasurer, Mrs. Newton Smalley. Last evening the society met and celebrated its tenth anniversary. Rev. George Hauser, the pastor, presided, and conducted the exercises. The officers elected in the afternoon were installed by the pastor with imposing ceremonies.

The reports of the secretary and the treasurer showed that during the year $168 had been received and at present there is $53.27 in the treasury.

Rev. Mr. Hauser made an address, in which he complimented the women for the excellent work they had accomplished during the year.

Following this address a short programme consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Hittenhoff, Clarence Smalley and Helen Smalley. Miss Grace Clark was the accompanist.

A STRANGE CHARGE.

S. R. Struthers Alleges That D. C. Vail Embezzled Milk.

Embezzlement of milk is the rather strange charge brought against David C. Vail by his employer, Stephen R. Struthers, proprietor of the "Dairy", on Watchung avenue. Struthers has a good business in his store and the milk route attached. Vail has been in charge of the latter. Now Struthers charges Vail with appropriating milk belonging to Mr. Struthers and selling it for his own personal profit to other customers.

Mr. Struthers appeared before Justice Newcorn, this morning, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Vail. It was served by Constable Rockafellow and Vail was brought before the Justice.

He was held in $50 bail to appear for examination on Tuesday morning. He was represented by City Judge DeMeza.

Danced the Night Away.

A successful dance was given in T. A. B. Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of A. O. H. The attendance was very large, there being about 200 couples present. Music was furnished by Prof. Reilly's orchestra. The reception committee was Miss Ragan, P. McDonough, and M. Nugent, and D. Ragan and P. Keefe acted as floor committee. The committee in general charge of the ball was Miss Lawlor, Miss Revelle, Miss Callahan and Miss Ragan.

QUEEN LIL OBJECTS.

She Files a Protest Against the Annexation of Hawaii.

THE CONTENTS OF THE DOCUMENT.

She Insists That She Is Still the Rightful Sovereign of the Islands—Says the Proposed Treaty Would Be an Act of Injustice.

Washington, June 18.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani has filed the following protest in the office of the secretary of state:

"I, Liliuokalani of Hawaii, by the will of God named heir apparent on the 10th day of April, A. D., 1877, and by the grace of God queen of the Hawaiian islands on the 17th day of January, A. D., 1893, do hereby protest against the ratification of a certain treaty which, so I am informed, has been signed at Washington by Messrs. Hatch, Thurston and Kinney, purporting to cede the islands to the territory and dominion of the United States.

"I declare such treaty to be an act of wrong toward the native and part native people of Hawaii, an invasion of the rights of the ruling chiefs, in violation of international rights, both toward my people and toward friendly nations with whom they have made treaties, the perpetuation of the fraud whereby the constitutional government was overthrown and finally an act of gross injustice to me:

"Because the official protest made by me on the 17th day of January, 1893, to the so called provisional government, which was summoned by me, was received by said government with the assurance that the case was referred to the United States of America for arbitration.

To Avoid Bloodshed.

"Because that protest and the communications to the United States government immediately thereafter expressly declares that I yielded my authority to the forces of the United States in order to avoid bloodshed and because I recognized the futility of a conflict with so formidable a power.

"Because the president of the United States, secretary of state and an envoy commissioned by them reported in official documents that my government was unlawfully coerced by the forces, diplomatic and naval, of the United States; that I was at the date of their investigations the constitutional ruler of my people.

"Because such decision of the recognized magistrates of the United States was officially communicated to me and to Sanford B. Dole and said Dole's resignation requested by Albert S. Willis, the recognized agent and minister of the government of the United States.

"Because neither the above named commission nor the government which sends it has ever received any such authority from the registered voters of Hawaii, but derives its assumed powers from the so called committee of public safety, organized on or about said 17th day of January, 1893, said committee being composed largely of persons claiming American citizenship, and not one single Hawaiian was a member thereof or in any way participated in the demonstration leading to its existence.

People Were Not Consulted.

"Because my people, about 40,000 in number, have in no way been consulted by those—3,000 in number—who claim the right to destroy the independence of Hawaii. My people constitute four-fifths of the legally qualified voters of Hawaii, and, excluding those imported for the demands of labor, about the same proportion of the inhabitants:

"Because said treaty ignores not only the civic rights of my people; but, further, the hereditary property of their chiefs. Of the 4,000,000 acres comprising the territory said treaty offers to annex, 1,000,000, or 915,000 acres, have in no way been heretofore recognized as other than the private property of the constitutional monarch, subject to a control in no way differing from other items of a private estate.

"Because it is proposed by said treaty to confiscate said property, technically called the crown lands, those legally entitled thereto, either now or in succession, receiving no consideration whatever for estates, their title to which has been always undisputed and which is legitimately in my name at this date.

"Because said treaty ignores not only all professions of perpetual amity and good faith made by the United States in former treaties with the sovereigns representing the Hawaiian people, but all treaties made by those sovereigns with other and friendly powers, and it is thereby in violation of international law.

"Because, by treating with the parties claiming at this time the right to cede said territory of Hawaii, the government of the United States receives such territory from the hands of those whom its own magistrates—legally elected by the people of the United States and in office in 1893—pronounced fraudulently in power and unconstitutionally ruling Hawaii. Therefore, I, Liliuokalani of Hawaii, do hereby call upon the president of that nation to whom alone I yielded my property and my authority, to withdraw said treaty—ceding said lands—from further consideration. I ask the honorable senate of the United States to decline to ratify said treaty, and I implore the people of this great and good nation, from whom my ancestors learned the Christian religion, to sustain their representatives in such acts of justice and equity as may be in accord with the principles of their fathers. And to the Almighty Ruler of the universe, to him who judgeth righteously, I commit my cause."

The protest is signed "Liliuokalani," and to it are affixed the signatures of Joseph Heleluhe, Wekeki Heleluhe and Julius A. Palmer as witnesses.

Death of a Prominent Attorney.

Atlantic City, June 18.—John Milton Bonham of Washington, one of the prominent and wealthy attorneys of the national capital and well known as a litterateur, died here, aged 61 years. He was the first to patent and use pipes for the transmission of oil from the oil regions of Pennsylvania, through which he amassed a great fortune.

TARIFF PROCEEDINGS

Satisfactory Progress Being Made In the Measure.

SOME REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

The Nomination of William F. Powell as Minister to Haiti Confirmed—The House Has a Brief Session and Passes a Relief Bill.

Washington, June 18.—The senate made great progress on the tariff bill. Two entire schedules, covering 20 pages, were completed—namely, schedules H, on spirits, wines and beverages, and schedule I, on manufactured cotton goods. This brings the senate to the flax schedule, with the important wool schedule standing next.

The portion of the bill passed is substantially the same as that reported, all committee changes being unimportant, while the opposition amendments of Mr. Jones of Arkansas and Mr. Vest were systematically rejected by majorities varying from 5 to 10.

Mr. Allison secured the addition of a new paragraph to the cotton schedule with a view to compensating the cotton manufacturers for the recent action of the senate in placing raw cotton on the dutiable list.

Some Committee Reports.

Senator Thurston, from the committee on international exposition, has reported the bill introduced by Senator Mason for the representation of this country at the Paris exposition of 1900.

As reported, the bill provides for a commissioner general at a salary of $10,000 a year, an assistant commissioner general at $6,000 and 10 scientific experts at $2,500 a year each.

Provision is also made for the proper representation of this country in the exhibit of the exposition. The total expenditure is limited to $500,000.

Senator Chilton, from the committee on interstate commerce, has reported the bill extending the time allowed railroad companies between loading and unloading cattle in transit from 28 to 40 hours. The bill is inspired by the fact that modern railroad facilities for taking care of live stock freight are much improved over those of the time when the present statute was enacted.

The senate has confirmed the nomination of William F. Powell of New Jersey to be minister to Haiti.

The House's Short Session.

The house was in session an hour and a half, most of the time being taken up with roll calls. Mr. Sulzer of New York succeeded in injecting into the proceedings a brief speech in favor of Cuba, in which he denounced Weyler as a thief and murderer. The bill for the relief of the residents of Greer county, O. T., was passed.

Democrats Will Not Obstruct.

Washington, June 18.—Some of the Democratic members of the senate committee on finance say that henceforth they would interpose no objection to the rapid disposal of the tariff bill. They will suggest amendments and ask votes on them for the purpose of making a record, but there will, if they can control the matter, be no long speeches on the schedules, with the possible exceptions of wool, hides, the reciprocity paragraph, which the Republicans have promised to report, and a few other sections. The indications now are that the Republicans will withdraw the internal revenue provisions of the bill.

Will Soon Take Up Hawaiian Treaty.

Washington, June 18.—Senator Davis, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, said that the committee would take up the Hawaiian treaty at the next regular meeting, which will be held on Wednesday of next week. He said that the treaty would in any event be held in committee a sufficient length of time to permit all sides to be heard, but that the time would be controlled somewhat by the indications as to whether the senate would consider the treaty at the present session. On this latter point the senator declined to advance an opinion.

Bank Going Out of Business.

Hartford, June 18.—It is announced that the Mercantile National bank will go out of the banking business. A committee will call a meeting of all the stockholders to wind up the affairs of the bank. The bank has deposits amounting to $325,000, the amount due other banks is $190,000, cash assets $312,000 and bills receivable $706,000. The liabilities, including capital, $500,000, aggregate about $1,015,000, and the assets, as shown above, amount to $1,012,000. The bank was organized in 1854 and did a state banking business until 1865, when it became a national bank.

Ex-Secretary Foster's Mission Successful.

Washington, June 18.—A cablegram received at the state department from ex-Secretary Foster, who has been at St. Petersburg engaged in negotiations with the Russian government for the better protection, by mutual agreement, of the seal life in the north Pacific and Bering sea, announces the complete success of his mission. The commissioner is now on his return to the United States.

Held For Alleged Arson.

Bellfonte, Pa., June 18.—James Cornelius, who is charged with setting fire to the armory here, has been given a hearing and recommitted to jail in default of $[illegible] bail for trial at the August term of court. Damaging evidence was presented against the prisoner. A detective testified to having seen Cornelius leave the armory when the flames broke out.

THE SHAKERS DO THEIR DUTY.

"If a man discovers a valuable medicine," said Horace Greeley," it is his duty to advertise it." Yes, and at once; for suffering demands the speediest relief possible But let the man first be sure. Suffering had better wait than be deluded by false hopes. Medicine, like surgery, must often seem cruel in order to be really kind On this principle the Shakers, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y., withheld their great indigestion and dyspepsia remedy from the public for several years. With them right doing is everything—money comparatively nothing. Hence the popularity and success of whatever they offer for sale. Having satisfied themselves of the merit of their medicine by employing it in the worst cases of digestive disorders in their own vicinity for years, they did their duty—they advertised it, under the name of the Shaker Digestive Cordial. In all cases where there is distress after eating, pain in the stomach, chest and back; aversion to food with the resulting symtoms, such as headache, furred tongue, eructation of gas, with weakness and loss of flesh, etc, the Cordial has a most happy effect. Being itself a digestive food with power to digest other foods, it relieves the weak and possibly inflamed stomach of the labor it is in no condition to perform, gives new strength to the body and presently restores to the digestive organs their normal vigor. Taken immediatly after eating this remedy insures the digestion of the meal and prevents the fermentation of the food, which is the source of lost of the afflicted symptoms which accompany dyspepsia. It is also as agreeable to the taste as it is potent as a medicine.

To show their own confidence in it, and to hasten its universal adoption, the Shakers authorize druggists to sell trial bottles at the nominal price of ten cents.

is pain in the nerves. It is thought by some medical experts to be caused by poverty of the blood, which condition lowers the tone of the nerves and starves them.

Unless the poisons and waste matter in the blood are filtered out of it by the kidneys into the urine, the blood will carry disease instead of nourishment to the nerves. Neuralgia, or pain in the nerves is the danger signal or symptom which nature uses to warn the victim of danger.

After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

STATE PRINTING AWARDED.

Albany, June 18.—The state printing board at a meeting has awarded the contract for legislative printing for the two years beginning Oct. 1, to Charles Tollner, Jr., of Brooklyn, his bid being the lowest at $68,611.30.

The price of the last contract, which was awarded two years ago to the Wynkoop Hallenbeck Crawford company, was in the neighborhood of $111,000.

The computations of the bids were as follows: Charles Tollner, Jr., of Brooklyn, $68,611.30; the Wynkoop Hallenbeck Crawford company, $73,653.64; J. B. Lyon, $87,050.13; The Argus company, $110,162.90; the Weed Parsons company, $104,743.08; The Journal company of Albany, $108,498.57.

Amasa J. Parker, on behalf of The Argus company, protested, saying: "In behalf of my clients I protest against the award of the contract to Mr. Tollner and also the consideration of the bid of the Wynkoop Hallenbeck Crawford company on the ground that there is collusion between the bidders to the disadvantage of the state.

"I have information that their bids are made in the same interests, and if that be true—and I think I can prove it, if the board will give me an opportunity—this board will see very plainly that there was collusion and that the contract should not be awarded to either of these bidders."

The board did not pay any attention to this protest, and the contract was awarded by a unanimous vote to Charles Tollner, Jr.

WILL SUSTAINED.

Institutions Will Profit by the Bequests of Dean Colgate.

Corning, N. Y., June 18.—The contest of the will of the Very Rev. Dean Colgate of this city, who died a year ago, leaving an estate of $100,000, has been decided by Surrogate Miller. About $30,000 was bequeathed to charitable and religious institutions in Buffalo and this city, as well as $5,000 each to St. Bonaventure's college at Alleghany and Niagara university.

Objections to the will were filed by nephews and nieces on the ground that it was improperly drawn, and the attempt was made to deprive the charitable and religious institutions of the amounts left them.

The decision sustains the will in all the main points. A few small bequests were cut out, however, with the consent of the executors. The executors are Bishop Quigley and A. P. Conlon of Buffalo. William Tully of Corning and D. M. Page of Hornellsville are the attorneys for the executors.

WORK OF THE CREWS

Some of the Colleges Show Great Form In Practice.

WITNESSED BY EXPERT COACHERS.

Cornell's Men Were Attended to by Courtney, Who Is Greatly Pleased With Them—Columbia and Harvard Also In Good Shape.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18.—The college crews were all late in getting out for last evening's practice, as the contact of wind and tide made a choppy sea, which did not subside until almost 6 o'clock. At that hour the water became tranquil and Coach Courtney ordered his three crews into their boats, taking them out to do an exhibition mile for the benefit of Dr. Walter Peet, the well known coach and rowing expert, and a representative of the press, who were in the launch with Courtney.

This mile proved to be a magnificent exhibition of speed, and it indicated that the crew which beats Cornell must be a remarkably fast one. The three Ithaca boats went up the river at a leisurely pace of 28 strokes a minute to the two mile mark of the course, where Courtney turned them around and lined them up for a race.

The varsity boat had the west course, with the freshmen next and the substitute crew to the east of them, but they were all in the middle of the river, so that none had an advantage of tide.

The subs got a little the best of the start by about one quarter of a length over the varsity, who in time led the freshmen by about the same distance. There was no material change in this order over the mile. The tide carried the crews almost 100 yards below the mark, so the trial lacked just that distance of being a full mile.

The crews started off at a 32 stroke, the varsity taking the water in fine style, with the freshmen almost as well, and toward the end they hit the stroke up to 34. The rowing was characterized by spirit and snap. The time was 4 minutes and 15 seconds, and, allowing 16 seconds for the distance not rowed at the start, gives the very fast time of 4 minutes 34 seconds.

Dr. Peet was strongly impressed with the crews, the varsity especially. "It is a very fine eight," he said, "and they are rowing beautifully. I believe that the race will be worth going 1,000 miles to see."

Witnessed by Expert Coaches.

The exhibition was witnessed by Dr. Percy Bolton and Alfred Cowles, who, next to Bob Cook, are the foremost Yale coaches, and who followed the crews on a yacht. They were deeply impressed with the exhibition. Captain Spillman rowed at his old place in the varsity boat last evening. He has been troubled with an injury to his wrist which he cannot account for. It has been very painful, but was so much better yesterday that he was allowed to row.

Courtney is very anxious to keep Spillman in the boat. He waxed enthusiastic when speaking of the young man, and said: "Why, it seems as if there is a whole extra horsepower in the boat when Spillman rows. He inspires the crew to a degree that is incomprehensible. I shall make every effort to keep him in the crew if I can. I fear, though, that he will favor the injured wrist.

"Spillman rowed at No. 6, succeeding Oddie, who has been taking his place. There was no other change in the crew. The Harvard crews have had a very easy day.

Harvard's Showing.

Examinations kept them from rowing in the morning, and last evening the varsity took a pull of only about two miles. It looks somewhat as if Lehman has got the crew down fine and is now working them moderately for fear of their going stale.

While this is quite a popular theory some of the experts who saw the crew expressed the opinion that none of the crew is in this danger, with the possible exception of Captain Goodrich. The freshmen rowed about four miles, being coached by Mr. Storrow. The advent of Cornell has frightened Columbia. Coach Cowles saw the Ithacans row yesterday, and it is said that the blue and white eight is on the eve of a big shake up.

There was one change in the boat last evening, Lewis being taken out of No. 3 seat and Elmer being put in his place. There were changes in the freshman boat, too. Rionda, who has been sick, went back to No. 3. Gardner was moved to bow, and Mortimer was taken out.

Columbia's Time Not Extra.

The Columbia crews had a very hard day, for Cowles made each of them row fully 20 miles. The varsity crew rowed a mile against time in the evening. Their time was not given out, but it is no secret that it was nearly a minute slower than that made by Cornell.

Before that they had a burst of 2½ miles with the freshmen. The youngsters had half a length the best of the varsity at the start, and finished that reach ahead of the varsity, having lost about two lengths through erratic steering. Francis S. Bangs, president of the University Athletic union and manager of the Cornell-Columbia-Pennsylvania race, is visiting at the Columbia quarters.

The Pennsylvanians.

The three Pennsylvania crews left their boathouse at 5 p. m., Coach Ward again using the Willawalla to follow them, and all rowed slowly up the course for a hard pull back with the tide. The varsity crew started a mile above the mark, where the course commences, and as they passed the start the second varsity, or substitute crew, picked them up. "Now boys, don't race. Just go a good clip," said Ward. But the substitutes were bound to have a race, and they hit up the stroke at a lively rate.

At the end of the four miles the varsity was one-eighth of a mile behind them. The freshmen fell in at the second mile and finished one length ahead of the second crew. The varsitys did not exert themselves to the utmost, and they were in the cedar shell, which has shown itself to be slower than the Watters boats.

AN ENLIGHTENED COMMUNITY.

It is a recognized and appreciated fact that there is no town in New Jersey that maintains a better system of public and private schools than Plainfield. At this season of the year more than at an other, when the various institutions are sending their pupils out to grapple with the cold, everyday world in the effort to make a livelihood, or have just finished preparing them for a higher realm of study, and mark the period by special and appropriate exercises, the admirable condition of affairs is brought out a little more forcibly than at any other time. It is a matter for congratulation on the part of every citizen, whether a parent or not.

A GOOD TOWN TO LIVE IN.

According to "The Plainfield Press" that city is lengthening its cords and strengthening its stakes at a great rate. The claim is made that Plainfield is doing more building at the present time than Newark—a city fifteen times its size. We judge that this statement should be taken with several grains of allowance, but even with the usual discount for local pride the evidence shows that the city is in a thriving condition. There is no reason why it should be otherwise. It is a pretty place, located at a convenient distance from Gotham, is free from evil smells and other nuisances, and it ought to flourish.—West Jersey Press.

A BRIGHT YOUNG MAN.

Distinguished Work of Arthur Willis Leonard at Prfnceton University.

The New York Tribune of last Sunday contained the following concerning Arthur Willis Leonard's course at Princeton University. The young man was prepared for college at Leal's school in this city:

"Arthur Willis Leonard is known as the best well-rounded litterateur of the graduating class. He prepared for college at the Leal School, Plainfield. On entering college he identified himself with Whig Hall, where he won many prizes. In his freshman year he was first in the freshman essay contest; as a sophomore he wrote the Biddle prize essay; in his junior year he was distinguished as the best writer in his class by winning the Maclean prize of $100, and in the senior class he emphasized this distinction by winning the Baird prize of $100 and the Baird prize poem of $50 in one night's competition, this being the first time these two prizes have been awarded to one competitor. Mr. Leonard has been a frequent contributor to the undergraduate publications. In his junior year he was managing editor of "The Tiger," and in his senior year he occupied a similar position on The Nassau Literary Magazine, the latter being the highest literary distinction that can befall a Princeton undergraduate. He has always maintained a high position in his studies, ranking as first or second group man each year. Besides being one of the honorary English orators on the Commencement stage, he is class poet of the graduating class and will recite the class poem in Alexander Hall on class day. He is also a member of the class ode committee and of the Monday Night Club."

Festival of Good Things.

The members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel held a strawberry and ice cream festival last evening in the chapel. The committee in charge consisted of Henry Seader, Miss Anna Searing and Miss Minnie Zeisz. The flower table was looked after by Miss Kate Dieke, Miss Mamie Kohler and Miss Lillian Zeisz. At the lemonade booth were Miss Minnie Wilson, Mrs George Wilson and Miss Mamie Squires. Miss Minnie Zeisz, Miss Maggie Sheppard and Mrs Ray Schenck served the cake, while Miss Searing and Miss Louise Kohler presided at the candy table. Henry Seader, Theodore Martin and John Herman were in charge of the ice cream.

A KICKING HORSE.

The Driver Upset, but He Pluckily Held On to the Reins.

A runaway horse narrowly missed killing his driver and succeeded in partially wrecking one wagon on Park avenue this morning. The delivery wagon of A. M. Griffin was passing under the Park avenue bridge this morning, at about 7:50 o'clock, driven by Edward C. Vermeule, of Jackson avenue, when a train passed over the bridge and frightened the animal. The animal began to kick and struck Mr. Vermule on the knee with his hoof. He was thrown backward into the wagon but pluckily held on to the reins. The horse splintered the dashboard and started to run. Vermeule tried to guide the frenzied animal through the vehicles that were coming to the 7:58 train, but a collision was inevitable and the cart driven by one of the mail carriers was partially wrecked.

The horse used his heels, just missing the head of the driver, who was trying to bring him to a stand. Roundsman Flynn ran to his assistance and, with the help of several bystanders, the horse was brought to a halt.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. DUNELLEN GRADUATES.

Essays Read by and Diplomas Presented to the Successful Ones.

The graduating exercises of the public schools of Dunellen were held last evening in the M. E. church. The class colors, red and green, were displayed, while the class motto, "Truth Conquers," was given prominence. President L. T. Titsworth, of the Board of Education, presided and awarded the diplomas and prizes. There were eleven graduates and ten of that number presented essays.

President Titsworth made an appropriate address to the graduates. The class officers elected are: President, Miss Edith Boice; secretary, Miss Estella Sofield; treasurer, Chester Gaskill.

Essays were read as follows:

Restriction of Immigration.....Elias Giles
The Power of Music.....Estella Sofield
Patriotism.....Fred Vail
The Solar System.....Alma Enander
The Duties of Citizenship.....Charles Teel
The Coming Motive Power.....Edison Brown
The Advantages of Arbitration.
Chester Gaskill
Intemperance.....Emma Pizie
Political Parties.....Edson Davis
Courtesy at Home.....Edith Boice

Miss Clara M. Davis was director of music, Miss Carlotta Williams accompanist, assisted by Miss Emma L Nelson, violinist, and Mrs. J. D. Anderson, cornetist.

The instructors of the school are A. J. Whitney, superintendent; Miss Carlotta Williams, Miss Carrie Fisher, Miss Clara M. Davis, Miss Fanny Smith, Miss Anne D Lloyd and Mrs. Lina B. Williams.

The graduating class presented the Board of Education with a handsome picture of Whittier, and it will be put in the school hall. In return the Board presented each graduate with a standard work of literature.

PARISIAN OMNIBUSES.

There is No Crowding and Strap-hanging Upon These Vehicles.

On all the streets of Paris one of the features most noticeable to a foreigner, perhaps, is the little omnibus station so characteristic of Paris. The Parisian omnibus system, by the way, is an excellent one when you understand it. But you usually have to be put off a 'bus two or three times before you appreciate its merits. In time you discover that the vehicle stops regularly at little stations, where those who understand the system obtain bits of pasteboard bearing numbers in the precise order of their application for them, entitling them in the same order to the vacant seats in the 'buses as they arrive. These little stations being not far apart, it is a matter of no difficulty to obtain these numbers, and when that is done the system secures, as you see, a perfect application of the rule, "First come, first served." For when the 'bus stops, just opposite the little station, an official comes out, and, standing behind it, calls off the numbers in their order, and the would-be passengers, as their numbers are called, take the vacant places. When all the vacancies are filled the 'bus drives on, and those whose numbers come next in order have, of course, the first chance at the vacancies on the filling 'bus.

And now let me mention another feature of this omnibus system which I think is worthy of our notice. Each omnibus and each street car in Paris—for the street car system is practically the same—is built to seat a certain number of persons. That number is indicated upon the exterior of the vehicle, and when it is complete no more are permitted to enter under any circumstances.—Chautauquan.

An Opening for a Ginger-Peeler.

A new machine is wanted in the West Indies in the ginger industry. The export of ginger from Jamaica amounted last year to over $250,000, and the trade is capable of considerable expansion. The cleaning and preparing of the ginger for the market, as now performed by hand, is a slow, primitive, tedious and wasteful process. After the roots are dug, they are washed, and the outer skin is removed by means of a small, sharp knife, resembling the blade of a penknife. As the roots are very irregularly shaped, this process involves the loss of a large percentage of the root, which is broken off or cut away in removing the skin. The peeling of the ginger is an important matter in determining the market value of the product. An expert can peel by hand about one hundredweight of uncured ginger in the course of a working day, for which he is paid 60 cents.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A Pleasant Custom.

For perhaps a couple of hundred miles along the Michigan Central Railroad there prevails in summer the pretty custom of presenting a flower to each woman traveling on either of the two express trains that pass over the road every day. The company has expended much time and money in beautifying the line of the road and the grounds of the stations with shrubs and flowering plants, and these have grown and blossomed so plentifully that enough of the flowers are cut each day to supply the means for keeping up the graceful favor.

The pupils showed great improvement especially in mathematics, and there has been greater advancement in all the common branches than has been before recorded, showing the wisdom of having a graded school. The fact that there are so few young people in this vicinity partially accounts for the absence of many social events, which generally characterizes towns of a similar size. The few young people living here invariably seek other towns and cities for their amusement.

Jointly, the people of Plainfield, Dunellen and New Market have reason to feel proud over the Schubert Club Ladies' Orchesera. WHEN I HAVE TIME.

When I have time so many things I'll do
To make life happier and more fair
For those whose lives are crowded now with care.
I'll help to lift them from their low despair,
When I have time.

When I have time, the friend I love so well
Shall know no more these weary, toiling days;
I'll lead her feet in pleasant paths always,
And cheer her heart with words of sweetest praise,
When I have time.

When you have time! The friend you hold so dear
May be beyond the reach of all your sweet intent;
May never know that you so kindly meant
To fill her life with sweet content,
When You had time.

Now is the time! Ah, friend, no longer wait
To scatter loving smiles and words of cheer
To those around whose lives are now so dear;
They may not meet you in the coming year—
Now is the time.

LOVE IN A MINOR KEY

The inhabitants of Harplestowe had ceased to discuss Hannah Fletcher's questionable position toward her lodger, and any interest attached to her unconventional attitude had quietly fizzled out along with her meagre claims to beauty. When the world had gone well with Hannah, and she had possessed the irritable devotion of an invalid mother and the undivided love of a selfish father, she had worn modestly the good looks which belong to a middle class young woman who enjoys excellent health and a wholesome temperament. Now the light in her abundant hair and her bright color had died for want of vital sustenance, and her rather prominent features had bleakened with the unresting struggle for existence. A stranger would not trouble to question if her unsympathetic manner was the result or the cause of an unsatisfied existence.

Hannah Fletcher had spent the best years of her youth subduing the passions and emotions which make a beautiful woman irresistible, but she had not studied her own ugliness and mastered it, as some women do. A plain woman's battle in life is defying her own ugliness.

Hannah's lodger was, it is true, an "elderly party," so the maid-of-all-work described him, "always messing about with them chemistry fizzicks; 'e's wonderful clever, but it don't bring in no money, and if it wasn't that Miss Hannah was a bit sweet on him sh'd 'ave cleared 'im out along with his rubbishing smell long ago." Hannah was a "bit sweet" on the "elderly party." When her mother and father had died, her lodger had not given a thought to the fact that, for the girl's reputation in the village, it would be advisable for him to leave his comfortable quarters. Hannah had grown necessary to him in his work, and he had learned to depend on her as a man of powerful intellect grows to depend on a practical woman with an intelligent brain, who is his daily and hourly companion. Habit is stronger in men than in women. Five or six years had passed since her parents' death, bringing little or no change into Hannah's life. She slaved and toiled and pinched for the "elderly party," who was too self-centred to guess at the true extent of her poverty. He was casual about his payments, and she would never remind him. To brighten up her room and bring a little pleasure into her day, he would now and then go out and bring her home an extravagantly beautiful bunch of flowers, or a pair of palms, and present them to her with a touching enthusiasm for his own generosity and thoughtfulness. Her practical mind would fly with a woman's quickness of thought to the four months' rent which was still unpaid; but only a feeling of tenderness for his eccentricities would come over her, and she hugged to her heart the thought that she could help him in his work by waiting for the over-due rent.

He was poor, and his income would have barely covered the modest necessities of his simple life if he had devoted it to them, but "he spends all his money on them messes and inventing things as aren't no use to no one," as Arabella remarked when he overlooked her tip one Christmas day; "I ain't got no use for the like of his sort." Clothes he never bought, and Hannah, with a beautiful regard for the feeling of the man she loved, stitched and mended and patched, and bit by bit replaced his worn and shabby wardrobe. She was careful never to put into his room any new garment she had made until the ruthless laundress had robbed it of its newness. Then she would substitute it for one which was beyond even her clever needlecraft to mend, and the "elderly party" would put on a new shirt or wear the new socks without the slightest suspicion that the familiar patches and darns were missing. He acted as intellectual food and nourishment to her starved brain, and she became the practical part of his unevenly balanced character, which nature had left wanting.

One day the peace of Hannah's life was broken by the coming of a cousin, an orphan like herself, who had written and asked Hannah to give her a home while she looked for work. Hannah wrote and welcomed her with bitter misgivings at heart. She had to toil night and day to make money to pay for food enough for herself and her lodger.

Madeline came, and like a hot wind passing over a sensitive plant she withered up Hannah's courage. She was young, and the beauty of her animal health was startling. She stood in Hannah's humble parlor in the noonday sunlight, straight as a young palm tree, and beautiful in symmetry, a pulsing, tingling piece of flesh and blood, colored like a pale pink peony.

Weeks passed into months, and Madeline had planted herself firmly in the house. Hannah could not turn her out, and she never suggested going, and never made any serious attempt to get work. Her orphan and penniless condition served her as a useful means of appealing to the sympathy of the "elderly party." As time went on, Hannah saw less and less of her lodger, her cousin appropriated as her charge his study and laboratory, and it was bitterness and gall to Hannah to see her administer to him all the little attentions which she had been wont to perform.

Hannah, with her heart smarting at the bitter injustice of things, could not tell her that she was day by day robbing her of all that made life bearable.

And as, when a woman is particularly busy, a man generally thinks she is "fussing," and choosing to do something totally unnecessary, the "elderly party" came to look upon it as quite natural that Madaline should be his hourly companion, and that she should sit in an easy chair while Hannah, hot and weary in mind and body, should toil and strive for them both.

After Madaline had been with them three months Hannah's lodger came into a fortune. It was not a large one, but it would enable him to live in ease and comfort for the rest of his life. When Hannah heard the good news, what she dreaded most did not happen. He did not suggest moving into more luxurious lodgings; he seemed to consider himself a fixture in the wainscoted room with its cottage window and old oak floor; but he bought more pretty plants and fresh hothouse flowers, which Madaline now accepted with a blush and prettiness that sent his blood coursing through his veins.

One morning, when Hannah was ironing, with the table piled high in well bleached linen, the "elderly party" came into the kitchen with Madaline. He walked straight up to where Hannah stood, with her hot face bent over the steaming shirt, and drew Madaline forward.

"Hannah, your cousin has promised to marry me. She is young and beautiful, and I am only a plain scholar, but I will do my best to make her a good husband."

As if it had been thrust through her body with the point of a bayonet, each word went to Hannah's heart. It ceased beating. Madaline, of course, knew why her cousin had so suddenly fainted, and the poor little bit of triumph made her heart beat quicker, but when she looked up at her lover his face was pale with fear. She saw a look of agony in his eyes as he turned them to her for help, which told her that she did not possess the heart of the scholar so completely as she thought, and the devil in her was roused.

"Oh, you need not be so alarmed; she has fainted through sheer jealousy."

For one moment he stood transfixed; all that he had been blind to for years was made plain to him now, and in that moment he recognized the heartlessness of the woman he had proposed to only ten minutes ago.

"Are you a woman to tell a woman's secret and make light of it?"

Madaline was frightened at the look of scorn and contempt in his eyes, which had always looked at her so gently. She stood at bay, and watched his trembling hands sprinkling Hannah's face with the cold water she had used for sprinkling the linen. It was kept in a small white bowl on the ironing table.

"I've not said anything that the whole village does not know, Arabella included, that Hannah Fletcher has been waiting to marry her lodger for the last ten years."

"Then, by God, I'll marry her now. I love her, I tell you." He chafed the pale cheeks, and rubbed the thin hands. "I've always loved her. Oh, my God, Oh, my God, what a selfish fool I have been!"

"You loved me but ten minutes ago. For a simple scholar you are wonderfully quick in love."

"Ten minutes ago I did not know that it was Hannah I loved as a man ought to love the woman he marries. Your beauty deceived me into believing that I loved you. I had not given thought to love until you came. I ask your forgiveness."

Tears, which were always ready, came into her blue eyes at the harsh words he had spoken, but she knew that they were true. She had no love for the grave and elderly scholar; he was to be her refuge from work, and she loved ease. She stood for a moment or two and watched returning consciousness quiver over Hannah's pale face, and then she turned to go.

"After all, Hannah is growing old, and she has been good to me. I will not rob her of her elderly lover."

A lover was waiting for Madaline half a mile out of the village. He was a provision dealer, and Madaline would have preferred being the wife of a scholar.—The Queen.

The First English Duke.

Of the five titles of nobility in England, the highest in rank and honor is that of Duke. It is the first title of dignity of the royal family, but not the highest in antiquity. There is no proof of its being used in England before it was introduced by Edward III., about a year before he himself assumed the title of King of France. Edward, the renowned Black Prince, was created Duke of Cornwall, and he was the first Duke in England after William the Conqueror. After this creation the title of Duke was frequently given, especially to members of the royal family.—Harper's Round Table.

Cobwigger—Poor Waggs! He was a most genial soul.

Merritt—Yes, indeed he was. The only thing he ever took seriously was the cold that killed him.—New York Journal.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE LUETGERT CASE.

Denials of the Genuineness of an Alleged Letter From the Missing Woman.

Chicago, June 18.—Both Dietrich Bicknese and Mrs. Wilhelmina Miller, brother and sister of Mrs. Adolph Luetgert, for whose alleged murder her husband Adolph Luetgert, the rich sausage manufacturer, is under indictment, deny the genuineness of a letter received by Alderman Schlake, signed "Louise Luetchert," in which the missing woman is represented as saying she is living with friends in Chicago.

The letter, the brother and sister say, is not in their sister's handwriting, nor did she spell her name that way. The police laugh at what they call a clumsy fake and intimate that the discovery of the letter's real author, if ever made, will be attended with sensational developments.

Quite a sensation marked the hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings in the Luetgert case. Annie Grieser, who was employed by the Luetgerts in 1888, positively identified the rings found in the vat as having belonged to Mrs. Luetgert. She described the rings minutely at first and then upon being shown those found in the vat declared they belonged to Mrs. Luetgert.

THE ST. LOUIS ROBBERY.

Information Filed In the Case Charging Ensley With Assault.

St. Louis, June 18.—Information has been filed with Justice of the Peace Crousfelder, charging Martin Ensley with assaulting Charles D. Collins with intent to kill and robbing him of $6,000. The document was sworn to by F. A. Heidhorn, St. Louis county prosecuting attorney at Clayton.

Ensley will be held in jail at Clayton until the result of the terrible blows received by Charles D. Collins at Meramec Highlands Tuesday night shall have been determined.

The accused man's friends have engaged an attorney to defend him. Collins has had a high fever, his head pained him greatly, and he was very restless. Several more wounds have been found on his head, making the total number 14.

Dr. Hittman still fears blood poisoning. The patient has reiterated his opinion that Ensley delivered the blows and said the prisoner knew of his having $6,000 on his person.

FOUND IN THE THAMES.

Body of a Fashionably Dressed Woman Picked Up.

London, June 18.—The body of a fashionably dressed woman, about 30 years of age, was found floating in the Thames near the Tower bridge. In her purse she had some gold and silver, a gold wedding ring and two dress rings, a gold brooch and other articles, and on a key ring also found upon her were some American coins. All the clothing on the body was of the best materials.

This is the seventeenth body found in the lower Thames by the police during the last three weeks. They are believed to be the bodies of suicides, as in nearly all cases valuables were found upon the persons of the drowned. There is nothing mysterious in the finding of the bodies, and the police account for the somewhat unusual number of suicides by the fact that the population of this city has been largely increased by jubilee visitors from the country and by the advent of many foreigners from nearly all parts of the world.

DISAPPEARING GUN CARRIAGES.

Satisfactory Results Obtained With the First One Built In This Country.

Sandy Hook, June 18.—A 12 inch disappearing gun carriage, designed by Captain William Crozier, is being successfully tested before the board of ordnance and fortifications. Captain Frank Heath, commanding officer, is superintending the operations.

He says that this is the first 12 inch disappearing gun carriage ever built in this country, and as far as the test has proceeded she works smoothly and perfectly, but that there are too many vessels in the way to fire, with safety, as many rounds as he desires.

Another Gordon disappearing carriage for a 10 inch rifle is also undergoing a trial at the proving ground. Captain Crozier successfully designed 8 and 10 inch disappearing carriages, some of which are now installed in fortifications.

FOUND IN THE RUINS.

Parts of Human Bodies Discovered In the Delevan Hotel Debris.

Albany, June 18.—While clearing away the ruins of the Delevan House, which was burned on Dec. 31, 1894, workmen have found the remains of three bodies that perished in the fire. The remains were only a half burned skull, parts of the pelvis bones of three persons, a thigh bone, some vertebræ and numerous small bones, and they are identified as the remains of Mary Carry, Bridget Fitzgibbons and Thomas Cannon.

The three whose bones were found were hotel servants and occupied rooms under the roof in a corner of the building. Of the 14 persons who lost their lives in the fire all are now accounted for except Nogenta Sturena, a servant, who slept on the top floor.

INDICTED FOR ARSON.

Two Shoe Manufacturers Suspected of Setting Their Factory on Fire.

Plymouth, Mass., June 18.—The grand jury has reported two indictments against Thomas J. Murphy and Edward Finlay for arson and attempt to defraud insurance companies.

The indicted men were shoe manufacturers in this city. One morning last March it was discovered that an attempt had been made to burn their factory. The fire was soon extinguished.

Neither of the proprietors could be found the following day, and their continued absence from the city under the circumstances cast suspicion upon them. They were finally located and arrested in New York city and brought back here.

Car Works to Open.

Buffalo, June 18.—The Buffalo Car Manufacturing company, which has been shut down for several months, will begin work again within a few days, employing its full force of men, varying from 600 to 800.

Death of Father Kneipp.

Munich, June 18.—Father Sebastian Kneipp, famous through his water or grass cure, died at Woerishofen, Bavaria, yesterday. He was 76 years old.

DEMANDS UPON SPAIN

The President Will Send Them to Madrid by Gen. Woodford.

WILL INSIST ON PEACE FOR CUBA.

Mediation Is Offered—Independence on Payment of Indemnity Is One of the Terms Proposed—American Rights Must Always Be Respected.

Washington, June 18.—General Stewart L. Woodford, the new minister to Spain, will take to Madrid President McKinley's note offering the mediation of the United States to bring about the termination of the war in Cuba.

This note has been in course of preparation for some weeks and will be ready for the new minister as soon as he is ready to sail for his post.

When General Woodford goes to Madrid, a new consul general will succeed General Fitz Hugh Lee at Havana.

Frank Aldrich of Chicago will be the man who will look after American interests at Havana.

The appointment of General Woodford and the immediate prospect of a change in the consul generalship at Havana show that President McKinley's Cuban policy is fully formulated and that from now on Spain will hear of nothing from the United States but a demand that the war shall be ended and that the rights of American citizens shall be protected.

Contents of the Note.

The president's note, which will be intrusted to Minister Woodford is, first, a demand that Spain shall pay indemnity for the outrages suffered by Americans at the hands of Spanish citizens in Cuba.

The next demand is that the violations of the treaty rights of American citizens shall cease.

After that the letter in bold terms will express to Spain the conviction of the president that the war in Cuba is to Spain a hopeless one and will convey the intimation that the refusal by Spain to negotiate for peace in Cuba will be followed by the prompt recognition of the belligerent rights of the Cuban revolutionists.

The note will then convey to Spain the assurance of the willingness of the United States to mediate between Spain and Cuba on a basis that will assure the independence of the island on the payment of an indemnity to Spain by Cuba, the indemnity not to exceed the amount of interest on the debt of Spain already paid out of the revenues levied in Cuba.

Demands Supported by Facts.

There will be no lack of facts to support the demands which will be made in the note. All the facts which have been gathered by Special Commissioner Calhoun with regard to the Ruiz case and all of the representations of Consul General Lee concerning similar outrages on American citizens in Cuba will be cited to bring Spain to a course of reason.

In addition to these all the facts and figures about the property losses suffered by American citizens through the policy of the Spanish government, as reported to the state department by United States consular officials in Cuba, will be cited to show that matters have gone beyond the limit of forbearance.

Other consular reports will be quoted from to show that since the war began there has been a steady gain of strength on the part of the revolutionists and that they now control a greater portion of the territory of the island than that which acknowledges the supremacy of Spain.

This part of the representations of the note will go to prove the assertion that Cuba is virtually already beyond the power of Spain to pacify.

Will Woodford Wait Until August?

London, June 18.—The Madrid correspondent of The Standard says: "Hitherto no embassador has ever presented his credentials while the court was sojourning at San Sebastian. Therefore, it is not expected that General Stewart L. Woodford will arrive before the autumn. In the meantime Mr. Hannis Taylor accompanies the queen regent and court to San Sebastian. I understand that the attitude of the United States will be based chiefly upon the reports presented by Mr. W. J. Calhoun and the American consuls as to Cuban conditions."

Debs' New Commonwealth.

Chicago, June 18.—Eugene V. Debs' new project, involving in its details the death of the American Railway union and the formation of a co-operative colonization undertaking, was put under way at Uhlich's hall last night, when the preamble to the constitution for the proposed organization which is to succeed the American Railway union was laid before the delegates. The meeting, which was a secret session, was well attended, many women being among the delegates. The name proposed by Mr. Debs is the Social Democracy of America, and this name was incorporated in the preamble.

Cannot Land Cables.

Washington, June 18.—The president has refused permission to the Compagne Francais Cables Telegraphique to land the new cable of that company at Cape Cod, or indeed anywhere upon the United States coast. The question that was raised through the French embassador as to the power of the federal government to deny admission to the cable will be referred to the attorney general for an opinion, but meantime the executive branch of the government holds to the doctrine that such landing can be only by express authorization of congress.

Agricultural Society Sells Out.

Richmond, June 18.—The grounds of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical society, known as Camp Lee, have been sold to John L. Williams, a banker, for $50,000. The society owes about $70,000. Seven thousand dollars represent unpaid purses and premiums, which will now never be paid. The sale puts the society out of existence. Mr. Williams represents a large number of bondholders.

Embezzler Sentenced.

Denver, June 18.—Matt Adams, ex-clerk of the district court, who was found guilty of the embezzlement of county funds, has been sentenced to state prison for five years. After the discovery of a $60,000 shortage in his accounts Adams fled to England, whence he was extradited last year.

AROUND THE BASES.

The councilmanic duties of John G. McLoughlin have become too great of late to give him time enough to devote to the national game so he has left his old position as captain and first base on the Crescent nine. He has a worthy successor at the first bag, however. Ralph Corbin, the crack first baseman of Rutger's 'varsity nine, has been signed to fill the vacant position and will make his first appearance in Plainfield on Saturday in the game with the Westfield Athletic Club. Corbin is all right. He is a sure hitter and a brilliant base-runner and was a great favorite with the New Brunswick audiences.

The Crescents will have a foe worthy of their efforts to play against on Saturday afternoon on their grounds at the corner of La Grande avenue and Richmond street. The Westfield Athletic Club's crack nine will come to Plainfield to try and retrieve the honors lost on the football gridiron, last fall. They found the Elizabeth Y M. C. A. and the Stelton teams easy things and defeated them both. They will be unusually strong for Saturday. The management of the local team will make special preparations for the large crowd that is sure to turn out if the weather is good. Ample provisions have been made for the ladies and their escorts and they will be able to view the game from beneath a canvas shade.

GOLF.

One of the latest converts to the ancient game of golf is George M. Macintyre, manager of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company. His friends have presented him with a complete outfit of golf sticks and he will soon make his appearance on the local links.

The Reinhart Cup will be contested for on the links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club tomorrow afternoon The contest is open to club members and is handicapped. It is medal play, eighteen holes. The entries close this evening, and they will be handicapped by the members of the golf committee.

TO FIGHT THE MARTIN ACT.

The members of the Board of Trade together with a large number of citizens who are opposed to the enforcement of the Martin Act for the collection of back taxes prior to 1880, met last evening in the Board of Trade rooms and discussed the matter at great length. There were several present who were not at the first meeting and they were attracted for the reason that they had learned that they are affected by the act. A committee, consisting of J. Fred MacDonald, chairman, F. C. Lounsbury, secretary, W. R. Codington, Seaman Williams and George Hallock, was appointed to arrange for a meeting to be held in the Board of Trade Rooms next Wednesday evening. At this time steps will be taken to proceed more definitely in the matter. Everyone present last evening expressed themselves in emphatic terms regarding the recent action of the City Council, and they are determined to fight the affair to a finish.

Tumble Broke Fritz's Arm.

Fritz the seven-year-old son of John Weichers, of Eighth street and Grant avenue, took a tumble from a bicycle in front of his father's house Wednesday evening, and fractured his right arm above the wrist. He was taken into the house in great pain and Dr. Endicott was summoned and set the injured bone. Friz will now have to forego the pleasure of bicycling for a time until the fracture mends.

—Don't forget that on Saturday, June 26th the members of Watchung Lodge, International Order of Machinists, will run their annual excursion to Highland Beach. This is the first excursion of the season and a good time is promised all who go.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Thomas Callahan will commence next week the erection of two houses on Richmond street, opposite the grocery store.

—Crane & Clark, hatters, of 120 West Front street, have purchased a large line of summer samples, hats and caps, and will sell them at half value tomorrow.

—The picnic of the Unitarian Sunday-school, which was planned for tomorrow, has been postponed on account of illness in two or three of the families interested.

—The closing out sale at Jaquett's gents furnishing goods store is a great success. Just now he is offering a large assortment of outing shirts at very low prices.

—Grand Deputy G. N. Busby, of Merchantville, paid a fraternal visit to Greenbrook Council, Royal Arcanum, last evening. An interesting meeting was held and one proposition received.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. G. Kennedy Newell is ill at her home, 445 West Fifth street.

H. C. Adams and family, of Sixth street, are stopping at Asbury Park.

Henry Beekman, of Liberty Corner, has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Louis C. Ely, of 434 West Fourth street.

The condition of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of Hope chapel, who has been ill for a week with scarlet fever, is slightly improved.

Right Rev. Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, before leaving North Plainfield this morning, made a friendly call on Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCullough.

Musical Season Ended.

The fourth season of the Thursday Evening Musical Club came to an end last evening, when the members the club were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. French, of Willow avenue. All the selections in the first part were compositions of Johannes Brahms. A paper on that composer was read by Franklin P. Noble. There were piano solos by Miss French and Miss May V. Whitney, vocal solos by Mrs. Asa Collier, Arthur A. Freeman, Miss Julia J. Ketcham and Elmer E. Runyon, to one of which James Petrie played a violin obligato. James Petrie played a violin solo Mrs. Collier and the Misses Caroll sang a trio and there was a selection by the chorus.

Received the Full Voltage.

Clarence Varian, of East Fifth street, a prominent New York electrician having an office on Beaver street, met with an accident yesterday that came very near proving fatal. He was working among some electric wires when one of his assistants turned on the current, not knowing that he was around. He received a shock from the current which was 1,000 volts strong. An ambulance was called but the man in charge refused to take him, saying that he was dead. A doctor examined him and after working over him for some time, restored him to consciousness. He soon recovered and was able to return to Plainfield in the afternoon, feeling few ill effects from the shock.

Welcomed Home From School.

Miss Ida Henry, of 411 East Third street, returned last week from Howard University, at Washington, D. C., where she has been pursuing a course of study during the past school year. In honor of her return, Jesse Henry, her brother, and Robert Stevens gave Miss Henry a reception last evening. About thirty guests were present to offer congratulations upon the success of her year's work at college. Late in the evening light refreshments consisting of cake, lemonade and ice-cream were served. Messrs. Ardis and Toney furnished excellent music.

Death of Mrs. Beach.

Mrs. Lydia Beach, wife of the late Joseph Beach, who died last July, passed away suddenly at an early hour this morning. She was visiting relatives at Williamsport, Pa. Mrs. Beach was the mother of Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street. Her remains will be taken to Rahway for interment beside those of her husband.

PENSION OFFICE PLAYS DETECTIVE.

Reuniting Families as a Side Issue in Its Business.

The Pension Office, besides examining into pension claims and passing on them, does an enormous amount of other business in the way of reuniting families—we find husbands for wives, wives for husbands, parents for children and children for parents. Only recently a case came under my observation which illustrates my meaning, and 'tis a sample of a number of others. An application was received from a lady who applied for a widow's pension. She gave the name of her husband, his service, company and regiment. In looking into the claim it was found that the husband was alive and drawing a pension through the pension agency at Chicago. The woman, who resides in Massachusetts, was so informed, says the Washington Star.

Immediately came a reply from her asking the address of the man, which was furnished. A correspondence ensued between them, and when they satisfied themselves that they were on the right track they arranged a meeting. The man thought that his wife had died, and at the close of the war entered the regular army and went West. The woman, not hearing from her husband, became convinced that he had been killed or had died. She was unofficially informed that he had died in a hospital, and supposed it was a fact. In the meantime she had married again. Her second husband had died, and had been dead over ten years when she applied for a pension.

Another case I call to mind is that of a soldier who originally lived at Niagara Falls. He went in the army and served under Sherman. At the close of the war he settled in New Orleans. He had positive information that his wife had died, but he was never able to get any information as to what had become of his three children, except that they had been sent to an orphan asylum. He did not know in what State the orphan asylum was located. Neither did the children know whether their father was dead or alive, though from what they had been able to pick up in the way of information from time to time they concluded that he had passed to the other side.

It happened that the daughter of the soldier not only grew up to be a beautiful woman, but had married a wealthy man. She wrote to the War Department to learn of the whereabouts of her father's grave, but there was no record of it. She then wrote to the Pension Office for the address of a man she had heard served with her father, and who at one time lived at Niagara Falls. The ending of it all was that the children found the father and the father found his children. There are hundreds of such cases, though, of course, the number of them is becoming smaller as time passes.

WOMAN IN FINLAND.

That Country More Progressive for Women than Generally Supposed.

People don't think of Finland as progressive, but in that country the women are making rapid progress. For more than twenty-five years the gymnasiums have admitted both sexes, and in the University of Helsingfors there are now 200 women students. There are two flourishing clubs of women. About one thousand are now employed in postoffices, railroad and telegraph bureaus, and other departments of the public service; more than nine hundred are engaged as teachers in schools of various grades, and it is not uncommon to see among their pupils young men of 18 who are preparing for an academic or commercial course. At least three thousand women are in business. Fifty-two of the eighty poor-houses have women superintendents, and all the dairies are managed by women.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Sunflower Seed Oil.

Dr. Wiley, the chemist of the Agricultural Department in Washington, says that, in his opinion, the coming salad oil will be made of sunflower seed. It is a perfect substitute for olive oil, and will be so cheap that it may be used on the poor man's table. His remark was probably meant to encourage farmers in raising sunflower seed, but it is likely to work the other way. Farmers prefer to raise something that will be dear, and not cheap. —New York Tribune.

Advancement.

"It's wonderful," said the man who is always earnest, "to see how they can develop the intellects of the lower animals. There is no telling how much we may be able to benefit them by systematic education."

"What suggested that idea?"

"A chimpanzee that I saw. He was once in a perfectly wild condition. Now they have by patient training taught him to chew tobacco, smoke a pipe, play cards and drink whiskey." —Washington Star.

A Cute Prophet.

A man who had lost a leg, witnessing some wonderful cures said to have been performed by Mormon preachers, joined that sect in the hope of getting healed. The preachers referred him to Young as the only prophet among them capable of treating such cases as his. So off to Salt Lake he went, and presented himself to Young. The Mormon leader was equal to the emergency. He assured the man he could cause another limb to come in place of the lost member, but called his attention to the fact that he had but a few years yet to live, while there was an eternity beyond the grave. "And if I now give you another leg," said the prophet, "you will only have this one when you get to heaven, and also the one you lost, so you will go through all eternity on three legs." Horrified by such a prospect the man retired, satisfied to get through the remainder of his years on earth with the aid of his crutches.—Pittsburg Dispatch

PROFITS OF THE FETE.

TOWN IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION CLEARED $1,650 72.

The Gross Receipts Were $1,850—Grateful Appreciation Expressed to All Those Who Assisted in Making It a Success.

The press committee of the recent Fete Champetre, composed of Mrs. Benjamin J. Shreve, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Miss Harriett P. Shreve and H. P. Reynolds, have sent the following letter to The Press:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The members of the Town Improvement Association desire through your columns to return their sincere and hearty thanks to all who contributed to make successful the Fete Champetre held in Johnston Park the afternoon and evening of Saturday, June 12th.

They report the gross receipts of the Fete Champetre a little over $1,850, with the net receipts $1,650.72. In their acknowledgment, they deem the first recognition is due the public press, who have generously given the use of their columns from the inception of the enterprise to its final successful accomplishment. In these thanks are included not only the local papers, but the newspapers of neighboring towns and cities that have given liberal notice and commendation of the entertainment.

To all the committees and heads of committees, who have planned wisely and executed faithfully, the most hearty thanks are extended.

The city police and the High School cadets, who gave their services for the maintenance of order and protection of property, are deserving of especial praise and sincere gratitude.

An organization, one of whose aims is the cultivation of care-taking habits, cannot but take pleasure in thanking the public for the great care of the grounds at Johnston Park, so that Mrs. Mali reports no injury or damage done.

To the donors of the entrance decorations, who gave all the materials and work for the effective adorning of the gateway, grateful thanks are tendered.

The donors of time, work and material in various departments, outside of the committees, to whom thanks are due, and whose names have come to the press committee, are the following: Marsh & Ayres, Smalley Brothers, Rushton & Hansen, DeWitt Ivins, Pearson & Gayle, Chas. Debele, Union County Country Club, Trolley Car Company, Central Railroad Company, F. A. Dunn, Mr. DeRevere, Miantonomoh Tribe, Plainfield Electric Light Company, J. Tier, John Butcher, William Peterson and the O'Donahue Coffee Company, of New York.

In an enterprise so large as this there are many workers, who, like silent partners, contribute greatly to its success, whose names appear on no committee, and whose donations are not reported, of whom there is of necessity no official recognition. To all such, and all who have served in any way the interests of the Fete, hearty thanks are extended.

A TEMPERANCE SERVICE.

Presbyterian Endeavorers to Have an Interesting Meeting.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian church will hold an interesting temperance service tomorrow evening at 6:45, to which everyone is heartily welcome to attend and take a general part. Special music will be rendered by Miss Lottie Messerschmidt, who will sing a solo; violin will accompany the piano. There will be an autoharp solo entitled "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight," which beautiful piece was written and composed by Rev. Robert Lowry, of Madison avenue. There are perhaps few pieces which can excel this one. Also recitations by little children and interesting statistics of intemperance in the United States. Altogether the service is assured to be one well worth attending. Come and bring a friend with you and then go into the church after it is over.

Dr. Brett to Talk on Vacation.

The Plainfield Local Christian Endeavor Union will meet Tuesday evening, in the Congregational church, to listen to Dr. Cornelius Brett, vice-president of the New Jersey State Union, who will deliver an address upon the subject "The Summer Vacation." He will be followed by Rev. C. E. Herring, of Plainfield, who is to conduct a ten minute open parliament upon the same subject. Service of song led by Mr. H. J. Martin will begin promptly at 7:45. Solo singing will be a feature of the evening.

A Deserved Honor.

Rev. Charles J. Kelley, A. M., of Hoboken, a former resident of Plainfield, has had the title LL.D. conferred on him by the faculty of Seton Hall College.

TROLLEY PLANS BALKED.

DISASTROUS HITCH IN THE ATTEMPT TO GO UP THE MOUNTAIN.

It Seems Impossible to Get the Consent of Two Property Owners on the Latest Route Surveyed for The Extension

After many attempts, it now looks as if the promoters of a trolley road to Washingtonville and the Mountain Park Inn were doomed to failure for the time being. A last attempt made by the Mountain Park Land Company to lay out a new route for the road met with the same obstacle as the projected road by Washingtonville. There were two property owners who presistently declared their decision of not allowing a trolley road to cross their property.

The railroad company has a large number of men out of work at the present time, and who could, without trouble, be sent here and have the extension laid in twenty days. The Mountain Park Land Company, knowing this, went to the expense of having an entire new route surveyed. It was found that it was possible to reach the Inn by a line from this side of the mountain different from the one already selected. The grades were ascertained and the route laid out.

Then came the work of obtaining the consent of the owners of the property through which the proposed route passes. All but two were won over, but those two would not allow the trolley to pass that way. So it was that the plan had to be given up. It now looks as if the trolley would not be seen at the Inn this summer at least, and the officers of the Land Company have almost given up hope of connecting their property with Plainfield by trolley.

ROW OVER A LOVE FEAST

ELIZABETH DEMOCRATIC MEETING BREAKS UP IN A SQUABBLE

One Faction, It Is Said, are Disgruntled Over the Actions of the Ones Arranging the Harmony Dinner at the Clark Hotel.

It has leaked out that the Elizabeth Democratic Executive Committee had a stormy meeting Thursday night, says the Newark News, at which harmony was thrown to the winds and the session broke up in a lively row. One prominent Democrat was fiercely raked over the coals and accused of being a disturbing element in the path of harmony. His alleged political sins were set forth by the reading of a pamphlet containing several typewritten pages, his chief accuser being a well-known lawyer and former prominent member of the Board of Education. The attack so disgusted some of the committeemen that they abruptly left the meeting and all attempts to conciliate those who remained proved fruitless.

With the harmony dinner only ten days distant, this does not augur well for its success in reconciling the warring Democratic factions in Union county. It seems that the City Democratic Executive Committee had planned for an outing on the steamer Blackbird and a dinner at Glen Island with the object of bringing together all the prominent Democrats in the county, and had figured the cost of the undertaking. But the other harmony faction spoiled this scheme by securing the Clark Hotel for a dinner and rushing out invitations. Now several of the city committeemen are so angry at this march, which they claim was stolen on them, that they won't go to the love feast, the tickets for which are $2 each.

The harmony dinner will take place at the Clark Hotel, June 28th. It is alleged that many prominent Democrats have been snubbed, and their friends who have been invited declare they will send their tickets back to William J. Lansley, the secretary of the Union Democratic Clubs.

Among those who, it is said, have been turned down by the "harmonizers" and not invited are Former Clerk of the State Senate and ex-Assemblyman John J. Matthews, Former Sheriff Hicks, and Former Alderman James Mead, of Rahway. The prime movers in the dinner are called by the other fellows "youthful political Warwicks," who want to run things and ignore the veterans of the party.

It is rumored that Prosecutor Marsh will not attend the dinner. Others who will refuse to attend, it is said, are City Clerk Manning and Former Assemblyman Kelly. Rahway promises to send quite a delegation, but it is in Elizabeth that most of the dissatisfaction is showing itself.

DOGS DISPELLED SLEEP.

BOROUGH RESIDENTS UP IN ARMS OVER THEIR HOWLS AND BARKS.

The Old Electric Station Utilized for a Pound and the Nearby Neighbors Object to the Noises Made by the Captive Pups.

It is only of late that the dogs of the borough have been the victims of a lively campaign on the part of Dog Catcher Vaughn. Consequently the dogs were indignant at such treatment and howled with unusual vigor when locked up in the old electric light station, in the rear of W. L. and J. M. Smalley's meat market on Somerset street, which has degenerated to a dog pound. The noise had its effect and the neighbors have brought such pressure to bear that the electric light station will no longer bear the indignity of being a dog pound.

When the campaign against the stray canines of the borough was inaugurated, there were very few dogs to incarcerate in the pound. Those that did land there were such weak and miserly specimens of the canine family that they troubled no one by their whines and howls. During the last week, the dog catcher has been active and several dozen angry canines were landed in the pound.

It was Thursday night that the convention of canines began its proceedings, the nights previous having been merely the scene of preliminary committee meetings. There were several pet dogs that had strayed away from home and landed in the pound while the mongrel curs were there in full force.

"I want to go home," howled a big black dog as he gazed at the window.

"So do I," whimpered a little black and-tan as he curled up in the corner to hide his tears.

"Lets all howl so that Will Smalley will get mad and come and let us out," suggested a bright little Scotch terrier, and his suggestion was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Will Smalley lives in one of the flats over Arnold's grocery on the corner and he was given the full benefit of the noise. Sleep was impossible while the dogs were in a place safe from boot jacks and other weapons of nocturnal warfare. Twice the noise became so hideous that Smalley rose and started to draw on his boots with the intention of going down and letting out the dogs. Then he remembered that he was a law abiding citizen of North Plainfield and returned to bed to listen to the canine concert.

Smalley slept very little during the night and bright and early yesterday morning he went to consult his lawyer, City Judge DeMeza, regarding the way to make sleep in that neighborhood possible. The Judge held a conference with Mayor Wilson, of the borough, and impressed upon the latter the necessity of sleep for weary men. So the Mayor promised that the pound should go to some other quarters. Where it is to be moved to nobody knows at present unless it is the Mayor, but it surely will go, for Mayor Wilson is a man who can be relied upon to carry out his promises.

Mr. Emmons, of Prospect place, has a pet dog which he thinks a great deal of and when the dog catcher came along recently and captured the little fellow there was trouble. It appears that the dog has not been registered and when Mr. Emmons called for his canine he was informed that he would have to pay $1 for registering the animal and $1 50 to redeem him. This Mr. Emmons refused to do because he considered the price exorbitant. Up to last evening Mr. Emmons had failed to redeem the dog and it is said that he will bring the matter to the attention of the borough authorities.

Relief Association Needs Funds.

There is no more worthy object for help than the Relief Association of this city. Its object is to relieve the poor and needy in a systematic way and it has accomplished much. Now that association makes an appeal to the people of Plainfield that should be speedily answered. The Association needs funds badly. There is an indebteness that should be cleared away. Will those who are liberally inclined please remember the situation and send their financial aid before they go away on their summer vacation so as to help the officers of the association out of their present dilemma.

Praise for Local Health Board.

Dr. Hunt, of the State Board of Health, speaks very highly of the efficiency of the Plainfield Board. He says that it is in striking contrast to the Boards of many other cities. He greatly commends their action in the present scarlet fever scare, and says that they have taken every precaution possible to prevent its spread. With such a Board, Plainfield need not fear any widespread epidemic.

CHURCH UNITY AT ZERO.

A LIVELY MEETING OF FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST MEMBERS.

Rev Mr. Thomas Lectured the Members for Not Supporting the Society Better—Says He Cannot Preach For $3.90 a Week.

For sometime past the members of the First Church of Christ have been at variance with each other regarding the government of the church affairs, and from time to time there has been an occasional break in the general harmonious state of things. Last evening the trouble seemed to have reached a climax when a special meeting was held after the prayer meeting. Rev. Mr. Thomas, who has been acting pastor for sometime past, occupied the chair and directed the members into the business to be considered, the first of which was the election of three deacons. It was the desire of several present that B. W. Hand be selected as one of the deacons, while others wanted someone else. D. Conover, J. H. Staats and David Bush were chosen after much discussion.

The next officer elected was the treasurer and Mrs. E. E. Brown was chosen for that position. Miss Anna Fenner was chosen as secretary.

At this point a most lively time followed. The question as to who should be organist and who should look after the music was raised. There were many minds and many opinions. Some desired that the position be an elective one, while others wanted it an appointive one. Several resolutions were offered on both sides and the discussion became so animated and confused that the pastor was obliged to call the members to order. There was a desire on the part of some that the music be left in the hands of the Ladies' Aid Society and the supporters of this movement finally gained their point, although at first the women objected and said that they did not consider that it was their place to take charge of the music.

This concluded the business of the evening, but before the meeting closed Rev. Mr. Thomas stated that he had something to say which the members would not like, probably. He then went on to say that for several months past he had been coming from New York to Plainfield and acting as pastor. He did not consider that the members had been taught to pay a pastor commensurate with his services, and he thought it was about time something should be done in this direction. He said that there was only a comparative few who were paying anything toward the salary of the pastor.

Continuing, Mr. Thomas said, "If you say so, I will take the very first train I can get and go home and stay there. If you think that you can get another man to come here and preach for you for $3.90 a week, the amount you are paying me, you had better get him, and get him quick, for I will gladly give up the charge."

Mr. Thomas then gave his audience a strong lesson in supporting the church and the pastor. He also said that he was willing to remain as pastor and work heart and soul with the people and officers if they would do their share, but if they intended to keep him they would have to give better support.

To the pastor's remarks there was no reply, and after singing a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Mr. Thomas.

TO INCREASE THEIR FEES.

New Scale May Be Adopted by Physicians of Elizabeth.

A movement is on foot among the physicians in Elizabeth to increase their fees under certain conditions. At the present time many of the doctors charge the same amount whether they are called to attend a patient at noon or midnight, making additional charges when called between the hours of midnight and seven o'clock in the morning.

The new plan, as suggested and adopted by the Clinic Society, is to charge double the rates for calls made after six o'clock in the evening and before seven o'clock in the morning.

After the Finny Tribe.

Of late there has been several ambitious Plainfielders who have sought the various streams in this vicinity in search of fish and most all have had good luck Edward Smith, of Fourth street, succeeded in landing a 16 pound carp from the pond at New Market a few days ago, and Frank Vosseler came home from the same place with a basket full of eels and bass. Daniel VanWinkle, of West Front street, caught a 4 pound bass in the New Market waters, and Lawyer W. K. McClure spent the largest part of a day at the same place and came home with an empty basket.

SEEKING A JAIL SITE.

IT SEEMS PROBABLE THAT THE CITY WILL HAVE TO BUILD.

The City Officials Are Unable to Find a Landlord Who is Willing to Rent a Building to Quarter the Prisoners In.

Time goes on and still the local offenders are stowed away with the vermin in the rookery which has acted in the capacity of city jail for so many years. It is not the fault of the police or the police committee of the Common Council, however, that the change has not been already made.

It will be remembered, as The Press stated at the time, that the city jail was condemned by the Board of Health and the city authorities were instructed to repair the old place and put it in habitable condition or else secure new quarters. There would have been a change long ago but that the scheme of a city hall has hung fire and the Council did not wish to build a new jail separate from the city hall if the latter was to be erected at once. Now they have been compelled to take some action and not wait for the building of a city building.

The police committee has been looking about the city ever since the notification of the Board of Health was received, trying to find a suitable location for the jail. It was thought that temporary quarters might be rented until the city hall was built. There are a number of places that suited the committee but the idea of a city jail occupying their property did not suit the owners of the buildings in question. The residents living in the neighborhood of the suggested buildings also seriously objected to living near the lock-up. So the matter has been going on and on until it looks as if it will be necessary for the city to build the jail itself.

A Plainfielder, who stands high in city government, said the other day that it was very probable that a jail, containing court room, police headquarters and cells, would be erected by the city. The money, he said, could be borrowed and the interest would be less than the present rental of the city jail and court.

MET DEATH ON THE RAIL.

A PLAINFIELD COLORED MAN KILLED AT SOUTH TRENTON.

Daniel Upsher and Another Young Man Caught in a Death Trap on a Bridge—Both of Them Killed by Being Run Down.

A horrible accident which resulted in the death of Daniel Upsher, a colored man, formerly of this city, occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at South Trenton, yesterday afternoon, shortly after dinner.

Upsher, in company with a seven-year-boy named Joseph Harmon, had been fishing, and both were killed by an express train due there from Philadelphia at 12:47 o'clock.

Accounts differ as to just how the accident happened. One report is that they were sitting on a bridge fishing. The screech of a whistle was heard and Harmon jumped to his feet, but became confused and stood on the track in front of the approaching train. Upsher saw the boy's danger and jumped to his rescue, and both were struck and hurled to their death.

Another report given by an eye-witness is that they were standing by the tracks waiting for a freight to pass They went behind it and ran across the tracks as soon as it passed, and were struck by the express, which they had not noticed approaching.

Upsher received his injuries in the back, and was not much disfigured, while the boy Harmon was so badly mangled that he could be identified only by his clothes.

Upsher was twenty-two years old. His mother, Mrs. Randolph, lives on Sycamore street in this city. For several years he has lived in this city. He was an expert musician and was once employed at the Revere House and also at the Casino.

He was a member of the Mt. Olive Baptist church and of the Plainfield colored Y. M. C. A.

The remains will be brought to this city for burial, as soon as possible.

NO NEW CASES.

Favorable Report Made by the Board of Health.

On June 16th, eight new cases of scarlet fever were reported to this Board; on the 17th, five new cases; on the 18th, two new cases; and up to noon today, no new cases have been reported. This showing is very satisfactory, and the Board has reason to think that there will be no serious extension of the epidemic.

The Borough Board of Health has only had two cases; one reported June 15th and 17th each.

DIED VERY SUDDENLY.

MRS. WILLIAM NEWCORN PASSED AWAY IN A NEW YORK DRUG STORE.

Had Been Shopping in the Metropolis and Was Apparently in Good Health Until Just a Few Minutes Before Her Death.

With hardly a moment's morning, Mrs. Rachael Newcorn, wife of Justice William Newcorn, of this city, was yesterday stricken down with heart failure in a New York drug store and passed away before a doctor could be called.

Mrs. Newcorn was well-known in this city where she has resided for many years. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dreier, of West Front street and Madison avenue, and was about thirty years of age. Last winter she was very ill and her life was despaired of but she gradually improved until she was able to be out again and was considered in good health until the time of her death. Yesterday morning Mrs. Newcorn and her sister, Miss Bertha Dreeir, went to New York do do some shopping. The former seemed perfectly well. After doing their errands, they started down town to visit Mr. Newcorn's mother at her home on Second street. They were a block from their destination when suddenly Mrs. Newcorn complained that her eyes pained her. They went into a drug store on the corner to get something for it.

While in the store, Mrs. Newcorn was seized with dizziness and was compelled to sit down. She soon became unconscious and passed away in a few momets. A doctor was hurriedly summoned, but arrived too late to be of any service. He said that she had died of heart failure.

Her husband and relatives in this city were quickly notified and Mr. Newcorn left for New York at once. The remains will be brought to this city, this afternoon.

Mrs. Newcorn leaves two children, Isadore and Yette.

Mrs. Newcorn was always interested in the work of her husband and was a frequent visitor at his office. She was a member of the Hebrew synagogue in this city. She also belonged to Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas.

Mr. and Mrs. Newcorn have been living on West Front street, near New street. She was devoted to the care of her children and her home.

The store in which Mrs. Newcorn died was the dispensary of Theo. F. Heller, M. D., 17 Avenue B.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE.

Best Methods of Getting at the Gist of the Scriptures.

The Christian Endeavor meeting held last evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church was one of the best in the history of the society. The leader, J. Harry Manning, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., talked most earnestly and profitably upon the subject assigned, "The Best Way to Study the Bible," citing various methods adopted by noted Bible students. The remainder of the meeting was fully occupied by prayer and testimony, many of the Endeavorers relating their own experience in the line of Bible study. Several members from the East Third Street Mission Christian Endeavor Society were present and participated to the pleasure and profit of all those who were there to listen to their earnest words.

In Honor of Her Cousin.

Miss J. Louise Jenkins entertained a number of her friends, last evening, at her home on West Second street, in honor of her cousin, Miss Ella Whitall, who has just moved to this city from the west. A conversation party occupied the first part of the evening, and then came other games, refreshments and general sociabilty.

Contract for a Costly Dwelling.

The contracts were given out last evening for the erection of a two-story and attic dwelling to be erected at the corner of Grant and Sherman avenues by Dr. Frank S. Wells, of Central avenue. The residence will cost about $10,000 and will be complete in every particular. The architect is Joseph B. DeRemer, of Little Washington. The contract for carpenter work was awarded to Wyman & Haberle and William Pangborn secured the contract for the mason work. A. M. Griffen will do the plumbing. The work will be started at once and the cellar will be excavated on Monday.

Injuries Quite Serious.

E. A. Vermeule, who was injured in a runaway accident on Park avenue yesterday morning, is in a more critical condition than was at first supposed. He is confined to the house today under Dr. Probasco's care, suffering from injuries to his left arm and right knee. He is also suffering from bruises about the body, where the horse kicked him.

LITTLE WORK DONE.

Tariff Debate Drifts Into Political Discussion.

MR. MORGAN'S SWEEPING AMENDMENT

He Proposes a 10 Per Cent Ad Valorem Duty on All Free Articles, With Few Exceptions—Talk on Wool.

Washington, June 19.—The tariff bill came to a halt in the senate, less than one page of the flax schedule being disposed of. The debate drifted into political channels, Senators Bacon, Vest, Jones of Arkansas and Tillman taking part in an exposition of Democratic doctrine on the tariff. It led to several lively exchanges, during which the cleansing of political dirty linen was frequently referred to.

Mr. Tillman's remarks were made with his characteristic vehemence, and at one point he frankly stated, concerning the tariff, that if there was to be stealing he wanted his share for South Carolina. Late in the day Mr. Morgan proposed a sweeping amendment to place a 10 per cent ad valorem duty on all articles now on the free list, with a few stated exceptions.

In supporting the amendment Mr. Morgan called attention to the singular fact that the income tax feature of the Wilson bill is not repealed and can be enforced by a change in the personnel of the supreme court of the United States.

The following nominations were confirmed: Howard M. Kutchin of California, to be agent at the salmon fisheries of Alaska; James C. Boatman of California, assistant agent at salmon fisheries of Alaska; Frank H. Morris of Ohio, auditor for navy department; Colonel Anson Mills, Third cavalry, to be brigadier general; Major John Simpson to be deputy quartermaster general, with rank of lieutenant colonel; Captain J. W. Pope, assistant quartermaster, to be quartermaster, with rank of major; Captain J. C. Hester, Third artillery, to be major; First Lieutenant A. G. Quay, Third cavalry, to be captain and assistant quartermaster.

The Tariff on Wool.

Washington, June 19.—The advocates in the senate of an increase in the duty on wool have held a meeting and decided upon the following as the rates which they will ask the committee to fix on wool:

First class, in grease, unskirted, 10 cents per pound; in grease, skirted, 12 cents per pound; if washed, double these rates; if scoured, treble.

Second class, in grease, unskirted, 11 cents per pound; in grease, skirted, 13 cents; if washed, double; if scoured, treble.

Third class, worth not exceeding 6 cents per pound, 3 cents duty; worth over 6 cents, or not exceeding 10, 5 cents per pound; worth over 10 cents per pound, 8 cents duty; if scoured, treble.

These rates are much higher than those originally fixed by the senate committee, and the wool men regard them as more advantageous than those of the house bill or those of the McKinley law.

There were present at the meeting 12 or 15 senators, representing all the states in which wool is an industry of special importance.

The near approach of the wool schedule in the senate's consideration of the tariff bill has caused the subject of the wool duties to receive unusual attention. There was at one time a prospect of a Republican caucus on the subject, but it was decided instead to present the claims of the wool men to the finance committee, with the hope that they would concede the increases asked.

If the concession is not made, a caucus is probable.

The Massachusetts Off For the Jubilee.

Boston, June 19.—The United States battleship Massachusetts, which arrived here May 26 to participate in the unveiling of the Shaw monument and receive the bronze statue of Victory from the commonwealth, will leave here for St. Johns, N. F., where she is to assist in the golden jubilee festivities at that port. Pilot Franklin B. Wellock, who brought the battleship around from New York, will navigate the vessel to the outer light. The Massachusetts will return here in about two weeks in order that the naval brigade may hold its annual tour of duty on board.

Cashier's Shortage Increasing.

Lockport, N. Y., June 19.—The shortage in the accounts of William H. Scott, the New York Central railroad cashier, which was thought to be about $500, is now estimated at over twice that amount. An examination was made last November and all Scott's accounts were found in perfect order. It is supposed his peculations date from that time. Auditor Pollock of the New York Central, who has been conducting the investigation, refuses to make any statement concerning the shortage.

Bank Cashier Dies Suddenly.

Northfield, Vt., June 19.—Carey B. Thayer, treasurer and cashier of the Northfield Savings bank, died suddenly of apoplexy. He was 73 years of age and one of the early settlers of the town and had been connected with the bank since its institution, in 1867. He was one of the most prominent business men in Washington county.

Hearing on Bridge Plan Changes.

Washington, June 19.—Secretary Alger has consented to grant a hearing to J. S. Clarkson, the president of the New York and New Jersey Bridge company, next Wednesday upon the application of the company for permission to change its plans for the bridge which indirectly affects the entire bridge franchise.

Apportionment to Agricultural Societies.

Albany, June 19.—The state agricultural department has completed the apportionment of moneys to agricultural societies of the state under the provisions of chapter 948 of the laws of 1896. The total amount of money apportioned is $44,679.25 which is divided among 81 agricultural societies.

THE AUTHOR KNOWN.

Identity of Vulgar Letter Writer Disclosed by Suit of a Valet.

CASE RECALLS A FORMER SENSATION.

The Servant Complains That He Was Not Paid For His Services In Ascertaining the Authorship of the Scurrilous Letters.

New York, June 19.—The writer of the scurrilous anonymous letters on Knickerbocker club paper concerning the marriage of Miss Grace Wilson to Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is known.

This fact has just been made public through a suit brought against the multimillionaire banker, Richard T. Wilson, by his former valet, Albert V. Sugden, for $1,030, $1,000 of which, he says, he was promised for discovering the author of the letters, and the remainder was promised as increased salary for two months.

Now he alleges that although he did secure the desired information he was never remunerated for so doing.

Sugden is a bright young Englishman. He was discharged from Mr. Wilson's service on Feb. 7 last, after the excitement caused by the reception of the letters had somewhat passed away. He claims that he has been unable to get another position because of alleged bad reports Mr. Wilson has made as to his character.

In Sugden's petition, which was drawn by Lawyer Robert P. Noah, he says that Mr. Wilson engaged him on Dec. 14, 1896, to find out who wrote the anonymous letters.

He was to secure, according to the petition, "evidence necessary to determine, ascertain and locate the party or parties who had circulated certain reports derogatory to and concerning the plaintiff's daughter, which said reports derogatory to his said daughter had become public property through the publication and medium of the public press."

De Lancey Nicoll, as attorney for Mr. Wilson, has put in an answer to the suit. He denies that the valet was employed to do detective work and that Mr. Wilson promised to raise his wages $15 a month. The case is on the calendar of the supreme court.

Compromise Not to Be Considered.

The suit was begun on April 14, but was held back with the hope that a compromise might be effected. Mr. Wilson, however, would not consider the matter.

The marriage of young Mr. Vanderbilt and Miss Wilson took place in July 1896. The groom's family objected to the alliance, and the wedding resulted in an estrangement between the young man and his father. The anonymous persecution of the young couple began before their marriage and was kept up for several weeks.

Letters denouncing them both were sent to the bride and bridegroom. The letters were written upon the paper of the Knickerbocker and Metropolitan clubs, and they were fastened with the seals of these clubs. That fact naturally caused the public to think that the writer was a member of these clubs.

The author, desiring to have the attacks printed, sent several letters to well known newspaper writers.

The motive of the anonymous persecution could not be conceived. There was no mention of money in the letters and the theory of blackmail was untenable. Disappointment in love was suggested, but those who knew Mrs. Vanderbilt all through her girlhood declared that she never had such an entanglement. The attack was so unexpected, so undeserved, that no one could suggest a reasonable motive for it.

Society People at Odds.

The Vanderbilts and Wilsons are at Newport. They meet nearly every day, but they do not speak. A family feud that may be long continued was caused by the marriage of Mr. Vanderbilt and Miss Wilson.

The wedding of the young couple was preceded by several sensations. The first announcement of the wedding was made by Miss Wilson's father on June 10, 1896, and the date was fixed at June 18.

But at that time young Mr. Vanderbilt was confined to his bed with inflammatory rheumatism, and the wedding was postponed.

Then it was rumored that Mr. Vanderbilt had decided to obey his father's wish and not marry Miss Wilson.

This was followed by the startling announcement, on July 13, that Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., had been stricken with apoplexy. This was caused, it was said by his son's determination to wed Miss Wilson.

The wedding occurred on Aug. 3 at the home of the bride's parents, on Fifth avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Pott, assistant rector of St. Thomas' Protestant Episcopal church. The marriage was witnessed only by the members of the Wilson family and Frank L. Polke, who was best man.

For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. C. E. Beeman, of Mountainside, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Townsend, of Craig place.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Moses N. Terrill, of Liberty street, who was injured recently by a fall from his bicycle, is now able to be out again.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Dun's Review Says There Is a Steady Gain In It.

New York, June 19—Dun's Review, in viewing the markets of the past week, says:

The retarding influence of cold and unseasonable weather has passed. The gain in business which in spite of it was seen a week ago, has become clearer to all. There is evidence of gradually enlarging business in every important department, more establishments have been set to work and more hands employed, and while prudence still hinders speculative excesses the progress toward better things is unchecked. Reports from the various cities this week show a very general progress, and a continuing large distribution through retail trade.

Stocks have been very strong, and in three days' purchases exceeded 750,000 shares, and prices, after some weeks' rise, had half a day's reaction on Wednesday, only to rise again nearly 75 cents per share on Thursday. Railroad earnings are encouraging, in June 6 per cent larger than last year and only 4.1 per cent less than in 1892, and tonnage shows improvement, especially in west bound iron products, glass, sugar and farm machinery. Failures in two weeks ending June 10 were $4,944,953, against $3,908,844 last year, $5,151,841 in the same weeks of 1895, exclusive of the Cordage failure for $9,160,000, and $6,560,025 in 1894. Manufacturing were $2,073,956, against $1,615,571 last year, and trading were $2,462,067, against $2,242,541 last year. Failures for the week have been 198 in the United States, against 276 last year and 36 in Canada, against 28 last year.

POWDER EXPLOSION.

Building of the Hazard Company at Hazardville Destroyed.

THREE EMPLOYEES INSTANTLY KILLED

Cause of the Disaster Will Probably Never Be Known—Windows Shattered In the Nearby Villages—Second Accident Within a Year.

Hazardville, Conn., June 19.—One of the barn crackers, a small building attached to the plant of the Hazard Powder company, was blown to pieces yesterday afternoon by the explosion of a quantity of powder. In the building at the time were three men, all of whom were instantly killed, and nearby stood a horse, owned by one of the victims, and it, too, was torn to pieces. The dead: Richard May, workman, married; Barber S. Stratton, head mechanic, unmarried, and M. W. Pierce, overseer of mills, married.

The building in which the explosion occurred, as stated above, was one of the cracker houses and formed a part of a plant of 100 small buildings in which the preparation of powder was carried on. Because of its location, near several barns, it was known as the barn cracker. Strictly speaking the building was used as a corning mill, where the powder was converted into granular form. Only one man was employed in the building at any time, and Richard May was the one who has been on duty there for some time.

The 100 workmen employed about the plant had just returned from their noon hour meal, and May as usual entered his mill. Five minutes later he came out and reported to Overseer Pierce that something was wrong with the mill, and May, accompanied by Pierce and the head machinist, B. S. Stratton, returned to the building to remedy what was wrong.

They were not seen alive again. At 1:15 the whole village was shaken by a terrific report, and the workmen, rushing out, saw the air filled with debris.

Every window pane in the vicinity was broken, and many in the village were also shattered. Buildings adjacent suffered from the damage, but none of them caught fire. Telephonic queries began to pour in from surrounding towns, indicating that the report of the explosion had been heard at a great distance.

As soon as the smoke had cleared away an investigation was begun, and it did not take long to find that three men had lost their lives. Workmen with blanched faces approached the fated "cracker," expecting to find the frightfully mutilated bodies of their comrades.

The unfortunate men had been instantly killed, and the clothing had been stripped from their bodies to some extent. Strange to say, however, the bodies of the men were not badly torn, and each of the three was easily identified.

Just how the explosion had occurred will probably never be known. It is supposed, of course, that in their efforts to repair some injury to the corning mill, some powder had been set off.

Cause of the Explosion.

Work was suspended for the rest of the afternoon, and the bodies of the victims were tenderly cared for. The entire village had rushed to the scene, and harrowing scenes were enacted when members of the bereaved families learned the truth.

No attempt has been made to estimate the money damage, the thoughts of every one having been diverted by the awful fate of the three well known villagers.

This is the second explosion which has occurred at this plant within a year. Early on the morning of Sept. 19 last, during an unusually heavy thunderstorm, one of the crackers was struck by lightning, and a vast amount of powder was exploded. The employees had not come to work at that hour, however, and there were no fatalities.

Late yesterday afternoon the officials of the Hazard Powder company authorized the following official statement of the explosion:

"At 1:20 this afternoon a corning mill was blown to pieces, and three men were killed. The money damage amounts to about $5,000. The men were in the wheelroom, and their bodies were thrown distances varying from 25 to 100 feet, but the remains were only slightly mutilated. M. W. Pierce leaves a wife and two children, Richard May a wife and two children, and B. S. Stratton was unmarried. The mill was not in operation at the time of the explosion. This building has been used as a corning mill for 30 years.

Death of a Prominent Musician.

Toronto, June 19.—Dr. Stocks Hammond, organist of St. James' cathedral, died suddenly at his home here. He was a licentiate of the London College of Music and was one of the examiners for Canada and the United States. Nearly 200 anthems, songs and pianoforte pieces were written by him.

Windstorm In Indiana.

Muncie, Ind., June 19.—The west wing of the Paragon Paper mill at Eaton has been blown in during the storm. Four people are reported buried in the debris. The loss on property is $25,000. The roof on the Eaton Window Glass works was lifted off, and much damage to other property was done. In Muncie the storm damage will amount to several thousand dollars. Several large roofs were lifted, among them being that of the Hannan building.

Cyclone Near Paris.

Paris, June 19.—A cyclone swept over the villages of Bezons and Colombes, near this city. Three persons were killed and 20 seriously injured.

Broom, at Blackwell's Mills, Somerset county; Wm. Doyle, at Grand View, Somerset county; Benj. F. Lane, at West End, Monmouth county; Chester A. Burt, at Helmetta, Middlesex county. In the last instance the postmaster is re-appointed, as the office was raised from the fourth to the third class. Mr. Burt was appointed July 6th, 1896. Mr. Howell has also recommended as members of the Board of Pension examiners, which meets for the Third district in Somerville, Louis T. Reed, of Somerville, and Dr. John L. Snidon, of Jamesburg.

FERTILE SOIL.

An Oklahoma farmer wrote to a friend in the East trying to give him some idea of the soil out there. He said they have to mow the grass off the sod floor to find the baby. One family near him had twin babies with only one cradle, and the kid who had to sleep on the floor grew twice as fast as the other. Where the soil is richest a man dare not stand on one foot any length of time lest one leg becomes longer than the other and bother him in walking.—Edmond Republican.

A MASONIC HOME.

A Place for Indigent and Aged Members of the Order.

The New Jersey Masonic Grand Lodge has appointed a committee for the purpose of raising funds and procuring a home for aged and indigent members of the order and for the widows and orphans of Masons. George W. Fortmeyer, of East Orange, is chairman of the committee, and William D. Rutan, of Newark, is its secretary.

A number of properties have been offered to the committee at all kinds of prices, but the two sites that seem to meet with the most favor are the Ashurst property, in Mt. Holly, and River Rest, the old Field house on the banks of the Raritan, near Bound Brook. The latter was inspected by the committee last Sunday.

It is a three-story frame structure, containing twenty four rooms, and is surrounded by eighty-two acres of ground. The Ashurst house is of brick, and dates back almost to Revolutionary times, but an expenditure of $5,000 would make it an excellent place for a Masonic Home, it is said.

While either of the above places might be selected, there has been nothing definitely settled upon, nor will there be until more money is available.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. MRS. THOMAS A. EDISON.

A Surprise for Her in Her Husband's Laboratory.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison is a very beautiful woman. If one hears singularly little about her beauty it is undoubtedly because she never seems to think about it herself. It is all very well theoretically to say that unconsciousness enhances beauty, and for the discerning it may; but the most of people are more impressed by the woman who carries herself as if she were beautiful (as the French say) than by loveliness that has no coquetry, that shows no deep attention to the toilet, that is genuinely inattentive to its own claims. Mrs. Edison's belongs to this last type, and thus she has a naivete that the old Italian painters, at any rate, would have deeply appreciated. She looks like an Italian, for her coloring is softly, not glitteringly, brunette, with a superb complexion, the skin peculiarly fine in texture, and a rich, deep color in her cheeks. She is, perhaps, the only woman within a hundred miles of New York that is fitted by beauty and expression to make a perfect model for a Madonna. For, though she looks young, as if she were in the early twenties, she has the quiet poise of the wife and mother. She is given, in general society, to talking but little. She is as untouched by modern restlessness as if she were a Greek woman, and looks as if she could sit still for an hour any time without an effort, and at the same time she shows that she is perfectly alive, easily enterested, and responsive on the subjects that appeal to her; these are, first, Mr. Edison and her children, and next, children and their education in general. Then without the air of condescension in such cases, she devotes much time to reading detective novels with Mr. Edison. Yes, the detective novel is a favorite diversion with that great brain, and the Madonna-faced wife of his bosom is seriously attentive to his needs in this way, and continually gathers up anything she can find that she thinks will meet the case. She reads them with him, whether with any other sentiment than that of a happy sense of duty fulfilled, it is impossible to discover, but when it comes to the scientific works that he devours as a regular diet she gives up. Mrs. Edison is not scientific; she has as little affinity for physics as other typical women, and that is saying a good deal, but a true story of a recent occurrence at the great laboratory would seem to show that one might go further and say she has less affinity for physical science than most women; that less knowledge of it rubs off on her. She, with pride, was showing some friends about the laboratory and trying vaguely to tell them things; they found her more at home in cleaning the smuts off Mr. Edison's face than in any other phase of laboratory work, but still they were not prepared for her complete astonishment when a workman came along and lit a gas jet by electricity! She had never heard of such a thing before. Now, is that not a delicious story? Any one ought to recognize its veracity, for it is the kind of thing that only real life has the happy audacity to compound.—Leslie's Weekly.

STUDENTS' PROUD NIGHT

HIGH SHOOL GRADUATES ITS CLASS WITH HONORS.

Westfield Township Committee Will Issue $60,000 in Sewer Bonds—Question of the Rights of Westfield Exempt Firemen.

'Mid music and flowers and the plaudits of a host of admiring friends, the graduating class of the Westfield High School last evening said goodby to school days. The Westfield Club Auditorium, where the graduating exercises were held, was much too small to accommodate those whose kindly interest in the class prompted them to attend. The program began promptly at 8 o'clock with an overture "Mazepha," by Karff's orchestra; Rev. Wm. A. Ruth, of the Methodist church made the opening prayer and Charles Ring Foster then read the salutatory. His subject, "Cuba," was well handled and showed careful preparation. Miss Clara Louise Connoly in her essay treated on "Seigfried." The High School Glee Club sang, and Miss Golanna Hazel Wallace read her essay upon "Altars of Fame." Miss Gertrude Noe's essay was entitled "Illustrations." Miss Alice Ive Love read an essay which had for its subject the class motto, "Per Angusta ad Augusta." The class history was delivered by Miss Isabel Blean Morrow, and Miss Ada Ruth delivered a well-written essay upon "Music in the Public Schools." The class prophecy by John McCormick was omitted, because of the inability of the prophet to stand upon the stage and read it, owing to an accident. After a selection by the orchestra, the valedictory was delivered by Lloyd Summerfield Thompson. All the graduates received presents of flowers from friends in the audience. After the valedictory John B. Green, president of the Board of Education, made an address congratulating the class upon its excellent record, and then presented diplomas to the following graduates: Clara Louise Connoly, Charles Ring Foster, Alice Iva Love, John McCormick, Isabel Blean Morrow, Gertrude Noe, Ada Florence Ruth, Lloyd Summerfield Thompson and Gloanna Hazel Wallace. Of these Mr. Foster will enter Wesleyan College; Miss Love will enter Peddie Institute; L. S. Thompson will study law in New York; Miss Ruth will study music and Miss Wallace will take a course in the State Normal School at Trenton. After the graduation exercises a reception was tendered the graduates by the class of '98 At 11 o'clock supper was served and those present then whirled in the dance until the clock warned them to disperse. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D., at a union meeting in the Metodist church tomorrow evening.

The most important business that came before the Westfield Township Committee at its meeting last night, was in connection with the proposed issue of sewer bonds. After discussion the committee decided to advertise for bids on coupon or registered bonds to the amount of $60,000. The face value of each bond will be $1,000; they will date from July 1st, 1897, and will be payable in gold. Of this amount $30,000 will be for 30 years, but redeemable after 20 years at the option of the township. Of the remaining $30,000 of the issue, $3,000 will be payable each year on and after July 1, 1898. The rate of interest will be determined after the bids are received, as it will then be known at what rate the bonds can be most advantageously issued. The bonds will bear certificates of legality by Counsellor Frank Bergen, and will be engraved by the American Bank Note Company, of New York. In connection with the invitation for bids the committee issues an interesting statement of facts concerning the condition of the township, which estimates the present population at 4,500, and gives the assessed property valuation for 1896 at $1,379,000. The only bonded debt which the township now has, is $25,000 issue of school bonds. A communication from A. J. Miller to the committee raised an interesting point of law affecting the rights of exempt firemen. Mr. Miller who was at one time a resident of Westfield, served as a fireman and received exemption papers entitling him to exemption from taxes upon $500 worth of property. Mr. Miller shortly afterward moved to New York city, and the tax assessor levied taxes upon the full value of his Westfield real estate, upon the theory that removal from the state had deprived him of his exemption rights. This action of the assessor was taken by advice from the township counsel, Frank Bergen. Miller then sought advice in the matter from counsel of the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association and was informed that a removal from the state did not affect his exemption rights. This is the present state of the case. Miller states that he will enforce his exemption rights and the township refuses to concede his claim. Both sides are acting by advise of counsel. It looks at present as if the dispute would be taken to the courts for settlement. If this happens, the outcome will be watched with a great deal of interest by exempt firemen throughout the State. The report of superintendent of the sewers Chamberlain showed the system to be in good condition. Twenty-five permits to connect with the sewer were issued during the past month A petition signed by about 100 property owners was received asking the Committee to construct a new street from North to South avenues, to cross the railroad south of the Broad street crossing by means of an overhead bridge. The matter of elaborating a map of the township for insertion in a new atlas of the State now in preparation by a Boston publishing house, was entrusted to E. R. Collins. A request from C. D. Reese, secretary of Empire Engine Company, asking to have the name of J. K. McCaffey entered upon the list of exempt firemen, was granted by the Committee. Two notes amounting to $4,053.75 on the sewer account, coming due next Thursday, were ordered to be replaced by a note for $2,500 for one month, and a note for $1,619.33 falling due July 2d, was renewed in full for one month. Bills amounting to $242.02 were also ordered paid.

George T. Cruttenden and Miss Jennie N. Austin, of Brooklyn, were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in New York by Mayor Strong. They will spend their honeymoon in Connecticut and will then come to Westfield to live.

Bishop Vincent in Town.

Plainfield was favored last evening with a visit from Bishop Vincent and wife, of Topeka, Kansas. The Bishop has been lecturing in the east, and while on his way to Pennsylvania for a rest he and his wife spent the night with H. M. Estil. The Bishop has changed but very little and at the North Avenue station this morning he was recognized by a number of friends.

A FOOD MEDICINE.

How to Cure Ordinary Ills the Easiest Way.

In late years no one remedy has grown more in favor with physicians than Malt Extract. If it is rightly made it is a tonic that can be depended on every time.

It is as much a food as a medicine, but is food of an unusual kind. It is food in soluble and concentrated form all ready to slip into the blood and renovate the system without taxing digestion. Therefore, if your stomach is weak it does you good just the same.

We recommend Crown Brand Extract of Malt as one you can rely on. It is made by a thoroughly reliable house and we have it put up under our own name as an additional guarantee of its merit.

We are also able to save you something on the cost Other good extracts will cost you at least 25 per cent more We constantly endeavor to sell the best of everything for less and this is another instance of it. Extract of Malt is especially recommended for dyspepsia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and general debility. It is the ideal tonic for invalids, convalescents and for debilitated women. 15c. bot., $1 65 doz. Frank Rowley, druggist, 45 Somerset St.

Illustrated Address.

At the Congregational church, tomorrow evening, Rev. F. P. Woodbury, D. D., of New York, will give an address on the subject: "Alaska and Florida." The address will treat of the Alaskans, Indians, Chinese and Southern Highlanders, and will be illustrated with large pictures and charts. Some of the charts will present the illiteracy of the South and lynchings in the United States in a startling way. All who have heard the lecture have been greatly interested.

RED LAKE.

It Becomes that Color About Two of Three Times Every Ten Years.

Lake Morat, in Switzerland, has a queer habit of turning red about two or three times every ten years. It is a pretty lake, like most of the sheets of water in that picturesque country, and its peculiar freak is attributed to a disposition to celebrate the slaughter of Burgundians under Charles the Bold, on June 21, 1476. But the French say that it blushes for the conduct of the Swiss, who in that battle gave the Burgundians no quarter. The old fishermen of the lake, who catch enormous fish called silures, that weigh between twenty-five and forty kilograms says when they see the waters of the lake reddening, that it is the blood of the Burgundians. As a matter of fact, some of the bodies of the Burgundians killed in the battle were thrown into the lake, while others were tossed into a grave filled with quicklime. This historical recollection angered the Burgundian soldiers of the victorious armies of the republic of 1708 so much that they destroyed the monument raised in honor of their compatriots who fell heroically in that battle, and Henri Martin very justly reproached them for that piece of vandalism. It would hardly do to attribute the reddening of the waters of the lake to the blood of the soldiers of Charles the Bold. The color is due simply to the presence in large quantities of little aquatic plants called by naturalists Oscillatoria rubescens. The curious thing about it is that Lake Morat is the only lake in which this curious growth is developed, and the peculiarity is beginning to interest scientific men.

NEW DEFINITION OF VERACITY.

A Jersey City Witness Says It's a Bad Thing to Carry Around.

Richard Welling was a witness at the trial of Rachel Schreiber in the General Sessions Court in Jersey City the other day for larceny and receiving stolen goods. Maggie Werner, the 14-year-old neice of the defendant's husband, was the principal witness against her, and the defence tried to prove by the testimony of Mr. Welling and others that Maggie's statements could not be relied upon. Mr. Welling took the witness stand with a confident air and testified that Maggie's reputation for truth and veracity was bad.

"What is the meaning of veracity?" asked Assistant Prosecutor Noonan sharply. The question came so suddenly as to confuse the witness, and he hesitated about answering.

"It's a pretty bad thing to carry around with you, isn't it?" continued Mr. Noonan.

"Yes, sir," answered the witness, looking very much relieved.

"You wouldn't like to be accused of veracity, would you?"

"No, sir; I would not."

"I move the testimony of this witness be stricken out," said Mr. Noonan, addressing the Court.

"Strike it out," ordered Judge Hudspeth, and Mr. Welling looked as if he did not know where he was at. Mrs. Schreiber was acquitted.—New York Sun.

HER DESIRE MODEST.

And She Received All that Her Advertisement Called For.

Here is a good story. A woman once sent the following advertisement to a London paper: "A lady, in delicate health, wishes to meet with a useful companion. She must be domesticated, musical, early riser, amiable, of good appearance, and have some experience of nursing. Total abstainer preferred. Comfortable home. No salary." A few days after the advertiser received a hamper labelled: "This side up, with care—perishable." On opening it she found a fine tabby cat, with a letter tied to her tail. It ran thus: "Madam: In answer to your advertisement, I am happy to furnish you with a very useful companion, which you will find exactly suited to your requirements. She is domesticated, a good vocalist, an early riser, possesses an amiable disposition and is considered handsome. She has had a great experience as a nurse, having brought up a large family. I need scarcely add that she is a total abstainer. As salary to her is no object, she will serve you faithfully in return for a comfortable home."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Stratagem of War.

A certain American in the war of 1812 played a mean trick upon the Admiral of the attacking British squadron. The Britons were entirely too strong for the Americans, so stategy became necessary. Accordingly, one clever young man spread the report that he had invented a fearful machine of war which he would send among the British boats and explode at the proper moment. Then he filled a barrel with sand and a little gunpowder, and towed it near the British ships. A fuse set the powder off. There was an explosion, and to the amazement of all, the British ships put to sea, fully convinced that a new infernal machine had been invented.

How a Great General Slept.

A good story is told of the Duke of Wellington. The French, with a fresh force double that of the duke, were closing in upon his jaded troops one stormy night in Spain. Wellington completed his preparations, and then, turning to a scout, asked: "How long will it be before they can reach us?"

"Half an hour," was the reply.

"Then I can go to sleep," he said; and wrapping his cloak about him, he dropped where he stood in the muddy trench, and in an instant was asleep. He awoke when the bugles of the enemy sounded in his ears.—Weekly Telegraph.

Renewing Life.

Dr. Campbell's Capsuloids Supply the Blood with Natural Iron, Renewing the Vitality and Restoring Health.

A celebrated German doctor some time ago suggested that all flour of which bread is made should, by law, contain a certain percentage of iron. If this was done, he claimed, death would only come with old age.

Physicians concede that both health and life depend upon the iron or Hæmoglobin in the blood. When this exists in abundance the blood is rich, red and strong and free from the germs of disease; the pulsation of the heart is regular, the circulation continuous, there is no palpitation, respiration is easy, and the brain is clear.

Modern methods of preparing food are fast diminishing the quantity of iron that nature intended man should get from that food. Science long strove to supply the deficiency. All failed until Dr. Campbell, one of the leading physicians of England, discovered that bullock's blood was charged with iron or Hæmoglobin. He extracted this iron and enclosed it in a gelatine covering in which form it was first administered to chronic sufferers from anæmia and chlorosis. The effect was so marvelous that experiments were then made with severe cases of paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous prostration, scrofula and rheumatism. The results have placed Dr. Campbell's name among the most honored savants of the age.

When a Capsuloid is swallowed it goes down the throat like a piece of jelly without injuring the teeth, the gelatine covering melts in a moment and the dissolved Hæmoglobin or natural iron passes directly into the blood, making it rich, red and plentiful.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry orders will receive your work.

OLEOMARGARINE LAW.

Looking Toward Prosecution of Armour & Co. For Its Violation.

Albany, June 19.—Former State Agricultural Commissioner Fred C. Schraub has been in this city conferring with Attorney General Hancock relative to the prosecution of the cases against Philip D. Armour & Co. for violating the oleomargarine law of this state.

The appellate division of the supreme court, in the fourth department, has handed down a decision affirming an order issued by Justice McLennan at Syracuse authorizing the agents of the state to examine the books of railroad and express companies to learn of the shipments of oleomargarine into this state.

Attorney General Hancock advised Mr. Schraub, who is special attorney for the state in this matter, that the decision of the appellate division is final, that the attorneys for Armour cannot take an appeal, and that the order of Justice McLennan can be enforced at once.

BRITISH CRUISER ARRIVES.

The Pallas Arrives at Boston and Is Saluted From the Navy Yard.

Boston, June 19.—The British steel cruiser Pallas, Captain Humpage commanding, came to an anchorage in the upper harbor at 3:15 p. m. yesterday, from Halifax. Harbor Master Bragdon assigned the British war vessel the position recently vacated by the United States cruiser New York.

Immediately upon coming to an anchor the Pallas fired the national salute of 21 guns, which was responded to by 21 guns from the shore battery at the navy yard. Next in order was the salute of 11 guns for the commandant of the yard from the cruiser, which was replied to with a like number of guns from the navy yard.

After these formalities were over Captain Humpage came ashore and paid his respects to the British consul.

Lost Torpedo Recovered.

New York, June 19.—The stray torpedo found on Monmouth Beach has been recovered by the torpedo boat Porter and brought to the Brooklyn navy yard. The torpedo had not suffered at all from its cruise, and when tested its mechanisms worked perfectly. In returning up the bay the Porter had a lively brush with the Sandy Hook boat Monmouth. The Porter was under one-third power, steaming with only one of her three boilers, so it was a very close race. Despite her disadvantage the torpedo boat beat the big steamer by a little less than a half mile in the run to the Battery.

Express Superintendent Dead.

Manchester, N. H., June 19.—Andrew Bunton, superintendent of the New Hampshire and Vermont division of the American Express company, died of a complication of diseases, aged 54 years. Mr. Bunton was born in Manchester. He entered the express business in 1856, and in 1869 he was appointed to the position which he held at the time of his death. He was a thirty-third degree mason and was a member and ex-president of the New Hampshire club. He leaves one son.

Injured by a Falling Balcony.

Black River Falls, Wis., June 19.—During a street parade by a circus a balcony over a sidewalk occupied by about 20 people gave way and the party was hurled about 18 feet to the sidewalk. Many people were injured. Several children who occupied the sidewalk were also badly hurt. Genie Erickson and Carrie Hanson were among those most seriously hurt, the latter being probably fatally injured. Several Indians received dangerous injuries by falling timbers.

Heroic Rescue of a Child.

Saratoga, June 19.—Fireman Harvey Strong, attached to an Adirondack freight train, showed great presence of mind. While his train was approaching Saratoga a child was discovered playing on the track. While Engineer Whipple did all possible to slow the train, Strong sprang from the locomotive cab to the sideboard of the locomotive, then to the pilot, and jumping to the ground he seized the child in time to let the train go by.

Coffin Makers Give Up Business.

Detroit, June 19.—The National Association of Burial Case Manufacturers went out of existence after a life of 20 years. Just on what point the members disagreed is known only to those on the inside, and they will not tell. It is believed that the members were unable to agree upon questions of fixing and sticking to prices in competition with outside manufacturers.

Francis Joseph Receives Our Ministers.

Vienna, June 19.—Emperor Francis Joseph has received in audience Mr. Bartlett Tripp, the retiring United States minister to Austria-Hungary, who presented his letters of recall. Later his majesty received in audience Mr. Charlemagne Tower, the new United States minister here, who presented his credentials.

Cut His Throat.

Boston, June 19.—James B. Jinkins has committed suicide in his boarding house here by cutting his throat with a razor. The deed was committed in the presence of his wife and child before they could prevent the action. Despondency through ill health is assigned as the cause. He was 54 years of age.

Syndicate Purchases Bonds.

Boston, June 19.—About $3,000,000 of the state bonds have been purchased by the syndicate formed by J. P. Morgan & Co., Blake Bros. and Kidder, Peabody & Co. They are 3½ per cent 40 year bonds and are issued for various purposes and cover all bonds to be issued this year.

Murderer Hanged.

Atlanta, June 19.—Tom Delk, the 24-year-old outlaw, was hanged at Zebulon for the murder of Sheriff Gwynn. He died game, making no demonstration of any sort. Four thousand people were around the gallows inclosure, but the walls were not broken.

Big Mortgage Filed.

Saratoga, June 19.—A mortgage made by the West Troy Waterworks company to the American Loan and Trust company of New York to secure payment of $450,000 has been filed in the Saratoga county clerk's office.

A SPLENDID BANQUET

Dinner Given In London By the Imperial Institute.

MADE A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE.

Hundreds of Guests Present, Who Represented Every Branch of Life—Speeches by the Prince of Wales and Others.

London, June 19.—The Prince of Wales, as president of the Imperial institute, presided over a banquet given by the institute last evening to the colonial premiers.

A large crowd watched the arrival of the guests, who were received by Lord Herschell, chairman of the executive committee of the institute. Everybody wore a decoration of some sort. Stars, ribbons and various orders, together with the splendor of oriental costumes worn by eastern potentates, made a brilliant scene.

The guests numbered hundreds and represented every branch of national and colonial life. Among those present were the Marquis of Salisbury, the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, the Earl of Kimberly, the Marquis of Dufferin, Lord Ripon, Lord Lansdowne, the Marquis of Lorne, Lord Rosebery, Mr. Wilfred Laurier, the Dominion premier; Mr. Whiteway, the premier of Newfoundland; Baron Rothschild, Lord Lyon Playfair, Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian high commissioner; the archbishop of Canterbury and a splendid array of men of high rank in the army, navy, church and civil service, with a sprinkling of literary, scientific and artistic notables.

It was 9 o'clock before the assembly was complete. The Prince of Wales led the procession into the dining pavilion amid the strains of the national anthem.

After dinner the Prince of Wales proposed "The Health of the Queen." In a felicitous speech he referred to the approaching jubilee celebration, adding that he had no doubt they would receive the familiar toast with more acclamation even than was usually the case. This was followed by prolonged cheering, waving of handkerchiefs and cries of "God bless her!" the entire company standing. "I beg you," he said, to "drink with me her health, congratulating her not only upon her diamond jubilee, but upon her record reign."

This was followed by a renewed outburst of cheers, the band repeating the music of the national anthem. Amid the enthusiasm the prince called "for one cheer more." This was given, only to be followed by another and that by a third.

Prince of Wales' Response.

The Prince of Wales in proposing the health of the guests gave a cordial welcome to the distinguished gentlemen who had come to celebrate the jubilee. He said he rejoiced to see the Indian princes making common cause with them in honor of their colonial guests. He was convinced that the colonies would always come to the assistance of the mother country in time of need and danger.

Referring to the enormous growth and increase of the colonies during the record reign, he expressed the hope that the peaceful circumstances under which they were met together might long continue.

"God grant it," he said, "but if the national flag is threatened I am convinced that all the colonies will unite to maintain what exists and to preserve the integrity of the empire."

The prince welcomed the premiers and hoped earnestly that their stay would not be irksome. No one, he said, could be more gratified than the queen that they had come to do honor to a great epoch of history.

Lord Rosebery, proposing the "Houses of Legislature, Home and Colonial," said he hoped this unparalleled gathering would not separate without an effort to draw closer the bonds of empire.

The Marquis of Salisbury, responding for the house of lords, confessed that the misgivings he had when the colonial legislatures were first created were entirely unfounded. He said:

"If those legislatures are able to exercise self control and to fulfill their high ideal, they will produce an empire such as the world has not yet seen. There is talk of fiscal union and of military union. Both may, to a certain extent, be good things, but they will not be the basis upon which our empire will rest. It will rest upon the growth of sympathy and of common thought and feeling between the mother country and the colonies."

The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, responded for the house of commons. He made no allusion to the colonial office.

The whole proceedings were most enthusiastic. The Prince of Wales has rarely if ever spoken so impressively and feelingly as in his speech toasting the guests.

Freaks of the Weather.

Indianapolis, June 19.—A remarkable weather condition prevailed here yesterday. After half an inch rainfall during the night, the temperature at 6:22 a. m. stood at 72, at 7 a. m. it had risen to 89 and at 9 a. m. had dropped to 78. At 7 a. m. the temperature at Chicago registered 56, while at Louisville it was 10 degrees warmer. This unusual difference called out telegrams asking for verification of the figures from Washington and Chicago weather bureaus.

Cyclones Visit Iowa.

Ottumwa, Ia., June 19.—A small cyclone passed over Rose Hill, a village in Keokuk county, touching the ground in several places just outside the town. The damage done was confined to trees and outbuildings. Another cyclone of somewhat greater violence passed six miles east of Oskaloosa. Its path was over 2 miles in length and about 50 yards in width. The damage was slight, however.

Fires Cause an Assignment.

St. Louis, June 19.—The Udell Woodenware company, whose stock for the third time in as many years was burned last week, have filed a general assignment, turning all the assets of the company over to A. Welborn Moise, as trustee of the creditors. Assignee Moise states that the liabilities are $80,000 and the assets $83,000.

Barnato Inquest Held.

Southampton, June 19.—On the arrival of the British steamship Scot with the body of the late Barney Barnato the coroner's officers went aboard to ascertain as to the necessity of holding an inquest. An inquest was held and the jury returned a verdict of death from drowning while temporarily insane.

GOSSIP OF THE CYCLERS.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage

Mrs. Thomas Minford, of 517 East Front street, is learning to ride a bicycle.

E. H. Cleveley, of North avenue, has returned from a cycling trip to Paterson.

A double century run will be held by the Time Wheelmen, of Philadelphia, on June 27th. The start, however, will not be until midnight, and, according to schedule, the riders should reach Newark at 7 a. m., returning to the Quaker City that night Captain Ilko will be in command, and expects to be accompanied by from 150 to 200 men.

The cyclists of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. did not attend the run of the Y. M. C. A. Cycling League of Northern New Jersey, Thursday evening, as they thought it had been postponed. Last evening, they went to Madison the destination of the run, only to find that it had been held the night before despite the rain. Returning, S. Clinton Crane, Edward A. Laing, and Clarence Thorn formed a fast division and came through at a fast pace. They met a wheelmen from Elizabeth and he rode with them. They were about three miles this side of Springfield when the tire on the Elizabeth man's wheel, who was ahead, exploded and he slowed up Crane was right behind and he slowed up also. Laing struck Crane's rear tire with his front one and went sailing through the air while Thorn crashed into his wheel. Laing was badly cut up and Thorn received a sprained wrist and several cuts about the head. His wheel was wrecked.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

There will be several matches between local horses at the Gentlemen's Driving Park this afternoon.

Miss Josie A. Hayes, of this city, and Stephen A. Mahooney, of Brooklyn, were united in marriage at St. Thomas R. C. church, Brooklyn, last evening. The wedding was a very pretty one. The bride was dressed in white silk, trimmed with lace and pearls. Her bridesmaid, Miss Nellie Quinn, of Brooklyn, was attired in pink silk. The best man was James Quinn, of Brooklyn. After the marriage, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Quinn, of 12th street, Brooklyn. The couple received many handsome and useful presents.

Among those present from this city were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Leary, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. William Goeller, Miss Mamie Leahy, and Miss Kittie Leahy.

Carriages in Collision.

The left front wheel to the carriage belonging to L. W. Serrell, of West Front street, was wrecked this morning at the corner of Park and North avenues in a collision with the carriage of A. W. Haviland, of Rockview avenue. The street was crowded with carriages and both of those in the accident were trying to avoid an ice wagon.

—L. Hammond, of Manning avenue, while tearing an old roof off of the house occupied by Andrew Kenney, of Manning avenue, this morning, sustained a severe sprain to his right hand.

—The work of macadamizing Harmony street in the borough will be started in a few days. All of the property owners on the street have signed their names signifying that they will contribute toward the work.

COWS AND GOATS TRESPASSED

Destroyed Lawns and Made Way With Old Tomato Cans.

City Judge DeMeza felt in a good humor this morning, although a trifle sarcastic. His pleasant feeling may be accounted for by the fact that there was only a corporal's guard of offenders to appear before him.

The first was a resident of Netherwood, the owner of sundry cows and goats, who were the means of finally landing him in the city jail His name was Sylvester Deleyo. He lives on Netherwood avenue. The complaint charged him with allowing his cows and goats to stray away and eat up other people's flowers and tomato cans. Amos Andrews made the complaint because his lawn was trampled up by the other man's cattle. Deleyo explained that his cows and goats were now tied so that they would wander no more and Mr. Andrews did not wish to press the complaint if the animals would stay where they were put. The Judge smiled indulgently and suspended sentence.

Bridget Neuman appeared and pleaded guilty to the charge of being disorderly. The Judge told her to appear next Saturday for sentence, and that meanwhile he would investigate the circumstances of the case.

SEEMS A WEAKNESS OF GENERALS.

But It Always Excites the Envy of Younger Men.

Kissing pretty girls has been a favorite occupation of nearly all great men of mature age, military men being particularly given to it. Gen. Grant was perhaps the notable exception. This recalls an incident which came under the observation of the writer at Galena, Ill., shortly after the close of the war. Gen. Grant had returned on a short visit to his old home A great crowd was assembled at the railway station to welcome him. As the General alighted from the train he was greeted by a procession of a dozen or more young ladies. As the first blooming miss grasped the hand of the hero she held up her ruby lips—the lips of brave and tender girls like this are always ruby—with the firm but inexpressibly sweet compression which every experienced osculator recognizes at a glance as meaning business. The General seemed surprised, flushed slightly, glanced down the line of waiting beauties, drew a long breath, and then, with the resolute look of a man determined to fight it out on that line if it took all Summer, he deliberately and with praiseworthy impartiality kissed every girl in the procession. The General was a modest man, but he was never known to flinch in the face of his duty to his countrymen—or countrywomen.

Gen. R. E. Lee, notwithstanding the staid decorum of his ordinary demeanor, was ever ready, it is stated, to face an emergency of this kind. At Lexington, Va., in the closing years of his life, there were many pretty girls and many osculatory encounters, the girls being quite willing to "have it to say" that they had been so distinguished by the great commander. The college boys heard of it with mingled feelings of envy and emulation. To this day, it is said, the visitor at Lexington will be stopped at this or that turn of the road by his guide, with the remark: "Here, in 1860, I saw Gen. Lee kiss Miss So-and-So. They met; they chatted. At the parting the damsel would say, 'Why, General, aren't you going to kiss me?' and thereupon the General would respond with evident animation." A great number of spots at the Southern Mecca are decorated with similar legends—so many, in fact, that the tourist is inspired with regrets that he, too, was not a great General and strategist.

Gen. Sherman's exploits in this attractive field are more widely known. Indeed, they were extended over a wider area and were performed with, perhaps, a trifle less discrimination. At every Grand Army reunion there would be found a number of blooming misses who aspired to kiss the General. Being a gallant man—every soldier must be gallant—Gen. Sherman responded to the seductive challenges with exemplary alacrity, to the sorrow of the young officers, who thought such sweetness wasted on an old man, and a married man at that. It does seem hard. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, who opposed Gen. Sherman on so many fields, was in this line of operations also a rival worthy of his steel.

It was not the good fortune of Gen. Johnston to attend Grand Army reunions to any considerable extent, but in his limited sphere Gen. Johnston had in his last years a great many Confederate admirers of the charming sex, who, with his ready sanction, testified their cordiality in the characteristic and always pleasant feminine manner. He was a handsome man, even in extreme old age, so that there was no drawback to chill the fluttering heart of the impulsive feminine patriot.

It must not be assumed that the Generals that have been named are the only ones who have had the courage to meet their feminine admirers of the third generation half way. Their name is legion, so far, at least, as appreciation goes. It is noticeable, however, that the girls draw the osculatory line at Major Generals. They are severe in their requirements, exacting rank, fame, and an age few ordinary mortals can attain without falsifying the family records.

The kissing of great Generals is to be distinguished from that of great politicians. President Buchanan, it is true, was a truly fortunate man in this regard, but he was a President and a bachelor. He was, in fact, wholly outside of the category of ordinary politicians, whose kissing is commonly restricted to children and babies. Such osculation is useful in a campaign, but it is said not to be exhilarating.

AMERICAN MISSIONS.

REV. DR. WOODBURY SPOKE AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

He is Secretary of the American Missionary Association and Told Something of its Work—An Illustrated Address.

Two very interesting services, in behalf of the American Missionary Association, were held yesterday in the Congregational church. The Association was represented by its secretary, Rev. Frank P. Woodbury, D. D., who spoke morning and evening, and showed himself a cultured, eloquent and interesting speaker. The morning sermon was a strong presentation of the work of the A. M. A., which lies among the Indian tribes at the west, the colored people and "poor whites" of the south, and the immigrants of different races and religions lately come from other lands to ours. Dr. Woodbury spoke especially of the work for the negroes, and its wonderful success, though the association has been able merely to touch the borders of what might be done. At the conclusion of the sermon, a generous offering was made for the association.

The evening address was illustrated by a set of large maps and pictures, hung at the left of the pulpit. First came a map of the continent, upon which Dr. Woodbury pointed out the various fields of work of the A. M. A. A view of an Alaska mission station followed, while Dr. Woodbury told the story of the first young men who went there as missionaries, and of the martyrdom of one of them. A picture of the Indian school at Santee was a more civilized subject, and the work among the Indians was briefly dwelt upon. A map of the south showed the region inhabited by the "mountain whites," and one of their schools, with a Christian Endeavor Society grouped in front of it, was next shown. This school was in North Carolina, and is carried on by four young women, one of them being Dr. Woodbury's daughter. There being no church, they organized an Endeavor Society, and conduct religious services themselves.

The next two charts were designed to show the need of earnest Christian work in the south. The first was a map shaded to show the comparative illiteracy of the different states, from the eastern and northern states, scarcely shaded at all, to the blackness of Louisiana. The second was another map, with a large black dot for every lynching reported in the newspapers since 1893. New Jersey was without a spot, while Louisiana, as before, had the worst record.

A picture of the colored school at All Healing, N. C., was next shown, followed by a map showing the schools taught by pupils of A. M. A. institutions, Eureka Church Arbor, the home of a plantation mission in the pine woods of southern Georgia, and one of the larger institutions supported by the association, for educating the leaders among the colored people, that they may go out and help others.

The service was a somewhat unique one, and was much enjoyed. It was held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Missionary Day Services.

Next Sunday morning, at 9:30, the Sunday-school of the Congregational church will observe their annual Missionary Day. There will be missionary songs, letters from the mission stations to whose work the school has contributed and a short address. The quarterly review will take place at the evening service, at 7:30, in the form of an informal talk on the lessons of the quarter by the pastor, Rev. C. L Goodrich, interspersed with Bible readings, and illustrated with many fine stereopticon views.

Juniors Picnic on the Mountains

The members of the Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church were treated to an outing on Johnston's Drive on Saturday by their superintendent, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, and her co-workers, Miss Wikoff and Miss Berkaw. The little folks, numbering over fifty, had a glorious day of it and were full of thanks for the delightful outing. They also enjoyed having their pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., with them.

Endeavor Rally.

The summer meeting of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union will be held in the Congregational church, Tuesday evening, at 7:45. All Endeavors and their friends are earnestly invited to be present. There will be an address on a timely subject by Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D., of Jersey City, a short open parliament conducted by Rev. C. E. Herring, and bright music, including solo singing by William N, Runyon.

WILL PICNIC AWHEEL.

CONGREGATIONAL ENDEAVOR SOCIETY PLAN A NOVEL OUTING.

It Will Be a Bicycle Picnic—The Young People Will Ride to Glenside Park and Spend Saturday Afternoon.

Plainfield has had the name of originating church bicycle runs, of forming a Christian Endeavor bicycle squad to visit the different societies not far from this city, and of having the first Epworth League in the country to give a bicycle sociable. Now the bicycle has been used in another way and the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congreation al church are planning a bicycle picnic for next Saturday afternoon.

There is a majority of the young people of the Congregational church that ride wheels. It will be remembered that the first church run was held by that congregation last summer. Most of them spend their Saturday afternoons on the smooth roads of this part of Jersey enjoying a spin on their bicycles. Knowing this fact, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, chairman of the social committee of the society, planned that all should go together and make a little picnic of it.

The proposed bicycle picnic immediately found favor among the young people of the church. The weather has gotten too warm for the regular sociable in the church parlors and the thought of something new pleased everybody.

The Endeavorers will gather at the home of Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, on Fairview avenue, and will prepare to start at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. All the young women of the party are expected to bring lunch enough for two and then share it with some other member of the party. The Endeavorers will ride up Front street to Scotch Plains and then turn to their left through the Gap and out to Glenside Park.

It is at Glenside Park that the pic nic proper is to be held. Wheels will be stacked in the cool shade, and the party will clamber up through the rocky glen to the spring for a draught of the delightful spring water there. Some will climb up the steep side of the mountain, others will explore the park until the supper hour arrives, when all will gather under the shade of the spreading chestnuts and enjoy the repast picnic fashion. The return to Plainfield will be made in the twilight. If the weather should be threatening the picnic and ride will be postponed.

DECORATED THE GRAVES.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS OBSERVED MEMORIAL DAY YESTERDAY.

Crescent Division, Assisted by Rathbone Division of Brooklyn, Visited the Local Cemeteries and Decorated The Graves.

Yesterday was observed by Crescent Division, U. R., K. of P., of this city, as Decoration Day, and they had for their guests about twenty members of Rathbone Division, of Brooklyn. The visitors were met at the North Avenue Station and escorted, in company with the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, to the various cemeteries about Plainfield and vicinity where special services were held over the graves of the deceased Knights. The cemeteries visited were North Plainfield, Plainfield avenue, Hillside and Scotch Plains. The service consisted of an address by Sir Knight Guard Joseph Blimm on the principles of the order; prayer by Chaplain J. S. Highm; and addresses by Captain J. E. Flannery, and First Lieutenant Jacob Blimm, Jr.

At the Plainfield avenue cemetery the members from Brooklyn conducted the service. At the conclusion of the services the Knights retired to Blimm's hotel, Scotch Plains, where supper was served.

Some Local Teddy Roosevelts.

The special committee of the Common Council, consisting of Councilmen Tolles, Baker and Westphal, met last Friday evening to consider the subject of substituting arc lights for incandescent upon the principal streets of the city. The members gave the matter their serious attention and decided to make a personal tour of investigation about the city streets some night in order to learn exactly what the present system of lighting amounts to. After its investigations are completed the committee will make a full report upon the matter.

Preached to the Cadets.

Twenty of the Plainfield high school cadets attended divine service at the Church of the Redeemer yesterday morning and listened to an interesting discourse by the pastor, of the church, Rev. Mr. Harris. The cadets all appeared in full uniforms under the command of Captain George F. Edwards.

BOWLING ON THE GREEN.

LADIES' DAY AT THE MIDDLESEX BOWLING GREEN CLUB GROUNDS.

It is One of the Social Events of Dunellen and is Held on the Lawn of C. H. Schepflin—The Guests Who Were Present.

One of the social events at Dunellen each year is the annual ladies' day of the Middlesex Bowling Green Club on their grounds at the charming home of C. H. Schepflin. The members of the club are all well-to-do and enjoy genuine sport, which happens to be bowling on the green. Last Saturday was the day chosen by the executive committee for the annual visitation of the women, most all of whom are wives or sisters of the members. Clear and beautiful weather had been arranged for and nothing to mar the full enjoyment of the event happened. The members and their wives and sisters gathered early in the afternoon and the largest part of the time was passed in bowling by the women. On this annual occasion the men are not allowed to bowl but all the privileges are extended to the women. Of course, the members did the honors by assisting the fair bowlers in rolling and gave them all necessary instructions. The woman bowled remarkably well and they were highly complimented for making such excellent scores. During the entire afternoon, Hart's orchestra, from New Brunswick discoursed a pleasing selection of music. Under a large lawn, Max Wiertz, the caterer, had prepared a most tempting supper. About 5 o'clock it was served and the jolly party gathered in a shady part of the grounds where amid cooling breezes and sweet strains of music a most delightful time was passed. Following the supper a social time was indulged in after which the members of the party left for their homes.

The Middlesex Bowling Green Club has been in existence eleven years and during that time it has been most successful in all of its undertakings. A majority of the members belong in New Brunswick while there are also members in Plainfield, Somerville, Perth Amboy and Dunellen. The executive committee, Frederick Weigel, City Attorney of New Brunswick; former Sheriff Peter W. Fick and Robert M. Pettit, also of New Brunswick, have served the club as such for three years, and their reputation is so well established that the members will not let them resign. As each year rolls by the committee seems to give the club and their fair friends a better time than the preceding year. During the summer months the club meets every other Saturday and one day in June is selected for the women. The officers of the club are President, C. H. Schepflin, Dunellen; Vice President, F. J. Richers, Perth Amboy; Secretary, H. Brewster Willis; Treasurer, P. W. Fick, of New Brunswick.

Those who were present on Saturday included the following:—Assemblyman James Fountain, Miss Fountain, Mr. and Mrs. J. Schwinger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pettit, Mr. and Mrs. Mundy, Mr. and Mrs. L. Powelson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brewster Willis, Mr. and Mrs. D. Betts, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Weigel, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hindell, Mr. and Mrs. Lundstead, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sperling and daughter, Charles Rusling, H. Manning, of New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Schepflin, Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Pettit, of Perth Amboy; Andrew Love, Sr., of Plainfield; Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Lippencott, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Heilner, Mrs. Buchannan, of Elizabeth; B. Kent, of Greenwich, Conn.

Funera of a Good Man.

The funera of William Britton Moore was held from the residence of his son, Fred S. Moore, 433 Orchard place, Saturday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, who spoke very highly of the deceased. The pall bearers were S. A. Davis, James Huntington, John Butler, Thomas Carty. The floral tributes were very beautiful. The remains were conveyed to Rahway for interment.

Religious Progress.

Rev. Dr. Winfield C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, preached on the Queen's Jubilee, last evening. He told something of the progress that had been made during her reign and told also of the religious advancement during that time. The sermon was an interesting one and was listened to by a large congregation.

Talked On the Queen's Jubilee.

The Queen's Jubilee was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, yesterday morning, at the Crescent Avenue church. There were several new ideas introducted in the discourse to which the congregation listened with interest.

SHORTAGE IN TREASURY

TROUBLE IN BENEFIT ASSOCIATION OF POND TOOL WORKS.

A Deficit of $540.02 Cannot Be Explained By the Treasurer, James D. Anderson—The Association Takes Action in the Case.

After a number of weeks of the utmost secrecy it has finally leaked out that the funds of the Benefit Association of Pond Tool Works are deficient to the amount of $540 02, which the members are unable to account for. Sometime ago the president, Councilman C. J. Newman, was injured and he was entitled to benefits from the association, and when he attempted to collect the money he was unable to get it until after seven weeks of the most persistent effort with the treasurer, J. D. Anderson. Mr. Newman began to think that something must be wrong and he at once instituted a thorough examination of all accounts. At first, he was unable to get any satisfaction from the treasurer who seemed to be unwilling to explain the shortage which was apparent to those who knew of the affair. Mr. Newman was not the only one who failed to receive benefits, and before it was surmised that there was a shortage in accounts several extra assessments were made to keep the treasury in funds, and at one time benefits were suspended for several weeks owing to the low condition of the treasury.

The members and officers began to wonder what had become of all the money supposed to be in the treasury, and accordingly the auditing committee of the association made a thorough investigation of the books. They met on several occasions with Mr. Anderson and tried to learn just where the shortage was. The latter was unable to explain the difficulty, although he held that he was only a few dollars short. After a very careful examination the auditing committee discovered the exact amount short and a meeting was called for Saturday evening for the purpose of making a report and also to give Mr. Anderson an opportunity to explain his side of the affair. The meeting was held in Red Men's Hall and there was an unusually large number of members present. The auditing committee made a statement showing the condition of the treasury up to the time Mr. Anderson was relieved of his office, and the amount short was stated to be $540.02. The committee also stated that they held a mortgage on the household furniture owned by their late treasurer, and that an insurance policy for $500 had been turned over to them. On investigation, however, it was learned that the policy had lapsed and consequently was of no account. Temporarily, Mr. Anderson was paying $2 a week to the association pending any final action that the members of the association might take. The committee said that Mr. Anderson had been before Judge DeMeza on three different occasions, and it was on one of these occasions that he and his wife signed papers turning over the furniture in their home to the association.

The above are the principal facts in the case and after they were presented to the members there was a general discussion. It was decided that the missing money must be paid back within two years or the claim would be outlawed. Most of the members were inclined to be lenient and give Mr Anderson all the time they could. The latter was present at the meeting and stated that in his own mind he was sure that he only owed the association a few dollars but the figures of the committee showed the accounts in a different light, and if the association would give him time he would pay it all back. One member thought it would be a good idea if Mr. Anderson could borrow the entire sum, $540.02, from some source and immediately make good the amount he is short.

After much discussion a resolution was adopted that Mr. Anderson pay $5 each week to the association for the term of two years, and upon any failure to meet the obligation he is to be prosecuted criminally. In connection with this resolution Robert Gow, Mr. Leland and Samuel Robinson were appointed a committee to see that the payment be made each week, and in case of failure they are to prosecute Mr. Anderson.

The latter said that he would be unable to meet the requirements of the resolution but was willing to do all that he could to pay back the deficiency.

The action taken by the members of the association last Saturday evening is said to be final, and if Mr. Anderson fails to meet the requirements, the other alternative will be followed.

Died After a Long Illness.

Mrs. Kate Evans died at her home, 413 Cottage place, yesterday morning, after an illness of four years. She has been very low for several days.

IN THE FOREST OF ARDEN

SCENES FROM "AS YOU LIKE IT" GIVEN ON THE MOUNTAIN.

The Shakespeare Club of Plainfield Held Its Annual Picnic at Hilltop, Mrs. F. O. Herring's Cottage on the Mountain.

Rosalind and Orlando and several of their friends from the forests of Arden were transported to the woods in the vicinity of Mrs. F. O. Herring's charming little cottage on the mountain, known as "Hilltop," Saturday afternoon, and there passed through the love scenes with which Shakespeare has credited them. It was the annual outing or picnic of the Shakespeare Club of Plainfield.

For twelve years the lovers of Shakespeare in this city and the borough have gathered together every two weeks during the winter months and read and recited portions of the works of their favorite poet. It has been the custom every year to end the season with an outing in some shady nook where the natural scenery can be utilized for the setting of the rustic scenes in Shakespeare's plays.

This year the members of the Shakespeare Club were invited to visit the charming little cottage on the mountain that Mrs. F. O. Herring had built for the entertainment of her friends. The invitation was accepted, and early in the forenoon three of Captain Hand's stages carried the party up the mountain to "Hilltop," as Mrs. Herring's cottage has been called.

It had been arranged that selections from "As You Like It" should be given right there in the woods with the green foliage for a background. Of course, the scenes selected were those in the forest of Arden, the natural setting for which was delightful. The members who were not taking part gathered around the cottage and watched the others.

The cast was as follows:

Rosalind	Mrs. C. E. Brooks
Audry	Miss Scribner
Duke	C. E. Brooks
Orlando	James R. Joy
Touchstone	D. N. Van Vliet
Jacques	John M. Whiton

While those who took part were amateurs, they filled the different parts with credit, and the selections were given with a simplicity and carelessness that mightily pleased their friends in the audience. Nobody felt called upon to criticise, and the scene came to a satisfactory close.

A bountiful dinner had been prepared for the Shakespearean members and all partook amid a lively flow of repartee. The dinner over, the party climbed into the stages once more and descended to earth by way of Scotch Plains.

SUCCESSFUL PASTORATE

REV. CORNELIUS SCHENCK YESTERDAY COMPLETED HIS 10TH YEAR.

He Has Been Pastor of Trinity Reformed Church for Ten Years—The Church Has Flourished Under His Care.

The tenth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., of Trinity Reformed church, was quietly noticed yesterday morning. Preceding the sermon, which was a Scriptural and spiritual discourse on the mind of Christ, Phil. 2:5, a statistical statement was read, which is of more than passing interest.

In the ten years the number of families have increased from 190 to 254; of communicant members from 360 to 515; of Sunday-shcool enrollment from 320 to 425. There were added to the church on confession of faith, 256, and by certificate, 250, making a total of 506; 50 of the members had died, while the number of funerals attended by the pastor was 216. The number of baptisms were: Infants, 96; adults, 107.

The contributions for strictly religious and benevolent objects have averaged over $1,000 yearly, and for congregational purposes over $6,000 yearly. The last of the mortgage indebtedness of the church was paid in 1892, and the society is without debt.

Dr. Schenck complimented the various organizations of the church on the work they had done and concluded with the prayer that the mind which was in Christ might be in them all.

Death Comes Quietly.

The death of Mrs. Michael Ettinger, aged 38 years, occurred yesterday morning, at her home on Cottage place. She had been ill for several months with consumption and her death was not wholly unexpected. She leaves a husband and two children. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning from the house at 9:30, and will be private.

—The bread, cakes and pies of Schlief's bakery, 132 Park avenue, recommend themselves.

INFECTION IN THE MILK.

CAUSE OF THE SCARLET FEVER EPIDEMIC SUPPOSEDLY DISCOVERED.

Two of the Sons of Milkman Nelson Giles Were Ill With the Disease—One Son Handled the Milk Cans.

Two weeks ago scarlet fever made its appearance in this city, but in a mild form. Nevertheless, the health authorities were somewhat disturbed, as it seemed impossible to tell how the disease was started and what caused it to spread. The members of the Board of Health have been quietly investigating the subject and Saturday afternoon discovered what they think is the cause. The son of Nelson Giles, a local milkman, who has been daily handling the milk cans, was found to be in the worst stage of the disease. Another son, who was taken ill with the fever some time ago, is now staying at his grandfather's farm at Stelton.

There has been a suspicion for some time that the disease was being spread through milk, but it was impossible for the Board to discover anything. All the milkmen that came to this city declared that there was no illness at their farms and an investigation did not reveal any.

Saturday afternon, Randolph Giles, son of Nelson Giles, called on Dr. Adams and explained that he was not feeling well. It did not take the doctor long to discover that the lad was in the worst stages of the disease and that the skin was scaling off. The doctor reported the matter to the Board of Health and young Giles was quarantined at his home in the Miller flats, Park avenue.

Mr. Giles' milk depot is in the old Alert Hose Company house on Madison avenue. He said he did not know of his son's illness when the health authorities called on him and finally informed him of the fact. He then had 280 quarts of milk in stock and Inspector Addis dumped it all into the sewer. He then came to McVey's Hotel, on North avenue, and dumped eighty quarts that had just been delivered there.

A storekeeper on West Front street had bought twelve quarts of Giles and had frozen it into ice cream when Inspector Addis arrived at his store and compelled him to throw it away.

It was learned that Russell Giles, another son of Nelson Giles, was taken ill some time ago and sent to his grandfather's farm near Stelton. It is supposed that he was suffering with scarlet fever. Mr. Giles' two farms were reported to be all right, all the help there being in a healthy condition. The members of the Board were of the opinion that the infection came from the milk depot where the two boys, Randolph and Russell were accustomed to handle the milk cans and assist in washing them.

Mr. Giles was greatly surprised at the visit of the Health Board, and professed complete ignorance of the illness of his son. Mr. Giles and his other son, Mifford Giles, were instructed not to carry any more milk until they were given permission.

Yesterday morning, when Inspector Addis came down town, he found Mifford Giles driving around with two large cans of milk. Inspector Addis ordered him to stop and throw the milk into the sewer. He learned from Roundsman Flynn who had been watching Giles, that he had left a can at McVey's. Mr. McVey said that he knew of no milk being left there. Giles said that he had left some there and it was found in the cellar. When the inspector found it, Mr. McVey was pouring the milk into an out house. Inspector Addis threw the rest into the sewer.

It had been understood that Mifford Giles was to board on East Third street until the quarantine was removed from his home but when the inspector found that he had been delivering milk, Giles was sent home to remain there in the quarantine. He said that he did not think it would do any harm for him to deliver a little milk, Addis alleges.

An improved fumigating apparatus was received from Asbury Park today. The house of Mayor Fisk will be fumigated this afternoon. Mifford Giles, who was sent home, will be disinfected this afternoon, as will also Giles' milk depot, and Mr. Giles will be allowed to continue the business after all chance of contagion is over. While the Board wishes to prevent any further spread of the disease, it does not wish to injure Mr. Giles' business any more than can be really helped.

Since Saturday, nine new cases of scarlet fever have been reported to the Board, making a total of forty-one cases, thirteen of which are in six families.

The samples of water taken from the drug stores and other places in the city. have been found to be in good condition.

THE END IS IN SIGHT

THE WOOL SCHEDULE TO BE PUSHED

Party Differences Cause More Perplexity at Present Than the Bill Itself. The House Programme the Usual Routine.

Washington, June 21.—The Republican senators in charge of the tariff bill begin to feel that the end is almost in sight. They do not hope to conclude the consideration of the bill by the close of the present week, but they expect by that time to be able to say when they can complete the work.

As a matter of fact, the difficulty of adjusting differences in their own party is causing the managers more perplexity at present than is the open opposition to the bill in the senate. It has been found almost impossible to harmonize the contending forces among Republicans on the tobacco and wool schedules. The differences on tobacco have been compromised, though not to the satisfaction of all concerned, and if there should be another caucus before the tobacco schedule is taken up in the senate the question is liable to be reopened there.

The wool schedule now confronts the senate, and it is Senator Allison's purpose to press the schedule forward to a close. Hence, it will be impossible to postpone for a very much longer time the settlement of the differences on this question. It is expected that if the committee is not able to announce a determination at once the matter will be referred to an early caucus, or a caucus may be called if the committee fixes a rate that is not satisfactory to the wool men.

There is little doubt that an advance will be conceded by the committee, but the question of interest is whether the increase will be all that the wool men demand.

The wool schedule will, of course, give rise to an animated debate, but the Democratic senators say there is no disposition on their part to needlessly prolong it. There are also numerous articles on the free list and in the "sundry" schedule which will arouse differences of opinion, and if the Republicans do not withdraw the internal revenue features of the bill there will be a sharp clash over this.

They are practically decided, however, to retreat from these provisions. It is also practically determined that the house provision in regard to Hawaiian sugar will be continued, pending the disposition of the Hawaiian annexation treaty. For the rest, the question of reciprocity and the problem presented by the trusts in connection with the tariff are still undetermined by the Republicans themselves, but there is no doubt that there will be more or less general debate upon any proposition agreed to when presented in the senate.

The programme in the house will be the same as during past weeks. There will be two sessions, one on Monday and another on Thursday. It is probable that the committee on rules will bring in a special order on Monday for the consideration of the bill appropriating money to repair the drydock at the Brooklyn navy yard, and the bill will no doubt be passed.

Contagious Diseases of Animals.

Washington, June 21.—In accordance with the law for the suppression of contagious diseases among domestic animals, Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department has issued to managers and agents of railroads and transportation companies, stockmen and others a circular notifying them that the contagious disease known as sheep scab, or scabies of sheep, exists among sheep in the United States and that it is a violation of the law to receive for transportation or transport any stock affected with that disease from one state or territory to another.

It is also a violation of the law to deliver for such transportation to any railroad company, or master or owner of any boat or vessel, any sheep, knowing them to be affected with the contagious disease referred to, and it is also unlawful to drive on foot or transport in private conveyance from one state or territory to another any sheep so affected. Transportation companies and individuals engaged in the business of shipping and transporting sheep are requested to co-operate with the department in the enforcement of the laws for preventing the spread of the disease, and orders are given that cars, boats or vehicles which have been used in the transportation of animals affected shall be immediately cleansed and disinfected.

River Steamer Burned.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., June 21.—The big ferry steamer International of the Canadian Pacific Car and Passenger Transfer company was burned at its dock in Prescott. The fire started near the boilers, and the boat was a mass of flames when discovered. To save it, the steamer was scuttled and sunk in about 16 feet of water. The full extent of the damages cannot be learned until the boat is raised, but it will foot up several thousand dollars. A burning timber fell foul of the whistle valve, causing a prolonged shriek that aroused the inhabitants of both this city and Prescott.

Wrecked Schooner's Crew Landed.

Philadelphia, June 21.—The tug Lillie Graham, Captain Le Compt, has brought to this city the crew of the schooner John C. Atkins, which was run into off Fort Delaware by a Reading tug towing barges. The schooner lost her deckload of lumber and became waterlogged. After the crew had been taken off the Atkins was towed to Newcastle flats, where she now lies. The tug was not damaged and proceeded on its way.

Miser Killed by Lightning.

Springfield, Ills., June 21.—During a thunderstorm Christian Gonalt, alias Chris Minenkin, was killed by lightning while plowing a field near Farmersville. It was discovered on searching his person that he had about $25,000 in cash. He had been living a miser's life.

Senator Aldrich Convalescent.

Providence, June 21.—United States Senator Nelson Aldrich, who has been resting at his home at Sharwich Neck for some days, will return to Washington next week. He is greatly improved in health.

THE JUBILEE BEGUN.

Queen Victoria Attends the Ceremonies at St. George's Chapel.

THE SCENE WAS MOST IMPRESSIVE.

The Service Was Private and For the Members of the Royal Family, All of Whom Were Present—Her Majesty Very Much Affected.

London, June 21.—Queen Victoria began the celebration of her jubilee yesterday, as was befitting her entire career, before the altar of her faith, while throughout London, the United Kingdom and the empire, in every cathedral, church or chapel of the Established Church of England were held services similar to those at St. George's chapel, Windsor, where her majesty paid her devotions and offered solemn thanksgiving.

The announcement that the service at St. George's chapel would be private and for the members of the royal family prevented the gathering of a large crowd. The scene was most impressive and the service very simple. Her majesty sat in the chair of state immediately in front of the communion rail and just beside the brass plate the inscription of which designates the spot which was the temporary place of interment of the prince consort.

The ladies and gentlemen who are the grand officers of the queen's household entered first, followed by the military Knights of Windsor in the full costume of cocked hats and scarlet coats. The Duke of Devonshire and Lord Rosebery occupied their stalls as Knights of the Garter.

The Dean of Windsor, wearing the insignia of chaplain of the Order of the Garter, officiated, assisted by the lord bishop of Barry and several canons.

The Queen's Arrival.

Punctually at 11 o'clock, amid the soft strains of an organ voluntary, the queen arrived from the cloisters at the entrance. Assisted by her Indian attendant, she walked slowly to the chair of state, the congregation standing. She was dressed all in black except for a white tuft in her bonnet. The Empress Frederick of Germany, attired in deep black, took the seat at the right of the queen, while the Duke of Connaught, wearing his Windsor uniform, seated himself at her left.

The others grouped themselves closely behind and looked very like a simple family of worshipers. Among them were the Duchess of Connaught, Prince Henry of Prussia and the Princess Henry, Prince Christian and Princess Christian, with their children, Princess Henry of Battenberg, the Grand Duke Sergius and the grand duchess.

Ordinary morning prayers began with a short exhortation from I. Tim., and the Suffrages after the Creed contained these sentences:

Priest—O Lord save the queen.

Answer—Who putteth her trust in thee.

Priest—Send her help from thy holy place.

Answer—And evermore mightily defend her.

Priest—Let her enemies have no advantage over her.

Answer—Let not the wicked approach to hurt her.

After the first collect a special collect was read, and instead of the usual prayer for the queen and royal family two special prayers were substituted.

A special prayer for unity was said, and there were special psalms and gospels used instead of those for the day, the gospel being the sixteenth verse of the twenty-second chapter of St. Matthew, "Render, therefore, unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's."

There was no sermon, but a special hymn, written by the Right Rev. William Walsham, lord bishop of Wakefield, with music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, was sung at her majesty's request.

Before the benediction a special thanksgiving was offered.

Music by St. George's Choir.

The choir of St. George's chapel rendered the musical portion of the service, Sir Walter Parratt presiding at the organ. The service lasted 40 minutes, the queen remaining seated throughout and following closely the special prayers and hymn.

At the end there was a pause. The queen, with bowed head, continued in silent prayer. Then followed a touching scene, which will ever linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. Summoning the Empress Frederick, who bowed low at her side, the queen kissed her on both cheeks. The Duke of Connaught and the others of the family followed, receiving a similar token of affection on bended knee. In many cases the recipient was kissed several times.

The queen was profoundly moved, and the tears rolled down her cheeks. At last, and evidently with great reluctance, she beckoned her Indian attendant, and, leaning on his arm, passed slowly out of the chapel, the entire congregation standing, the soft light falling through the multicolored windows and the exquisite strains of the organ rising and swelling beneath the gothic bannered roof. It was a scene never to be forgotten and thrilled all present with strong emotion.

Part of a Lost Vessel's Cargo.

Alpena, Mich., June 21.—The steamer Root has arrived here with a barrel of copper from the wreck of the long lost steamer Pewabic. This is conclusive proof that the much sought for ship has at last been found. The copper is in nuggets and weighs 1,500 pounds. The divers say that the hull of the Pewabic is badly broken up, and for a radius of 15 feet around the boat the copper and iron of her cargo can be seen in large quantities.

better worth following than any other will bring you direct to our store when you want anything in the line of paints. When a mistake is easily avoided it's scarcely worth while to run the risk of making one. Buying poor paint is a needless waste of money. It's paying for something you don't want, because it won't answer the purpose. Only paint that wears and is proof against the exposure of our climate is worth the cost of putting on. Ours are best and cheapest.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Mabel Du Bois, of Park avenue, is the guest of relatives in White House.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, returned to Hoboken, this morning, for a month's supplementary term at Stevens Institute.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Harriet E. Delano, formerly junior teacher at the Plainfield High School, has been spending the winter in charge of the hospital ward at Wellesley College.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—In a few days the plans for the new East Third Street Mission chapel will be ready and then the contractors will have an opportunity of bidding on the work.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

DECISION IN LIQUOR CASE.

A Person Who Knowingly Violates Must Be Made to Pay.

Kansas City, June 21.—An interesting decision bearing on the Kansas prohibitory law has been rendered by Judge Gates in the circuit court here in the case of the Val Blatz Brewing company against the firm of Bobrecker Bros. The plaintiff consigned a quantity of beer to itself in Leavenworth, Kan., being both consignee and consignor. Then, contrary to the rules and regulations made and provided by the prohibitory law, resold the liquor to Bobrecker Bros. of this city.

The latter refused to pay for it and when sued for the value of the liquor set up the unique defense that the plaintiff was violating the prohibitory law of Kansas in selling the beer, and that the comity of states forbade the legalization by one state of an action which was illegal in another state.

Judge Gates held that the defendants knew the prohibitory law was being violated and that they could not hide behind the known violation of a law. The liquor was bought and must be paid for. Judgment was rendered for the brewing company.

DEBS' FOLLOWERS.

They Adopt a Constitution, Which Is Against All Monopolies.

Chicago, June 21.—Eugene V. Debs declared in an interview that the free silver wave had receded to such an extent that it was a dead issue.

Mr. Debs will encourage socialism as the issue in 1900. The constitution, which has been adopted by an overwhelming majority, favors the public ownership of all industries controlled by monopolies, trusts and combines, such as railroads, telegraphs, telephones, transportation, waterworks, gas and electric light plants. It also favors public proprietary control of all mines, oil and gas wells. It favors reduction of the hours of labor in proportion to the progress of production. Relief for the unemployed is suggested in the undertaking of public works and improvements.

Woolen Mills Burned at Providence.

Providence, June 21.—Fire broke out among a number of bales of raw wool stored in the house of the Manton mills, at Manton village, at the city line. The flames quickly spread through the three-story wooden building, which was soon gutted. The automatic sprinklers in the finishing room of the main mill went off, and the damage to the goods in this department from water will equal the loss of the wool. The entire damage is estimated at about $60,000 by the owner, H. A. Kimball. The mill is employed on woolens and worsteds and has about 500 hands. The loss is fully covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Receiver For Mining Property.

Denver, June 21.—Judge Allen has decided to appoint a receiver for the Bassick mine, but the receiver has not yet been named. Under a recent decision of the federal courts E. C. Bassick is in possession of the property. The present action was brought by minority stockholders in the Bassick company, asking that the court determine the rights of the company as against Bassick and Dennis Ryan. It is alleged that these two entered into a conspiracy to defraud the company out of the property. The Bassick mine is located in Custer county. It is valued at $5,000,000.

Unknown Man Killed by the Cars.

Gardiner, Mass., June 21.—A freight train on the Fitchburg railroad struck and killed an unknown man who was walking on the track three miles east of this town. When picked up, it was found that the wheels of the train had cut the body completely in two, while the left leg and arm were badly mangled. Nothing was found that would lead to an identification except a handkerchief on which was the name E. Burdick. The man was dressed in a black worsted suit, a white shirt and congress shoes. The body will be buried tomorrow unless claimed before then.

Earthquake In San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 21.—Two sharp and severe shocks of earthquake were felt here yesterday, the official time of the first, as taken by the United States weather bureau, being 12:14. It was followed almost immediately by a second shock. The vibrations were from west to east. Clocks were stopped, suspended lamps and decorations were broken in some places, but no real damage is reported. The shocks were the most severe experienced here for many years. The earthquake was general throughout the state.

Suicide of a Contractor.

Syracuse, June 21.—Henry F. Crawford, a contractor, aged 47 years, committed suicide at his home in this city by cutting his throat with a razor. He had been insane at intervals for a year, suffering from paresis. The act appeared not to have been premeditated. He had just shaved himself and appeared to have suddenly taken the notion of cutting his throat.

Deficit In Pennsylvania's Finances.

Harrisburg, June 21.—Deputy Attorney General Elkin has given out a statement of the condition of the state's finances, in which he shows there is a deficit of $3,500,000 in the state treasury. Mr. Elkin says the legislature has for several years appropriated more money than the net revenues received by the state, hence the present large deficiency.

Accidents to Boys.

Waltham, Mass., June 21.—Two boys are at the hospital here at the point of death from concussion of the brain. One of them, Daniel Sullivan, aged 15, of Arlington, jumped off a moving train on the Fitchburg road. The second is Otis Steele of Weston, who collided with a tree while scorching down Charles street.

Postoffice Robbed.

Redstone, N. H., June 21.—Wyman & Dobbs' store and the postoffice have been broken open and cash and checks to the amount of about $1,000 stolen. Mr. Wyman is postmaster and keeps the office in his store. All the postoffice funds were taken.

Student's Body Recovered.

Hanover, N. H., June 21.—Harold Dawes Gilbert of Newton Highlands, Mass., the Dartmouth student who was drowned in the Connecticut river while canoeing nine days ago, has been found on the edge of a log jam.

BRANDED IN CHURCH

A Christianized Hebrew Branded as an Immoral Person.

WAS SUSPENDED FROM COMMUNION.

Has Been Seeking For a Long Time to Become a Presbyterian Preacher. His Wife Speaks In His Defense and Causes a Sensation.

New York, June 21.—Herman Warszawiak the Christianized Hebrew who has been seeking admission into the Presbyterian church as a minister and who for a long time had the support of Rev. Dr. John Hall of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, was yesterday morning publicly denounced before the congregation in that church as an immoral person and guilty of gambling. He was also suspended from the communion of the church.

When the judgment was read to the fashionable congregation, Mrs. Warszawiak, who was present, arose and declared in a loud voice that her husband was innocent. She was put out of the church, while the pastor announced a hymn to quiet the congregation.

Defends Her Husband.

Mrs. Warszawiak said: "My husband is innocent. I cannot sit here and allow him to be harshly spoken of before so many people and not defend him." The ushers, at a signal from Dr. Pritchard of Alexander chapel, who had taken Dr. Hall's place for the day, led Mrs. Warszawiak from the church.

The congregation had begun to sing the hymn announced. Mrs. Warszawiak at first resisted, but was soon prevailed upon to leave.

Notwithstanding the singing of the hymn, the excitement, though suppressed, was intense.

After the incident the services went on as usual, but at the close many remained to talk of the scene, and it was late when the church was closed.

An Interesting Case.

The announcement of the finding in the case of Warszawiak yesterday was the culmination of one of the most interesting church suits of recent years. A young man had done missionary work among the Hebrews, his own people, whom he had left.

Supposedly prospering in his work and taken into the friendship of one of the most influential preachers of this city, he had, by the finding of the church, been declared a hypocrite and gambler.

The session of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church had been investigating for a long time the status of Warszawiak. Detectives had been employed to look into the charges, and they had been aided by Anthony Comstock.

The specifications on which he was found guilty charged him with playing roulette and gambling in a poolroom and gambling house in Weehawken, N. J., called the Hoffman House. The decision in the case was reached last Thursday night.

Severe Storm In Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., June 21.—The severest storm known in this section visited Montgomery. The wind registered 54 miles an hour for a few minutes, and almost three-quarters of an inch of rain fell, within 20 minutes, which is more than the total rainfall for the month of May. The barometer dropped two-tenths, while the temperature dropped 20 degrees in as many minutes. The wind's velocity was greater than ever before registered here. Shade trees all over town were felled and crops in the surrounding country damaged, numerous roofs were blown off and fences laid low.

Riot at a Negro Excursion.

Chattanooga, June 21.—A special from Gadsden, Ala., says: Henry Thomas, a negro excursionist from Birmingham, fired into a party of Gadsden negroes just as the train was leaving and wounded Will Garner, a local cabman. Garner and his friends returned the fire, and a general riot ensued. Thomas was shot in the back and neck and was stabbed twice in the shoulder and will die. Two other Birmingham negroes were shot and another was stabbed. Mean whisky was the cause of the trouble.

Engine Derailed by Cows.

Lexington, Mass., June 21.—An engine on the Boston and Maine railroad, attached to a freight train running from Lowell to Bedford, ran into and killed four cows which were upon the track near Bedford Springs. The engine was thrown into the ditch upon its side. Engineer Bushee was caught underneath it and was badly, though not fatally scalded. None of the cars left the rails. A wrecking train has put the engine upon the rails.

St. Louis Poolrooms.

St. Louis, June 21.—The St. Louis poolrooms, which for the last six months have enjoyed entire immunity from police interference, will, it is expected, be closed by the operation of the Missouri Breeders' law. As there appears to be some doubt concerning the constitutionality of the law, Cole E. Ullman will keep his book open in the expectation of being raided and making a test case. All other poolrooms will close.

Killed by a Pitched Ball.

Saratoga, June 21.—Austin Smith, aged 19, the son of James Smith of Sandy Hill, was killed while playing baseball with a picked nine on the Washington county fair grounds, located between Sandy Hill and Fort Edward. Smith was at the bat, when Pitcher Edward McGinnis pitched a curved ball, which struck Smith under the ear, causing concussion of the brain and almost instant death.

Rumors of a Big Defalcation.

EFFICIENT HEALTH BOARD.

The efficiency of a Board of Health can only be fully appreciated by an experience such as Plainfield is now passing through. Citizens can now have the satisfaction of knowing that Plainfield has one of the best and most efficient Health Boards in the State and that the members of it are constantly on the lookout for the welfare of the city. The vigilance of the Board which has kept the recent epidemic within small bounds and now located the cause, speaks well for the Board. Dr. Hunt, of the State Board, who came to assist in the search, is very high in his praise of the local Health Board.

WESTFIELD BOYS STARTED WEST.

They Became Tired Out at Elizabethport and Returned Home.

Two Westfield lads, Leland Smith and Victor French, aged 11 and 12 years, respectively, disappeared from their homes on Thursday morning and, when they did not return at evening, their parents became alarmed and started out to search for them. It was learned that they had told other boys about town that they were going to Echo Lake, fishing. It was feared that the boys had been drowned and a searching party went to the lake. No trace of them could be found there, however, and anxiety as to their whereabouts continued until Friday morning, when the boys reappeared at their homes hungry and penitent. They had walked all the way to Elizabethport, with the attention of going west to seek their fortunes. Their courage failed when night came on and they set out for home again. They were much exhausted from the long tramp, and promised never to do so more.

DIED AT THE HOSPITAL.

An Aged Minister of Scotch Plains Passed Away Yesterday.

The death of the Rev. W. F. Cable, aged 74 years, a resident of Scotch Plains, occurred at Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday night after an illness of short duration. The deceased was taken to the hospital last Monday suffering with bronchitis and heart trouble and he failed rapidly. Mr. Cable was a retired rector in the Episcopal church and the Bishop of this Diocese will make arrangements for the interment and service owing to the fact that the deceased has no family or relatives. He had been in this country about one year and moved from Hoboken to Scotch Plains a few months ago. A. M. Runyon & Son, undertakers, have taken charge of the body and the service will be held from the Church of the Heavenly Rest tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be at Hillside.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Addressed the Graduates.

An interesting service was held at Grace M. E. church last evening, when the pastor, Rev. H. J. Johnston, delivered a special sermon to the three graduates of the North Plainfield High School. Seats were reserved for the graduates, teachers and superintendent of the school. Mr. Johnston took for his subject the word, "Ambition," and from it he drew many helpful lessons which he impressed strongly on the minds of all present. The musical part of the service was a feature which all enjoyed.

Woodruff, 215 East Second street, the pastor of the deceased, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., officiating. The home was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends who had personally known the deceased and loved her for her many excellent qualities. Mr. Schenck read the favorite psalm, the 103d, and also the favorite Bible chapter, the 11th of John. He spoke tender words of comfort to the bereaved family and commended the beautiful Christian life of the deceased to all. He portrayed in a very impressive and beautiful manner the departed as being asleep, not dead.

A quartette consisting of Miss Blair, Miss Newell, Messrs. Clark and Cutter, sang "No Sorrow There," and "The Christian's Good Night," very effectively.

THE PASTOR'S SIDE.

Says There Was No Trouble in the First Church of Christ.

To the Editor of the The Daily Press:

Dear Sir:—I beg leave to make known through your columns, that the article in your Saturday evening's paper, June 19, entitled, "Church Unity at Zero," is misleading and partially untrue. The statement,—"For sometime past the members of the First Church of Christ have been at variance with each other regarding the government of the church affair,"—has no foundation, but on the countrary, the church has not been more harmonious, and as a whole has never done a better work, than in the past few weeks; and as for the pastor preaching for $3.90 per week no such thing was ever arranged for or thought of by the church or pastor, and nothing was said or done on Friday evening contrary to the carrying out of the contract previously made and well known by both parties.

The officers were elected in decency and in order, and not one angry word was uttered nor was there one moment of disorder during the entire evening. The meeting closed with the spirit of the song,—"God be With You Till We Meet Again," which was heartily sung by all, and the benediction.

In justification of the church, the pastor and your appreciated columns these words seem necessary.

Very respectfully yours,
W. O. Thomas,
Pastor.

"MELLOWING" SMALL STATAURY.

A Cheap and Simple Way to Give New Pieces the Ivory Tint.

Nowadays when small casts of the great pieces of statuary are beginning to replace the hopelessly inartistic bisque shepherds and sheperdesses of a decade or two ago, it is a matter of economy for the mistress of the house to understand the art of "ivorizing." The glaring white Venus of Milo, which one may purchase from the basket of the peripatetic art dealer, may be made softly mellow and beautiful at about one-tenth of the price necessary to buy her already "mellowed." The medallion heads of the poets, musicians and conquerors of the world with which aesthetically intellectual young persons love to adorn their rooms, are also much improved by being subjected to the mellowing process.

Besides the cast, the requirements for the work are a cake of white soap, powdered raw sienna and turpentine, with a large stock of patience, care and painstaking. The process with all its different, trying periods, requires about three days. The first experiment should be made on either cheap or damaged casts.

Fill two large tins or basins with water. Then make the water very soapy by rubbing in it a cake of white soap. Use the contents of one of these vessels for bathing your cast. Afterward let it become thoroughly dry. Then take the second basin, put into the soapy water enough powdered raw sienna to color the water to a pale tint, and bathe the cast with the solution three times, allowing it to dry between each application. The raw sienna is deceptive, and it is better to give three washes and produce a gradual shade, than to use the wash but once, and produce a too somber effect. The tinting of raw sienna is then put on with a brush. Next melt some beeswax on a stove or above the gas, and thin it with turpentine. Pour this mixture over the cast, and the result of your labors is ready for a room with a dry atmosphere, where it should remain over night. The final touch is that of polishing with a dry cloth or a bit of chamois.—New York Sun.

AN OLD NEVADA TRAGEDY.

The Fight Between Bodlen and Chimay at the Bodie Saloon.

"I saw a great deal of killing in one form or another, and a heap of savage fights in Nevada's mountains," said Capt. William Mason, once of the Comstock Lode and a score of other lodes in the Silver State, "but for surprise and horror the fight between Bodlen and Chimay in the Bodie saloon lay over anything else by long odds. It was about midnight that the men fell to shooting—what it was about I forget now—but the saloon was running full blast, and there was a scattering to get out of the way of the shots. But the shooting was all on one side, for the cylinder on Chimay's pistol wouldn't revolve, and Bodlen sent shots into him until Chimay fell with enough holes in him to let out three lives. He was carried into a back room and laid out on the floor to wait for the Coroner, and then everybody went back into the front part of the saloon, and the games and the drinking went on as lively as before.

"Bodlen, as the winner, was naturally popular and a good deal looked up to that night, and had a good many invitations to drink, and he set 'em up himself off and on. He was standing at the bar with a group around him, the hero of the night. Of a sudden the door of the back room, where Chimay had been laid away, opened, and the first man that looked gave a yell like an Indian and nearly fell backward, and the rest of us felt like doing the same thing when we saw that it was Chimay standing there, pistol in hand, looking round. He saw the man he wanted, and by this time everybody between him and Bodlen had got out of the way. He raised his pistol and Bodlen pulled his, and the shots rang out again, but this time Chimay's pistol cylinder revolved, and at his second shot Bodlen dropped his pistol, staggered and went down on his face, shot through the heart. Chimay watched him fall, and then his pistol dropped from his hand and he fell backward into the room a corpse for good this time.

"For clear nerve and resolution, what Chimay had done beat anything I ever knew of. Left to himself he had revived, picked up his pistol, taken it apart, fixed the cylinder so that it would work, and then came out and shot his man. That was a specimen chip of Nevada in the old days."

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.!

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mr. Runyon and son, Albert, of Plainfield, were the guests of friends in the borough on Saturday.

John Van Middlesworth and daughter, Miss Van Middlesworth, of the borough, spent Saturday at Coney Island.

John Auten, of the borough, left Saturday for Chatham, where he will spend the summer at the Fairview House with friends.

Mrs. Cannon, who has been ill for some time past, is reported as being much improved and hopes of her speedy recovery are entertained.

John Probasco, of Pittstown, this State, who has been the guest of friends in this vicinity for several days, returned to his home on Saturday. Mr. Probasco will again visit friends in the borough this week.

Charles Johnston is not only interested in the selling of real estate, but of late he has interested himself in tilling the soil. Mr. Johnston is somewhat of an expert in farming and knows how to raise the best of crops.

The reference made in The Daily Press of last Saturday to the very dusty condition of the streets in the borough seems to have met with favorable comment. The dust is certainly one of the worst things that Dunellenites have to contend with at present, and at a very slight expense the streets of the borough could be sprinkled and everybody could live in comfort during the summer months.

About twenty-five members of the Lawn Tennis Association of the North Plainfield Grace M. E. church spent Saturday afternoon with the Dunellen Lawn Tennis Association and a very pleasant time was the result. The afternoon was spent in playing tennis and some very good scores were made. The Plainfield party was chaperoned by Revs. Johnston and O'Donnell, and among those from Plainfield who played were: Miss Marguerite Schuck, the Misses Carroll, Miss Smith, Dr. H. K. Carroll, Raymond Carroll, Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor of Grace M. E. church; Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of Monroe Avenue church. The social part of the gathering was a feature and it is quite likely that the Dunellen Association will visit the Plainfield Association at an early date.

Over seventy Knights of Pythias from Plainfield and Brooklyn visited this place yesterday afternoon and decorated the graves of their dead brethern. At the Fanwood station the visitors were met by the members of Goodwill Lodge, of Scotch Plains, and escorted to the cemetery. After the decoration services the Knights marched in a body to Blimm's Hotel, and there partook of a fine dinner.

WESTFIELD

PASTOR TURNED DOWN.

REV. MR. FRANCIS DID NOT DELIVER THE BACCALAUREATE.

Although It Was His Turn, He Was Informed That The School Trustees Would Have Another Man—Other Items.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Lincoln High School, was preached by Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D., in the Methodist church last evening. The sermon was an eloquent one. A large audience was present and several selections were sung by the High School choir. It has been customary in years past for the ministers of the place to meet and select one of their number to deliver the baccalaureate sermon, the honor being conferred upon the different pastors in rotation. This year, however, a most surprising thing happened to disturb the usual course of events. The Rev. Mr. Ketcham, of the Congregational church, and Martin Welles, a member of the board of school trustees, called upon Rev. William Ruth, pastor of the Methodist church, before action had been taken by the pastors, and asked him to deliver the baccalaureate sermon. This Mr. Ruth refused to do, upon the ground that it was not his turn, and that he had not been selected by the ministers' meeting. Ketcham and Welles then informed Mr. Ruth that any other man whom the ministers' meeting should select would be turned down by the school board. Mr. Ruth, however, remained firm in his refusal. The news of this interview soon reached the ears of Rev. G. A. Francis, of the Baptist church, whose turn it was to deliver the sermon. Mr. Francis demanded an explanation of Mr. Ketcham's attitude, and the situation was commencing to look ominous when someone suggested as a compromise the name of Dr. Green, a retired minister, living in the town. There was no opposition to the selection of Dr. Green, and as he has no church Mr. Ruth offered the use of his church for the sermon, and the offer was accepted. The reasons for Dr. Green's appointment were hushed up for a time, but the matter is now freely talked of, and people are inquiring who is really responsible for the slight cast upon Mr. Francis.

H H. Lamson, of Roseville, visited friends in town yesterday.

Dr. Elmer Wherry, of New York city, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Lou Bennett, of Elm street, is visiting friends at Narragansett Pier.

B. J. Crosby, of Westfield avenue, will return from his western trip July 1st.

Mrs. R. M. Hooper, of New York, spent Saturday with friends in this place.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Rice, of Newark, spent Friday and Saturday in town.

Welch Bros. have finished painting the house of J. Dix Ritchie, on Charles street.

Miss Marvin, of Smith College, is the guest of Mrs. George Embree, of Kimball avenue.

I. Kamenetzky, the Broad street tailor, has placed a fine awning in front of his store.

The Epworth League will hold a business meeting in the parlors of the M. E. church this evening.

Miss Ella Hall, Edwin Hall and Charles Manning rode to New Brunswick and back on their bicycles yesterday afternoon.

The Westfield Club baseball team defeated the Crescents, of Plainfield, at that city Saturday, by the score of 16 to 9. A full account of the game appears in another column.

The Rev. G. A. Francis, of the Baptist church, has gone to Clayton, to attend the ordination of his youngest brother, Rev. Eben Francis, which will take place in that place on Wednesday.

The Westfield Club baseball team has at last secured the promise of two games with the Cranfords, for $20 a game. This is encouraging, as it assures an addition of $40 to Westfield's treasury.

The mid-monthly prayer meeting of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church was held in the Sunday-school room of that church this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The leader was Mrs. David Williams.

The ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal church gave an ice cream festival upon the lawn of George Embree's residence, on Kimball avenue, Saturday afternoon and evening. The house and the lawn were prettily decorated with flags and Japanese lanterns. Tables were arranged upon the lawn and within the house a cake sale was conducted. The waitresses were Miss Mable Holcomb, Misses Bessie and Maud Eliot, Mrs. Wiggs, Miss Sergeant, Miss Marvin, Miss Hilda Green, Miss Gertrude Noe, Miss Ethel Green and Miss Alice Barton.

A FOOD MEDICINE.

How to Cure Ordinary Ills the Easiest Way.

In late years no one remedy has grown more in favor with physicians than Malt Extract. If it is rightly made it is a tonic that can be depended on every time.

It is as much a food as a medicine, but is food of an unusual kind. It is food in soluble and concentrated form all ready to slip into the blood and renovate the system without taxing digestion. Therefore, if your stomach is weak it does you good just the same.

We recommend Crown Brand Extract of Malt as one you can rely on. It is made by a thoroughly reliable house and we have it put up under our own name as an additional guarantee of its merit.

We are also able to save you something on the cost. Other good extracts will cost you at least 25 per cent more. We constantly endeavor to sell the best of everything for less and this is another instance of it. Extract of Malt is especially recommended for dyspepsia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and general debility. It is the ideal tonic for invalids, convalescents and for debilitated women. 15c. bot., $1 65 doz. Frank Rowley, druggist, 45 Somerset St.

It is Well to Remember

That the production of merchandise far outstrips its consumption. This will go far towards explaining the apparent modesty of prices on many seasonable goods. Hardly a day passes but what we have shown to us some special things that the manufacturer is overstocked—he needs money and the goods are offered to us in many cases at less than the cost of production. It's a wise loss for the maker, a good purchase for us, and a big bargain benefit for you.

ZUNI BREADMAKERS.

FOOD MADE FOR WARRIOR AND HUNTERS GOING ON LONG TRIPS.

Called Paper Bread—Is Baked in One Long Strip and Folded Like the Leaves of a Magazine—The Women take Great Pride in Making One Unbroken Sheet.

"During a residence at Zuni, the largest of the Indian pueblos, in Northwestern New Mexico, I have often watched the mothers and daughters of the tribe at their interesting work of making haiwe, or 'paper-bread,'" says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion. "They use a basis of either corn or wheat, which is often boiled in advance to make it more tender, and is then ground on much the same primitive style of stone hand-mill as that used in old Mexico. * * * After the maize of wheat has been once ground through the hand-mill, it is passed through the same operation at least once more, to make it still finer, and then it is mixed into a very thin batter in an olla, or decorated water jar, fashioned from clay, fired and painted by the women pottery makers of the tribe, who are wonderfully adept in the potter's art, and that of decoration in striking and yet tasteful designs.

"If our flour prepared for the baking be of wheat the bread will be of a bluish tint, and if of corn, whiter, while the preparation has been made above the wood-fed flame burning in the fireplace of the stone or concrete house, there has been slowly heating a slab of stone, the upper surface of which is smooth and oily by long use in making haiwe. Kneeling before the hot stone, when all is ready, the Indian woman dips her hand into the jar of batter at her side and then swiftly sweeps that dripping member over the face of the tablet, leaving a broad veneer of liquid dough, which thoroughly bakes in a few seconds. Catching the thin edge of the sheet of bread by the fingers of the other hand, she peels it almost off the smooth stone by one dextrous jerk, leaving one edge still attached. Giving another sweep of her now freshly battered palm, she joins the two separate sheets into one by slightly overlapping the adhering film with the fresh application. The double operation of smearing and pealing continues in swift succession, and by the method described there is no break in the long strip of bread, which falls in ever-lengthening folds by the side of the panadera as she works. A Zuni woman takes great pride in her ability to show the entire baking in one unbroken sheet, no matter how long she may continue. When finished, the long bolt of bread is folded much after the fashion of the leaves of an uncut mazazine, and is then tightly rolled, that it may not dry. In this manner it is kept in a state of preservation for future use, for it is seldom baked for immediate consumption.

"This 'paper-bread' is not used for ordinary household purposes, but is baked when a party of warriors or hunters are making ready for a long trip into the wilds, or when someone is departing on an extended journey."

Pine Nuts.

A small buff-colored nut called the pignon is the fruit of a species of pine tree, a native of Upper California, and its healthful food qualities are greatly appreciated by California and Oregon Indians.

It is a little nut about an inch in length, and is rather three-sided, a trifle longer than round. The hard thick shell would sorely tax one's patience, and it surely would be difficult to get the sweet edible kernal free from outside entanglement; but, as the shell matures, a slight crack appears upon one side, allowing entrance for the blade of a pen-knife or nut-pick, and, presto! the walls of the little brown house fall apart—a small white kernal is discovered, enveloped in a thin film of gauzy brown. A most surprising number of nuts are found in one cone; this, however, does not appear so marvelous when one takes into account the actual size of the cone, measuring, as is often the case, a foot in length and seven hundred inches in diameter, having fully two hundred scales, in each of which lie two seeds, so that in a perfectly fertile cone a harvest of four hundred pretty brown nuts may be counted on. The yield from a single tree is often enormous.—Harper's Bazar.

The Cunning Reynard.

Southey's story is of a tame fox at Bridgewater, which had been brought up from a cub to run in the wheel as a turnspit. One day, however, his vagabond instincts proved too much for him, and he determined to take a holiday. The fleshpots of his Egypt were a dust and ashes to his palate compared with the chickens of his own selection. Unfortunately he chose the hunting season for his excursion, and soon came in contact with his hereditary persecutors. He evidently determined to give them a good run, for he took them twice through a stream, after a grand circumbendibus, which involved a chase of nearly thirty miles; he made his way back with hounds in full cry, and re-entering the kitchen, resumed operations in the wheel with as much unconcern as though he had never left it. The fat cook, with whom he was a great favorite, succeeded in beating the hounds off till the arrival of the huntsman, who humanely assisted in saving a life, which, if sagacity and ingenuity be virtues, well deserved to be spared.—English Illustrated Magazine.

COULD TALK ABOUT FLIES.

Dull Pupil Who Proved He was not a Fool When it Came to His Specialty.

One of the speakers at a banquet given here recently, says the Washington Post, dwelt at some length upon a man's natural aptitude to the vocation in life he pursued. He told an interesting story illustrating his meaning from one of his schoolboy recollections, as follows:

"At my first school there was a boy to whom the teacher could not succeed in imparting the simplest rules of elementary knowledge. Try as she might, her efforts were failures. Her patience, after exhausting trials, turned to despair. One day, when he seemed duller than usual, she sent him from the recitation bench to his seat with a severe reprimand, promising to recommend his dismissal to the trustees.

"Shortly afterward she observed him bending over some pursuit at his desk. His eyes were lighted with an expression that seemed inspiration. Anxious to know the cause of this almost miraculous transformation from sloth that was sluggish to activity that was life, she passed down the aisle by his desk on some pretext that would not disturb him, and found the cause of his glowing study to be the examination of a fly, which he had caught and was examining, having dissected it into parts. The truth dawned upon the teacher. The boy's mind ran to entomology. He was a born naturalist.

"The teacher said nothing, but that afternoon called up the entire class for general recitation. The boy's appearance was as dull as ever. 'Boys,' said the teacher addressing the entire school, 'I want to see how far your general powers of observation on trivial subjects go. For instance, you have all seen thousands of flies. Now, I want each of you to tell me his impressions of a fly.' Beyond the fact that a fly was a fly and had two wings not one of the school could say a thing further. At the first mention of the subject the dull boy was all aglow. He held up his hand and snapped his fingers. He realized his superiority. It was his day. He told of the fly from a general and analytical standpoint, its interior and exterior construction, its habits, its food, its generation and its propensities. The rest of the school sat astonished. The boy went on and launched into a general description of bugs and insects he had caught in the woods.

"From that day the teacher encouraged his peculiar aptitude, and troubled him no more with the rules of grammar and arithmetic. She went into the woods with him and helped in his studies of nature. She brought the attention of the school trustees to his case, and, to make a long story short, he was sent to Europe for study. In Leipsic he was made moderator of the Natural Conservatory of Science. He held for a time an important position in the Smithsonian, at Washington, D. C., and he is now in Paris, one of the leading entomologists of the world.

GOOD AMERICAN MANNERS.

The Politeness, However, Evidently not Appreciated.

It was in the elevator of the Hotel Continental in Paris—one of those slow-going machines in which this noted hotel delights. Four or five persons were in the car besides the operator, who had waxed fat in his laborious occupation of pulling on the rope. One of the company was fresh from the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, where, indeed, his whole time was employed when not engaged in the necessary relaxation at Versailles, in the Bois, at the café, or in other restful places of the world's capital. His companion was not of this description. Among the others were a lady and a gentleman, to the former of whom the two Americans had removed their hats. But the gentleman with her made no motion to remove his, but regarded the company with a studied indifference.

"Oh," said one of the Americans, "it does not appear to be necessary to remove one's hat here," and thereupon clapped his on his head. The lady and gentleman getting out at the next floor, the elevator guard politely informed the remainder of the company that they were the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, the latter being own sister to the then Imperial Autocrat of All the Russias, as I believe it was stated.—Architecture and Building.

A Matter of Expense.

Jack—Was yours a long courtship, old fellow?

Will— Gracious, no! My wife had nine little brothers and sisters.

"Really. But what difference did that make?"

"What difference? Well, if you had to bribe a crowd like that to keep out of the parlor every time you went to see your girl, you'd soon want to cut expenses."—Boston Traveller.

Outside the Tent.

"Well, Mariar," said the old man, as he got down from the wagon seat where he had been patiently waiting, "did you see all the animals?"

"All but two," she said with a sigh. "I hunted the longest time, but I couldn't seem to find the carnivora and the egress. I expect they was the best part of the show, too."—Washington Times.

Doubtless.

Jones—Has he a stable mind?

Bones—I guess so. He's always talking about horses.—New York Journal.

A pinch of black pepper wrapped in cotton and dipped in camphor is a new cure for the toothache.

DR. NANSEN'S WIFE.

King Oscar Has a Special Admiration for Her Voice.

Of Dr. Nansen's wife not much information has found its way into print. She seems to have a very imperfectly developed taste for publicity, but what is known of her is interesting and indicates that she is an uncommon woman, both in talent and character. It is recorded by Dr. Nansen's biographers, Broegger and Rolfsen, that his first meeting with his future wife was in the woods about Frogner Seator, where, one day, observing the soles of two feet sticking up out of the snow, he approached them, with natural curiosity, in time to see the head of Eva Sars emerge from a snowbank. Dr. Nansen was married in 1889, after his return from his successful expedition across Greenland. When he started in the Fram in 1893, his wife, left at home at Lysaker, near Christiana, with one child, turned for occupation to the development and use of her gifts as a singer, and with notable success. King Oscar of Sweden is one of her admirers, and especially likes her singing, which he has often heard; and since she has been in England the compliment has been paid her of asking her to sing before the Queen. She is a staunch backer of her adventurous husband, whose departure on his perilous errand cost her anxieties and misgivings as to which she said little at the time. Since her husband's return she has sometimes spoken in conversation of her fears, and has said that careful comparison of Dr. Nansen's diary with her record or remembrance of her own sensations bears her out in the belief that the times when she was the most concerned about him were the seasons of his greatest peril. That implies a telepathic communication born of intense sympathy and solicitude, the possibility of which science seems no longer disposed to deny. Mrs. Nansen's father was Professor Sars, a well-known zoologist. Zoology, it will be remembered, is a branch of science of which Dr. Nansen has made a special study.—Harper's Weekly.

Took the Conceit Out of Him.

"I'm going to have a little fun this afternoon," remarked Joseph Goodfellow, as he worked his way into his overcoat, preparatory to leaving his office Saturday. "That boy of mine has been reading about the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, and boxing in barns all over town, till he imagines he is a pugilist. I'm going to take him out in the back yard and take some of the conceit out of him. He is a pretty husky boy, but you know I used to be very clever with the mittens myself."

This morning the following appeared under the head of personal mention:

"The friends of Mr. Joseph Goodfellow will regret to learn that he is seriously ill at his home in the Western Addition."

"I hereby challenge any 16-year-old boy on the Pacific coast, who don't weigh over 135 pounds, to fight to a finish for fun or marbles.—Kid Goodfellow."—San Francisco Post.

A Remarkable Tree.

A redwood tree which was recently cut down in the state of Washington was 465 feet in height, or about one-eleventh of a mile. To the point where the first limb branched out was 220 feet. At the base the circumference was found to be 38 feet 11 inches. If it were sawed into lumber it would make 96,345 feet of boards. This amount of lumber would serve for the construction of eight cottages two stories high, each containing seven rooms. The age of the tree is said to have been 634 years.—New York Tribune.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A FIERCE FIGHT.

Italians' Street Brawl Brings Out the Militia In a Massachusetts Town.

South Framingham, Mass., June 21.—A street brawl by drunken Italian laborers, the attempted arrest of one of them by officers, one of whom was nearly killed, led to the calling out of the local militia company. The Italians came into town on the train from Natick. Four of them had a savage fight on Waverly street. Officers Robert Trace and David Bastien made an attempt to stop the fight by warning the men to go home peaceably. But this they would not do, so the officers attempted to arrest one of the ringleaders.

The scrimmage was a short and fierce one, for all of the Italians set upon the officers in the attempt to rescue the arrested man, and Officer Bastien was badly clubbed with a bottle of beer.

The officer sank unconscious from what later proved to be a badly fractured skull. Officer Trace could not hold his prisoner, who was dragged away and out of sight, all the Italians taking to their heels. Officer Trace fired three shots in the direction of the fleeing men, but none took effect. Officer Bastien was taken to the hospital, where his condition was found to be critical.

Shortly after, the police sounded the militia alarm on the bells and steam whistles, but as the rain was pouring in torrents, few of the soldiers turned out. The object was to scour the town for the assailants of Officer Bastien, and this meant the surrounding of the Italian colony here. The militiamen who responded accompanied the police force and a number of citizens to Dog's Nest, as the colony is known, where a house to house canvass was made.

Three men were arrested, two of whom Officer Trace identified as the men in the fight. They were taken to the police station and will be held to await the result of Officer Bastien's injury.

The hospital physicians reported Mr. Bastien's condition as hopeless. He was badly used up in the fight. The incipient riot has created considerable excitement in the town against the Italians, who are generally described as a troublesome lot.

FIRE IN BUFFALO.

Joseph Melenski and His Five Children Frightfully Burned, One Fatally.

Buffalo, June 21.—Fire partly destroyed the home of Joseph Melenski in East Buffalo. Melenski was awakened by the cries of his children and running to a bedroom in which five of them were sleeping found the bed and furniture in flames. Melenski carried the children into the yard, and then an alarm was turned in. All of the children were frightfully burned.

Sophia, aged 10, died in the Fitch hospital; Mary, aged 12; Bronislowa, 5 years old; Veronica, 3 years old, and Cecilia, aged 8, are lying in cots at the hospital, and the attending physicians say there is little chance for their recovery.

They are all badly burned about the head, body and arms. Melenski is also in the hospital, his arms and face being fearfully burned in the attempt to save his children. The property loss was trifling.

THE BIG BOAT RACES

All of the Crews Now at Poughkeepsie Ready For the Event.

HOW THE CONTESTANTS APPEAR.

Some Information Regarding the Different Tactics on Which to Base the Chances of Winning—Programme of the Several Events.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—Yale is here. The blue floats over the boathouse and the training quarters, and the boating colony has a score more added to its already large number. The arrival of the brawny giants will now make it possible for the collegiate experts who have picked winners and condemned methods to change their opinions. That the Yale men will be in the race is apparent. Never was seen such a lot of stalwart looking men. The eight as picked to row on varsity day weigh just 122 pounds more than the Cornell men and about 40 pounds more than the Harvard boys. When they row over the course for the first time, they will be watched by hundreds of anxious eyes. So far as can be seen, they form equally as formidable a crew as Yale has ever had.

The greatest excitement of the day next to the arrival of Yale seemed to be the announcement that John Harvard had been painted during the day. Investigation showed that there had not been a violation of the sacred statue at Harvard, but that the training launch John Harvard had been treated to a new coat of paint of dazzling white.

The Crews.

For the benefit and information of those desiring to know the points of the three crews to row in the big varsity race of Friday, June 25, these statistics are given:

There is a difference of 14½ pounds in the average weights of the crews. Yale is the heaviest and Cornell the lightest, with Harvard as a happy medium. If weight counts for endurance, then Yale has the advantage; but, on the contrary, Cornell, with the lightest crew on the river, won last year's race easily. Cornell is lighter than ever this year, the lately added youngsters, who succeeded some heavy men, being very light. For ideality Harvard's weight is the best. The average weights of the crews, exclusive of the coxswains, are as follows: Cornell, 159 pounds; Harvard, 169; Yale, 173½.

Harvard suffered last year from lack of endurance, while the light Cornell crew finished in splendid shape, although judged by the college "experts," some of whom are doing similar newspaper work this year, as being too light to possibly withstand the strain of four miles. It is generally conceded that Yale crews always finish strong and that endurance is their best point. Harvard has trained this year to overcome last year's defeat, and it is not only possible, but probable that the hard racing will be done in the last mile.

Both Harvard and Cornell have studied much on the starts, and both incline to a quick start, but an equally quick slow down to a normal stroke. Yale catches water quickly, but swings down to an easy gait at once. If Harvard and Cornell get fighting in the first mile or two and keep up a fast stroke, Yale, with her easy stroke, will win the race; or, if Harvard and Yale put up a terrific contest in the first mile, Cornell will repeat her performance of last year.

Harvard pulls the longest stroke and has the quickest recovery. Yale comes next and uses more body on the oar, but ships it more quickly for recovery. Cornell is about the same as last year, not quite so long as the present Harvard stroke, but snappier.

Cornell will use a new Watters paper boat, but both Harvard and Yale will use cedar boats built in this country. The Cornell and Yale crews use the American swivel oarlock, but the Harvard crews use the English thole pin and claim that they get much more power.

Other Points to Judge From.

These few facts, not theories, are things that will undoubtedly be factors in the race, tide and water not considered, and people of speculative minds can determine for themselves the winner with equally as much accuracy as the experts who are writing opinions from here. But after you have speculated, before a final decision is given, tide and water, Yale luck, Harvard misfortune and Cornell boating success should be marked down as unknown quantities, liable to cause disaster to any decisive opinion.

Wednesday, June 23.—Two mile race for freshmen of Yale, Harvard and Cornell, to be rowed up stream between 4 and 5 o'clock p. m.

Friday, June 25.—Four mile race for varsity crews of Yale, Harvard, and Cornell, to be rowed down stream at 3:30 p. m. sharp.

Wednesday, June 30.—Two mile race, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania, to be rowed down stream between 4 and 5 p. m.

Friday, July 1.—Four mile varsity race, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania, to be rowed down stream between 4 and 5 p. m.

There is much discussion here about the tide changes. It is apprehended that unless the race is pulled off sharply on June 25 there may be trouble for whichever crew gets the beginning of the flood.

Bicycle Tubing Combination.

Cleveland, June 21.—A consolidation of interests engaged in manufacturing weldless steel tubing for bicycles has been formed in London, with H. A. Losier of this city as the head. A number of wealthy Englishmen, with Arthur Pilkington at their head, have invested $3,000,000 in the new corporation. Three large factories—Toledo, Ellwood City, Pa., and Greenville, Pa.—are embraced. The Pennsylvania establishments, which already cover seven acres of land and employ 1,200 men, will be enlarged to employ 3,000 men.

New Steam Pilotboat.

New York, June 21.—The new steam pilotboat New York, built by the Harlan & Hollingsworth company of Wilmington, Del., for the New York and Sandy Hook pilots, has arrived in port, and as she steamed up the bay she was saluted by numerous steamboats and tugs. The New York will have a trial trip on the 22d instant.

CRESCENTS OUTPLAYED

Costly Errors by Plainfield Fielders and Bunched Hits by the Westfield Team Gave the Game to Westfield, by 10 to 9.

The Crescents met their match Saturday afternoon, in the nine from the Westfield Athletic Club and were fairly defeated. A few costly errors on the part of the Crescents and some well bunched hits by the Westfield boys did the business while the Westfield umpire came around with a decision that gave the Westfields four runs. Not but that they would have beaten anyhow, but this little gift of the umpire's made the score greater than it would otherwise have been.

The game was played on the Crescent's grounds at the corner of LaGrande avenue and Richmond street, and was witnessed by about four hundred spectators. The crowd was enthusiastic when the home team did anything to merit it, but some of the players were the subject of various derisive remarks.

Either Higgins, the Westfield pitcher, was a daisy, or else the local batters were afraid of him, for not a hit was made off him until the sixth inning and then they were weak and scattered. He had rather poor support, which accounts for most of the runs of the Crescents.

McLarty was hit freely and some ragged fielding made the result a foregone conclusion after the first few innings. Townley and Sutphen were both playing in poor form, and made several costly errors Sutphen struck out every time he came to bat.

It was in the second inning that the fun began. The Westfield boys found that a fly was a sure hit as it went out of bounds so they kept sending the ball in that direction. Three runs had come in and the bases were filled with only one out. Kelly batted an easy grounder to Cooney at third and the latter promptly threw the ball home to Bolsterli who stood at the plate. He touched the plate before the man running from third reached there and then caught Kelly before he reached first. The Westfield umpire couldn't seem to see that one man was forced out and called the runner safe at home. That was rather discouraging and four men crossed the plate, ere the boys recovered from the effects.

The local players made a big effort to catch up but Higgins' curves were puzzling and Westfield easily won. The Westfield infielders did not put up as good a game as the Plainfield boys but their errors did not prove costly. Bolsterli caught well, although McLarty was pretty swift for him. The new men, Cooney and Corbin, impressed the crowd favorably and will be fixtures on the team.

The scores are as follows:—

RISBERG'S LIGHT SENTENCE.

Judge Fort Gave Him Three Months in Jail and $100 Fine.

John Risberg, of this city, who was convicted by a Newark jury two weeks ago of being implicated in the death of Mrs. Mary Noble, was sentenced by Judge J. Frank Fort in the Newark Criminal Court this morning to serve three months in the county jail and pay a fine of $100.

Senator Charles A. Reed and Judge George W. DeMeza of this city represented Risberg. The Senator made a strong plea for clemency from the court just before the prisoner was sentenced. The penalth inflicted was a very light one as the maximum punishment for the offense is fifteen years in state prison and a fine of $5,000.

Hop at the Hunterston.

An informal hop was held at the Hotel Hunterston last Saturday evening, which was attended by a large number of society people from Plainfield and Netherwood. Music for dancing was furnished by Rogers, and the guests enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The usual hospitality of the management was extended, and an evening of pleasure resulted. During the evening light refreshments were served to the guests.

Miss Fender Died.

Miss Caroline Adelia Fender, aged 30 years, died at her home, on Grove street, yesterday morning, after a long illness with consumption and heart trouble. She had been confined to the house for some time past and was unable to leave her bed. Notice of funeral will be given later.

PLUCK OF FOUNDRY EMPLOYES.

Men Working Stripped to the Waist in Showers of Molten Steel.

Modern Machinery, of Chicago, in describing the work done in a steel foundry, tells of remarkable instances of nerve displayed by the men. When the furnace is tapped there is a torrent of scoria that scatters over a wide area, descending in an umbrella-shaped mass of sparks that envelope the men at the ladle.

Through the pyrotechnic display of the rain of fire and luminous reflections you can see a workman shrug his shoulders or wriggle a little. This is the only sign he gives that a spark of molten steel has fallen inside his flannel shirt. The manager said that in the performance of their work the men would run into a deluge of flying sparks so thick you would think no one could go into it and come out alive, and that, too, in summer when they were stripped to the waist and had not even a shirt to protect them. In the shadow of the furnace and ladle it would often register 125 degrees, and the very life was cooked out of the air. Some of the men are singed and scarred more than veterans of many battles; heroes of the workshop, they stand under fire every day of their lives and expect no songs to be sung in their honor or monuments to be erected to their memories.

The manager related an incredible incident, which he gave merely as a sample of the nerve these men have. One day the foreman of the casting department had started a ladle of steel on its journey among the moulds and was seen to shake his foot several times. He went on, however, and not until all the steel was safe in the beds of sand did he hobble to the wall, where he took a piece of steel as big as his thumb out of his shoe. It had burned into his great toe joint, and the man was laid up for weeks.

HOTELS IN GREECE.

Landlords not Particularly Enterprising in That Sunny Land.

In Greece the hotels of the interior follow one general type—the Italian. There is no common sitting room. Why should there be? There is no office, but that does not seem to interfere with the presentation of the bills. The ground floor is given up to a cafe or restaurant, if the innkeeper goes into that line of business. Very often, however, the master of the Apollo has only rooms to let. The sleeping apartments on the floor above are often approached by an outside stairway, and, as is to be expected in a southern climate, they are scantily furnished. Overfurnishing is a vice anywhere. Under a southern sky it is a crime of which the Greeks are not guilty. There is usually a mirror, though that tribute of human vanity is sometimes lacking, and, like the Turk, the solitary Turkish towel bears no brother near his throne. The bedstead is invariably of iron. As in primitive United States within my memory, single rooms are rare. Two, three, four, five beds are put in one room or strung along the corridors. A fastidious person who desires to occupy a room alone has to pay for all the beds therein. In some places special charges are made for sleeping in the daytime, and there is a fixed rate for sleeping on the floor.—Atlantic Monthly.

Unseasonable Civility.

A Northern visitor in Atlanta was walking with his host in the garden the other morning, when they came upon the gardener, an old negro of 70 years.

"This," said the host, "is Moses—an old family servant."

"Mr. Moses," said the Northerner, extending his hand and touching his hat, "I am happy to meet you."

The old negro, ignoring the proffered hand, threw his own hat on the grass and, pulling at his wool, made a low obeisance.

When the guest was gone he approached his employer and former master. "Marse Jim," he said, "ain't de 'lection done over?"

"The election?"

"Yes, suh—de votin'?"

"Of course! Why do you ask?"

"Bekase," said the puzzled old fellow, "dat's de fust white man dat lif' he hat ter me en try ter shake hands out o' season. Dey sholy is sumpin' up!"—Atlanta Constitution.

MORE SEWERS TO COME.

THE COMMON COUNCIL TALKED ON VARIOUS OTHER QUESTIONS.

An Adjourned Meeting Was Held Last Night—Property Owners to Pay for Last Winter's Snow Shoveling by the City.

In the absence of President Dumont from the City Council meeting last evening, Councilman Serrell was chosen president pro tem The only other member absent was Mr. Stebbins. The business under consideration was of no great importance, but still it was necessary that the adjourned meeting be held to transact it. Communications from I. W. Rushmore asking for three crosswalks at the intersection of Grant avenue and West Third street, and one from J. Sattels asking for an electric light on East Sixth street near Watchung avenue, and another from J. Parker Mason asking for a crosswalk on Stelle avenue across Field avenue, were all referred with power.

The bond, acceptance and agreement of the Plainfield Sanitary Company were reported to the Council by Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh as being correct, and after examination by the finance committee were ordered filed. The report of the treasurer, J. B. Dumont, of the Public Library and Reading Room, showed that $5,556.60 had been received during the year and at present there is a balance of $2,507.45 in the treasury.

Mr. Baker made a report on a statement furnished him by the Street Commissioner showing the amount due the city from certain property-owners who had failed to shovel snow from their sidewalks last winter. The various amounts will be charged to the tax bills of each one who is indebted to the city. Mr. Baker stated that the present method of paying bills was not a satisfactory one and he offered an ordinance which provides that the bill, voucher and receipt be combined in one. Heretofore the city has experienced difficulty in securing a receipt after the check was received, hence the change which was adopted by the Council. Mr. Baker also offered a resolution that $3,500 be borrowed in anticipation of taxes and that the same be charged to the fire fund.

Mr. Frost offered a resolution that the property owners on Watchung avenue from East Fourth street to La Grande avenue, also on Crescent avenue, be required to set curbing in front of their property to the proper grade. Owing to a slight mistake the Westervelt avenue ordinance, which provides for the widening of a portion of the avenue, was placed back on the first reading and adopted on first and second readings, and July 8th was the time set when those interested can meet the Council and offer any objections to the proposed work.

Another ordinance was offered by Mr. Frost which provides that sewers can be laid in all streets where there are none at present, and which may be called for at some future time. Mr. Frost stated that there two or three extensions called for at present, hence the ordinance.

Mr. Westphal raised an objection to the ordinance on the ground that a number of streets are included in the list which have never been accepted by the city, and he thought the city should do no work on the streets until they had been accepted. Mr. Frost replied that the Corporation Counsel had examined the matter and had reported favorably on it. To substantiate this Mr. Gavett was sent for and he verified that statement. Mr. Westphal was not satisfied, however, and refused to support the ordinance as did also Mr. Runyon. Mr. Westphal offered a motion that the matter be laid over until the next meeting, but the motion was lost. It was stated by Mr. Barrows that at present Somerset street to the brook and Stelle avenue were the only two streets which neede i the sewers, and the other streets could be attended to at the proper time. After much discussion the ordinance was adopted on first and second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Newman offered a resolution providing for the signing of contracts between the city and the Plainfield Water Supply Company for two new hydrants which were located some time ago. Mr. Barrows asked the council for $150 to complete the purchase of the summer uniforms for the policemen. The first resolution offered some time ago did not call for a sufficient amount of money and thus it is that the above amount was asked for.

Mr. Westphal asked the council for $500, for the purpose of moving a building, located on the city property adjoining the Industrial Home, to the rear of the Home where it could be repaired and fixed in a suitable manner to accommodate women. According to the laws of the State men and women cannot be kept together and thus it is that the alms committee desire to make provision for the women. Mr. Westphal stated that the work would not cost $500 but that amount was asked for so the committee would be on the safe side. This concluded the business of the evening and the council adjourned.

DUSKY MAIDENS MET.

ONE IS SAID TO HAVE SLAPPED THE OTHER'S FACE.

So the Alleged Victim Appealed to City Judge DeMeza to Investigate the Trouble—It Began With Words.

North avenue saw an unusual sight, Sunday evening, when two colored women indulged in personalities until one finally slapped the other across the mouth, knocked her hat off and performed several other indignities.

Yesterday, Miss Carrie Bundy, daughter of Henry Bundy, formerly the colored sexton of the Park Avenue Baptist church, appeared before City Judge DeMeza and made a complaint against her friend, Miss Josephine Davis, who, she alleges, called her unpleasant names, slapped her face and became otherwise disorderly. The defendant in the case is a resident of the "Crystal Palace," as a tenament house in the West End is familiarly called.

Like all good people, the two colored young women started for church, last Sunday evening. They passed on North avenue and Carrie Bundy says that Josephine made a disgraceful remark as she flounced by. Carrie resented the remark and more words followed. Then, Carrie alleges, the other girl made a dive at her across the sidewalk and brought her hand against Carrie's face with a resounding whack. The alleged blow injured Miss Bundy's dignity more than it did her. Then the angry maiden struck out again and the other girl says that her hat was knocked off her head. A crowd gathered and the contesting parties retired to meet again.

The next meeting was in the city court this morning before City Judge DeMeza. Josephine Davis declared that the story of the complainant was all a pack of falsehoods and that it was Carrie Bundy and not Josephine Davis who had started all the trouble. The Judge listened dubiously to both and decided to listen to all the merits of the case Saturday morning, when the case will come up for trial.

A NOTED SCULPTOR

Thomas Ball, Who Has Been Abroad for Many Years, has Returned to America.

Thomas Ball, the sculptor, spent the Sabbath with Plainfield friends. For thirty two years Mr. Ball has resided in Florence, Italy, from whence he has made occasional visits to his native land He is now seventy eight years of age and has returned to the United States to spend the remainder of his days.

Mr. Ball is perhaps best known through his equestrian statue of Washington at Boston, though fine statues of Webster, Lincoln and others have added to his fame. He has lately completed the great monument to Washington, which is to be erected by E. F. Searles at Methuen, Mass. The colossal bronze figure of Washington, fifteen feet in height, was exhibited at the Columbian Exposition. The last of the other figures has lately been finished in clay and is now being cast in bronze in Munich. The monument is of marble, surmounted by the statue of Washington, the base surrounded by the figures mentioned. Mr. Ball has spent seven years upon this monument, and it may be a year or more before it will be ereected.

Going Camping.

"Camp Northfield" is attracting attention from young men of the local Young Men's Christian Association. The camp, which will open its season on June 25th, will continue until September 1st. Of all the many places for spending a summer's vacation, "Camp Northfield" offers very many special enjoyments and the young men of Plainfield would not make a mistake in selecting this place for their outing. The expenses are moderate. If you want to go, talk the matter over with the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Get one of the camp prospectus free, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

The members of Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. and A. M., attended divine service at the Mt. Zion A.M.E. church, Sunday evening, and listened to an eloquent sermon delivered by the pastor, Rev. James E. Groves. His text was taken from Psalms 133, "How Good and How Blessed it is for Brethren to Dwell Together in Unity." Following the discourse the collection was raised by Rev. L. Sturgis, presiding elder of this district. The amount of money received from all of the services of the day was $90.

SUCCESSFUL CLASS DAY

NORTH PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES HOLD EXERCISES.

A Host of Their Friends Filled All the Available Space in the Schoolhouse—Programme That Was Rendered.

The North Plainfield Public School could not hold all the friends of the class of '97 of that school, last evening, who came to attend the class day exercises and hear what the class had to say of the past, present and future. The exercises were entirely in the hands of the pupils of the High School.

Dr. Warde, superintendent of the school, and his efficient corps of teachers were present and occupied seats reserved for them. The members of the Board of Education were also present. The three graduates, the Misses Edna Louise French, H. Helen Phillips and Bessie Thompson Day, were seated on the platform, and with them were the two juniors, Miss Bertha Stevens and Wm. E. Pierson, who acted as a committee of introduction. The ushers were Fred Overton, '99; James Pope, 1900; Walter Emmons, 1900, and Benj. Schuck, 1901.

Long before the appointed time, every seat in the assembly hall was filled and it was necessary to keep the doors shut most of the time to prevent overcrowding the stairs and aisles. At last everybody was given a seat or found standing room and the exercises began. Neat little programmes, printed in the class colors, were distributed.

The programme as published in The Press last week was followed out. There were several selections by the High School chorus, under the direction of W. E. MacClymont A piano duet was given by Miss Conroy, '99, and Bert Simpson, 1901, who acted as accompanist for the chorus singing. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Nellie Valiant, 1901, and Miss May Conroy, '99. "General Grant" was the subject of a declamation by Morgan Townsend, 1901. Miss Rita Pond, '99, gave two recitations, "Charlie Machree," and "The King's Bell." They were given with much feeling and expression. Arthur Smith, '99 showed his talent in giving character sketches by the rendition of two, 'Shylock Lends The Ducats," and "Rollo." Charles M. Dolliver, '94, gave an oration from Peter Bayne's "Waterloo" in a very creditable manner that promised much for his abilities in that direction for the future.

The pupils were assisted in the programme by Miss May Jeffrey, soprano soloist, and the Plainfield Mandolin, Banjo and Guitar Club. The selections of both were appreciated by the audience and heartily applauded. The mandolin club made a very favorable impression as few knew what a flourishing club it is.

The three graduates took part in the programme. Miss French gave the class history and poem, telling of the struggles of the little class and what it has finally accomplished. Miss Phillips delivered an oration on "The Arbitration Treaty." Miss Day gave a declamation that was suited to the occasion and the class prophecy, which told some of the wonderful things that her schoolmates were to accomplish in the future. The class song was sung by the High School chorus.

After the exercises were over, the friends of the graduates gathered around to congratulate them on the successful carrying out of the first Class Day in the history of the North Plainfield school Everything was well done and the audience enjoyed it, although the room was crowded.

Going to Lake Champlain.

The boys' camp on Lake Champlain, near Westport, N. Y., will open on July 6th, and it now seems probable that some of the Plainfield boys will join the campers. Frank and Herbert Rogers, sons of Geo. T. Rogers, of Myrtle avenue, in company with F. O. Bristol, assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, will join the campers for the month of July. J. V. Beekman, Jr., of West Eighth street, will substitute for F. O. Bristol during his absence. If there are any other boys in this city who are thinking of going to the boys' camp they are requested to hand their names to the secretary at the Y. M. C. A.

THROWN FROM CAR STEP

MRS. NORTHUP INJURED ON HER WAY TO THIS CITY.

She Started to Board a Forty-second Street Car in New York When the Conductor Pulled the Bell Rope.

A very serious accident occurred late yesterday afternoon near Forty-second street, New York, when Mrs. Northup, formerly a resident of this city, was thrown from a street car and sustained injuries of a serious nature. Mrs. Northup had been in Providence, R. I., for some time and was on her way to Plainfield to visit her daughter, Mrs. Albert Demarest, of West Front street.

She arrived at the Grand Central Station, New York, in the afternoon and, walking down to Forty-second street, attempted to board a street car to come down town. While getting on the car the conductor pulled the bell-cord and the car started before Mrs. Northup could enter the car. As a result she was forced back from the sudden starting of the car and thrown on the hard block pavement. She fell on her left side, also striking her back. People who noticed the accident at once ran to the assistance of Mrs. Northup, and she was assisted to a nearby place where she was made as comfortable as possible until an ambulance could be secured to take her to the Liberty street ferry. Her condition was such that she was unable to move and had to be carried in a chair. She was brought to Plainfield on a train which reached this city about 8 o'clock and the ambulance was used in this city to convey her to the home of her daughter. Dr. Probasco was called and assisted in taking the woman to her destination and afterwards he gave the proper treatment.

Today Mrs. Northup's condition is worse, if anything, for she feels the effect of her fall more acutely. She is unable to move unless assisted and she suffers greatly from her injuries. Before leaving the scene of the accident in New York, she obtained the name of the conductor on the street car, the number of the car, also the names of several persons who witnessed the accident, and it is quite likely that there will be some interesting developments later on. It is said that the accident was wholly the result of carelessness on the part of the conductor.

JUDGE DE MEZA WORKING

HE METED OUT JUSTICE TO SEVERAL SMALL OFFENDERS.

One Man Had His Light Stolen and Rode Without It—The Keelys Appeared and One Pleaded Guilty.

There were several offenders in the city court, this morning, to whom City Judge De Meza alloted justice in homœpathic doses.

William Wilson was found drunk near Grant avenue station and was locked up until he could sober down. He pleaded guilty and the Judge fined him $3, which he paid in preference to go to jail for ten days.

D. F. Morse went to Scotch Plains last evening, and some enterprising Scotch Plainsite made off with his lantern so Morse rode home in the dark. He thought that it would be all right to ride home without one under the circumstances, but the Judge did not see it in that light, and Morse paid his fine of $1.

Frank Denckiau rode on the sidewalk as well as on his wheel and received a lecture from the Judge for so doing. He was let off without a fine.

John Keeley came up on the charge of violating the hack license and pleaded not guilty. As the complainant did not have his witnesses present the trial was set down for Saturday morning.

Patrick Keely, who was arrested on complaint of George Belcher, appeared and pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly and calling Belcher improper names. The Judge reserved his decision in the case until tomorrow morning.

Slipped in the Mud.

While riding along North avenue this morning, the little daughter of E. D. Gilmore, of West Second street, slipped in the mud and fell from her wheel. Her foot became entangled in the spokes of the wheel in her fall and she badly wrenched her ankle. She was carried into the Press office and then driven home by a kindly milkman. The injury was a painful one and she was unable to bear the weight of her body on the foot.

Funeral of Mrs. Ettinger.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Michael Ettinger was held this morning from her home on Cottage place. Only the immediate family were present at the house. Father Smyth performed the Catholic service at the grave. The interment was at St. Mary's Cemetery.

COSTLY CHERRY PICKING

MISS LOUGHLIN FELL FROM A TREE AND WAS INJURED.

She Had Climbed Into the Branches of a Cherry Tree When a Limb Gave Way—Very Serious Internal Injuries Feared.

A very narrow escape from fatal injury occurred yesterday afternoon on East Third street, when Miss Margaret Loughlin fell from a cherry tree and sustained severe injuries to her body. Miss Loughlin had ascended the tree for the purpose of picking cherries and she had gathered a large quantity when the accident happened. She was standing on a small limb when it broke and threw her with great force to the ground. She fell on her side and back, and when discovered soon afterwards by the members of the family it was thought that her back was broken. She was in a semi-conscious condition as a result of the fall and unable to talk.

Immediately the ambulance was sent for and Miss Loughlin was removed to the hospital where Dr. Long made a thorough examination. He learned that there were no broken bones although the body was bruised and very sore. Miss Loughlin suffers a great deal of pain and while it is not thought that her injuries are very serious the doctor is at present unable to tell how the case may terminate. There may possibly be internal injuries which might develop a little later.

The distance she fell was a long one and the suddenness with which she came down gave her a great shock from which she is recovering slowly.

ENDEAVORERS' SUMMER MEETING.

The Last Rally of the Season Will Be Held in the Congregational Church Tonight.

This evening the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union holds its last public meeting for the season. The meeting will be held in the Congregational church, on West Seventh street, and will open promptly at 7.45 o'clock with a service of song conducted by Horace J. Martin. The hymn book used will be the Christian Endeavor edition of Gospel Hymns, No. 6, and all Endeavorers owning copies are requested to bring them.

The address of the evening will be by Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D., of Jersey City. His subject will be "The Christian Endeavorer on His Summer Vacation." Dr. Brett is vice-president of the New Jersey State Union, and is a very entertaining speaker, a thorough favorite in Christian Endeavor circles. His subject is an unusually interesting one, and one which will appeal to all young people, and the older ones as well, at this season. An open parliament on the same topic, conducted by Rev. C. E. Herring, will follow the address, affording an opportunity for many Endeavorers to give their ideas of what a "Summer Christian" should be an do.

Giles Has Not Been There.

J. W. VanSickle is very indignant over the statement that the News published stating that Inspector Addis said that the three cases in the Warnock family could be traced directly to meat handled by one of the Giles lads. Mr. VanSickle wishes The Press to correct the statement. Up to a week ago one of the Giles lads was employed in his market, but he never cuts or handles the meat and has not carried or taken meat to Warnock's house for over three weeks, as Warnock trades with another butcher.

A Summer Festival.

The ladies of All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, will hold a summer festival on the grounds of Mrs. Arthur Kyte's residence, corner of Martine avenue and Midway, Fanwood, on Thursday afternoon and evening from 4 until 10 o'clock. Refreshments of various kinds, and articles of summer use, such as fans, etc., will be for sale, the proceeds going to the necessary repairs and furnishing of the church interior.

Celebrated His Birthday.

On Saturday last Edwad Mosher, Jr, of Elmwood place, celebrated the anniversary of his eighth birthday, and in honor of the event he entertained a few of his boy friends from the neighborhood. The afternoon was spent in playing games of all sorts, after which a pleasing supper was served.

A Longer Vacation.

According to a new order of things the members of the police department get ten days for a vacation this year instead of one week. This rule applies to all men except Patrolmen McCarthy, Cash and Watson who are special officers doing regular duty.

To Delinquent Tax Payers.

Persons who have failed to pay their taxes to the city for the year 1895, must settle with the collector on or before Thursday of this week, or their names will be advertised in the newspapers next day. 6 22 2

NELSON GILES TALKS.

STATEMENTS TO A PRESS REPORTER IN HIS OWN BEHALF.

Says He Was Not Notified to Clean His Dairy Until Saturday—Dissatisfied With the Treatment He Received.

Those who have followed the history of the present scarlet fever epidemic in this city are aware that the Board of Health has spared no pains in its efforts to locate the source of the contagion. The Board was so earnest in the matter that when physicians announced that the son of Nelson Giles, a local milkman, was suffering with scarlet fever, heroic measures were at once taken. 280 quarts of milk, which Giles had in stock, was dumped into the sewer by Health Inpector Addis, and other precautionary steps were taken. Mr. Giles has felt more or less aggrieved and sent for a Press reporter this morning for the purpose of making a statement.

"It has been stated," said Mr. Giles to The Press representative, "that my son Russell, who is now staying at his grandfather's farm at Stelton, was taken ill with scarlet fever some time ago. Now that is not the fact. The disease was merely one of malaria chills and fever.

"As to the case of my other son, who is now quarantined on Park avenue, I wish to say that he called upon a physician last Tuesday and was told that he had quinsy sore throat. On Saturday he was feeling better and called again upon the doctor to see if he could not return to work. It was then that his case was declared to be one of scarlet fever. He was feeling well and ready to go to work when this discovery was made by Dr. Adams.

"As to the statement that I was notified some months ago by the health authorities to clean up my milk depot in the Alert Hose Company House on Madison avenue, I wish to say that I never received such notice until last Saturday afternoon, and I then took immediate steps to follow out the instructions given. You may say that I am very dissatisfied with the methods employed in my case. I believe that when the people learn the facts they will be on my side. I shall endeavor to find out where the responsibility lies and shall push the matter until justice is done all around."

Mifford Giles, the oldest son of Nelson Giles, was able to leave his quarrantined home, yesterday afternoon. His clothing was fully disinfected by Inspector Addis and he took a bath and donned another suit to prevent any possible contagion. After a thorough disinfection, Addis declared that he could run his milk route without the slightest danger to his customers.

All the cans have been washed and cleaned until the Board of Health was perfectly satisfied that there was no danger from them. Giles will keep his horse in a local livery stable, and his extra milk in one of the refrigerators of a local meat market. He resumed his milk route this morning with a permit in his pocket, signed by Inspector Addis, giving him permission to run the route. The Inspector says that there is not the slightest danger of contagion from him. The old depot will be given up.

Only two new cases were reported yesterday and none up to noon today.

While Dr. Murray, secretary of the Health Board, has ordered a disinfecting apparatus, it has not arrived, and one was borrowed from the Asbury Park Health Board, yesterday. It was first used in the residence of Mayor Fisk yesterday afternoon, and then at the home of Nelson Giles. Inspector Addis has made several other visits with the apparatus. It is one of the most effective of its kind and was especially recommended by the State Board.

Returned From a Convention.

Spencer Conway returned home this morning from Hartford, Conn., where he was in attendance at the twenty-third annual session of the New England Baptist Missionary Convention, which was held in the Union Baptist church, June 16th to 21st. While Mr. Conway was in Hartford he was taken for a minister and was frequently called Rev. Mr. Conway. He says that his appearance was the cause of the mistake.

A BRUTAL BUTCHERY

Rich Farmer Shot While at Work In His Cornfield.

NEIGHBOR SUSPECTED OF THE CRIME

After the Shooting the Farmer's House Was Robbed—The Supposed Murderer Said to Have Been a Rival For a Young Lady's Hand.

Newburg, N. Y., June 22.—The country side is stirred up by what is evidently one of the most cowardly murders that has been committed in this neighborhood for years.

William Gardner, a well to do farmer, who lived near Plattekill, Ulster county, was found dead in his cornfield, with more than 50 bullets in his breast and body. Joseph Decker, a mountaineer neighbor of the murdered man, is supposed by the police authorities to have committed the crime.

Gardner was employed in his cornfield Saturday afternoon. He was planting and engaged in his usual work, and when he did not return promptly there was no especial significance attached to his tardiness, it being thought that he had lingered on to take advantage of the light. He did not come home that night, and Sunday morning searchers went looking for him. His body was found where it had fallen between the furrows.

From the position of the bullets and the appearance the body presented when found, it is evident that the murderer could not have been more than 15 paces away when he fired the shots which ended Gardner's life. The attack apparently found Gardner unprepared, for his farming implements lay beside him, where they had fallen from his hands. Coroner Hasbrouck at once set his men at work on the case. It was soon ascertained that in addition to the murder a robbery had been committed at the house of the farmer.

A gun which Gardner carried in his hunting expeditions in the nearby mountains, a brace of revolvers, two silver watches and a quantity of small jewelry have been carried off, evidently by the person who murdered Gardner. Gardner's horse had also been taken from the shed, hitched to a light road wagon and driven off.

On the Trail.

Sheriff Schartz put his men on the case, and one of them learned that a man was seen driving the horse in the direction of Newburg Saturday night. The police followed to Newburg and arrived there too late, however, to intercept the man who drove the stolen rig into town. He was Joseph Decker, a mountaineer, 25 years old.

When Decker reached here, he went at once to the house of A. H. Pickens, in South street, where his sister, Amelia Decker, is employed. He had a conference with his sister and then drove the team to the livery stable of Brown & Jones. He told the proprietors he was going to leave the place and wanted to dispose of a horse and wagon which he had been using in the mountains. A deal was finally made and Decker received $25 for the team, $10 in cash and a check for $15 on the Columbus Trust company.

After disposing of the stolen property Decker lingered around the town waiting for the trust company to open its doors so that he might cash the check. It was while he was walking through North Water street that he met his father and mother. News of the murder of Gardner had just reached the town, and Decker's father warned him that he was suspected of the crime.

Suspected Man Disguises Himself.

Decker immediately made his preparations for departure. He shaved off his beard, but allowed his mustache to remain intact. Before taking the West Shore train for Kingston, he stopped on the way and disposed of the jewelry which had been stolen from Gardner's house. P. R. Van Inwegen and a brickyard man from Roseton purchased the property, after which no more was seen of Decker. It is thought that he has gone to the mountains, where the officials say they will have no difficulty in locating him. Kingston was his first objective point.

Amelia Decker told Policeman Miles yesterday morning that after breakfasting with her Joe said he was going to Kingston. Decker and his sister Amelia were out walking. Amelia carried a large bouquet Joe had bought for her at a florist's. Decker has another sister, Miss Jennie Decker, who lives in this city.

The body of the murdered man has been taken to Clintondale by an undertaker from that place.

Gardner was a widower and had no children. He was courting a certain young woman in the vicinity of his home, and it is said that Decker was also in love with her.

Joseph Decker has been captured by officers in the town of Esopus, Ulster county, and lodged in the county jail at Kingston.

Eyes Destroyed by a Blast.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., June 22.—Michael St. Andrews, employed at the Nevins Stone quarries, about two miles west of this city, attempted to examine an unexploded blast. While looking into the hole, the blast went off. Both of his eyes were blown out and his face filled with powder and stone. Both arms were broken in several places and his right hand crushed. He may die. He is 25 years of age and married.

Arrival of an Injured Steamer.

St. Michaels, June 22.—The British steamer Lowlands, Captain Dormond, from Savannah June 5, via Norfolk 8th, for Cette, has arrived here badly damaged, having had her stern and bulwarks stove in from a collision with the British steamer Atrato from Colon. She reported that the latter steamer proceeded to Plymouth.

Arrested Man Released.

Boston, June 22.—Clarence F. Jewett, now of Bridgewater, but late of Portland, Or., who was arrested a day or two ago on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, has been liberated upon a message from Oregon officials that there was no warrant against him.

Ask Too Much For the Road.

Atlanta, June 22.—The Northeastern railway has not been sold, as advertised. The road is owned by the state and the governor did not get a bid, the upset price, which is $287,000, being regarded as too high.

THE WHEELMEN MEET

L. A. W. of New York Hold a Well Attended Convention.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS RECEIVED.

The League Is In Good Condition Financially as Well as Numerically. Best Membership Record of Any State.

Saratoga, June 22.—The semiannual meeting of the board of state officers of the League of American Wheelmen was held at the Werden hotel last night. The roll call was answered by Isaac B. Potter, chief counsel, who presided; W. E. Underhill, vice counsel; George E. Blackham, auditor; W. S. Bull, secretary and treasurer; M. M. Belding, Jr., F. M. Frobisher, Dr. L. C. Leroy, W. R. Pitman, Dr. Seneca D. Powell, J. W. Walters, John B. Yates, representing the First district; H. B. Fullerton, W. M. Meserole, R. L. Stillson, Edward H. Walker, C. T. Harbeck, Second district; W. M. Henig, H. O. Folger, Third district; Eugene F. Pugh, Fourth district; Charles F. Closson, Fifth district; W. S. Johnson, Sixth district; F. F. Boland, W. B. Phipps and W. C. Vrooman.

Chief Counsel Potter reported that the New York State division had enjoyed continued prosperity since the last meeting. Six thousand new members had been enrolled, which was the best record any state had ever made. He said there was a good balance in the treasury. In referring to good road improvements, he said that the contest in the legislature last winter had been a hot one, and the measure was lost only by three or four votes, and its success at the next session seemed certain if more united effort would be made in this direction by the League members throughout the state.

He added that keeping a tax off the wheels has saved to league wheelmen many thousands of dollars. Many railroads are paying special attention to wheelmen's comfort. He touched upon the question of guideboards and road books, and said that the road book of the New York State division would be the best in the world.

He spoke of the work of the rights and privileges committee, recommended the appointment of a committee to take up the League hotel matter and thought that the racing board should be increased from three to five members. The secretary and treasurer's report was read by W. S. Bull. It showed total receipts from all sources to be $13,401 and expenses $11,418, leaving a balance of $1,983.

Reports From the Committees.

Reports were received from the committees on rights and privileges, on improvements to highways, on racing board and on Long Island signboards. Vice Counsel Underhill outlined the work being done in the direction of guideboards all over the state. More work had been done in the last two months than previously in two years. It was decided that road books be furnished L. A. W. members free. There have been ordered 20,000 New York books and 10,000 Brooklyn books.

It was suggested that league clubs be furnished with a complete set of road books and maps free. This met with much discussion.

Dr. George E. Blackham was re-elected auditor. W. C. Vrooman, W. H. Baker and F. M. Frobisher were elected a committee to nominate officers to be voted for at the annual meeting.

Amendments to the constitution and bylaws relative to the racing board considered last night, will be acted upon at the annual meeting. It was announced at a late hour that Isaac P. Potter and W. F. Underhill will not be candidates for chief counsel of the state.

The visiting wheelmen were given a moonlight excursion on Saratoga lake by the Saratoga Good Roads Association.

Postoffice Superintendent Commits Suicide

New York, June 22.—Samuel J. Casey, superintendent of postoffice substation D of Brooklyn, committed suicide at his home by taking carbolic acid. Before dying he wrote a letter to his wife saying that he was $500 short in his accounts with the government and asked that this be squared up out of his life insurance policy. Casey's superiors speak of him as one of the best men in the office and think his action the result of temporary insanity. The deceased was 38 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Body Taken to Providence.

Hull, Mass., June 22.—The body of Private Joseph White, which was found in the bay here Saturday bearing evidences of murder, covered with the stars and stripes, was taken in charge by five artillerymen under command of Sergeant Schilinger from Fort Warren for transportation to Providence. Mrs. White, mother of the dead man, who accompanied the party, fainted as she boarded the boat at the landing, but she recovered later.

When a mistake is easily avoided it's scarcely worth while to run the risk of making one. Buying poor paint is a needless waste of money. It's paying for something you don't want, because it don't answer the purpose. Only paint that wears and is proof against the exposure of our climate is worth the cost of putting on. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. IRON WORKS SHUT DOWN.

Closed on Account of a Dispute Over a Reduction of Wages.

Scranton, Pa., June 22.—The big south works of the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company has been forced to close down, and about 2,500 men are out of employment because of a dispute over a reduction in wages. When the mill resumed work three weeks ago, after an idleness of a few weeks, a notice was posted that there would be an average wage reduction of about 12 per cent among the tonnage men.

Saturday was pay day, and when the hands received their envelopes they found that the cut had been much greater than 12 per cent, and many of the 1,800 nontime men affected by it did not go to work yesterday morning. Only a few of the night shift have reported, and the mill had to close down for want of help.

A committee waited on General Master Welhum and were told that the company could not make money on any higher wage scale. It is believed that the 1,500 or 2,000 hands of the north works may also quit. There is not now the slightest evidence of any disorder.

ENVOYS WELCOMED.

Queen Victoria Receives the Representatives of the Nations.

IN THE THRONEROOM AT BUCKINGHAM

A Notable Gathering of Princes and Distinguished Personages—Whitelaw Reid, General Miles and Rear Admiral Miller Presented to the Queen.

London, June 22.—The week's celebration of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee is now fairly under way.

The queen yesterday made the journey from Windsor castle to Buckingham palace, where in the throneroom she received the envoys of the nations, this being her first official act in connection with the celebration.

The United States was represented by Special Envoy Whitelaw Reid, General Nelson A. Miles and Rear Admiral J. N. Miller.

To Her Majesty, Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Empress of India:

Great and Good Friend—In the name and on behalf of the people of the United States, I present their sincere felicitations upon the sixtieth anniversary of your majesty's accession to the crown of Great Britain.

I express the sentiments of my fellow citizens in wishing for your people the prolongation of a reign illustrious and marked by advance in science, arts and popular well being. On behalf of my countrymen I wish particularly to recognize your friendship for the United States and your love of peace, exemplified upon important occasions.

It is pleasing to acknowledge the debt of gratitude and respect due to your personal virtues. May your life be prolonged and peace, honor and prosperity bless the people over whom you have been called to rule. May liberty flourish throughout your empire under just and equal laws and your government continue strong in the affection of all who live under it.

And I pray God to have your majesty in his holy keeping.

Done at Washington this 28th day of May, A. D., 1897. Your good friend,

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

By the president.

JOHN SHERMAN, Secretary.

In addition to the United States envoys there were present General Davoust, duke of Auerstadt, grand chancellor of the Legion of Honor, representing France, and two French generals of division, one of them especially representing President Faure; M. Crozier, chief of the protocol, and a brilliant staff of French officers; Prince Albert of Prussia, the prince regent of Brunswick and a staff of eight general officers, representing the emperor of Germany, in addition to Duke Albert of Wurtemberg, Prince Rupert of Bavaria, Prince Frederick Augustus of Saxony, the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, the hereditary Prince and Princess of Hohenlohe-Langenburg and the hereditary Prince and Princess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, representing the integral portions of the German empire.

Grand Duke Sergius Represented Russia.

Russia was represented by their imperial highnesses the Grand Duke Sergius and the Grand Duchess Elizabeth Feodrowna and large suits.

The Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir presumptive to the throne of Austria, represented the Austro-Hungarian empire, accompanied by a number of princes.

Italy sent to represent her their royal highnesses the Prince and Princess of Naples, and Sweden and Norway were represented by Prince Eugene, the fourth son of King Oscar. Prince Ferdinand represented Roumania. He was accompanied by the princess and their suits.

Bulgaria was represented by its prince and princess, and Crown Prince Danilo represented Montenegro. Prince Charles de Ligno represented Belgium, the duke of Oporto, brother of King Charles, representing Portugal, and the duke of Stoutomayer representing Spain.

Besides the above, nearly every country in the world was represented. Japan had the Marquis Ito there, and China had 19 Celestials of the highest rank. Mexico and the Central American republics were represented.

After her majesty had received the special envoys she received a host of Indian princes. Then the envoys were conducted to her majesty's presence by the queen's master of the ceremonies and were introduced by the Marquis of Salisbury, the premier and minister for foreign affairs.

Many Honors Conferred.

The following honors have been conferred in connection with the diamond jubilee:

The Duke of Connaught has been appointed colonel of the Sixth dragoons and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weymar has been appointed a field marshal.

A PUBLIC SPIRITED MAN.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles gives yet another evidence of his public spirit by the tender to the Governor of a superb bronze portrait bust of his distinguished father, the late Abraham Coles, poet, author and scientist, the bust to be placed in Newark. The bust is to rest upon a pedestal of selected stone brought from Palestine, full of historic and religious interest, and the foundation stone is composed of a boulder of seven tons from Plymouth, Mass., and part of a monolith of the Pyramid of Cheops in Egypt. The inscriptions and details are all in harmony with the general design of the monument and with the life career of the scholar whom it commemorates. Dr. Coles has given princely gifts of art to public and educational institutions, and none more appropriate and better appreciated than this latest and most valuable donation to the public.—Newark News.

Dr. Coles is a resident of Scotch Plains.

LOOK BEHIND.

Fully half of the accidents to cyclists can be traced back to the carelessness of some other cyclist or driver who has turned in the path of a wheelmen without first looking to see who was approaching from behind. A little thought, especially in the business streets of this city, would do away with many accidents and numerous narrow escapes. So many people turn directly across the roadway without thinking of those approaching from the rear.

Then the cyclist who approaches from the rear should remember to give the other one warning with his bell. A remembrance of those two facts will save wheelmen many accidents.

A WONDERFUL IMPROVEMENT.

After attending the Class Day exercises in the North Plainfield Public High School, last evening, no one could but mark the wonderful improvement that has been made in the entire system during the last year in making it an up-to-date High School. Considering that this is the first year of the High School, the number of graduates, three, need not be considered small.

THE EPIDEMIC.

It is too much to expect that the epidemic of scarlet fever could be stopped in a day but there seems full assurance that the Board of Health has the upper hand and has eliminated the cause. All that now remains to do is to continue to take the same precautions and wait for the disease to die out as it undoubtedly will in a short time.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. A Dangerous Practice.

A women living in the eastern section of the town called at The Daily Press office yesterday and stated that an Italian, accompanied by a hand organ and a monkey, had been making a tour through the above-named portion of the town. At one place the monkey was allowed to climb on the porch of a certain house where there is a case of scarlet fever, and the children having the disease were allowed to lean out of the window and pet the monkey. This the woman held was entirely wrong, for the monkey might easily convey germs to other children with whom he came in contact. The matter was reported to the police and attended to at once.

WESTFIELD

TO PAY OR NOT TO PAY.

UNION WATER COMPANY'S CLAIM IS A SURPRISE.

For Obvious Reasons the Matter Was Not Referred to the Township Counsel—Programme for the Fourth of July Event.

The members of the Westfield Township Committee were somewhat nonplused at their meeting last Friday night by a question which arose unexpectedly as to the township's liability to the Union Water Company for the tapping of mains for connections to supply water to the sewer flush tanks. The regular charge which the company makes for tapping a main is $5. During the time that Superintendent Kline was in charge of the Water Company's interest in Westfield he made a large number of tappings for flush tanks, and the impression prevailed that no charge was to be made as in the case of similar work done for private parties. Thos. Doud has succeeded Kline as superintendent of the Water Company, and last week when Superintendent of Sewers Chamberlain ordered this new official to tap a main for one of the new flush tanks, Doud asked him to sign a printed form which provides for the payment of the regular fee. The Town Committee was then asked for information as to whether it was proper for the company to exact charges for the work. The ludicrous point in the situation became apparent as soon as the question was propounded. It is customary to submit all questions of this nature to the township counsel for his opinion. In this case, however, the township counsel is also president of the Union Water Company. The Committee therefore did not refer the matter to its counsel, but escaped for the time being from an unpleasant situation by refraining from any action or discussion whatever. Of course no decision can be reached in this way; and the problem will come up again whether the township must pay the Water Company for the work in question.

The programme for the Fourth of July celebration has been arranged and published by the committee. At 7:30 the bicycle parade will take place; at 9 the contests and games for prizes will be held; at 10 the Westfield baseball team will play the Bayonne Field Club on the North Broad street grounds; at noon a clam dinner will be served at Henry's Park on Elm street; the bicycle races will come off at 2 p. m.; at 3 there will be a display of day fireworks, oratory, and a Rhode Island clambake; and at 7 the Union County Band will give a concert, which will be followed by a grand display of fireworks.

A FOOD MEDICINE.

How to Cure Ordinary Ills the Easiest Way.

In late years no one remedy has grown more in favor with physicians than Malt Extract. If it is rightly made it is a tonic that can be depended on every time.

It is as much a food as a medicine, but is food of an unusual kind. It is food in soluble and concentrated form all ready to slip into the blood and renovate the system without taxing digestion. Therefore, if your stomach is weak it does you good just the same.

We recommend Crown Brand Extract of Malt as one you can rely on. It is made by a thoroughly reliable house and we have it put up under our own name as an additional guarantee of its merit.

We are also able to save you something on the cost. Other good extracts will cost you at least 25 per cent more We constantly endeavor to sell the best of everything for less and this is another instance of it. Extract of Malt is especially recommended for dyspepsia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and general debility. It is the ideal tonic for invalids, convalescents and for debilitated women. 15c. bot., $1 65 doz. Frank Rowley, druggist, 45 Somerset St.

AN ORDINANCE

It's a wise loss for the maker, a good purchase for us, and a big bargain benefit for you.

FULTON'S FIRST FARE.

And First Recognition Received for Adapting Steam to Navagation.

There was one little incident in Robert Fulton's life about which few people know and which Fulton never forgot. It took place shortly before the return trip of his famous boat's voyage by steam up the Hudson River. At the time all Albany flocked to the wharf to see the strange craft, but so timorous were they that few cared to board her. One gentleman, however, not only boarded her, but sought out Fulton, whom he found in the cabin, and the following conversation took place:

"This is Mr. Fulton, I presume?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you return to New York with this boat?"

"We shall try to get back, sir."

"Have you any objection to my returning with you?"

"If you wish to take your chances with us, sir, I have no objection."

"What is the fare?"

After a moment's hesitation, Fulton replied, "Six dollars." And when that amount was laid in his hand he gazed at it a long time, and two big tears rolled down his cheeks. Turning to the passenger, he said:

"Excuse me, sir, but this is the first pecuniary reward I have received for all my exertion in adapting steam to navigation. I would gladly commemorate the occasion with a little dinner, but I am too poor now even for that. If we meet again, I trust it will not be the case."

As history relates, the voyage terminated successfully. Four years later Fulton was sitting in the cabin of the Clermont, then called the North River, when a gentleman entered. Fulton glanced at him, and then sprang up and gladly shook his hand. It has his first passenger, and over a pleasant little dinner Fulton entertained his guest with the history of his success, and ended with saying that the first actual recognition of his usefulness to his fellow-men was the six dollars paid to him by his first passenger.—Harper's Round Table.

A FUNNY EYE-SIGHT.

The Indian was Immensely Proud of His Crockery Optic.

At the battle of Stone River, or Murfreesboro, as some historians name it, Lieutenant Hallack, of the Union Army had the misfortune to lose one of his eyes. In 1865, he was promoted to be first lieutenant in the regular army, and was stationed at one of the Indian posts on the plains.

He had a small blue eye of glass, but thinking that he could not obtain artificial eyes so far away from the large cities, he bought two other glass eyes, for use should his regular false eye be broken.

On a certain occasion, Lieutenant Halleck was visited by a one-eyed Indian warrior, who wished to see the "white man's funny eye." The brave was much pleased with the sight, and after awhile he besought the officer to lend him one of the extra bits of glass.

"But your sound eye is as black as coal and as big as a saucer," protested the lieutenant, "and these eyes are little and blue."

The Indian insisted, however, and at last prevailed on the lieutenant to lend him one of the eyes.

The lieutenant says that he never saw an Indian so delighted. Clad in a long shirt and an old plug hat, the brave walked around the camp as proud as Lucifer. His big black eye and his little blue eye were in amusing contrast.

He succeeded in making the other Indians believe that he could see through the blue eye as well as through his natural one, and no happier warrior than he ever strutted before admiring squaws.—Golden Days.

Retreat for Old Maids.

Old maids must claim the little kingdom of Denmark for their paradise, for they are insured there. Any girl who feels that there is a likelihood of her being laid on the shelf may make provision whereby she can, at the age of forty, be put in the spinster class for good and receive weekly benefits. These benefits, of course, are in cash. —New York Journal.

THE HOMING PIGEONS.

Their Aid to Rothschild before Electricty was Used in Telegraphy.

Carrier pigeons must not be confused with homing pigeons, notes a writer in The Badminton Magazine. The former is a fancy pigeon, especially prized for its eye and wattles, but quite useless as a messenger. Both are cousins of the dragon, but the fancier, in the case of the carrier, has bred purely for points, color, shape, etc., while the homing pigeon fancier cares nothing for these things. With him it has been "handsome as a handsome does," and stamina with intelligence has been his aim. An article in Bell's Life, of Jan. 1, 1870, speaks of the "commercial aspect" of the homing pigeon, and from it I extract the following: "Baron Rothschild, before electricity was brought into operation, had an immense quantity of pigeons for express work. These birds brought the news of the state of the money markets in Paris, and frequently the baron cleared in England, almost immediately after the news arrived, many thousand pounds by buying or selling stock. These birds did not come direct from the Continent, for there were relays throughout the distance, and the birds that were housed at Dover brought the news from Calais, when it was dispatched by another pigeon, whose home was at Sittingbourne, so on from there to Blackheath, and thence by another bird to the metropolis."

It has been generally stated, and so far without contradiction, that it was by means of their pigeon express the Rothschilds learned the result of the Battle of Waterloo several hours before the Government of the day, and, profiting by this means, were enabled to make their first great coup on the Stock Exchange.—New York Times.

MARK TWAIN'S GIFT TO HIS WIFE.

Intended His Last Work as a Remembrance of their Wedding Anniversary.

It must have been because the author of "The Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc" was on his travels in the uttermost parts of the earth when the narrative was published in book form that one of his intentions about it was not at that time carried out. It was his purpose, when he began work on the story in Florence, in 1893, that it should be a silver-wedding present to his wife. He says that she never knew of his design, and when the book was published there was nothing in it to apprise her of it. "Let us rectify," writes Mr. Clemens from London, under date of April 9; and, agreeably to his wish, a leaf will be inserted in future issues of the Recollections of Joan, bearing this inscription:

1870 TO MY WIFE 1895
OLIVIA LANGDON CLEMENS
THIS BOOK

is tendered on our wedding anniversary in grateful recognition of her twenty-five years of valued service as my literary adviser and editor.

A COLORED MAN'S SUCCESS.

He Has Proved Himself a Capable and Thrifty Farmer.

Barton F. Powell, of Albany, Ga., a negro thirty-two years old, is one of the most successful farmers in the state. Twelve years ago he had saved up $2,000, with which he bought 500 acres of land. He went to work on it and cleared $2,500 the first year. He has continued to add to his landed possessions, paying spot cash for every farm purchased, and is now the owner of 2,100 acres of land, from which he markets 400 bales of cotton annually. Besides his success on the farm he has developed the country supply-store idea, and thus rakes in thousands of dollars a year. He also owns a comfortable residence in Bainbridge. His profits last year were over $7,000. He says that the question of social recognition doesn't trouble him so long as he can get financial recognition at the bank.—New York Tribune.

Flowers as an Antiseptic.

It is said that the odors of flowers are antiseptic and that during epidemics the workmen in perfume factories are exempt from disease.

Some essences are good for the nerves. Ambergris, it is said, has the power to clear the brain and induce thought. Musk used in infinitesimal quantities acts as a tonic. Citron and aloes are soothing to the nerves. Strong perfumes, as a rule, are stimulating, while strange, subtle odors incline to drowsiness.

A chemist believes that each scent can be symbolized by a musical note, and a French romanticist says, on inhaling the fragrance of flowers on shore and the strains of music borne on the air from the deck of a vessel, "I could not tell whether I breathed music or heard flowers."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Tiger With a Glass Eye.

This isn't a stuffed tiger, but a real live one, ferocious and strong. He is at present in the menagerie at Stuttgart, and looks as fierce with his glass eye as with the real one.

A serious affection of the muscles caused the beast to lose the sight of one eye. As the public didn't appreciate a one-eyed tiger, the beast was put under cocaine and the useless optic removed. This was a ticklish operation, several strong keepers holding the beast down while the eye was taken out.

He was measured for a new eye, which had to be made with a special degree of ferocity. For the first week he tried hard to rub it out; but he now rests contented as the only wild animal with a glass eye.—New York Tribune.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Frequent Mistake.

The Heart Often Blamed for Trouble It Does Not Cause.

The secret of the success of a physician is his ability to diagnose a case. If you don't know what ails you, how can you know what to do for it? The heart is the pumping station; it pumps the blood to different parts of the body. Of course it is an important matter that this blood is freed from all impurities, and the heart can't do this. Such work falls on the kidneys; hence the kidneys are called the filters. They must filter out all the uric acid that forms together with other impurities, or their delicate fibres become clogged; then comes the trouble—backache, sideache, and other aches follow; some complain of sleeplessness and lame back without fully appreciating the cause. Very often the doctors make a mistake, and say it rises from the liver or heart. This is demonstrated in Newark by a citizen, Mrs. Turnbull, who resides at No. 80 Wilsey street. She suffered with a pain in the extreme lower portion of her back, was forced to give up and lie in bed most of her time; lost all ambition from the continual pains, which seemed to exist whether in or out of bed. She could not lie on her back; the urine showed a deposite sediment, and came with a scalding sensation. She had fierce headaches. Of course Mrs. Turnbull employed a doctor. He thought her difficulty came from the heart. At any rate, right or wrong, she derived very little from his treatment. Then one day she went to Menk's drug store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and began taking them. This soon told the tale of her trouble, for rapid improvement followed. She was very soon cured of her complaint, and Mrs. Turnbull continues to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as well she may. The facts of her case, as above related, are told as she told them to our representative; 'tis easy to verify them.

Price 50 cents per box. For sale by all dealers or mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

THE JUBILEE IN DUBLIN.

A Black Banner Displayed at a Meeting Near College Green.

Dublin, June 22.—At a meeting held near College green in connection with the jubilee a black banner was displayed bearing the statement, "During Victoria's reign 1,500,000 people have starved in this island, 3,000,000 have been evicted, and 4,000,000 have been compelled to emigrate."

A body of undergraduates who marched out from the ground of Trinity college carrying the union jack came into collision with the crowd, and there was considerable fighting. Philip Callan was severely injured in the head, and several others were more or less injured. Only with difficulty did the police restore order.

The cause of the trouble was rivalry in singing national airs. After the rumpus the crowd paraded the streets and destroyed the decorations.

THE WOUNDED POLICEMAN.

Condition of the Officer Whose Skull Was Fractured In a Melee.

South Framingham, Mass., June 22.—The condition of Police Officer David Bastien, who had his skull fractured by being struck with a beer bottle during a drunken row, is still precarious, the injured man having regained consciousness only for a short time since the occurrence.

In the police court Augustino Tappianio, Patsy Smith and Henry Smith, the three men who were arrested charged with participating in the affray, were arraigned before Judge Kingsbury, but owing to the precarious condition of Police Officer Bastien the case was adjourned until June 29 to await the outcome of the injuries. They were held in $3,000 bonds, which they were unable to secure, and were taken to jail.

Whole Family Poisoned.

Huntsville, Ala., June 22.—The family of John P. King of this city, are suffering from poison at Monrovia, where they were spending the heated term. Dr. Blaude, who was called to relieve the sufferers, and remained to supper, was also taken violently ill, and physicians from this city were summoned. Monrovia is about three miles from Jeff, the scene of the Kelly poisoning and lynching, and excitement runs high. Antidotes have been successful, and all the parties are recovering.

Supposed Murderer In Custody.

St. Louis, June 22.—Chief of Police Harrigan has received a letter from the city marshal of Sequin, Tex., stating that there is a man in that town going under the name of Williams who is supposed to be Rev. Thomas Abbott West, a Methodist minister of Chestertown, Ind., who eloped from there with Susie Beck, and, it is charged, murdered her in St. Louis in June, 1887. Chief Harrigan has requested the city marshal of Sequin to hold Williams, or West, for further orders.

Scientist Church Cornerstone Laid.

Troy, N. Y., June 22.—The cornerstone of the First Church of Christ (Scientist) on Second avenue, Lansingburg, has been laid. The exercises consisted of reading from the Bible and selections from "Science and Health," the Lord's Prayer repeated by the congregation, placing the stone in position and an address. The building, which is the first of the denomination in this part of the state, will be a beautiful structure of stone.

St. Louis Poolrooms Closed.

St. Louis, June 22.—An act of the last legislature, known as the breeders' law, is now in operation. Among its requirements is one that bookmaking or pool selling cannot be carried on without a license from the state auditor. A violation of this law is punishable by one year's imprisonment or a fine of $1,000, or both. Chief of Police Harrigan has issued orders to close all poolrooms found open, and as a result not one in the city is open.

Drowned In a Water Barrel.

Middletown, N. Y., June 22.—Mrs. Warren Finch, the wife of the tollgate keeper near Bloomingburg, aged 68 years, became despondent and deliberately climbed into a barrel of water and sat down. Her daughter discovered her mother unconscious, with her head floating above the water. The girl procured assistance and endeavored to resuscitate her, but without avail.

Croatians Meet.

McKeesport, Pa., June 22.—The fourth annual convention of the National Croatian society of the United States has been opened here. Delegates are present from all parts of the United States. The Croatian people in this country are better known as Austrians, as their country, Croatia, since 1827, has been a part of the Austro-Hungary empire.

Mills Again on Full Time.

Salmon Falls, N. H., June 22.—The mills of the Salmon Falls Manufacturing company have resumed a full time schedule after having been run on two-thirds time since last December. The change in time is the result of an increased demand for the goods manufactured by the corporation.

Alleged Forger Must Stand Trial.

Urbana, O., June 22.—Judge Heiserman of the common pleas court has rendered his decision on the general demurrer to the 30 indictments returned against Z. T. Lewis, the bond forger. The judge overruled the demurrer on all parts and fixed the date of Lewis' trial for Monday, July 12.

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

Boston, June 22.—The second annual convention of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union has been opened in this city. There were 100 delegates present when President John F. Tobin, in opening, briefly outlined the purpose of the convention and appointed a committee on credentials.

Attacked by His Wife and a Boarder.

Troy, N. Y., June 22.—Albert Moses of this city was seriously cut about the head and neck with knives in the hands of his wife and a boarder named John Burns. Both assailants are under arrest. As yet it is impossible to tell whether the wounds will prove fatal.

Sudden Death of a Farmer.

Rome, N. Y., June 22.—Henry M. Crumb, an old and well known resident of this city, dropped dead while at work in a field.

GOOD WORK WAS DONE

Senate Made Giant Strides on the Tariff Bill.

THE FREE LIST HAS BEEN COMPLETED.

Little Debate Took Place Except on a Few Articles—Mr. Bacon Wants Cotton Ties on the Free List—Some Senate Confirmations.

Washington, June 22.—The senate made giant strides on the tariff bill, covering 56 pages and establishing a record for progress during this tariff debate. The last two schedules of the dutiable list, covering paper and manufactured sundries were completed, with the exception of the paragraphs on hides, gloves, coal and some lesser articles. This advanced the senate to the free list, which was then taken up and completed in three hours.

The wool and silk schedules went over temporarily. After that the tobacco schedule, the reciprocity provisions and the internal revenue portions of the bill, as well as the many isolated paragraphs passed over, remain to be considered. The progress was so marked, however, that for the first time there was a feeling that the end was not far off.

There was little debate, the main topics of discussion being matches and fuses. On the latter item an amendment by Mr. Pettigrew reducing the rate to 10 per cent came within one vote of passing against the protest of the finance committee, the vote being a tie—24 to 24.

While the free list was under consideration, Mr. Bacon of Georgia gave notice of an amendment placing cotton ties on the free list, and Mr. McLaurin of South Carolina gave notice of another amendment, taking raw cotton from the free list, thus completing the action heretofore taken of placing a duty of 20 per cent on cotton.

Senator Allen reintroduced his resolution of last congress declaring that a masters' sale of the Union Pacific or Kansas Pacific railroad, without additional legislation, would not be binding on the government, and directing the committee on Pacific railroads to inquire what authority the executive department has in the premises.

Jones of Port Townsend, Wash., to be commissioners in and for the district of Alaska; Harmon L. Remmel of Arkansas to be collector of internal revenue for the district of Arkansas; Frank W. Some Stamp Statistics.

Washington, June 22.—Assistant Secretary Vanderlip has advised the director of the bureau of engraving and printing of the probable requirements of the postoffice department for stamps during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898. These estimates, based upon the number used in previous years, are as follows: Ordinary stamps, 3,444,167,000; newspaper and periodical stamps, 6,462,000; postage due stamps, 21,168,000. Of the ordinary stamps 2,500,000,000 are of the 2 cent denomination and 5,000,000 are of the 10 cent special delivery series.

As compared with the requirements for the present year, these estimates are an increase of about 295,000,000 in the number of ordinary stamps, an increase of 770,000 in the special delivery, an increase of 962,000 in the newspaper and periodicals and a decrease of 832,000 in the postage due series.

AN ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED.

A Delivery Wagon and Trolley Car Nearly Collided.

Edward J. Smith, a butcher, doing business on West Front street, was driving his horse through Liberty street at a high rate of speed this afternoon.

On West Fourth street a trolley car approached, and as it neared Liberty street, Smith turned his horse sharply around the corner directly in front of the swiftly oncoming car.

As soon as the horse came around the corner, however, the motorman in charge of the car, with great presence of mind, reversed the lever of his car.

On it went until it touched the frightened horse, and just then it came to a standstill.

If the motorman had delayed to reverse his lever for a few seconds, the story would have been one of a serious accident.

A DIME FOR DIGESTION.

THE WAY TO HELP YOUR STOMACH OUT OF DIFFICULTY.

When you are taken sick with pain in your stomach or chest, nausea, vomiting, headache dizziness, nervousness, neuralgia, flatulence, constipation, mental depression, weakness, languor, loss of appetite and other similiar symptoms, you are infected with the poisons of undigested food.

Your stomach needs help.

If you really are a dyspeptic, it will relieve you after a few doses If it does, keep on till you're cured. If not, don't take any more, you're no dyspeptic.

Indigestion or dyspepsia is a dreadful disorder, all the more that so few believe in its dangerousness.

That is because they don't die of indigestion, but of rheumatism, consumption, pneumonia, and other diseases which they would never have "caught" if their bodies hadn't been starved and weakened with indigestion.

Shaker Digestive Cordial acts on the food in your stomach and helps the digestive juices to dissolve it In this way it aids your stomach to do its work without effort and creates new strength and life for your whole body.

Contrary to expectation, there was no exhibition drill at the Plainfield High School this morning. It was expected that the Cadets would drill against the company of girls, but, as enthusiasm was lacking on both sides it was decided not to hold it.

This morning all the school books of the Plainfield High School were handed in, and any books which were not given up today must be brought to school tomorrow.

JOINED IN WEDLOCK.

MISS NORA A. CASEY AND JOHN J. GALLAGHER MARRIED.

The Ceremony Was Performed in St. Mary's Church Last Evening, Followed By a Reception at the Bride's Home.

St. Mary's church was filled by a large concourse of people at 5:30 o'clock last evening to witness the marriage of Miss Nora Agnes Casey, daughter of Patrick Casey, to John Joseph Gallagher, of this city.

The church interior presented a very beautiful appearance. The altar was decorated with cut flowers and ferns and all the candles upon it were burning.

At exactly 5:30 o'clock the bridal party entered the church and to the strains of a wedding march, walked to the front of the altar, where the groom and best man awaited them.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Smith, pastor of the church.

The bride was given away by her father. Her gown was of white silk with chiffon and pearl trimmings.

The bridemaid was Miss Nellie Casey, a sister of the bride, she wore yellow ordandie and carried a basket of yellow roses decked with ribbons.

Daniel J. Shea, of this city, was best man. Miss Mary J. Smith presided at the organ and furnished excellent music.

No invitations were issued to the church, and the many friends of the bride and groom crowded the edifice to its utmost capacity.

After the ceremony the couple were driven directly to the home of the bride's father, corner of New and West Third streets, where they held a reception to which only relatives were invited. In connection with the reception there was an elaborate wedding supper. The presents were numerous and very handsome. At 9 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher left amid a shower of rice and old shoes for a wedding trip lasting two weeks.

Both are well known and very popular in this city. Mr. Gallagher has been employed for five years at the Potter Press Works.

On returning from their wedding journey, the couple will take up their residence on West Third street, in this city.

CHANGES IN THE MAILS.

POSTMASTER HETFIELD HAS MADE A NUMBER OF IMPROVEMENTS.

Better Postal Service Is Now to Be Given to the Plainfield Public—Four Direct Mails to Philadelphia Added.

Through the constant efforts of Postmaster Hetfield, the mail service given to the people of Plainfield is steadily improving in every direction. The change in the delivery system, by which there are now four deliveries instead of three, was noted at the time. Now Mr. Hetfield has made some alterations in the time of the arrival and departure of the mails and has so arranged them that their number has been increased.

The changes in the mails to and from New York are but slight. The incoming mail, arriving here at 6:15 p. m., has been left out. The only changes in the outgoing mails to New York will be that the mails hitherto closing at 7:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. will close at 7:20 and 5:15 p. m., hereafter.

The mail to Somerville and Easton will close at 7:20 a. m., instead of 7:30 a. m., and a mail closing at 12:15 p m has been added to that service.

The greatest change is in regard to the mails to Philadelphia and points south. There used to be but one direct mail to Philadelphia, Washington and the south, and that was started only several months ago. The rest of the Philadelphia mail had to go to New York to be sorted and then was sent to Philadelphia. Now there will be four direct mails to Philadelphia, closing at 8:40 and 11:30 a. m. and 1 and 2:30 p. m., and four direct ones in return, arriving at 7:20 and 9:20 a. m and 12:15 and 6 p. m Then there will also be a through fast mail for Washington and the south, closing at 6 p. m.

Caught in the Car Tracks.

A wagon containing Mr. Maltby and family, of West Dunellen, broke down yesterday afternoon at the corner of Watchung and North avenues. One wheel caught in the car tracks and it was completely wrecked. The occupants of the wagon were thrown out, but fortunately no one was injured. The wagon was taken to Stevens' blacksmith shop on East Second street where it was repaired in a little while.

GAVE STARTLING FACTS.

ARTHUR KROM DELIVERED AN ADDRESS ON STERILIZING MILK.

The Address Was Made at a Public Meeting of the Town Improvement Association—A Very Valuable and Liberal Offer.

A public meeting of the Town Improvement association was held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building, at which Arthur Krom, of this city, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "The Need of Sterilizing Milk." Mr. Krom stated that bacteria is not, as some people suppose, a small animal, but a beautiful little plant having animal power of locomotion. He considered that the present scarlet fever epidemic is due to impure milk, and that it was not a more serious one, he held, is due to good luck more than anything else. He said that some dealers sell anything for milk which comes from any old place. He did not think that there is a cowyard within a radius of ten miles of Plainfield that is kept as it should be, and, to his own personal knowledge, he knew of farmers who had hidden their cows when the state in pector was around, and he thought that the cows must be in a very poor condition when they would not pass the inspector.

The method of dispensing milk from wagons, the speaker held, was a very poor one and should be condemned. Mr. Krom said that as a general thing the help about most cowyards were allowed to wear old clothes that are not clean and they are careless about keeping themselves clean. The stalls, he contended, were not kept clean and the light and ventilation as a rule is poor. In general, he thought that the people of this city must be very tough to be able to stand such treatment. He thought that if a roster of the people who had died from consumption as the result of drinking impure milk could be obtained, it would surprise the people of Plainfield. Mr. Krom then exhibited and explained a number of charts showing the various kinds of germs which are common and which produce contagious diseases. He said that one germ in a quantity of milk under favorable conditions would multiply quickly into millions. He held that twenty per cent of the cows in this locality were infected with diseases that make milk unfit to drink.

Mr. Krom then introduced the subject of sterilizing milk, and stated that a suitable laboratory could be established at an expense of $150 or $200, and if such a place should be established, he said he would offer his services free for six months or a year until the laboratory could be placed in good running order and a suitable man secured to run it.

After the address the subject was discussed by the members and it was finally decided to refer the matter to a committee of three who are to investigate the advisability of establishing a laboratory and report at a future meeting. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Krom for his most interesting talk.

An Afternoon on the Mountain.

About twenty members of the Primary Teachers' Union enjoyed an outing yesterday in the mountains. They were conveyed from the city to the foot of the mountains by trolley, and there they walked to the objective point, a short distance beyond Mountain Park Inn, which place they reached just in time for dinner. All hands assisted in preparing a tempting repast, and before partaking the group arranged themselves to have their picture taken. After all had indulged in a good dinner, the rest of the day was passed in playing games and sociability. Before the happy company parted they all joined in singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

BOTH ARE MARRIED NOW

STRANGE COMPLICATIONS IN MR. STITES' MARRIED LIFE.

His First Wife Claims That He Deserted Her and Never Would Support Her—He Was Recently Married.

Nine years ago a couple were married by Justice Nash in his office. All was not love between them and four years later the wife married again, claiming that her husband had deserted her and had married another woman. He had not made another venture in the matrimonial sea and returned to bring a charge of bigamy against his former wife. The Grand Jury would not indict her and the complaint fell by the wayside. The last act in this little matrimonial drama was played on Sunday, May 9th, when the husband also married again. His marriage was kept a secret for some time.

October 21, 1888, Kate Sprigg, of Howard street, and Theodore E. Stites, of Grove street, appeared before Justice Nash and were married.

On October 4, four years later, Mrs. Stites, who claimed that her husband had deserted her and refused to support her and had heard that he was then living with another woman and two children in Pennsylvania, was married to Rufus Benson, with whom she has lived happily ever since. When Stites heard of her marriage, he returned and made a complaint against her in the charge of bigamy. She was held for the Grand Jury of Somerset county and appeared before the jury at Somerville. The jury refused to hold her on the charge and the matter was allowed to drop, although it is said that he tried to unsuccessfully raise money enough to bring suit against her.

Time flew by and he met Miss Clara Giddis, of Greenbrook road. He called often and sometimes took her driving. On Sunday, May 9th, he hired a buggy and took her for a drive. They had grown very intimate. The destination of the drive was Springfield, where they were quietly married.

None of the relatives of the bride knew of the marriage until some time afterward when the truth leaked out The bride's parents had objected to the union on account of Stites' former unfortunate experiences in that line and because they feared legal difficulties with Mrs. Stites No. 1. When they learned that the knot had already been tied, there was a little scene and then the bride and groom were forgiven and Mrs. Stites No. 2 was received by her parents.

A Press reporter called at the home of Mrs. Benson who admitted that she had been married twice, but thought that the act was all right as he had never supported her, but that she had been called upon to support him.

The reporter also called at Mr. Stites' home and learned there from his present wife that the second ceremony was a fact. She had little to say about the matter.

ITALIANS IN JAIL.

They Recovered From Their Injuries and Were Taken to Jail.

The two Italians, who were recently engaged in a brutal fight at the Netherwood shanty and who have been confined to the hospital since that time, were released this morning, and Chief Grant placed the men under arrest. They were taken to Elizabeth and are now confined in the county jail.

It will be remembered that on the Sunday in question the two men were playing cards at their home in Netherwood and they disputed a certain play that was made. Words were turned to blows and they engaged in a fight with knives and an axe, with the result that both were nearly killed. Chief Grant made a complaint against the men charging them with atrocious assault. The men admit the crime, but when the court calls them to account it may be that they will be unwilling to say anything.

WEDDED FIVE YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mohring Celebrated the Anniversary Pleasantly.

Louis Mohring, of 78 Linden avenue, gave his wife a surprise party last evening in celebration of their fifth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Mohring's surprise was a complete one, as she received no intimation of what was going on until the guests, to the number of about thirty, appeared and took possession of the house. Games and sociability were indulged in until 11 o'clock, when a supper, prepared by Miss Nettie Dunn, was served. After the supper dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

IN AID OF THE MISSIONS.

CLOSING MEETING OF SOCIETY OF PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

A Programme of Music and Readings Was Given at the Meeting—Reports Were Also Read—The Participants in the Event.

Yesterday afternoon the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held its final meeting for the season. It was a special meeting, with a very enjoyable programme, and was held in the lecture room of the church, which was prettily decorated with flowers.

Mrs. Frederick K. Fish, president of the society, presided, while Miss Emma Virginia Fish, the secretary, acted as organist. The meeting opened with devotional services. Miss M. G. Morse, of the Congregational Woman's Association, then sang with autoharp accompaniment, "Here Am I. Send Me," after which the secretary's report was read by Miss Fish, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Freeman. Miss Fish also gave a very entertaining reading, "The Deacon's Tenth," telling how the old man began, grudgingly at first, to lay aside a tenth of his income for "The Lord's Money," and how the giving came to be a joy to him, and of the good that came from it. After a very practical little paper, "How Much Owest Thou?" read by Mrs. Rand, Miss Lillian Richardson gave a piano solo, an "Etude," very acceptably. Another reading, "Mrs. Thurston's Repentance," by Miss Fannie May Fish, told of a woman who, having given a filled half-dollar at one missionary meeting, gave at the next a gold piece of just the same size. "The Pasture with a Rock in It," was the title of a touching little reading given by Mrs. Compton, which was followed by another bright piano solo, "Fresh Life," by Miss Lillian Richardson. Miss Elizabeth Fish, one of Miss Addie Parker Jackson's pupils, then recited an exquisite poem, "Coming;" another song, "Consecration," by Miss Morse, followed, and a few words from the president, the collection, and a hymn, "Blest be the Tie," closed the meeting. A social hour followed, and dainty refreshments were served.

CHATTED AND FEASTED.

ANNUAL STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL OF HOLY CROSS CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

There Was a Large Attendance and the Time Passed Quickly—Who the Workers Were and What They Did.

The annual strawberry festival under the auspices of the Sunday school of the Church of the Holy Cross was held last evening in the parish house. The rooms were prettily decorated in the prevailing color of yellow, and the effect was very pretty. The affair was in charge of Miss Anna Murphy, who acted as general supervisor, and she was ably assisted by the young women of the church and Sunday-school. Of course, Superintendent B. R. Western was present and he made it a point to see that everybody enjoyed themselves.

At the candy table were Miss Fountain, Miss Western, Miss Emma Hall, Miss Emmons and Miss Beatrice Hall The cake table was in charge of Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Turrill and Mrs. Western, while Miss Ida Fountain attended to the lemonade well. The waitresses were Miss Helen Brown, Miss Carrie Dentz, Miss Carrie Philpitt and Miss Mary Jessup.

The rector, Rev. T. Logan Murphy was present and he made a most excellent member of the reception and entertainment committee, for he met everyone that entered the rooms and personally looked after their welfare. He was ably assisted by Horsely Barker, whose genial manner was proverbial. The festival was held from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock in the evening. In the afternoon the attendance of children was unusually large, and in the evening there was a large and encouraging attendance. The receipts will be used for the Sunday-school, and there is every reason to believe that they will be large.

New Telephones.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company have put in three new telephones within the last few days. One 'phone was put in the office of the Board of Health on Park avenue, another in the law offices of Assemblyman W. R. Codington, and the other in the furniture store of Powlison & Jones.

Commencement Music.

The music for the Plainfield High School commencement in Music Hall, tomorrow evening, will be furnished by Walter Rogers, of New York Rogers is the successor to Cappa, the famous leader, and is now solo cornetist in Sousa's Band. The latter position was only taken by him a short time ago.

SUMMER ENDEAVORERS.

DR. BRETT TOLD SOMETHING OF WHAT THEY SHOULD BE.

A Vacation Should Not be Taken From Church, the Bible and God—Local Union Rally Held Last Evening.

The cosy little Congregational church held an earnest and interested company of Christian Endeavorers last night, assembled in one of the helpful union meetings held periodically by the Plainfield Local Union. The evening was perfect for such a gathering, and the stirring Endeavor hymns with which the meeting began rang out with much spirit on the evening air. The song service was to have been led by Horace J. Martin, but he was obliged to be absent on account of illness, and the singing was led by Rev. C. E. Herring. Walter Raynolds acted as pianist.

E. E. Anthony, president of the union, presided over the meeting. Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the church where the meeting was held, read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer; then, after another rousing hymn, Mr. Anthony introduced the speaker of the evening, the vice president of the New Jersey State Union, Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D. In introducing Dr. Brett, Mr. Anthony said, that two years ago he would have said he was from Jersey City, but since the Plainfield Convention Plainfield had adopted the doctor as her own.

Dr. Brett's subject was "The Christian Endeavorer on His Summer Vacation," and his address was a thoroughly delightful one. It was brief, practical, and to the point. He began by speaking of the word "vacation," which he said he didn't like, since it meant vacating, the formation of a vacuum, which nature abhorred. "Outing" was a better term, for the Christian Endeavorer wanted to "vacate" from none of his powers and abilities to enjoy his summer holiday. "Holiday," too, was a term to be approved, especially when spelled "holy-day;" for the summer days should be holy days, lifting one nearer to God, the creator of all the beauty of the beautiful world.

Dr. Brett urged his hearers to thoroughly enjoy themselves while they were taking their vacation; to lay aside care and worry, and rest and recreate. But they must take God with them; they must not say when taking the train for mountains or seashore, "Goodbye, church; I shan't attend you while I am gone; nobody will know whether I do or not. Goodbye, Bible, I shan't have time to read you, there. Goodbye, God, I shan't need you where I am going." At a summer hotel, can you always tell that it is Sunday? A few go to church, the rest hang around and wish dinner was ready. One way to show your Christian endeavor, said the speaker, is to keep your face bright and serene, your voice gentle and pleasant, and never allow yourself to indulge in a "profane silence" when things are worrisome and your nerves are on edge. And do you ever think what an amount of good you can do during these vacation days, in the little church or Sunday-school or Endeavor society near which your lot is to be cast? Be such Christian Endeavorers that you shall bring new honor to your home union, and that when you return, Plainfield will be glad to see you, as she is glad, in a certain sense, to have you go away for a season, to carrry blessing to others.

A few sentence prayers followed the address, then the offering was received, after which L. J. Bigelow, Jr., sang, "Throw Out the Life-Line," the congregation joining in the stirring chorus. William N. Runyon, who was also to sing at this service, was prevented from doing so.

Rev. C. E. Herring, always a popular speaker with a Plainfield audience, now took charge of the meeting for ten minutes, and conducted a very interesting open parliament, on the same subject as Dr. Brett's address. A number of bright, helpful suggestions were given, for work to be done during the summer holidays, and Mr. Herring's own words were full of practical lessons on the same topic.

A closing hymn was sung, after which Rev. C. L. Goodrich pronounced the benediction, and the Endeavorers streamed out of the church, after an unusually enjoyable meeting.

Off for the Adirondacks.

P. Ludwig Conde, the well known musician of this city, will leave on Wednesday of next week for the Hotel Childwold, in the Adirondacks, where he will furnish and conduct the orchestra during the summer. Clarence Lester Eick will be his pianist and Carl Lohnhoff, of the New York Philharmonic Society, will be the 'cellist.

A ROYAL PROCESSION

England's Great Demonstration In Honor of Queen Victoria.

THE IMPRESSIONS OF DR. DEPEW.

The Eminent New Yorker Writes a Review of the Splendid Pageant—Most Magnificent Spectacle of Modern Times — Its Significance.

London, June 23.—Dr. Chauncey M. Depew, who witnessed the queen's jubilee procession as the guest of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, gives his impressions of the great spectacle as follows:

"The diamond jubilee procession has passed and has left a lasting impression. Its preparation required 60 years, and it was over in 60 minutes. Pride, power and adoration were its characteristics. Pride in the imperial position of Great Britain in the world, an exhibition of power which inspires this national exaltation and fervid loyalty in action, expression and thought for the queen.

"As to the pageant, it was dramatic and historic. The lord mayor, in his robes of office, meeting the sovereign at the city gates recalled the early suggestions of liberty, in the privileges won from kings by free cities, and the sheriff, in mediæval costume, escorting the monarch within his bailiwick, gave a glimpse of the origin and recognition of civil rights by the throne.

"The monarch, escorted by princes and guarded by the military forces of the realm, both regulars and volunteers, national and colonial, evidenced the strength and permanency of the monarchical system with this people.

"We Americans glory in our country and in its marvelous developments in a hundred years and duly assert ourselves on the Fourth of July. The celebration by the Germans of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle of Sedan and the founding of the German empire, which I saw, was a wonderful exhibition of race and national feeling.

"But the concentrated and irrepressible joy and cry which preceded, accompanied and followed the queen like a resistless torrent, surpassed anything ever witnessed before. Though many races and many tongues participated, the dominant and absorbing expression was English, and the glory was England's. Peers and commoners, masters and workmen, millionaires and the multitude were welded by a tremendous force. This concentration of loyalty from the remotest corners of the earth into one wild, frantic mass of patriotic enthusiasm had an effect upon observers which can be likened to nothing so much as to the north and south electrified by the first gun fired at Fort Sumter or by the Seventh regiment marching down Broadway to the defense of the capital.

The Enthusiasm and Applause.

"The enthusiasm and shouting were far different from those evoked by the triumphal procession of a Roman conqueror. Men and women eagerly expressed to each other and emphasized to foreigners as the colonials marched by that they were not captives chained to the chariot of their conqueror, but 'willing subjects, free citizens of our worldwide empire, following their sovereign.'

"White, yellow and black soldiers trooped by, each accelerating and increasing the tidal wave of enthusiasm and presenting a panorama of power unequaled in history. The seeds of this power were in the American Revolution, and it expanded into this wonderful spectacle by the principles of self government so triumphantly indicated by the founders of the United States. The sovereign and the British statesmen who believed the colonies should be governed from London and taxed for the benefit of the mother country lost for England the American colonies, and the sovereign and statesmen, taught by our success, who have left to each settlement absolute independence and home rule, have builded upon these foundations and have vastly strengthened by this reunion the British federation of empire.

"Among the American spectators there was no jealousy nor stint of praise and applause. We could both glory in the vitality and virility of the mother country and rejoice mightily. We were not marching in the procession, but we were present as the proud equals in all that constitutes a free people and a great nation.

"It was pleasing to note our neighbors of Canada. They easily took the lead among the colonials, and the fact that the province of Quebec was in rebellion when Victoria came to the throne and that her premier, now here, is a Frenchman and a Catholic appealed to English imagination. That the descendants of Montcalm and his countrymen should vie with the children of Wolfe and his soldiers in their loyalty and that Canada has made a beginning by favoring Great Britain as against other nations in her tariff have touched both the British heart and pocket.

A Popular Ovation to the Queen.

"I can conjure no tribute like the popular ovation given to the queen ever being given to any human being, except the reception to Washington by the people on his way from Mount Vernon to New York to assume the position of first president of the United States. Respect, reverence, love or gratitude are words too tame, and there is no intermediate expression between them and adoration. This practical age does not worship; but, leaving out the idea of divinity, this greeting to the queen and empress is its equivalent. That she was deeply moved is evident; but she seemed more absorbed by the insignificance of the event than conscious of her past. Therein she impressed me as proud and happy with this grand tribute of her, but at the same time sharing with them the universal joy in the thought of both oppressed and elevated that there has not been such a 60 years in recorded time, that all nations have enjoyed its benefits and blessings and none more than our own. But for this time and place the crowd only saw what Great Britain has gained during her reign and accorded praise therefor to her. Her reign has been a period of emancipation in English history. The prerogatives of the throne have diminished, and by her rule and conduct its power has so increased that this welcome came with such acclaim and unanimity from the free people, governing themselves, who gave it its might and majesty.

"Making due allowance for the exaltation of the hour, Victoria will occupy a great place in the history of the nineteenth century. Her influence for peace has been of momentous consequence to Great Britain, Europe and civilization.

"She has always been cordial in her friendships and anxious for the loftiest relationship with the United States. Her messages, sweet, tender and womanly, to the widow of Lincoln and the life of dying Garfield gave her a warm welcome and a permanent memory in our American homes. In estimating her influence we must picture what might have occurred with a warlike or corrupt sovereign and recognize her power of accumulating a force of 60 years of wisdom as a ruler and as the best example as woman, wife and mother."

Antijubilee Sentiment In Dublin.

Dublin, June 23.—About the time that the jubilee procession started in London a black flag was hoisted on the flagstaff of the municipal building here. It was allowed to float at half mast for half an hour and then lowered and borne through the streets at the head of a procession armed with sticks and singing, "God save Ireland."

The crowd also removed and burned all the union jacks they could get access to and then started in the direction of Trinity college, but the police drove them back amid great excitement.

At the head of the procession walked six men bearing a coffin labeled "The British Empire," while the band that followed played the "Dead March."

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Nathan E. Lewis, of West Eighth street, is back from Ashaway, R. I., to attend the High School commencement exercises in this city.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without fleur as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Two People Fatally and a Number Badly Injured In Connecticut.

Wallingford, Conn., June 23.—A hay wagon containing two men and five children was struck at the Ward street crossing of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad by south bound freight train No. 272, which resulted in fatal injuries to John Hoffman and his 8-year-old daughter Annie. The other occupants of the wagon were: Frank Russell, aged 35, cut about the head; Frank Novack, aged 8, contusion on the head; Henry Novack, aged 6, thigh fractured, and Edward Novack, aged 4, scalp wounds.

The train was in charge of Conductor James Daly and Engineer J. F. Burke and was going at the rate of about 15 miles an hour. The team was owned by Frank Russell, who was driving, and he maintains that he heard no warning. He was just on the tracks when the train bore down on them. The hind wheel of the wagon was struck, causing an upset, and Mr. Russell was thrown about 20 feet in the air. Hoffman was carried along on the pilot of the engine about 500 feet, while the other occupants of the wagon were thrown along the side of the track.

YELLOW FEVER SUSPECTS.

All Doing Well, but Will Be Held For a Time.

New York, June 23.—The saloon and second cabin passengers of the Colombian line steamer Finance, who were removed for observation to Hoffman island, are all well. They are visited several times daily by the health officer and his deputies. The baggage and effects of these passengers have been thoroughly disinfected. These passengers will not be released until five days have elapsed from the day they were last exposed on shipboard.

The passengers on Hoffman island are very cheerful; but, although quite comfortable and well fed, are looking anxiously for their discharge from quarantine, which will not be before Saturday, the 26th. The three yellow fever patients removed from the Finance to the Swinburne Island hospital are receiving the best of care and attention from Health Officer Doty. They are all progressing favorably.

TO BE EXTRADITED.

Alleged Dishonest Treasurer to Be Taken Back For Trial.

Philadelphia, June 23.—Judge Butler in the United States district court heard the application of Assistant United States District Attorney McCullen for the removal of Herbert J. Krenrich to Buffalo. Krenrich was arrested and indicted in York, Pa., for aiding and abetting in the abstraction and misapplication of $38,000 of the funds of the Stanwix National bank of Rome, N. Y.

Krenrich was former treasurer of the York Canning company and also of the Baltimore Condensed Milk company. The alleged principal in the crime was George W. Barnard, cashier of the bank, who committed suicide in January, 1896.

Judge Butler signed the warrant for removal, and Krenrich will be taken to Buffalo on Friday.

American Girl's Body Found In the Seine.

Paris, June 23.—The body of Miss Weil of Philadelphia, an art student in this city, was recently found in the river Seine. A friend to whom she had frequently spoken to of suicide informed the police directly her disappearance was noted; but, although the body of the young woman was found two days later, the remains were kept at the morgue for six days. The father of Miss Weil has requested the United States consular authorities of this city to have the remains interred in the Hebrew cemetery of Paris.

Holiday Statute Repealed.

Denver, June 23.—For the ensuing two years Colorado will be distinguished as the only state in the Union where the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year, Washington's birthday and Memorial day are not legal holidays. The discovery has just been made that an act of the late legislature in regard to the negotiable instruments repealed the statute establishing the above named holidays. The only legal holidays left in Colorado are Arbor day, Labor day and the Saturday half holiday.

Two New Gunboats.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 23.—The gunboats Newport and Vicksburg, recently constructed at the Bath Iron works, have arrived at the Portsmouth navy yard in tow of two tugboats. They will be fitted out here, and Commander Vory, U. S. N., and Boatman Hudson of the Charleston yard, will assist in the work. It is the intention to have both vessels in commission by September 10. The Newport will be tranformed into a training ship while here.

Bicycle Property Attached.

Middletown, Conn., June 23.—Sheriff Brown has placed attachments on four brick buildings occupied by the Worcester Cycle company in a suit brought by Robert M. Murray of New York city, in which the latter claims $35,000 damages because of the alleged failure of the defendants to pay an alleged loan of $25,000. The bicycle company's plant, which is under various attachments, is still in the hands of keepers.

Crazed by a Light.

Hudson, N. Y., June 23.—Mary Mesarosh, a Hungarian girl, 17 years old, has been made a raving maniac by the searchlight of a steamer. The powerful rays were thrown into her room and frightened her so that she became insane. She has been adjudged a lunatic and was sent from here to the Hudson River State hospital at Poughkeepsie for treatment.

THE OHIO CONVENTION

Republicans of the Buckeye State Meet at Toledo.

FIGHT OVER PARTY ORGANIZATION.

The Indorsement of Mark Hanna For United States Senator Agreed Upon by the Managers In Conference—Bushnell Will Be Renominated.

Toledo, June 23.—The Ohio state Republican convention is in session here. There is no opposition to the indorsement of Senator M. A. Hanna for both the long and the short term as senator, and there is no opposition to the renomination of Governor Bushnell and other state officers who have had only one term. The contest has been on the state campaign committee chairmanship. Senator Hanna wanted Major Charles F. W. Dick, secretary of the national committee, for this place. Governor Bushnell and other state officers wanted Chairman Charles L. Kurtz, who has managed the past two campaigns, retained. Senator Foraker was not here, but it is known that he supported Governor Bushnell and Chairman Kurtz as strongly as possible by wire. It has been the custom for the head of the state ticket in Ohio to name the chairman of the executive committee, but Senator Hanna had the convention in hand, and he would not perfect the party organization according to precedent.

When Mr. Hanna arrived, he held a number of conferences with both factions, but at none of these could the contestants reach an amicable understanding. Senator Hanna proposed to have Major Dick withdraw, and the latter consented to retire from the race if Chairman Kurtz also would do so. The proposition was not accepted. Governor Bushnell insisted on his right by precedent to name the executive chairman, and Mr. Kurtz said, since the fight had been made on him, he could stand defeat, but he could not compromise.

Dick Controls District Delegations.

The contending factions carried their claims into the meetings of the delegates by congressional districts, and Mr. Hanna won by more than 2 to 1. He controlled the district meetings and the convention more firmly than the St. Louis convention last year. Major Dick claims the committeemen from 15 of the 21 congressional districts, with two districts contested and four districts conceded to Kurtz. The Kurtz men concede their defeat, but claim 8 out of the 21 committeemen. Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell had conferences again last night. While the governor regrets the defeat of Chairman Kurtz, he will not decline renomination. Meantime the state central committee will not select the campaign chairman and the members of the state executive committee now, but the central committee will meet at an early date in Columbus for this purpose. It is expected that Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell will get together soon for cooperation in the campaign. It is understood that Major Dick will be made chairman of the executive committee and that Governor Bushnell and other state candidates will name the other members of the state executive committee. It is announced that Major Dick will appoint John R. Mallor, a strong Hanna man, as secretary of the state executive committee.

The Republican state convention was called to order in the elaborately decorated Armory shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. All the 5,200 seats were occupied, and standing room was in demand. As Congressman Grosvenor, ex-Secretary Charles Foster, Governor Bushnell, Senator Hanna and the other leaders entered the hall they were given ovations.

Hon. H. P. Crouse, chairman of the state central committee, before announcing the temporary officers of the convention, reviewed the Republican triumphs in Ohio since 1893, and then introduced General C. H. Grosvenor as the temporary chairman of the convention, who delivered an address.

Warrants For an Alleged Embezzler.

Melrose, Mass., June 23.—Two warrants have been secured against Charles S. Newhall of Melrose Highlands, alleging the embezzlement of a sum, the exact amount of which is unknown, from the Agricultural Insurance company of Boston, of which he was bookkeeper, and the other by the Melrose authorities, charging embezzlement from the Melrose Congregational church. Newhall was treasurer of the church and also of the Melrose Co-operative bank. He has been missing for about a week.

Newark Thief Arrested.

Kingston, N. Y., June 23.—Harry Walker, who is under indictment for grand larceny by the grand jury of Essex county, N. J., has been arrested here by detectives of the Newark central office at a private house, where he was staying with his wife. He pleaded guilty before Recorder Murray and was sent to jail here pending extradition papers. Walker is charged, together with another, of having stolen watches and jewelry valued at $14,620 from a Newark jeweler.

The Esoteric Fold.

Onset Bay, Mass., June 23.—The Onset Bay theosophists are now in high glee over their alleged complete possession of the esoteric fold, which was recently contested by the leaders of the Theosophical society in New York, Boston, Washington and Pittsburg, and claims to which were only relinquished when Henry B. Foulke revealed a communication from the mahatmas a month ago.

FLOWERS AT COMMENCEMENT.

The Elizabeth Journal prints a strong editorial against the public giving of flowers at commencements and advances some powerful arguments in favor of doing away with them. The editorial in part is as follows:

The Newark High School had its commencement exercises last week, and the superintendent requested that flowers and dress suits be omitted. The request was carried out. At the Pingry School graduating exercises last Friday night no flowers were handed to the young orators, as Headmaster Corbin had ruled against them. At the Battin High School commencement exercises flowers and dress suits will be noticeably absent, Superintendent Shearer having decided against them. In all these instances the scholarly men who have authoritatively objected to flowers and other displays have not opposed a common custom because flowers are not beautiful and graduates are not worthy of them, but because commencement favors do not always go to those most deserving of them.

The schools referred to are among the best in this State, and they have forbidden the gifts of flowers simply because the practice is overdone, and because some of the very best scholars are left without a token, while those whose parents and friends are in easier circumstances are loaded with them.

HIGH SCHOOL CHANGES.

Every year brings changes and improvements in the Plainfield public schools. This year, Superintendent Maxson has made a marked improvement by the introduction of a commercial course in the High School, which will allow the Plainfield young men and women to secure a proper business course in their own city as well as prepare them to enter colleges. A letter from Mr. Maxson, explaining the details of the course, is published today. He is to be complimented on the introduction of such a necessity in these times which will allow the Plainfield High School to continue in its leading position among the schools of the State.

WIRES TO GO UNDER GROUND.

It can be stated authoritatively that not many weeks will pass by before the ordinance will appear in the Common Council allowing the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to put their wires, together with the fire alarm wires, in conduits under our streets. Several months ago the company offered to do so, but the Council took no action. Then the company had plenty of men who were not employed elsewhere. Now the company is laying conduits in several of the Jersey towns and they are not in such a hurry to go to work in Plainfield.

STREET SPRINKLING.

Ever since the passage of the street sprinkling ordinance, of which Councilman Harold Serrell was the father, there has been a marked improvement in the manner in which the streets have been sprinkled. They have not been flooded with the customary regularity of last year, although they are still muddier at times than would seem necessary. Altogether, however, the ordinance has been a success and has succeeded in its object.

A NEW DRESS.

The New Brunswick Fredonian appeared in a brand new dress beginning with last Monday's issue. The paper looks well and shows careful management. As a Plainfield girl looks in a charming summer gown, so looks the Fredonian in its new dress.

Rahway women have followed the example of their sisters in Plainfield and organized a Town Improvement Association. If the Rahway women are as energetic as those of Plainfield, that town will be hardly recognizable in a few months.

The Elizabeth police are becoming quite active. A squad of policemen of that city have been mounted on horses and wheels and hereafter will patrol the important thoroughfares on Sunday to prevent the fast driving and riding.

—Ten members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 24, F. and A. M., journeyed to Somerville last evening where they were the gusts of Keystone Lodge, No. 25, F. and A. M. They report having had a very good time.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. FEVER LESSENING.

The Number of Cases Growing Less as the Time Passes.

All sorts of sanguinary rumors floated about town this morning regarding the scarlet fever epidemic, but it was very easy to prove their falsity by a call at the office of the Board of Health. While the members of the Board are very anxious that the people shall not be alarmed by an exaggerated statement of the epidemic, they are always willing to give the facts to whoever wants to know.

There was an increase in the number of cases reported and the Board was rather surprised at the small number as they had not expected to have the disease leave so quickly. Two were reported yesterday. Up to noon today three cases were reported, but two of them were in a family where there are already two cases of scarlet fever and it was expected that the other members of the family, who were in quarantine, to catch it also, as they did.

Miss Alice A. Lee, teacher at the Irving school, was taken ill Monday and it was found that she had the scarlet fever. She was at her home on Crescent avenue at the time and is now under the care of her physician, Dr. Davis. None of her pupils have taken the disease and the part of the city west of Spooner avenue is free from scarlet fever as yet.

Dr. Murray, secretary of the Board of Health, called at The Press office, yesterday afternoon, and stated that the statement made by Nelson Giles to a Press reporter was incorrect in one particular. Dr. Hunt of the State Board went to Stelton, Dr. Murray said, and found that Randolph Giles, son of Nelson Giles, who was alleged to be ill with chills and fever, was ill with the scarlet fever.

'TWAS CHILLY THERE.

NEVERTHELESS THE LAWN PARTY WAS WELL ATTENDED.

It Was Given by the Missionary Societies of the First M. E. Church on the Lawn of C. H. Rugg, of East Second Street.

Last night was not exactly the night, considering the weather, that one would select for a lawn party, but the ladies of the Foreign and Home Missionary Societies of the First M. E. church were not counting on such unseasonable weather when they planned a lawn party for last evening. It was held on the lawn of C. H. Rugg, corner of East Second and Washington streets, and proved quite successful after all, despite the chill in the air. The people found their way there, and protected by numerous wraps, enjoyed ice cream and other good things under the trees.

The lawn was delightfully gotten up for the occasion. Long strings of Japanese lanterns were hung from tree to tree while other lanterns were placed at intervals to illuminate the grounds. Tables were arranged under the trees and were surrounded by rugs to keep the feet of the visitors off the damp ground.

The party was under the charge of a committee, of which Mrs. M. L. Winter was the chairman. The other members were Mrs. C. H. Rugg, Mrs. J. H. McNaughton, Mrs. Noah W. Pike, Mrs. D. S. Dunavan, Mrs. G. M. Bittenhouse, Mrs. D. E. Davis, Mrs. I L. McVoy, Mrs. Templin, Miss Laura Mulford, Miss Jackson, and Miss Minnie Sharpe.

The cake table was under the charge of Mrs. N. W. Pike and Mrs. Whitney. The ice cream was dealt out under the supervision of Miss Jackson and Miss Sharpe. Miss Chandler and Mrs. D. S. Dunavan were in charge of the candy table. The glace table was presided over by Mrs. J. H. McNaughton. The decorating was done by a committee composed of Miss Eva Jenkins, Miss Elsie Horne, and Miss Madeline Day. The young women of the societies acted as waitresses.

While the attendance was not what it would have been had the weather been warm, quite a number visited the place during the evening and a neat little sum was realized from the affair.

WESTFIELD

THE TIP OF THE SCALES.

WEIGHT OF EVIDENCE WAS ON BARTON'S SIDE AND HE WON.

Mrs. Cora O. Weidner Sued For a Bill Which Her Husband Had Claimed That He Was Entitled To.

The case of Cora O. Weidner against W. H. Barton, which has been pending in the courts for several weeks, was decided yesterday by a jury in Justice Hart's court in favor of the defendant. The case has attracted considerable attention. At its last trial the jury disagreed. The action was originally brought in Weidner's name to recover the amount of a bill for $25 for repairs made at the Westfield carriage factory upon Barton's carriages. When the action was brought Barton at once commenced a cross suit for $31 against Weidner. Each of these cases was thrown out of court because of a defect in the summons. Another suit was then brought against Barton in the name of Cora O. Weidner, the claim being made that she and not her husband was proprietor of the wagon factory. In this case the jury disagreed. In yesterday's trial the efforts of counsel were directed toward establishing or disproving the allegation of Mrs. Weidner's ownership. Paul Q. Oliver was counsel for the defence, and Chas. H. Angleman appeared for the plaintiff. The jury was made up as follows: Joseph Pouch, foreman; Fred Decker, Frank Ledley, Fred Heincke, Harry N. Taylor and George W. Peek, Jr. A large crowd of men and boys jostled each other in the court room to hear the evidence and the passages at arms of the lawyers. A stir was caused when Charles Courtney went upon the witness stand for the defense and swore that he would not believe Weidner under oath. The jury was out fifteen minutes and returned a verdict for the defendant. The case will probably be appealed.

A party of three New Yorkers went to Branch Mills yesterday and looked over the Parkhurst Mills site with the idea of purchasing it for a stock net factory.

"God's Handiwork in Nature" is to be the subject of the prayer meeting in the Congregational church this evening. Mr. Evans will lead the meeting.

George H. Brown, of Westfield avenue, a well-known resident of this place, was taken suddenly ill in New York on Monday. He was taken to a hotel where he remained under a physician's care until Dr. R. R. Sinclair, of this place, arrived and took charge of him. Mr. Brown was brought home to Westfield by Dr. Sinclair yesterday.

A FOOD MEDICINE.

How to Cure Ordinary Ills the Easiest Way.

In late years no one remedy has grown more in favor with physicians than Malt Extract. If it is rightly made it is a tonic that can be depended on every time.

It is as much a food as a medicine, but is food of an unusual kind. It is food in soluble and concentrated form all ready to slip into the blood and renovate the system without taxing digestion. Therefore, if your stomach is weak it does you good just the same.

We recommend Crown Brand Extract of Malt as one you can rely on. It is made by a thoroughly reliable house and we have it put up under our own name as an additional guarantee of its merit.

We are also able to save you something on the cost. Other good extracts will cost you at least 25 per cent more. We constantly endeavor to sell the best of everything for less and this is another instance of it. Extract of Malt is especially recommended for dyspepsia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and general debility. It is the ideal tonic for invalids, convalescents and for debilitated women. 15c. bot., $1.65 doz. Frank Rowley, druggist, 45 Somerset St.

GIGANTIC WATER SUPPLY.

The Midland Water Company Begin the Work of Laying Pipes.

The Midland Water Company, which will get its supply of water from the great ponds of South Plainfield, have begun the preliminary work of laying pipes from Metuchen towards Woodbridge, which place, with Sewaren, Carteret and Boynton Beach, they will supply, they having bought up the Middlesex Water Company, which was recently organized at Woodbridge. Thirty miles of pipes will be laid this summer, and an immense standpipe will be erected at Metuchen. It is said that this company will also supply Perth Amboy with water, as it is claimed that the water of that city is poor. The Midland Water Company now has practically full control of all the water rights of Union and Middlesex counties.

Bishop Scarborough Injured.

Word has been received in Plainfield from Bishop Scarborough, Bishop of this diocese of the Episcopal church, that he will be unable to make any of his official visitations until fall, owing to the fact that while alighting from a train at Trenton a day or so ago, on returning from Elizabeth, he slipped on the platform, fracturing the kneecap of his left leg. He will be compelled to wear a plaster cast for at least six weeks.

A Former Plainfielder.

Dr. Paul Ferrer, of Managua, Nicaraugua, was the guest of P. Ludwig Conde, of Watchung avenue, last week. Mr. Conde has just received a letter from Dr. Ferrer's son, Firman Ferrer, who formerly lived in this city and was a favorite pupil of Conde on the 'cello. Firman Ferrer is now in charge of a drug store in Managua, Nicaraugua, and is doing well.

Asbury Park In Line.

The bicycle ordinance in Asbury Park will be enforced from this time forward with strictness. War on the lampless wheelmen was begun yesterday, when five riders were stopped by the park police and forced by Justice Wyckoff to pay a fine. The custom of riding without lanterns will not be tolerated in Asbury Park, and especially on Bradley's brick walk.

Section 1. That Westervelt Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, from the northwesterly side line of East Front Street to a point one hundred and eight and 66-100 feet southeast of Orange Place, be widened and laid out so that said Westervelt Avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the center line thereof, which said center line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of East Front Street, said point being distant three hundred twenty-four and 56-100 feet in a southwesterly direction along said northwesterly side line of East Front Street, from the centre line of Sandford Avenue, as now laid out and opened; and running from said point in a magnetic course of north forty-four degrees and fifty-six minutes west, a distance of three hundred sixty and 3-100 feet to the northwesterly line of property owned by William C. TEN ACRES FOR HIM.

Talk erbout this here country 'goin' ter ruin"—why,
You might's well say that the Lord's away from the bend o' the big blue sky!
It's still the same old country—the biggest one an' the best;
An' I'm willin' ter take ten acres an' trust the Lord for the rest!

Never no reason in it—"goin' ter ruin!" see—
The sun climbs up from the hills an' says "Good mornin'" ter you an' me,
An' a sweet "Good night" when he's goin' ter the dreams whar the shadders stay
An' somethin' that sorter whispers "I'll see you at break o' day!"

Never no reason in it. I'm willin' fer take my chance;
You'd better git out the supper things—the gals air comin' ter dance.
Talk erbout "goin' ter ruin"—we're happy from East ter West,
An' I'm willin' ter take ten acres' an' trust the Lord fer the rest!

—F. L. Stanton, in Chicago Times-Herald.

THE BANK MYSTERY.

"I've come, Judge, to ask if you'll let me tell you what no one on earth don't know but me; 'bout that bank mystery.

"Yes, thank you, I will sit down. A fire feels good on a night like this. 'Tain't often such as I have a chance at this kind of comfort and luxury.

"What do I know about the bank mystery? Land sakes, Judge, time they opened the bank that day ten years ago and found the bank vault broke into and the safe blowed up and not a dollar gone, I could have told it all.

"You'll be glad to listen? That's good of you. I knowed you was a kind man and a just one; that's why I come to you. No, thank you, I don't smoke; I put all that money away for me wife and children.

"Yes, Judge, I started out in life a thief and a robber. I prospered fairly in a small way and no one didn't catch up with me for some time. Then I joined a gang in for anything. I was in prison and out then, the old story, till I married and begun to have little ones. Then, Lord knows what helped me—something did—and for the sake of my wife and children I broke loose from everything and came here, where no one didn't know me, to start over again. I had some money and opened the restaurant just opposite the bank.

"Then they come here, part of the gang I'd belonged to. First I knowed of it was seein' 'em in the restaurant. I 'spicioned they weren't here for no good, and it most took my breath away. They knowed me quick enough, too, and nothin' wouldn't do but I must join 'em. I was the very man they wanted; I could help 'em and I was bound to 'em. 'Twas the biggest thing they'd undertaken yet—the bank. They'd come on to examine the situation, knowing that Mr. Durkee, the new mill-owner, would make a big payment soon, and the money for it would be in the bank here. If there waren't anything else, that would be a big haul, a haul worth havin', and me bein' here, decided 'em.

"I do think the devil brought all his friends and relations with him that night to tempt me. I forgot how to go to sleep, and just couldn't stay in bed. I wonder I warn't in tatters by mornin' with the devil tuggin' at me as he did and tryin' to keep me out of the room where my sleepin' children lay.

"Lord, it makes me creep and perspire all over now to think of it.

"Yer see, them bank people come over to my place for lunch best part of the time, and they all knowed my little people, and the mill people knowed 'em too. My oldest boy worked in the mill, and they'd been as kind as could be when he's sick. Christmas time they's good to him, too, and there warn't a bank officer but had remembered my little people, even to the watchman. Seemed like robbing my own people, somehow. I's bound not to inform on the gang and they's bound to rob ther bank; but I cursed 'em in my heart for comin' just when I was gettin' rid of the old life for good and all. 'Twas awful!

"Well, Judge, you know how them rooms over the bank was rented to start a new daily paper. I made 'em swear solemn as my name warn't to appear nowhere. I'd plan it all out and give 'em points and be on hand at the last, but I had to be cautious.

"They found out when the money was to be paid and 'greed on the night before for the robbery. I had it all mapped out for 'em where and how they was to loosen up the boards of the floor in their room above, so we could break through and lower ourselves into the vault when the time come. Then yer see we'd only have the safe to get into and the great iron door between us and the watchman.

"Everything was ready, and we was pretty sure the money was paid.

"We had planned so as to have the door of the safe ready to blow open when the watchman went down cellar to see to his fires. I knowed the time of night he did so, seein' him often from my house across the way through the window of the bank; but to make sure we stationed a man where he could give the signal at the proper time. With the watchman down stairs and we shut up in that vault, with the solid masonry between us, 'twarn't in the range of possibilities for no human being to hear us.

"'Twas planned that when we broke through the ceiling, me and one of the others was to go down first with the lanterns and tools and get the door ready for Jim Groogan, the leader of the gang, to come down and use the dynamite, and be on hand to take out the money.

"Lord, but it was just the night for such a piece of work, and after I had examined to see if all was safe, knowin' the dangers better than the others, we broke through the floor and lowered the ladder, and there we was—right in the vault. 'Twas well for me, I'd hit it right, for my life warn't worth much if any o' my plannin' failed to work.

"Tom Doolan in a hurry went down first, and when I was half way down he started back, saying in a hoarse kind of whisper:

"'Who called me?'

"'No one, you fool!' said Jim.

"'Then,' he said, and he ran past me on the ladder, 'some one is down there. Twicet I heard some one say: "Go back, go back."'

"'We'll gag him,' said Jim, and me and him went down and turned our lanterns round, lookin' everywhere, but there warn't no one there.

"'What't the matter with the fool?' growled Jim, and went back and tried to send him down again, but he just wouldn't go, so Jim cursed him and came himself, and he and me begun to get the safe door ready to blow up.

"That's a thing that takes time and care, Judge, but we went at it with a will and never a word. It was so still you could almost hear your heart beat, when all of a sudden came a smothered cry like a woman's. We stopped work and looked at each other, Jim's face white and scared.

"'Lord, what was that?' he said.

"'I often hears 'em on the street like that,' said I.

"'That warn't on the street; it sounded close by,' said Jim. 'We couldn't hear nothin' outside in this place.'

"'Nonsense,' said I, 'don't you make a fool of yourself, too, and spoil all,' and I went to work again.

"I could see how his hand trembled for a while and then got steady again.

"'That must have come through the THE BANK Mystery—Galley TWO.. room upstairs,' he said presently. 'Queer, though; it sounded so close.'

"Then he worked on and there warn't nothin' more to be heard. Rest of the gang might all have been dead men for all the sound they made, and we didn't say nothin'; and so the night went on.

"At last we had it all ready, and were only waiting for the signal to blow it up and then—money enough to make us all rich. 'Tain't such as you can realize the excitement and the strain of such a moment. To know it's all there, ready, and then to have to wait! It's easier walkin' over red hot coals. It's all right to go on and work, but to stay still and only breathe and listen gives a man the shivers.

"Presently Jim caught my arm.

"'Say, I thought I heard voices, did you?' he whispered.

"'The men upstairs,' I said.

"'Sounded down here. Have your pistol ready.'

"I took my lantern and went round the vault again carefully, and then held it up to examine the walls. Then I shook my head. There warn't no way we could hear no one.

"'It's the queerest place I ever was in,' said Jim, 'and, by Jove, I'll be glad when we are out of it. Why don't that signal come? Suppose there's any hitch? I swear I hear voices again.'

"Just then came the signal and Jim began to apply the dynamite; but his hands trembled so and his eyes looked wild and excited, his own wife wouldn't know him.

"'The money! The money!' he whispered, 'we must have it now!'

"We got out of the way just in time and then out came the door.

"'The inside door, quick,' said Jim, but the explosion had made that fall inside, and we just could lift it out.

"'Have the bag ready,' said Jim, as he leaned forward to haul the great piles of bank notes and silver we could see by the light of the lanterns.

"'Hands off, or you are a dead man!'

"It was a voice that would have waked the dead. I dropped my bag and Jim drew back his hand and caught hold of me with a grip like iron, and he begun to slowly back to the ladder.

"'The combination is all right; we have them now, they can't escape us.'

"We were half up the ladder when we heard the click, click of the lock, and as we drew the ladder after us we could hear the rasping of the hinges of the iron door.

"'Fly, fly, for your lives; we are discovered,' said Jim, as he went round to warn the men; and in the darkness, and in the wind and rain they went away and ain't never seen one of 'em since. I heard, though, as when they found there warn't no one there and the bank people didn't know nothin' 'bout it till the next morning, they just believed as the bank was haunted, sure.

"Do I know what it was, Judge? There ain't no one else as does know, that's sure. 'Tain't much after all.

"Yer see, playin' round with my little ones, I found as I could make 'em hear all kinds of noises anywhere I wanted, and people cryin' and laughin'. It was fun for them and I often done it; ventriloquizn' I believe you call it; but that night's the last time. Yer see, none of the gang didn't know 'bout that, and I don't keer ever to have 'em know it now. It saved the bank without my informin', and that's all I care for.

"Oh, no, Judge, the bank don't owe me nothin'. I'm obliged to you for listening. It kind of mekes me feel easier.

"No, no, thank you, I won't stay and take no more of your time. Don't get up; I can find my way out.

"What's that you say, Judge? You honor and respect me—me? And the bank—Land, Judge, twarn't me; 'twas my wife and children saved the bank and I'm proud of 'em—proud of 'em, Judge. Good night."—Philadelphia Times.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

SCIENCE SUCCEEDS IN PROLONGING LIFE OF A GRAND ARMY MAN.

Capsuloids Demonstrate their Efficacy in Strengthening the Weak and Aged.

Few men have had a more varied or interesting life than Wm. Jenkins, of 3147 Mantua Ave., Philadelphia. A veteran of the rebellion through which he battled with the 50th New York, thirty years in the merchant service in which he visited all climes, he stands at the age of 63 "A Soldier and Sailor Too," as Kipling says.

Just now, Mr. Jenkins is attracting more than ordinary attention because of his experience with Capsuloids, the greatest triumph of science.

No man could face the hardships of a soldier's and sailor's life without feeling the effects when rounding the last lap of three score years and ten and this man is no exception. Four years ago nervousness, that torturous malady of the nineteenth century, attacked him and he was compelled to leave the service of the sea for a more quiet life. Relaxation seemed if anything to aggravate the trouble, debility taking a firm hold and reducing the once sturdy defender of his Nation's honor to a mere shell of misery and pain. Ambition was a thing unknown, energy had forsaken him, life was a burden.

"Health to me was naught but a memory," he said to a reporter. My brain was tortured with pain, my limbs were tottering with weakness and no help could I find.

"I took quinine in almost unheard of quantities but it did no more good than other things. This was my lot for 4 years and you can easily imagine that life had but little charms for me. I long believed that medical science would some day discover a marvelous method of curing disease, and when I heard of Capsuloids and learned that they contained iron or Hæmoglobin as it exists in the human blood, it almost seemed as if they had been created for my special benefit. At that time Capsuloids were not easily obtained in this country but I was determined to have them, and finally succeeded in securing three boxes. This was about two months ago and you can see for yourself, the state of my health to-day."

As the reporter looked at Mr. Jenkins it was hard to realize his suffering. Dressed in his Grand Army uniform, standing as erect as a general of a victorious army, his iron gray moustache and imperial made him a picture of the ideal soldier.

"Eat," he continued, "why I can eat like a sailor before the mast, and digest it too. My food does me good, my work does me good, my sleep does me good. All in all I think I am about as spry as any man you'll find at my age.

"I owe this blessing to Dr. Campbell, the discoverer of Capsuloids, and my one wish is to live to see the day I can thank him for this great gift to humanity."

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids represent the consummation of a belief long entertained by physicians that any method of renewing the natural iron or Hæmoglobin in the blood would result in a marvelous decrease in all diseases traceable to the blood. Dr. Campbell realized that the experiments made with the ordinary iron medicines, all of which are acid preparations of metallic iron and with the ordinary sulphate of iron promised naught. If the discovery was to be made new fields must be explored. Research led to the discovery that the blood of healthy bullocks contained iron in exactly the same form it exists in human blood. To extract it was no easy task but science prevailed and to-day we have within our reach not only an infallible means of renewing the vitality of the blood but also really the only scientific method of curing stubborn diseases of all kinds through enriching the blood with iron.

STEAMER DAUNTLESS

Arms Found on Board Supposedly For Cuba.

AN INSURGENT FORCE IS DEFEATED.

Arrival of Cruiser Cortez at Ysabela With General Weyler on Board—Miss Wilberforce Goes to Havana to Attend the Sick—Weyler's Decree.

Key West, June 23.—A quarter of a million rounds of cartridges, besides other ammunition and arms, were found on the Dauntless, consigned to a person in Key West. The name of all persons aboard were on the regular passenger list from Key West to Jacksonville, Fla. The same people are now aboard who were aboard when the tug was detained here in the earlier part of the month. No charge has yet been made against the Dauntless.

The boat was without doubt on her way to Cuba when the accident happened to her boiler. A sealed carload of arms and supplies were brought to Miami, and through some strategy the revenue officers who were watching the car as suspicious were enticed away, and then the contents of the car were transferred to a schooner, which carried them to the tug.

The steamer Biscayne several days ago brought down some suspicious looking cases, which were transferred to the schooner Helen Adams and conveyed by her to the tug.

The condition of the boiler of the Dauntless is such that it will be a month before she will be prepared for service.

The Situation In Cuba.

Havana, June 23.—The cruiser Hernan Cortez, with Captain General Weyler and staff, has arrived at Ysabela. Captain General Weyler proceeded by train to Sagua la Grande.

It is officially announced that a detachment belonging to the battalion of Cuba has defeated an insurgent force at Pan de Azucar, province of Pinar del Rio, killing 19 of the enemy. The same Spanish force, the official report adds, killed 18 more of this band of insurgents at other places.

There have been no skirmishes of importance in the other provinces of Cuba.

The steamer Algiers, which has just arrived here, brought 452 horses for the use of the troops under the immediate command of General Weyler.

Miss Mary Maud Wilberforce of the British Red Cross society has arrived here by the steamer Leonora in order to attend the sick and wounded soldiers. Mr. Gosling, the vice consul of Great Britain, introduced her to the secretary of the government, Senor Lopez Gamundi.

Captain General Weyler has issued a decree authorizing certain public works, with a view of giving employment to the "reconcentrados." It provides for the immediate construction of several new high roads and for strategic railway lines in the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara. It is estimated that the various undertakings will involve the employment of 3,350 men.

The decree also directs that the proceeds of the sale of confiscated cattle shall be appropriated toward meeting the outlay and instructs all municipal authorities for the future to provide funds necessary to maintain the local military hospitals.

As Seen Through British Eyes.

London, June 23.—The Washington correspondent of The Daily Graphic reports an interview with President McKinley, in the course of which the president said, in reference to the Cuban question:

"I anticipate no departure from the policy of my predecessor. We have no reason to interfere in a quarrel between Spain and her colonies. Our interests are not sufficiently jeopardized to warrant other than diplomatic interference. Moreover, Spain has given respectful attention to every grievance we have submitted thus far. I admit that circumstances may arise to change the present policy of the government, but large bodies move slowly."

A Japanese Statesman Ill.

Washington, June 23.—Information has reached the Japanese legation here of the illness of Mr. Matsui, the distinguished Japanese statesman who has occupied the position of minister of foreign affairs, and who also at one time was the minister of Japan to the United States. His illness is believed to be serious, as orders have been received by his son, the secretary of legation in this country, to come home.

Boot and Shoe Men's Meeting.

Boston, June 23.—The convention of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union of North America was continued in America hall, with President J. F. Tobin in the chair. The principal and almost the only subject for consideration was the comprehensive one of the use of the union label. The union appreciates the fact that in intelligently applying the label to their products they have considerable to learn.

Brewing Company Incorporated.

Middletown, N. Y., June 23.—The Orange County Brewing company has been incorporated and has purchased a site here for a $75,000 brewery, to be constructed at once. The officers of the company are: Theodore Reinecke, president and general manager; Theodore Reinecke, Jr., vice president; Philip Schauble, treasurer; Otto Schauble, secretary, all of Elizabeth, N. J.

Prisoners Released.

St. Johns, N. F., June 23.—French and British warships took part in the naval review yesterday, and as a further mark of rejoicing at the sixtieth anniversary of the queen's reign the governor ordered the release of a large number of prisoners confined in jail for different offenses.

Slight Fire at Sea.

Marseilles, June 23.—The French steamer Maurice and Reunion, Captain Fournie, which arrived here June 14 from New Orleans, has been on fire. It was soon quenched, however, and the damage done was but little.

Ice Houses Burned.

Augusta, Me., June 23.—The empty ice houses and a nearby house owned by Cony, White & Haynes, have been burned. Loss, $5,000; insurance, $2,450.

HOT DISPUTE ON WOOL

SOME PERSONAL REMARKS PASSED.

Mr. Foraker Makes an Assertion, Which Is Answered by Mr. Allison—Senator Perkins' Bill For a Labor Investigation—Some Confirmations.

Washington, June 23.—An exciting debate marked the consideration of the wool schedule in the senate. It developed the first open disagreement on the Republican side of the chamber and led to a warm personal exchange between Senators Carter of Montana and Foraker of Ohio on one hand and Mr. Allison of Iowa, in charge of the bill, on the other. Mr. Foraker asserted that an agreement concerning rates on certain wools was being violated and that under such circumstances every senator would be free to act for himself.

Mr. Allison, with great vehemence, declared that he could not be driven by threats. Mr. Carter, who had aroused the storm, endeavored to have the paragraphs relating to carpet wools go over, with a view to securing some united action, but Mr. Vest, in an ironical speech, objected to delaying the era of prosperity and postponing the public business while Republican senators held a caucus.

Mr. Teller of Colorado also spoke against delay and took occasion to say he would not vote for the bill unless objectionable features were eliminated. Aside from this stormy interruption fair progress was made on the wool schedule. The duty on first class wool was agreed to at 10 cents per pound and on second class wool 11 cents, which is between the house and senate rates in each case. Mr. Allison's amendment prescribing triple duties on certain classes of third class wools was agreed to by a vote of 29 to 26.

Most of the other amendments related to the classification of wools. On one of the amendments Mr. Jones of Arkansas spoke against the entire schedule as severely oppressive on the consumers of woolen goods.

Senator Perkins of California reintroduced his bill of last session for the appointment of a commission for the investigation of labor, agricultural and industrial problems. The proposed commission is to consist of five members of the senate, five members of the house and nine others representing the various other industries.

Senator Butler of North Carolina introduced a resolution directing the committee on privileges and elections to inquire into the practicability of applying the principle of the initiative and referendum to federal legislation in this country.

The senate committee on territories heard a statement from J. C. Bridgman of Connecticut bearing upon the nomination of M. H. McCord to be governor of Arizona. Mr. Bridgman was an Indian agent in Wisconsin in 1875 and charges Mr. McCord with appropriating timber on an Indian reservation contrary to law.

A Cabinet Meeting.

Washington, June 23.—The cabinet talked for full two hours, most of the time on questions of foreign policy, but without deciding upon any particular changes in the lines of action already laid down. Hawaii and annexation were discussed at length and especially the protest filed the other day by the Japanese minister against the pending annexation treaty.

The protest is not given very much weight by the administration, for the reason that in the estimation of the cabinet it is based upon a misconception of the terms of the treaty and of the results that would follow the substitution of the laws of the United States for the Hawaiian laws and treaties.

For instance, it was shown that so far as the protest is based upon a fear that the status of the Japanese now living in Hawaii will be injuriously affected it is not sound, for their position after annexation would be precisely similar to that of Japanese now living in the United States who are eligible to citizenship and are not known to have any complaint against their treatment by the United States.

Other matters of protest, in the opinion of the cabinet, were equally without foundation. One thing that appeared positively was that the administration does not now entertain any expectation of getting action upon the treaty at this session of congress, but has determined to arrange for its early consideration next December.

As for the Cuban talk, it appeared that Mr. Calhoun's report, though completed by him, was not laid before the cabinet, so the discussion did not cover any new ground.

Calhoun Offered an Office.

Washington, June 23.—W. J. Calhoun of Danville, Ills., late the commissioner to Cuba, has been offered the office of comptroller of the treasury to succeed R. B. Bowler of Cincinnati and probably will accept the appointment.

Accepts the Office.

Hartford, June 23.—Rev. Francis Goodwin, chairman of the committee of the recent Episcopal convention to notify Rev. Dr. Chauncey B. Brewster of his position as bishop coadjutor, received a letter notifying him of the acceptance of the high office by the New York divine. The consecration will take place as soon as the forms of proceedure according to the church laws have been complied with.

To Summer at Kingston.

Kingston, N. Y., June 23.—State Comptroller James A. Roberts of Albany has just taken one of the ancient stone houses of this historic city for the summer. It is on Albany avenue, and the comptroller will bring his family here for July and August.

Lampher Hotel Burned.

Lowville, N. Y., June 23.—The Lampher hotel at Casterland, owned and conducted by Wesley Lampher, has been burned. Damage, $3,500; insurance, $2,600.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Mrs. J. P. Homan, of West Fifth street, is learning to ride a bicycle.

L. L. Manning, the popular marble dealer, is rapidly conquering the bicycle and can navigate quite fairly the Plainfield thoroughfares.

The Miller Bicycle Lamp.

Nothing short of a head-on collision breaks the Miller bicycle lamp, made by the E. Miller Co., of 30 West Broadway, New York, and yet this lamp weighs complete only 17 ounces. The light it projects in front of a wheel is no fire fly phosphorescence, but a regular blaze of illumination that announces your approach a mile distant. As might be expected of the Miller Company's product, the lamp is beautifully finished, is devoid of useless appurtenances, and is possessed of novel and entirely new methods of producing a brilliant light which nothing can extinguish accidentally. It burns kerosene oil, is easy of adjustment to every wheel and will wear a lifetime. You won't find it on any 98 cent special tables, because it is worth two dozen and a half of those lamps you will find there. When you see one you'll buy it, no matter if the dealer charges you $3.50 or $5.00

Fair Camera Fiends.

The Plainfield Camera Club is planning to enlarge the number of young women on its membership list. There are already many of the fair sex who are enthusiastic amateur photographers who should enjoy the privileges of the club. At the meeting of the club next week, an amendment will be made to the bylaws by which young women can join the club without paying the initiation fee.

Aimed at the Martin Act.

Unusual interest is being taken in the public meeting that is to be held in the Board of Trade rooms in the Babcock building, this evening, to discuss the Martin Act. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock and all the citizens, whether directly interested or not, are invited to be present. Quite a number have already determined to be present and a large attendance is expected.

Fair Postponed.

The fair for the benefit of the Children's Camp, which was to be held at 823 Madison avenue, tomorrow, has been indefinitely postponed, owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever. The receipts from the sale of tickets, amounting to $16, have been delivered to Miss Green, president of the city union of the King's Daughters, under whose auspices the camp is conducted.

Fell Upon the Sidewalk.

Cornelius M. Pennington, an old man, living at 1038 Arlington avenue, was taken ill on West Second street at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He fell upon the sidewalk and was picked up by Chief of Police Grant and sent home in a carriage.

BUSINESS COURSE ADDED

SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON TELLS OF HIGH SCHOOL CHANGES.

A Commercial Course, Preparing the Pupils for a Business Career, Has Been Added—Some Other Changes.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—At this time of year, when many young people are finishing their preliminary study, the advance our High School is to take next year will be interesting to many of your readers.

The whole course of study has recently been revised and published in a new form, which I shall be glad to mail to anyone interested.

Perhaps the most important change is the addition of a new department. After a careful consideration of the matter, the Board of Education decided that greater facilities should be given those pupils that desire special preparation for a business life, and they have engaged George Weeks Sandford, of New York, to take charge of a newly-established commercial course. Mr. Sandford is a graduate of a normal school and also of a prominent business college, and has had some years successful experience in teaching business subjects in the Brooklyn Polytechnic School, so that there is every assurance that the work will be well handled.

A course has been arranged that gives a line of commercial work extending through the four years, including bookkeeping, penmanship, commercial forms and customs, business practice, theory and science of accounts, commercial law, history of commerce, commercial geography and preparation for civil service examinations.

There is also two years and a half of phonography and type writing, two years of modern language or science, and a four years' line of English. The aim is not simply to give the pupil ability to keep books or take down a dictation, but to give him a solid foundation on which to build a business life. The conditions for admission and graduation are like those of the other courses.

Another marked step in advance is in relation to the Science Department. Plans are being made to provide tables and other accommodations so that chemistry and physics may be taught by the laboratory method, each pupil experimenting, making and handling apparatus; and so learning by doing, the most effective of methods.

This department will be in charge of A. B. Meredith, an honor graduate of Wesleyan University, especially trained for science teaching, with some years of very successful experience in one of the best military schools on the Hudson, and well fitted to make the department strong and popular.

A course in modern languages has also been arranged, making it possible for those who wish to take three years of French and two years of German.

With all these improvements, the English language has not been neglected, but work of some kind in the study of English is required of every pupil in the school three times a week throughout the course.

Reports from the colleges where our pupils go, show that the school was never doing better work than today, and with the improvements planned, Plainfield may boast of offering the poorest as well as the richest of her children, not only the best preparation for any college or university, but also the best and most liberal course general training of high school course grade that the State affords.

Sincerely yours,
H. M. Maxson,
Supt. of Schools.

Testimony Will Be Taken.

Testimony will be taken before Court Stenographer H. E. Knight in the law offices of Counsellor W. K. McClure, tomorrow morning, in the case of the executors of the late Robert Baxter against John J. D. Smith, of Passaic.

A Wheel Dished.

A delivery wagon, belonging to the City Mills, had a wheel dished on Park avenue this morning. By a special arrangement of the load, the wagon reached the mill in safety on three wheels.

Miss Mattie Stevens, of New Brunswick, has been visiting friends in Plainfield.

Miss Harriet Halloway, of LaGrande avenue, has returned from a brief sojourn in Asbury Park.

Alfred Trancand, of Assemblyman Codington's law offices, went to Elizabeth today on business.

Miss May MacLaughlin, of Somerset street, has returned from a visit with relatives in Brooklyn.

Robert LaBoyteaux, of Fairview avenue, is spending his vacation on his wheel, taking trips around the surrounding country.

Mrs. George H. Babcock and son, George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, left yesterday for Alfred, N. Y., where they will visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Collins, of Philadelphia, drove to Plainfield today and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McClure, of Crescent avenue, this evening.

From Out of Town.

A horse, attached to a buggy, driven by an out-of-town man, fell at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, last evening, and both shafts were snapped by the horse in the fall.

THROWN BY A STRANGER.

Phillip Cregier Had an Unpleasant Tumble From His Wheel.

Phillip Cregier, of Park avenue, was seriously injured in a bicycle accident on Park avenue, Monday evening. He was riding at a slow pace up Park avenue with a friend, when an unknown wheelman approached from behind and went directly between Cregier and his companion. As the stranger passed them, he turned directly in front of Cregier. The front wheel of the latter's bicycle struck the stranger's rear wheel and the Plainfield wheelman was rolling in the dust.

He struck on his wrist badly spraining it while he was cut and bruised all about the body. His wheel was smashed by the fall. Cregier managed to reach Plainfield and went to Dr. Zegilo who carefully dressed his wounds.

The stranger made no effort to see how badly he had injured Cregier, but hurried on without looking behind.

To Preserve the Color of Flowers.

The natural colors of flowers may be preserved with almost their original brilliancy after being dried very thoroughly in sand. The Gardeners' Monthly, which suggests this simple process for manufacturing artificial flowers, states that the most delicate flowers can be made in this way to look for several years as though they had been freshly gathered. The flower should be placed in a pan or other dish and covered with perfectly clean dry sand. This should be sifted over the flower so as not to break or bruise the petals. Every chink and cranny should be filled without disturbing the natural position of the leaves. When the pan is full, and every crevice has been filled solidly, the flowers are allowed to dry for several days. It is often found effective to warm the sand and keep the buried flower in a warm oven. The sand should then be removed, great care being taken not to break or tear the leaves, which will be very brittle.—New York World.

They Shot for Hats.

A visitor in Pass Christian, Miss., the other day, heard some pistol shots, and asked a negro boy what they meant. "Oh," was the reply, "them fellows dun be shootin' fo' hats." "Shooting for hats!" exclaimed the visitor. "what on earth do you mean?" "Sure; dere is nuffin strange 'bout dat; they's doin' it ebry day, 'most. When de train is comin' day jes' fires dem shots when she gets good on de bridge, an' de men dey sticks dere heads out to see what's up, an' de wind jes' takes dere hats off an' drops 'em in de bay. Den dey rows around an' picks 'em up. Sometimes dey gets a lot of 'em. Other day Josh Johnson got seben." "What does Josh Johnson do besides shoot for hats?" was asked. "Oh, he fishes an' does odd jobs an' lives."—New York Tribune.

It was before an Irish trial justice. The evidence was all in, and the plaintiff's attorney had made a long, eloquent, and logical argument. Then the defendant's attorney took the floor. "What are you doing?" asked the justice, as the lawyer began. "Going to present our side of the case." "I don't want to hear both sides argued. It has a tindincy to confuse the coort." So the defendant's lawyer sat down.—New York Evening Post.

OUR MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

A REPUBLICAN CRITICISES THE METHODS NOW IN VOGUE.

Does Not Think the Present Time of Financial Depression is the Proper Time for the Collection of Back Taxes.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Is it not possible that we are in danger of acting unwisely in the conduct of our municipal affairs, particularly in the matter of "back taxes?" There seems to be a doubt as to the legality of our method of procedure, but, unfortunately, little question of its dishonesty in a large number of cases. It appears that many of our citizens, who have always paid their taxes as well as their other debts, and have purchased property in good faith, after having searches made by competent lawyers, at large expense, sometimes amounting to hundreds of dollars, now find that the city holds liens upon their property for taxes which should have been collected from former owners. Furthermore, we style them delinquents, and threaten to sell their property unless these claims are paid. Of course, this extreme proceeding would only affect the poor man, who was unable to comply with the requirements of the law, but the principle is the same in every case. It seems strange that claims that have eluded search for so many years should be so readily found just now, and that immediate payment is demanded after we have waited for so long a time. If the city made no effort to collect them when due, it certainly is particeps criminis, and more culpable than the innocent property holder.

We are wont to complain that citizens do not always pay taxes and assessments with alacrity, and sometimes even try to evade them, apparently forgetting that we make the conditions of payment as onerous and inconvenient as possible. Falling due just before the Christmas holidays and the close of the year, their payment has often caused disappointment and deprivation in place of the anticipated enjoyment. Of course, if one is unable to pay the amount when due, we give him time, charging him meanwhile with interest at the rate of 10 to 12 per cent., besides the various costs; while we borrow on precisely the same security at 4 per cent. There is nothing mean about us.

We have had several years of hard times. Business has been dull, employment uncertain and money scarce, and the majority of our people have found it necessary to economize in every possible manner. Not so with the city. Save in a single instance, when we reduced the salary of an official who really seemed to be always doing something, we are spending as freely as ever. Our tax rate is largely in excess of that of the largest city in the State, and is increasing. Moreover, we need money for library extension. We are yearning for a new jail, and are absolutely suffering for want of a City Hall. Our system of sewerage, which was to cost $100,000, will probably have cost double that amount when completed, and the house owner is not only called upon to pay his sewer assessment, but may be notified to make connection therewith, often at great expense. Then, although he may live in the suburbs, where there is not a house on the block, and where such improvement is entirely unnecessary and uncalled for, we order him to flag his sidewalk, and, as a last feather, notify him that he is in arrears for taxes assessed upon his property before he owned it, and possibly including property which he doesn't own and never did, and unless he responds promptly we publish him as a "delinquent," and propose to sell his house over his head. What more can the Turkish tax gatherer do? A Republican.

FUNERAL OF REV. MR. CABLE.

Pathetic and Beautiful Were the Services at Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Most beautiful and pathetic was the funeral service of Rev. Wm. F. Cable, held in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Archdeacon Jensey, of Hoboken, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Keller, of Arlington, and Rev. Dr. Christian, all intimate friends of Mr. Cable's in the Diocese of Newark, with which he has been connected the few years he has been in this country. The trustees and congregation wished to show their love and respect for Mr. Cable, and their grateful remembrance of his kindness during the long illness of Mr. Lewis, last year, when a number of times he gave his services gratuitously and was at all times ready to help the little church he had learned to love so dearly. While ill in the Muhlenberg Hospital he expressed the wish that if God permitted him to leave there, his first service should be held in the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The white hangings and white flowers, arranged by loving hands, typified the happy Easter that has came at last to this worn, but faithful servant of the Blessed Master.

WENT BETWEEN TWO DAYS.

Discretion Was the Better Part of Valor With a Fanwood Landlord.

Joseph W. Nash, the landlord of the Fanwood Hotel, on the county road, near Fanwood station, abandoned the place Tuesday night and disappeared.

Nash came to Fanwood three months ago and took charge of the hotel with the expectation of obtaining a hotel license, but the residents of Fanwood sent a strong petition to court against it, and the license was not granted.

So far as can be ascertained, Nash left no unpaid bills behind. The object he had in going by night seems to have been a fear that the Land Improvement Company would hold him to the year's lease, which he had signed. His rent was paid up to July 1st.

Taken to the Hospital.

A man named John Krega was found on Somerset street this morning suffering with chills and fever, and as the man had no home he was taken to the hospital by Chief Grant, who happened to discover Krega. The man is about fifty years old, unmarried and out of work. He has been in Plainfield several days.

MARRIED 'MID DAISIES.

WEDDING OF MISS CORA E. GARDNER AND JOSEPH F. T. FULLER.

A very pretty wedding was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gardner, of 998 Arlington avenue, last evening, when their daughter, Miss Cora Earl Gardner, was united in marriage to Joseph Floyd Tracy Fuller, of this city. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock in the presence of the families of the couple and their near friends from this and other cities.

Daisies predominated in the decorations and the interior of the house was a perfect bower of them, with smilax and ferns to add to the charming effect. The ceremony was performed in the front parlor, the bridal party entering through an aisle formed by ribbons, held by Miss Carrie Fuller and the Masters Mygrant, Gardner and Fuller.

The bride was gowned in white organdie over white silk, trimmed with old lace taken from her mother's wedding dress. Her flower girl was Miss Mygrant, who was gowned in yellow organdie over white silk, trimmed with Venetian and white lace.

The bride was escorted to the front of the room by her father while the Lohengrin wedding march was played. The ushers who headed the party were Moreland Townley, of Westfield, and George E. Fuller, of Plainfield. They were met by the groom and his best man, Joseph A. Robinson, of Plainfield. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., performed the simple but impressive ceremony.

An informal reception followed the marriage and all sat down to the wedding supper which was served in another room. The couple received many useful and valuable gifts which were displayed in one of the upper rooms.

The newly married couple left on the 10:17 train for New York, amid a plentiful shower of rice. They will make a short tour through the western part of New York State and will then return to make their home in Plainfield.

Although a quiet affair, it proved a very delightful one and the couple were showered with congratulations as well as rice.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Miss Turner, F. A. Duguid, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Atteridge, Miss Elsie Atteridge, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Trowbridge, of Chatham, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. H. DO NOT FAVOR THE ACT.

SENTIMENT OF PUBLIC MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE.

A Number of Well Known Citizens Were Present and Expressed Their Opinions—Several Resolutions Passed.

A meeting of taxpayers and citizens was held in the Board of Trade rooms last evening for the purpose of discussing the recent enforcement of the Martin Act by the City Council. The meeting was called for 8:30, and by that time the room was filled with interested citizens who are more or less affected by the act. J. Fred MacDonald was made chairman of the meeting and George Hallock, secretary. The chairman stated the purpose for which the meeting was called, and then invited an expression of opinion from any and all present.

W. P. Smith, of Netherwood, was present and stated that he thought the proposed plan of collecting taxes prior to 1881 was unjust, but he was of the opinion that if the money could be collected legally there would be no alternative. Mr. Smith said that he is personally acquainted with Mr. Martin, under whose name the act was framed, and that the latter had informed him that the act had been amended so much that at present he was unable to say what power there is in the law. He also said that he knew of no test by a corporation where the latter had defeated the measures of the act. Several individual tests had been made, but the individual had lost in every case.

Mr. Lounsbury replied to the above by citing a case in Camden where the city had failed to obtain a perfect lien on property, and the court had decided adversely and in favor of the property owners. In Plainfield's case he said that the city had never obtained a lien on the property on which they now want to collect back taxes, and he thought that the enforcement of the act was for the purpose of securing such lien.

Assemblyman Codington was asked to express his opinion and he did so very cleverly. He said in part: "I think that the Council in availing themselves of the provisions of the Martin Act have done the proper thing. The principal object is to collect back taxes or sell the property so that good titles can be obtained, and it is not intended to create a lien on the property where there is not one at present. The act cannot perfect a lien on the property prior to 1881 and the city cannot claim such a lien. It is chifly for the purpose of placing a record in the collector's office. Where the act affects innocent holders of property it is manifestly unfair to enforce the same. I think that if the matter should be laid before the commissioners, who are fair and honorable men, that they will adjust each case rightly. They have all power to settle, compromise or sell, and they certainly will not be unreasonable."

Mr. Hewson, of this city, was present in the interest of a friend and he desired to get information regarding a certain tax on the New street sewer which was built many years ago. There was no one present who could give him the information he wanted and his questisn was allowed to go unanswered.

Among the prominent citizens present at the meeting were Assemblyman W. R. Codington, W. P. Smith, School Commissioner F. C. Lounsbury, L. E. Hart, Job Male, Jr., J. Fred MacDonald, J. T. Vail, John Ross, C. H. Hand, J. Hewson, James Smith, Councilman L. B. Woolston, Henry Liefke, Howard Randolph, J. B. Coward, S. Randolph, P. V. Van Fleet, Solomon F. Dunn, Frank Dunham, James Pope, Eugene Laing and George Hallock.

After a thorough discussion of the subject under consideration the following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted. The committee referred to consists of J. Fred MacDonald, F. C. Lounsbury and George Hallock. The resolutions were offered by James Pope and are as follows:

Whereas, At the instance of the Common Council the Circuit Court has appointed commissioners to adjust the taxes in arrears for the city of Plainfield under the so called Martin Act, and,

Whereas, Such action contemplates the enforced collection of taxes for the years 1881 and prior thereto regardless of the peculiar circumstances surrounding the same, and

Whereas, This public meeting of citizens and taxpayers has been called for the purpose of discussing such action.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting:

1st. That being interested in the welfare of our city, and recognizing the necessity for prompt collection of its taxes, we approve of the Martin Act in its general application.

2d. We believe that the provisions of this act were never intended, however, to be applied under such circumstances as are found in connection with taxes assessed in this city for the years 1881 and prior thereto where the property is now owned by innocent third parties, who were unable by reason of the im-

Racing on the Boulevard.

Chief of Police Benjamin Murphy, of Jersey City, announced yesterday that bicycle racing on the new Hudson County Boulevard would have to stop. The Boulevard is under the control of the Freeholders, who heretofore granted permits for racing. Saturday afternoon Howard Griffin, of the Arcanum Wheelmen, while racing, was killed, and this has caused the Chief of Police to issue the order against racing. There is an ordinance which says that bicycles shall not be ridden faster than twelve miles an hour through Jersey City, under a penalty of $20 fine.

PURSUED BY A MANIAC.

HORRIBLE EXPERIENCE OF MORRIS BALLANTINE ON THE ROAD.

He Was Returning From Basking Ridge With His Wife and Mother-in-Law When a Wild Man Appeared.

In the woods somewhere near this city a maniac with a violent disposition is roaming at large. Morris Ballantine, a butcher, whose shop is on Watchung avenue, in company with his wife and mother-in-law, had an encounter with the crazy man which they will remember with a shudder for many a day. A superstitious person might have said that the strange being, barefooted and bareheaded, that chased the carriage along the lonely road in the darkness and retreatad only after being shot at, was a ghost; but Mr. Ballentine was not confused by thoughts of the supernatural, and consequently is now able to give a good account of his exciting experience.

On Monday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ballantine drove in their two-seated carriage to Basking Ridge to take supper with Mrs. Ballantine's mother, Mrs. Richard Irving Mrs. Irving was persuaded to return to this city with her daughter, and the three started on their return trip about 9 o'clock at night. Mrs. Ballentine and her mother occupied the back seat of the vehicle, while Mr. Ballantine sat in front and drove the horse. The night was a pleasant one and not too dark to distinguish objects some distance off.

It was 10:30 o'clock when the party reached that point in their journey where the valley road on which they were traveling intersects with the road from Stirling. The place is about five miles from this city. The horse was travelling leisurely when Ballantine heard a cracking and rustling of the underbrush at the side of the road, and both his wife and mother-in-law called to him excitedly to drive faster. Thinking the women were nervous at the noise they had heard, but suspecting nothing more serious, the driver whipped up his horse. Again Mrs. Ballentine called to drive faster, and then both the women began to scream.

"I'll kill you! I'll kill you! I'll kill you!"

Those words were uttered by someone in a voice pitched to an unearthly scream; and Ballentine, looking around, saw in the semi-darkness a sight that chilled his blood. A strange, wild-looking man, hatless and with bare feet and head, was running a few feet behind the carriage, clutching wildly at its occupants with distended claw-like fingers and gnashing his teeth.

"I'll kill you!" he cried again, and made a leap to catch the carriage but missed it. The women, dumb with fright, crawled as far as possible from the rear of the carriage.

Ballentine had but a moment for thought. He drew a revolver and fired at the madman, once, twice. The pursuer stopped, and then, with an unearthly yell, turned and plunged into the woods.

No more was seen or heard of him by the party, which continued on its way to this city.

Mrs. Ballentine and Mrs. Irving in their accounts of the matter say that the man sprang from the underbrush at the side of the road and attempted to grab the side of the carriage, but missed it, and then started after it down the road. They describe his appearance as that of a wild man.

The spot where the affair happened is said to be only about ten miles from the Morris Plains Insane Asylum; and it is therefore not at all unlikely that the madman is one that has made his escape from that institution.

BAND FOR OCEAN GROVE.

They Begin to Think They Would Like to Keep Pace With Asbury Park Neighbors.

Plainfield people people who spend part of their summer by the sea at Ocean Grove will be glad to learn that a movement to obtain music for Ocean Grove—that is, regular board walk music—has gained such strength within the past few days that a proposition is advanced to secure the contribution of $1,500 for this purpose.

The Grove now has a fine beach pavilion that adjoins Senator Bradley's Asbury avenue pavilion, where the band plays nightly.

The Methodists in the Grove have decided that they ought to have music of their own.

Pending a better arrangement it is proposed to raise subscriptions and add to the Asbury Park fund on condition that the band be transferred at to either the Ross or Lilligore pavilion. The proposition is not regarded with much favor in Asbury Park.

John P. Hutchinson, of Leggett's pharmacy, is able to resume his duties again after a two weeks' illness.

HELD FOR FORGERY.

HAS BEEN FOLLOWED FOR YEARS.

One of the Prisoner's Alleged Confederates Is Dead, and Another Is Said to Be President of a Real Estate Exchange.

New York, June 24.—Charles M. Fegenbush, alias C. M. F. Bush, 38 years old, a mining operator, has been arrested in this city by the central office police on an indictment charging him with being a fugitive from justice from Denver, from which city he fled five years ago after having been released on bail on an indictment for forgery. It is charged that the prisoner, in company with two other men, E. H. Saltiel and B. F. Perry, both of Denver, delivered a forged deed of property for $2,000 to another person.

The alleged fraud was discovered, and the three were indicted and bailed. Perry, one of the defendants, is said to have died in the meanwhile, and Saltiel, according to the statement of Fegenbush to the police, has since then been president of the Real Estate Exchange in Denver.

Fegenbush disappeared, and since 1892, when the alleged criminal transaction took place, the Denver authorities have been looking for him.

The fugitive was traced to this city a short time ago, and W. H. O'Brien, chief of the Denver police, sent the indictment against him to Captain O'Brien of the detective bureau here, with the request that an arrest be made at once.

It was learned that the man was engaged in some business in the Knickerbocker building, where he occupied a desk in the office of The Dramatic Review. A warrant for his arrest was procured from a city magistrate, and the prisoner was arrested on Broadway.

His Picture In the Rogues' Gallery.

He was taken to a police court and remanded back to the central office. His picture was taken for the rogues' gallery, and the police of Denver were notified of his arrest.

A reply to the notice of the man's arrest sent to the Denver police elicited a response to the effect that an officer would start immediately from that city for New York to accompany the prisoner back to Denver.

A book containing the names of all of the hotels in the United States and Canada was found in the prisoner's apartment. This book has about 9,000 names of hotels.

The prisoner is said to have admitted to the police that he was about to engage in a line of business which would have yielded him good profits. He admitted that there were others interested in the scheme. In his trunks were also found a quantity of alleged mining and railway bonds and a number of telegrams in peculiar cipher.

The detectives have found that Fegenbush employed three women typewriters, all of whom were busy at their machines when the detectives appeared. These typewriter operators were writing letters addressed to hotel clerks in various places over the country, and these letters were of such a nature as to arouse the suspicions of the police. It was then decided to search the prisoner's room, and there the detectives found a lot of printed matter and other material which led them to believe that they had nipped in the bud a skillful scheme for wholesale swindling.

Tore Down the American Flag.

Halifax, June 24.—The United States flag was deliberately torn from a string of other flags on Sackville street on Queen Victoria's jubilee day. The flags were displayed by Thomas Lownds from his residence. The flag was a very large one, and only the band of it was left on the rope. Some time ago Mr. Lownds received a threatening letter concerning the United States flag which was displayed by him on another occasion. The act was committed early in the morning, and the perpetrators got off before they could be arrested.

Schooner Runs Down a Boat.

Block Island, R. I., June 24.—While fishing off here the Gloucester fishing schooner Hattie M. Graham ran down one of her seine boats. Sam Lowrie, one of the men in the boat, was drowned, and Louis Frazier so severely injured that the schooner made a landing and sent him to the hospital. It is said that the accident was due to carelessness on the part of the helmsman. The schooner left last night for Newport.

Meeting of Patriots.

New York, June 24.—A meeting of the general court of the Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, Colonel Frederick D. Grant presiding, has been held here. On petition it was agreed to issue a new charter to members in Massachusetts for the founding of a state society, an organization there already having an enrolled membership of 150.

Maine's New Doctors.

Brunswick, Me., June 24.—The graduation exercises of the Maine Medical school were held in Memorial hall. The address was delivered by Frank Lambert Dingley, A. M., and the oration by George M. Woodman. President Hyde presented diplomas to 34 graduates.

Won't Buy Old College Buildings.

New York, June 24.—The trustees of the College of the City of New York have voted against a consideration of the purchase of the old Columbia college buildings for the new quarters of the College of the City of New York on account of impracticability.

Gored by a Bull.

Hudson, N. Y., June 24.—Henry Andrews, a farmer who resides near this city, was nearly gored to death by a bull. Three of his ribs were broken, one of his shoulders dislocated, and he was badly lacerated by the animal's horns. His condition is critical.

Coroner's Verdict In Gardner Case.

Newburg, N. Y., June 24.—The jury in the Gardner case, after being out 35 minutes, found the verdict that Gardner came to his death by gunshot wounds inflicted by Joseph Decker, and that the killing was deliberate and premeditated.

YALE FRESHMEN WIN

Records Smashed by the Youngsters at Poughkeepsie.

WERE HARD PUSHED ALL THE WAY.

Harvard After a Gallant Fight Came In Second, and Cornell, Whose Freshmen Have Never Before Been Beaten, Brought Up In the Rear.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—Three crews of "freshies" on the Hudson last evening at 7:10 o'clock smashed to smithereens all previous records for freshmen on a two mile course and put up one of the hottest races ever witnessed in intercollegiate racing in this country. A crew of sturdy Yale freshmen rowed the two mile course in the wonderful time of 9m. 19½s., a trifle lighter crew of Harvard freshmen fought them every inch of the way and finished a trifle over two lengths behind them, 9m. 26½s., and the Cornell freshmen, whose college record is that none of its freshmen crews have ever before been beaten, finished a length behind Harvard in 9m. 29½s.

The best previous record for two miles was made by the Columbia freshmen crew of '94 at New London in 1891, in 9m. 41s. While the conditions here are better for fast time than they are upon the sluggish and shallow water of the Thames, and while therefore some allowance should be made for the much better exhibition, it is nevertheless considered that yesterday's race was a very remarkable one, all three of the crews having lowered the record, and the last crew in the race, Cornell, doing so by 11½ seconds. All three of the crews used every pound of power in their boats at every stage of the two miles, and each crew at some period of the race was in the lead.

Tornado of Cheers For Yale.

None of the crews seemed distressed when they finished, but Yale was decidedly the freshest of the three. When the men of Yale turned their boat's nose toward their own house, there was a tornado of shrieking whistles, horns and hoarse shouts.

There was not very much demonstration in the city last night, because the rooters and the members of the crews themselves were too anxiously awaiting the event of tomorrow.

It is not believed that very much money changed hands, because freshmen races are so very uncertain.

Mr. Courtney of the Cornell crews said that his freshmen were beaten by the heaviness of the Yale crew, which was too much for them in a two mile race. He said they were fairly beaten by greater strength, and there was nothing to be added to that expression. Fred White, who has assisted considerably with the training of the Cornell eights, said in a disgusted tone that the youngsters showed a noticeable lack of sense in running their stroke up and down and not keeping at a steady, hard pull from the beginning.

The victory of yesterday is looked upon by the crowds here as being in some measure indicative of the result of tomorrow's big varsity race. It is not contended that the order of finish will be the same, for Mr. Lehmann of Harvard has all along said that his freshmen had been badly neglected and could not be looked upon as a representative freshman crew. On the contrary, the Yale crew of youngsters has been said to be more sure of winning than their varsity, while Mr. Courtney's Cornell crews have had equal attention paid to them. The chances therefore are that the order of tomorrow's finish is liable to be Harvard, Yale and Cornell.

Aid Asked For Insurgents.

New York, June 24.—Ethan Allen, president of the Cuban league, has issued an appeal to the people of the United States for funds in aid of the insurgents. The document concludes as follows: "A plan for small subscriptions at local points, deposited there with banks or business firms, reaches all. Let those who will serve send addresses of themselves and banks to the Red, White and Blue league, New York."

Funeral of Murderer and Suicide.

Waltham, Mass., June 24.—The funeral of Malone Wilson, the would be murderer of Margaret Hines, who committed suicide after he had shot the Hines woman last Monday, took place from the home of his mother, Mrs. Lucinda Moulton. The services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Connor, pastor of the Universalist church. Miss Hines was reported as resting well at the Waltham hospital, and it is expected that she will recover.

Framingham's Large Graduating Class.

South Framingham, Mass., June 24.—The graduating exercises of the Framingham State Normal school have been held. An interesting programme was carried out, and the address to the graduating class was delivered by Rev Edward Everett Hale, D. D., of Boston. The class was the largest numerically that ever graduated from the school.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

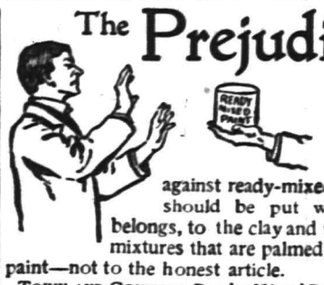
The Prejudice



against ready-mixed paints should be put where it belongs, to the clay and whiting mixtures that are palmed off for paint—not to the honest article.

TOWN AND COUNTRY Ready-Mixed Paints are not made of any such formula, but White Lead, Zinc, Color and Linseed Oil only.

One trial will overcome the prejudice you now cherish toward ready-mixed paints because in their application they prove to be the ideal paints—uniform and permanent.

Transfer your prejudice to the dealer who can't supply you with Harrisons' Town and Country Ready-Mixed Paints, with the big "H" on every can.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. Kline, of the West End, is confined to her home with serious illness.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs Andrew Cox, of Liberty street, is recovering from a severe illness.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

BIG BLAZE IN NEW YORK.

A Seven-story Building Gutted, With a Loss of $250,000.

New York, June 24.—One of the biggest fires that this city has had in a year or so occurred in the seven-story brick building at Laight and Greenwich streets. The basement and first floor of the structure were occupied by B. Dreyfuss & Co., wholesale wine and liquor merchants, and the rest of the floors were tenanted by R. E. Dietz & Co., manufacturers of tubular goods, such as lamps, oil stoves and the like.

When the fire broke out, there were nearly 150 men and about 20 women in the building, but they all escaped without injury. One woman fainted and was carried out by some of the men employees.

The flames burst out on the third floor and spread with such rapidity that the building was soon enveloped. Four alarms were sent to the fire department. When the engines arrived, nearly the whole structure was ablaze.

The trains on the Ninth avenue elevated railroad were stopped, and the firemen climbed up on the tracks with their hose to fight the flames. The fireboats were also close inshore throwing streams of water into the building.

The burned structure fronted 100 feet on Laight street and 50 feet on Greenwich street. It was estimated that the loss would be about $250,000.

Primary school No. 11 is right behind the burned building. There were 350 children in school when the fire broke out. Under the guidance of Miss Comstock, the principal, the children marched out in order.

THE WOOL SCHEDULE

Raw Material Paragraph Has Been Finally Completed.

DISCUSSED MR. BRYAN'S OPPOSITION

Senator Morgan Introduces a Bill Providing For Annexation of Hawaii. Said the Measure Was a Necessity. Some Nominations Confirmed.

Washington, June 24.—After a long contest the senate has completed the paragraph of the wool schedule relating to raw wool and advanced into the features relating to manufactured woolen goods. The day was devoted largely to a discussion of the effect of tariff rates in the price of wool, and the speeches were on technical lines in the main.

At one point Mr. Hoar diverted the discussion by a reference to William J. Bryan's opposition to the tariff. This brought Senators Mantle, Allen and Stewart to the defense of Mr. Bryan. Mr. Teller was drawn into the controversy and in a few incisive remarks warned his former Republican associates that their hopes of prosperity from this bill would be blasted.

Mr. Quay made a strong effort to have the house ad valorem rates on third class wool adopted, but he was defeated—19 to 11. The committee rates were then agreed to—viz., 4 cents per pound on third class wool valued at 10 cents or less per pound and 7 cents per pound on third class wool valued above 10 cents per pound. The schedule was completed up to paragraph 354, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc.

Early in the day Mr. Allen (Pop.) of Nebraska, rising to a question of personal privilege, made a sweeping denial of the published charges that William J. Bryan had contributed $1,500 to the Populist cause in order to effect fusion.

Morgan's Bill on Hawaii.

Senator Morgan introduced a bill providing for the annexation of Hawaii. The bill reads:

"Be it enacted, etc., that the annexation of the Hawaiian islands as a territory of the United States of America, as the same is provided for in the treaty between the United States and the Republic of Hawaii, concluded on the 19th day of June, 1897, is accepted, ratified and confirmed on the plan, terms and conditions stated in said treaty, which is herein set forth. (The treaty is here quoted.) On July 4, 1898, the laws of the United States as they shall then exist shall be extended over the territory of Hawaii, but congress may provide for the extension of said laws over said territory at an earlier period, and until congress shall provide for the permanent government of said territory the same shall be governed according to the plan and provisions stated in same treaty, which is hereby adopted and enacted as a part of this act, except article 7. The five commissioners to be appointed by the president under article 6 shall be appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate.

"There is hereby appropriated and to be immediately available such sum as may be necessary to defray the expenses of executing this act not to exceed $1,000,000. The interest on the public debt of the Republic of Hawaii is included in the expenses of executing this act, but all provisions for paying the principal of the debt are reserved for the future action of congress."

Senator Morgan said that his reason for introducing the bill was that such a measure was necessary and had to be introduced by some one.

"You can't annex Hawaii by treaty alone," he said. "It requires legislation to accomplish it. The bill was introduced upon my individual suggestions. It was not talked of in the meeting of the committee on foreign relations."

The following nominations have been confirmed: To be United States consuls, Walter Schumann of New York at Mayence, Germany; Hilary S. Brunot of Pennsylvania at St. Etienne, France; W. B. Dicky of Louisiana at Callao, Peru; John G. Foster of Vermont to be consul general at Halifax and Commodore E. O. Matthews to be rear admiral.

Annexation of Hawaii.

Washington, June 24.—The Hawaiian treaty of annexation was taken up by the senate committee on foreign relations. After the document and accompanying papers had been read and discussed they were referred to a subcommittee.

The subcommittee is made up of Senators Davis and Foraker (Reps.) and Morgan (Dem.).

No agreement was reached as to when the treaty would be considered by the senate, and that question will depend largely upon the recommendations made by the subcommittee. While none of the committee would acknowledge that the protest made by Japan against the ratification of the treaty as it now stands had been received, it was probably read and referred to the subcommittee together with the convention and the messages of the president and Secretary Sherman.

In view of the delicate questions brought up by the position assumed by Japan, a motion was adopted putting the members of the committee under unusual bans as to disclosing the proceedings of the committee.

Date of Dr. Angell's Departure.

Washington, June 24.—Dr. Angell, the newly appointed minister to Turkey, has notified the state department that he will sail from New York on July 17 for his post, stopping in London en route to confer with Mr. Terrell, the retiring minister.

Ex-President Cleveland at Greenwich.

Greenwich, Conn., June 24.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland and his family are spending a few days with E. C. Benedict at the latter's Indian Harbor residence before taking up their summer residence at Buzzards Bay. Mr. Cleveland, with his host, is spending his time in fishing for black bass at Putnam lake, which is the posted property of the Greenwich Water company.

Three Boys Drowned.

Canajoharie, N. Y., June 24.—Clarence Ireland, 17 years old; James Christman and James Patten, both 14 years old, were all drowned in the Mohawk river. The boys lived at Palatine bridge and with Henry Shafer, 15 years old, went bathing in the river. Shafer was the only one of the party who was rescued.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

This evening, twenty young men and women of this city will bid a long farewell to school days and turn their faces toward the hard realities of this world. At the same time, three young women of the borough will pass through the same experience. The commencements of the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools will be held with the usual appropriate exercises. It is an event that has long been anticipated by the graduates and waited for by their friends. It means much to them. Some will enter college and others turn their energies to a business career, but wherever they go let it be hoped that they will remember the teachings of their school days and always bear themselves so as to bring no discredit to their Alma Mater.

A REPUTATION THREATENED.

Everybody has heretofore admitted the superiority of the Jersey mosquito without question, but now the Elizabeth Journal tries to cast reflections on the one thing of which Jersey can boast by printing the following editorial:

Don't talk about New Jersey mosquitoes any more. A New York mosquito is dynamite alongside of the mild, harmless New Jersey variety. A Long Island man was recently bitten by one of the sandhill-crane-mosquitoes that grow in the New York salt marshes, and it drove him insane. As a rule, Jerseymen don't know what mosquitoes are till they go to New York.

It is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

A correspondent writes to The Press that the attention of the Board of Health should be called to the fact that the signs of contagious disease are posted only on the front of the houses, and that many peddlers and men of other occupations who come to the rear entrance are exposed to the dreaded disease. In many houses, the rear entrance is reached by a different path from the one leading to the front door. The correspondent suggests that the signs should be placed at the rear entrance, also.

A communication is published in today's Daily Press, signed "Republican." It is written by one of Plainfield's oldest citizens and taxpayers.

YALE FRESHMEN WIN.

Raymond A. McGee, of North Plainfield, Was on the Victorious Crew.

The triangular boat race between the freshmen crews of Yale, Harvard and Cornell was held over the Poughkeepsie course yesterday afternoon. It was a great race, grandly rowed and grandly won. The time was 9:19½, the fastest ever made by an eight-oared shell. The Yale crew won.

The heaviest man on any of the three crews was Raymond A. McGee, of Washington Park, North Plainfield. He rowed No. 6 on the winning crew. His weight is given as 185 pounds and his height as six feet.

HAPPY BUT TIRED.

Results of a Trip to Highland Beach by Three Young Men.

One Sunday morning recently, three young men might have been seen wending their way to the North Avenue station with light spirits and pleasure bent for a trip to Highland Beach to make final arrangements for their excursion on Saturday, June 26th. On their arrival at the beach they fell in with "mine host," Wm. Sandlass, Jr., under whose management the beach is made such a success. He immediately acted as guide and escorted the young men about the place to see the sights. The first place of interest was the hotel which has a capacity of accommodating one thousand guests. Then to the bathing houses where there are two thousand suits, all sizes, made to fit any person. The feature of salt and still water bathing was noted and also that on an average there are 15,000 people who take to water daily. The advantages for fishing were shown and anyone so inclined can profitably spend time in this way. The dancing pavilion, one of the finest, always comes in for a share of the throng that daily seek this popular resort. By this time dinner was ready and the three young men were invited to partake of one of the finest of dinners. After dinner a drive of two hours was enjoyed and the roads were found to be excellent. For those who care for other amusements, there is the light house and Sandy Hook Fort, bowling alleys, etc. As darkness was spreading over this glorious spot, the three young men could be seen returning home with perfect satisfaction beaming on their faces, but oh, so tired. They are now waiting anxiously for next Saturday when Watchung Lodge, International Order of Machinists, will enjoy their annual excursion to the above-named place. Everything has been arranged for a pleasant time and of course, a big crowd is going.

DO NOT FAVOR THE ACT.

perfect manner in which the city records were kept to ascertain the actual facts regarding the property purchased by them, and thereby unable to protect their interests at the time of such purchase.

3d. We believe that the attempted enforcement of this act in such cases as mentioned above is unjust in itself and contrary to all law and equity and highly injurious to the welfare of our city, and if continued and persisted in will result in costly and lengthy litigation with the probabilities that the result will ultimately be in favor of the property owners and that meanwhile until such matters are finally settled the values of real estate throughout the city will be seriously effected and this at a time when we should naturally expect some activity in this direction in keeping with the return of prosperity through all lines of business.

4th. That the committee appointed by the Board of Trade in this matter be continued, and that said committee be requested to prepare suitable resolutions covering the questions at issue and setting forth the general sense of this meeting, that said resolutions be signed by the chairman and secretary of this meeting, and by the committtee and such other citizens and taxpayers as may desire to affix their names thereto, and further that said resolutions shall be presented by the committee to the commissioners named by the honorable court at the first meeting of said commissioners to be held in this city July 8th.

5th That the committee be empowered to take such further action in the matter as may to them seem proper, and to call another public meeting if in their judgement such course should at any time prove desirable.

A letter from P. P. VanArsdale was received and the contents noted. It was an excellent letter and set forth the writer's ideas on the subject in a clear and concise manner.

CIRCUS MEN HERE.

Advertising Car No. 1, of the Great Wallace Shows, arrived in this city last night over the C. R. R. of N. J., from Tamaqua. This big tented institution, which will exhibit in Plainfield July 14, is now said to be classed with the largest of such enterprises in America. The claim is made that 1000 people are carried, 600 superb horses, 50 cages and dens of wild animals, herds of elephants, droves of camels, 100 principal feature acts, a canvas that covers over twelve acres of ground and a seating capacity for nearly 14,000 people. The management of the Wallace shows have started a much needed reform in the circus world by not tolerating any form of gambling or catch-penny affairs about the grounds, and promise that patrons will be carefully protected against this usual nuisance. The shows come almost direct here from Washington and Baltimore.

The case was tried before Judge McAdams in New York city, and the court held that there was no cause for action. The plaintiff is a resident of Roselle.

CLOSE OF SCHOOL YEAR.

COMMENCEMENT OF SCOTCH PLAINS SCHOOL HELD LAST NIGHT.

The Largest Class That Has Graduated Since the Establishment of the Present Curriculum—Other Scotch Plains Items.

The graduating exercises of the Scotch Plains High School took place in the First Baptist church last evening. Long before 8 o'clock, the time set for the exercises to begin, the church was filled with relatives and friends of the graduates.

American flags were hung tastefully about the interior of the church. The programme began with an overture by Conde's orchestra, and prayer was offered.

Miss Gwynette Marsh read her graduating essay on "Spanish Misrule;" and Miss Josephine Marsh treated of "The Græco-Turkish War." A selection by the orchestra followed. Samuel B. Macaulay discussed "Our Native Birds," Miss Florence Nicholl read a character sketch of "The Maid of Orleans," and Miss Doretta Cook delivered her essay, the subject of which was "Crossing the Rubicon." Miss Florence Bettman gave a short discussion of the life and work of Sir Alfred Tennyson, and at its finish delivered the valedictory address. The class prophecy was then delivered by Samuel B. Macaulay. David P. Hall, of Plainfield, delivered the address to the graduating class. At the close of Mr. Hall's remarks Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the Board of Education, made the presentation of diplomas to the graduates. "My Country 'Tis of Thee" was then sung and the audience was dismissed.

A reception by the graduation class followed in the School Hall. A large number were present by invitation. Dancing was enjoyed and the guests were treated to supper. The graduating class is the largest since the establishment of the present curriculum. The course completed by the graduates is the three-years scientific course as outlined by the County Union. The graduates numbered six.

Mrs. Edward Skinner is the guest of Mrs. John Haskard.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee spent today with friends in New York city.

Miss Sadie Bartlett, of New York, is visiting Miss Florence Nicholl.

Miss Eva Winckler is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Macaulay.

Miss Rena Wagner, of Chatham, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Amy C. Cook.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mooney and daughter, Mrs. I. G. Walker, are visiting relatives in Coxsackie, N. Y.

Wm. Ilisley, a graduate of the Scotch Plains High School, class of '94, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nicholl.

Miss Margaret Fitzgerald and Miss Margaret Scully spent yesterday in Plainfield as the guests of Mrs. Louis Feiring, of West Third street.

The ladies of All Saints church have been busy for several days preparing for their annual summer festival, being held this afternoon and evening from 4 till 10 o'clock, on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kyte. Ice cream, berries, cake and pineapples will be offered for sale. The proceeds will go to swell the church fund.

Henry Schenck, Tuesday evening, borrowed Arthur Chapins bicycle. After riding a few minutes, he turned a corner sharply and collided with another wheelman. Chapin's wheel was badly damaged. The stranger escaped without injury, and, fearing that he would be blamed for the accident, mounted his wheel and rode off.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Lloyd, of the borough, is visiting friends at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Mrs. Hays is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Horton, of Bradford, Pa.

The Dunellen Gun Club will hold a shoot next Saturday afternoon.

Andrew Lutkins, of North Plainfield, was a welcome visitor in the borough yesterday.

Superintendent Whitney and family, of the borough, are spending the summer at South Deerfield, Mass.

The many friends in the borough of Isaac Stites will be glad to learn that he has recovered from his illness and is again able to work.

An entertainment is being held this afternoon in the Holy Innocents church, New Market, under the auspices of the Guild of the church. The proceeds are for the benefit of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Case, of Geenbrook road, have issued invitations for the celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary which will be held Tuesday evening, June 29th, at their home.

The responses received from those who intend to be present at the Tingley family reunion in August indicate that there will be a very large number of people in attendance. It will be held on the Blackford farm, South Plainfield, the last Wednesday in August.

At present there seems to be only two candidates for the position of postmaster, Adam Dealaman and Mr. Todd, and the betting appears to be about even. If anything, Mr. Dealaman seems to be in the lead a trifle. Other people who are not supporters of the above-named men say that a dark-horse will get the plum and now everyone is looking for the dark horse.

In the first series of the Building Loan Association each share is worth at present $171.42 and the series will expire in about one year and seven months. This is considered exceedingly good in view of the fact that the taxes on all properties are paid by the Association. There will be a meeting of the Association this evening, when considerable business will be transacted.

An Old Road Made New.

And now another joke is taken away from the already heavily afflicted paragrapher and specialty artist. No more can either ring the changes on that time-honored old minstrel joke about the man who wanted to go to Chicago "the worst way," and was directed to the B. & O. station, for the work of straightening the curves, which were at once the delight and the horror of all through passengers on the "picturesque B. & O." is about concluded, and the trip through the mountains no longer reminds one of crossing the English channel on a particularly rough day.

This will be welcome news to the general public and to B. & O. enthusiasts—people who would not take any other route to their destinations if the B & O. would possibly serve them. These are mostly passionate admirers of natural scenery, to whom the gigantic panorama along the B. & O. route can never become stale. Indeed, why should it, when it is never twice the same? Scenery on the scale of such immensity is like the ocean in its susceptibility to change. Not only with the seasons, but with the days, does its beauty vary. Like a kaleidoscope, which the slightest alteration in position occasions a totally new view, so the forests and the mountains along this scenic route assume wholly new appearances with every passing cloud and every weather condition.

Now that the exaggerated bug-bear of the B. & O. curves has been finally disposed of, and its road-bed made second to none, the excellence of its equipment and the peculiarly "make-yourself--comfortable-we'll--do-everything--we-can--for--you" atmosphere which surrounds the traveler the instant he steps aboard a through train on this road, will shortly double and treble the number of B. & O. enthusiasts, to whom the journey over mountains is less a journey than a pleasure. —The Pittsburg Star, June 5, 1897.

Crop Conditions.

Weather Observer Naegle sends the following report of the weather and crop conditions in Plainfield for the week: The crops have shown a decided improvement for the past week; corn growing slowly; clover cutting commenced; wheat and rye ripening, heads very heavy.

Messrs. Bornmann and Andrews, of Brooklyn, visited friends in Plainfield last evening. They rode out on their wheels.

A FOOD MEDICINE.

In late years no one remedy has grown more in favor with physicians than Malt Extract. If it is rightly made it is a tonic that can be depended on every time.

It is as much a food as a medicine, but is food of an unusual kind. It is food in soluble and concentrated form all ready to slip into the blood and renovate the system without taxing digestion. Therefore, if your stomach is weak it does you good just the same.

We recommend Crown Brand Extract of Malt as one you can rely on. It is made by a thoroughly reliable house and we have it put up under our own name as an additional guarantee of its merit.

We are also able to save you something on the cost. Other good extracts will cost you at least 25 per cent more. We constantly endeavor to sell the best of everything for less and this is another instance of it. Extract of Malt is especially recommended for dyspepsia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and general debility. It is the ideal tonic for invalids, convalescents and for debilitated women. 15c. bot., $1 65 doz. Frank Rowley, druggist, 45 Somerset St.

AN EPISODE.

I.

She pours the tea and as her hand
Above the dainty china lingers
I raise my own right hand aloft
And seize upon the jeweled fingers.

II.

"You'll break the teacup, Jack!" she cries,
And on the floor I hear it clatter;
"Oh, what care I for cups," I say,
"While you have got a heart to shatter!"

III.

"Don't break it, that's a dear," she says,
"The cup I mean," and then with laughter,
I tell her it is not her cup
But heart, her humble servant's after.

IV.

"You've broken that long since," she sighs,
"I never can forgive you, never!"
And—well! she did and now she's come
To make and pour my tea forever.
—E. C. R, in What to Eat.

THE RED HAND.

"Look! It is the sign of the Red Hand." I looked up at the ceiling and saw what appeared to be the impression of a hand that had been dipped in some red fluid.

"What is it?" I asked anxiously.

"It means that you are a marked man," said Alexis Petrovitch. "Haven't you heard of the League of the Red Hand, a particular desperate inner circle of nihilists? You must have done something to earn their vengeance. They give their victims three signs before the death sentence is put into execution, and that is plainly one of them. Twice again you will see the mysterious Red Hand, and then—well, not one in a hundred escapes."

I was attached to the British embassy at St. Petersburg, and some important information had come into my possession quite accidentally respecting a nihilist plot. This intelligence I had communicated personally by word of mouth to one of the highest and most trusted officials of the Czar. I had told nobody else, not even my very faithful friend Alexis, and the circumstances were such that it was impossible to conceive how the matter could have come to the knowledge of the society.

Every attempt was made to discover by whom and by what means the "sign" had been impressed on the ceiling, but without success. The room was a lofty one, and it was difficult to understand how the ceiling was reached. The affair was very mysterious, but the nihilist loves mystery.

I was made somewhat uncomfortable by this grim warning, but I was assured by those who professed to know the peculir methods of the league that I was in no danger until I had received the third sign. So I was not greatly alarmed for the present.

I had been offered, through my chief, an appointment in England that was in many respects superior to the one I held, but I had become greatly attached to my life in St. Petersburg, where I had made many excellent friends, and I declined. It was now proposed that I should reconsider my decision.

I did not care for it to be thought that I had shown the white feather, and, to be candid, as the days went on and I did not receive any fresh sign, I began to treat the matter lightly. Perhaps it was all a hoax, and the fact that I had made the important disclosures which had frustrated the nihilist plot was not, after all, known to that body.

One night, some ten days later, I was invited by a lady of my acquaintance to share her box at the opera. As I am passionately fond of music, and the society of this lady's family was very agreeable to me, I was glad to accept.

The opera was "Carmen," and the house was very crowded and hot. Before the last act I left the private box to smoke a cigarette in the foyer, where I expected to meet Petrovitch and other friends. There was a great crush at the buffet, and as I was raising a glass of a cooling drink to my lips my elbow was accidentally jerked by a man standing beside me, and some of the liquid was spilled over my clothes. The gentleman was profuse in his apologies, and I retired to a less crowded part of the saloon to wipe my garments dry.

As I drew out my white pocket handkerchief I noticed that it bore some red stains that I was positive were not there when I left home. I shook out its folds and held it spread out in front of me.

It was the sign of the Red Hand!

"How white you look!" said Alexis, whom I met on my way back to the box. "What is the matter?"

"I have just received the second sign," I said in a low voice.

"Good heavens," he exclaimed. "Then be advised and leave St. Petersburg at once. In your native country you may possibly escape—they may not think it worth while to follow you—but to remain here means certain death."

I became convinced that Alexis was right. It was unsafe to remain longer in Russia. When I reached home that night, I wrote two letters before I went to bed. One was a resignation of my post in St. Petersburg, and the other an acceptance of the appointment in England.

I lost no time in making all necessary arrangements for a prompt departure. One thing gave me great pleasure—Alexis had agreed to accompany me. He had long promised himself a visit to England, and this was an excellent opportunity. I was to take a rather lengthy holiday before entering on my new duties, and should be very glad of his companionship.

On the day that we set off Petrovitch and I drove down to the railway station together. As we were stepping into the conveyance an elderly man in ragged garments came forward with newspapers. I thrust one into my pocket.

We secured a railway carriage to ourselves for the journey, and were soon steaming out of the station. We sat for some time chatting, and of course the conversation was largely about the danger that was hanging over myself.

"Then you have received no third sign?" said Alexis.

"No," I replied. "The secret of my departure was, I think, well kept, and if they want to carry out their murderous designs I am afraid it will be necessary for them to follow me to England. I may consider myself safe now."

"Yes, I hope so. By the way, what do the critics say about the new play last night?"

"Here is a paper," I said, taking it from my pocket.

Petrovitch unfolded it. As he opened it out in front of him he uttered a cry of surprise and alarm and dropped it on the floor between us. He was pale and speechless.

"What is it?" I cried. "Have you read some bad news?"

"Look for yourself," he said huskily.

I snatched up the paper, and at the first glance my blood seemed to freeze. The sign of the Red Hand!

There, right across one of the two center pages, was the familiar red impress of a hand, just as it had appeared on the ceiling and on my pocket handkerchief. This, then, was the third warning, and I was now a doomed man! Any moment might bring my death.

We sat for a few moments in silence. Then Alexis said:

"I assume you are armed?"

"I have my revolver here, loaded and ready," I replied.

"And so have I. Our great danger will be between here and the frontier; I am convinced of that. We must use the utmost vigilance."

"Fortunately we have a carriage to ourselves," I said, "and the doors are both locked. We shall have to be on our guard when we leave this train."

The first part of the journey was long and tiring, and as the day wore on and night began to gather in we became sleepy and silent. Alexis curled himself up in his corner, with the collar of his fur cloak pulled up over his eyes, and dozed. As I sat looking at him I noticed how very similarly we were dressed. I was wearing a cloak and a hat very closely resembling his own, and, muffled up as we were, it would have been difficult for a stranger to have distinguished one from the other.

It was a very dark night, and, wishing to see what kind of a country we were passing through, I suddenly turned my face to the window, and, screening the light with my hand, tried to peer out in the gloom. As I pressed my nose to the glass I distinctly saw a man's face on the outside looking in. It instantly disappeared.

With one hand on my revolver I dashed down the window and looked out. The train was rushing along at a great speed, and I nearly lost my cap in the wind, but there was nobody to be seen.

"How you startled me!" cried Petrovitch. "What on earth is the matter?"

"I saw a face at the window."

"Imagination, my dear fellow, or, more, probably, your own reflection."

"No; I am positive it was neither. It was a fair man, with a beard, while I am dark, with only a moustache."

Alexis suggested we should exchange seats and let him experiment. We did so, and under my direction he imitated my movements in looking out of the window.

"It is certainly suspicious," he said. "We must be on our guard."

We did not go back to our original seats, but remained as we were. Each held his revolver in readiness. We sat thus talking for about half an hour. All the time I kept my eyes fixed on one or the other of the windows. Petrovitch was not so vigilant.

He would gaze at the glass for a few minutes, and then turn and speak to me.

Suddenly I thought I saw something moving on the side where Alexis was sitting. As I bent forward I could discern a face dimly, but right against the glass was a revolver which a hand was directing at the head of my friend.

"Down! Down for your life!" I shouted to Alexis, but the same instant there was a loud report, and the bullet, cutting a clean hole through the glass, laid poor Petrovitch along the seat.

At the same moment—indeed, I believe half a second before—I had fired my own pistol. As I peered out of the window I saw a man retreating along the footboard toward the rear of the train. Again I fired, but without result.

The train stopped, and a careful search was made, but no man at all resembling the one I had seen was to be found. He must have occupied a compartment alone, for nobody in the train, if they were to be believed, had seen any person leave a carriage while it was in motion.

Meanwhile it was found that my friend Alexis was not, as I had feared, killed, though he is, unfortunately, disfigured for life. A skillful doctor was found at the next station, and he is today hale and hearty. Probably the League of the Red Hand never knew of the blunder that resulted from our exchange of seats, and also believed that its intended vengeance on myself had been carried out to the death. The actual assassin, however, had a very narrow escape, for a cap was picked up on the line with a bullet hole in the crown. I had missed my man by less than an inch.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Frequent Mistake.

The Heart Often Blamed for Trouble It Does Not Cause.

The secret of the success of a physician is his ability to diagnose a case. If you don't know what ails you, how can you know what to do for it? The heart is the pumping station; it pumps the blood to different parts of the body. Of course it is an important matter that this blood is freed from all impurities, and the heart can't do this. Such work falls on the kidneys; hence the kidneys are called the filters. They must filter out all the uric acid that forms together with other impurities, or their delicate fibres become clogged; then comes the trouble—backache, sideache, and other aches follow; some complain of sleeplessness and lame back without fully appreciating the cause. Very often the doctors make a mistake, and say it rises from the liver or heart. This is demonstrated in Newark by a citizen, Mrs. Turnbull, who resides at No. 80 Wilsey street. She suffered with a pain in the extreme lower portion of her back, was forced to give up and lie in bed most of her time; lost all ambition from the continual pains, which seemed to exist whether in or out of bed. She could not lie on her back; the urine showed a deposite sediment, and came with a scalding sensation. She had fierce headaches. Of course Mrs. Turnbull employed a doctor. He thought her difficulty came from the heart. At any rate, right or wrong, she derived very little from his treatment. Then one day she went to Menk's drug store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and began taking them. This soon told the tale of her trouble, for rapid improvement followed. She was very soon cured of her complaint, and Mrs. Turnbull continues to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as well she may. The facts of her case, as above related, are told as she told them to our representative; 'tis easy to verify them.

BURGLARS CONFESS.

The Assailants of Farmer Teele Acknowledge the Crime.

Boston, June 24.—Cornelius P. Hardigan, a pugilist of some repute, and William P. O'Dwyer, a compositor, both of Waltham, who are now in the Cambridge jail on the charge of robbing Charles H. Teele, a wealthy Waltham farmer, have confessed to Chief of Police McKenna of that city.

Farmer Teele was robbed at his home on the outskirts of Waltham by two men, who clubbed and gagged him, and upon his refusal to divulge the hiding place of his money, dragged him over the house and out to the barn with a rope around his neck. He was then tied securely and his clothing saturated with kerosene oil, and he was threatened with burning if he did not tell where the money was hidden. He finally directed the robbers to the hiding place, and they secured about $400.

Two days later Hardigan and another man who happened to be in Somersworth, N. H., were arrested for complicity in the murder of Cashier Stickney of the Somersworth National bank, which occurred the day they were in Somersworth.

In Hardigan's pocket at that time several articles were found which implicated him in the Teele robbery, and Mr. Teele later positively identified him as one of his assailants.

PEARY'S EXPEDITION.

Will Start For the Polar Region on July 10.

New York, June 24. — Lieutenant Peary, the arctic explorer, is in this city. The explorer intends to sail from Boston on July 10 for the north. He said:

"This present trip is simply preliminary to next year's arctic exploration, which may continue three, four or five years, with the intention of reaching the pole if possible.

"I am going now to get together an Eskimo village. It is my intention to establish a colony of ten young Eskimos, with their wives, at the farthest possible northern point.

"They will be told to have their dogs and sledges ready when I call for them next year. This will give me a start without any waiting."

In the party for the short trip this year will be Alberti Operti, the arctic artist; Professor Hitchcock of Dartmouth college, and Russell Porter of Boston, with their classes.

Lieutenant Peary said he would be away but three months this summer and would pick up the scientific parties on his return trip.

THE BIMETALLISTS.

They Have Adopted a Constitution and Claim a Name.

Cincinnati, June 24.—The bimetallic convention has adopted the constitution proposed by the committee. It provides that the name shall be the League of Ohio Valley Bimetallic clubs, to consist of clubs of Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana. The object shall be to encourage and assist in the formation of bimetallic clubs for organized work in advocating the principle of the free coinage of silver and gold upon equal terms.

The officers will be a president, four vice presidents, a secretary and a treasurer. Clubs joining the league are to pay an initiation fee of $1. The league pledges itself to not influence any political convention except in the matter of bimetallism and to not favor any political candidate. An invitation to hold the next meeting at Indianapolis was received and filed.

Veterans Wrongfully Dismissed.

Washington, June 24.—Assistant Secretary Vanderlip has returned from Philadelphia, where he went last Monday to investigate the claims to reinstatement of a number of old soldiers who were dismissed from the government mint in 1894 for alleged partisan reasons. The assistant secretary heard the statements of the old soldiers and came to the conclusion that many of them were wrongfully dismissed. The matter was left for the present in the hands of Superintendent Kretz, who will select about 20 of the least efficient of his present force for dismissal in order that about that number of old soldiers may be reinstated.

Fast Freight Strikes Express.

Woodbury, N. J., June 24.—The Cape May express on the West Jersey and Seashore railroad was run into by the Maurice River fast freight. The rear car of the express was telescoped, but none of the occupants was seriously injured. Four of them were slightly cut about the head and face, and a fifth, Rev. A. M. Spooner of Camden, had two fingers almost cut off. The express train had been delayed near a curve by a hot journal, and before the freight could be flagged it came around the curve and dashed into the express.

Collector Kilbreth Dead.

New York, June 24.—James T. Kilbreth, collector of the port of New York, died last night at Southampton. He had been ill for some time past with pneumonia, and his condition had been very serious on several occasions, but he seemed always to rally. Yesterday afternoon he began very perceptibly to sink. At 5:30 o'clock the attending physicians gave up hope, and an hour later Mr. Kilbreth died. His family was at his bedsire when death occurred.

Running Fight With Burglars.

Cleveland, June 24.—A running fight between villagers and burglars occurred at Falls Junction. The burglars broke into the office of the Austin Powder company and blew open the safe. The residents heard the explosion and arming themselves with shotguns opened fire upon them. Dozens of shots were exchanged, and the burglars finally escaped by taking horses from a neighboring pasture. One of the burglars was badly wounded, but escaped.

President Denies an Interview.

Washington, June 24.—The alleged interview with President McKinley, published in the London Daily Graphic and cabled back to this country, is denied on the authority of Mr. McKinley. The president had no such interview and says it is a pure fabrication.

New York, June 24.—Another attachment has been received against the Worcester Cycle company in favor of J. Joseph Bennett for $21,825, balance due on a note dated April 6.

BUSHNELL IS NAMED.

The Ohio Republicans Renominate Him For Governor.

JONES IS AGAIN ON THE TICKET.

After the Fight Over Party Control Was Settled the Buckeye State Convention Was Entirely Harmonious—The Leaders Now at Peace.

Toledo, June 24. — The Republican state convention has renominated Asa S. Bushnell for governor of Ohio. The nomination was made by acclamation and was in accordance with Mr. Hanna's plans.

Asa Jones was renominated for lieutenant governor.

J. F. Burkett was renominated for justice of the supreme court and Frank S. Monett for attorney general.

The other nominations were: For state treasurer, S. B. Campbell of Steubenville; for school commissioner, L. D. Bonebrake of Mount Vernon; member of board of public works, C. A. Goddard of Portsmouth.

The Kurtz men, in the contest for the party organization, realized at last that they were overwhelmingly defeated, and they announced the withdrawal of C. L. Kurtz from the race for the state chairmanship. At the same time Governor Bushnell receded from his determination not to accept a renomination and announced that he would accept.

The result of the district meetings made this course necessary, for the Kurtz-Bushnell contingent captured only 4 of the 21 committeemen. Such an overwhelming defeat was never before received by either faction and indicates conclusively that Senator Hanna is in the saddle and has beaten down all opposition.

The Platform.

In the convention a platform was adopted expressing great sympathy for the Cubans and confidence in President McKinley's ability to handle the question. As to civil service, the platform disapproves of ex-President Cleveland's interpretation of it. In conclusion, it reaffirms belief in gold and tariff.

Senator Hanna returned to Cleveland yeterday afternoon and will soon be back in Washington. Governor Bushnell remained here until today. The two leaders had a friendly meeting before separating, and it is understood that they have reached an agreement on the organization of the state executive committee.

The feature of the convention was the speech of Senator Hanna. Governor Bushnell, Lieutenant Governor Jones, General Grosvenor and others who spoke had been frequently heard, but Senator Hanna was not known before in his own state as an orator, although he had been for years recognized as a leader in the management and organization. His delivery was eloquent and forcible, and he captured the convention by his commanding oratory.

Free Silver Republicans.

Des Moines, June 24.—The free silver Republicans had little trouble in agreeing. A resolution was adopted agreeing to use the name Democratic for the fusion ticket this year on account of the antifusion law. The conference committee on fusion was headed by Judge Spurrier, who wants a free silver Republican for governor. Each party adopts a separate platform. There was a red hot fight in the Populist convention over fusion. The middle of the road men object to being swallowed by the Democrats and will fight and bolt, they say.

Threatened Assassination.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 24.—The guards at Fort Leavenworth have been doubled as a result of the receipt of several anonymous letters by Colonel H. S. Hawkins of the Twentieth infantry, commandant of the garrison, warning him he was to be assassinated. An order was issued forbidding any soldier to leave the garrison. No trouble occurred. It is said that a dishonorably discharged soldier wrote the letters and that efforts are being made to apprehend him. The post is much worked up over the matter.

Mob Beats a Colored Preacher.

Little Rock, June 24.—It has transpired from the sworn statement made by the conductor of the negro Normal school at Lonoke, Ark., during an investigation being made by the attorney general and state superintendent of public instruction that a mob of drunken white men several days ago broke down the doors of that institution, demolished the furniture and took Professor D. T. Watson, a colored teacher, into the woods and beat him in a merciless manner.

Immigration Decreasing.

Washington, June 24.—Reports received by Commissioner General Stump of the immigration bureau show that the number of immigrants that arrived in this country during the 11 months ended May 3, was 210,271. This is a decrease as compared with the same period last year of 105,038. The commissioner general said that, in his opinion, the reduction during the whole fiscal year will reach 120,000.

Young Physician Drowned.

Clayton, N. Y., June 24.—Dr. Noble P. Joynor, a young physician of this place, was accidentally drowned while returning from a professional visit to Grindstone island, about two miles from Clayton. He was in a skiff with a sail up. A puff of wind swamped the boat, and he went down in about 10 feet of water. A young man named Burgess, who was in the boat with him, was saved.

Hat Factory Burned.

South Norwalk, Conn., June 24.—Fire broke out in the elevator shaft of the South Norwalk Hat Forming company and did damage estimated to be at least $10,000. The second floor of the factory was gutted, and seven intricate and valuable pieces of machinery were ruined. Origin unknown.

Japanese Cruiser at San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 24.—The Japanese cruiser Hiyie, now used as a training ship, has arrived here and will remain in port several weeks before sailing for Honolulu. The vessel was received with the customary salutes.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage.

William H. Rogers, the North avenue bicycle dealer, has returned from a two days' visit at the Spalding bicycle factory, Chicopee Falls, Mass. Mr. Rogers brought home a new stock of Spalding wheels.

The roads from Plainfield to Asbury Park are now in fine condition except for a short distance through New Brunswick. Last year they were improved by the use of macadam in places and now are better than ever before. The boulevard between Long Branch and Asbury Park is as smooth as a floor and a perfect paradise for wheelmen.

AROUND THE BASES.

The crowd that turned out last week to see the Crescents play baseball was the largest that has yet come out for a game. There were a number of ladies among the number and they were well provided for on the special stand for them near third base. A big crowd is expected for Saturday.

Perth Amboy is a place famous for good baseball players, and the best team from that city has been secured to play against the Crescents Saturday. They are the Unions and have a reputation of being rattling ball players. They met the Woodbridge "Browns" some time ago and a game was played that will be remembered by those that saw it until they forget all about the game itself.

There will be two of the men who played on the Crescent team last Saturday afternoon absent in the game with the Unions, of Amboy, Saturday. Townley and Sutphen have both been released and new men will fill their places. Ed Erickson will go to right field, while the man to fill the position of short stop has not yet been decided upon definitely. It will probably be either Parrott, last season's captain of the Rutgers 'varsity team, or George Schoonmaker, who has recovered sufficiently from his recent accident as to be able to play. From the game that Townley and Sutphen played last week it was evident that both were in poor form.

TOOK HER SHOPPING BAG.

Miss Mary Demler, of Washingtonville, Met with an Unpleasant Adventure.

Miss Mary Demler, of Washingtonville, visited New York last Monday on a shopping tour. While in Ludwig, Baumann & Company's store, on 14th street, where she was making a number of different purchases, she laid down her shopping bag to look at some goods.

During the few minutes in which it lay on the chair, which was not over over five or six feet away from her during the whole time, she didn't take her attention from it more than a minute, but when she turned to look for t she found that some one had taken it.

It contained all the purchases she had made during the morning, also her pocketbook, with considerable money in it and her railroad ticket, altogether amounting to quite a neat little sum. She notified the proprietors of the store at once but, although they had their private detectives search for it, no trace could be found of the thief.

Ensign Dyer and the Central Singing Brigade, of the Salvation Army, will have charge of the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock.

JUNIORS' OUTWITTED.

SENIORS CAME AT NIGHT AND STOLE THEIR FLAG AWAY.

The Usual Rivalry Between the Highest Classes at the Plainfield High School Was Apparent—Both Claim the Victory.

For the last three years it has been the custom among the Juniors of the Plainfield High School to attempt to hoist their colors over the High School building or in some conspicuous place about the building, and the Seniors each year have felt it their duty to defeat such a scheme and raise the colors of the graduating class instead. The result has been a friendly rivalry between the two classes.

This year the Juniors planned to follow the example of their predecessors and put blue and gold, their colors, in a prominent position. So several of them hung around the building and under the direction of their president, Henry W. Brower, and Ray T. Snodgrass, a blue and gold flag was hung on the highest gable of the school house. Then the Juniors departed satisfied.

There are only four boys in the Senior class, but their president, Sidney R. Titsworth, is worth a dozen. He saw the flag and rallied his forces. At night they carried away the Junior flag and placed the colors of '97, blue and white, on the highest point of the building, the lightning rod on the tower. Another flag of the same colors was hoisted on the flag pole, but it was taken down this morning by Janitor Clarkson.

The young women of the Senior class had prepared a green banner, labeled "'98. Infants. Freaks." which was hung from the front window this morning. The Juniors promptly tore it down and also captured a '97 flag from Assembly Hall and proceeded to divide the flags into souvenirs. The banners were rescued by the Seniors, who retaliated by tearing up the Junior flag taken the night before. The remains of the latter were divided between Seniors and Juniors.

Of course, there were no lessons at the High School today, and all that was done was to read off the list of graduates and promotions in the class rooms. Special exercises were held in Assembly Hall in the morning which were attended by a number of the alumni and friends of the school. There was singing, and a few remarks by Superintendent Maxson and Principal Travell.

The excitement between the Seniors and Juniors was continued after school and both classes claim the victory.

UP THE HUDSON.

Dorcas Circle Enjoyed Its Annual Outing Yesterday.

One of the reasons for the great success of the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters has been the happy way in which its social features have been combined with the regular work of the Circle. Yesterday, the members of the Circle enjoyed their annual excursion.

At an early hour, they went to New York and took the day boat up the Hudson river. Landing at West Point, they spent several hours walking and driving around that charming place. The first drill of the plebes was witnessed and they were duly sympathized with, and then the other attractions of the place were seen.

Lunch was eaten on the rocks along Flirtation Path. The party returned by the down day boat and the trip was as delightful as the other one. The preparations for the college race were watched and the U. S. S. "Maine" was also seen.

Sociability reigned and everybody had a good time. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. F. S. Green, Mrs. B. O. Bowers, Mrs. John M. Crane and Mrs. T. F. Swayze. The other members of the party were Mrs. Samuel Clark, the Misses Crane, Lowrie, Patten, Murray, Bowers, Little, Powers, Lela Powers, Green, Swayze, Brown and Maltby, of Plainfield; Miss Werner, of Newark; Miss Langdon and Miss Millie Langdon, of New York.

P. B. Matthews, of Grove street, rode back from Seabright on his wheel yesterday afternoon. Early this morning he left again on his wheel for Seabright to spend the remainder of the week.

THE KING OF GREECE.

ASCENDED THE THRONE WHEN A BOY OF SEVENTEEN YEARS.

The Greeks Have Desired Him to Abdicate and Allow Prince Constantinos to Reign Instead—The Second Son, Sailor George, a Strong Character.

Three and thirty years ago a picturesque scene was enacted in the Danish capital. A deputation of Greeks—we ought to call them Hellenes, but we do not—a deputation of Greeks demanded an audience of Frederick VII, the old King of Denmark, and asked leave to offer their country's crown to his great-nephew, George of Schleswig-Holstein. For reply the monarch turned to the handsome stripling who stood expectant by and bade him take his place beside him on the dais, saluting him as his brother sovereign. Four months passed, and the youth of seventeen was proclaimed King at Athens, England, France and Russia being his sponsors. Boy in years though he might be, the impatient Greeks asserted he was man enough for them, and before the end of the month they declared him of age, finally placing the reins of government in his hands on the last day of October, 1863. Fourteen days more were then told off, and the aged Frederick died, leaving his own throne free for King Christian, the father of the new Greek King, this forming perhaps the solitary instance of a son being an older sovereign than his parent.

Having watched him carefully through the first four years of his reign, Russia, by a clever stroke of policy, which caused some stir at the time, secured the young monarch's hand for one of her Grandduchesses, Olga Constantinovana, her family considering that the imperial bride's value was greatly increased by the fact that she was only fifteen years of age at the time of her marriage. King George, who did everything early in life, became a father when he was only twenty-two, and within eleven months his little bride had presented him with a second son, the magnificent young giant, George, hero of the present hour. The gift of a series of stalwart Princes was hailed with as much satisfaction as the Ionian Islands, that other present which the Prince from the north bestowed upon his new subjects. Their King was a Lutheran, a foreigner,, and not skilled in their native tongue; but his boys were born on the soil, and there was a promise that not only should they be Orthodox, but that the first lisping of their baby mouths should be Greek. In consideration of this, as time passed they almost, never quite, consented to forgive their sovereign for being a stranger. They have demanded that he should abdicate in favor of his son a score of times in as many years, it is true; still, when he replied that he would do so with pleasure, but that it would be to the detriment of all concerned, they have gone home in peace, consenting to put up for a little longer with the man who has increased the area of their country by one-third and won for them a leading place among the secondary Powers of Europe.

Should the King abdicate his successor would of course be the Duke of Sparta, more commonly known in Athens as Prince Constantinos. Many people, not perhaps excluding the Crown Prince himself, would prefer the Athleticos Prinkyes, George. However, even Greece, who passes her days in doing strange things, would hardly venture on such an innovation as that. Moreover, you cannot be both Nelson and a King, and sailor George means to be Nelson, find a Napoleon where he may. In alluding to a preference for the younger brother it is by no means insinuated that the Crown Prince is unpopular. He is admired, liked and respected, as he well deserves, but he is somewhat silent and retiring.

King George, a true constitutional sovereign, wants to follow rather than to lead his people, but he will not follow to their destruction. As has happened before, he will pull his team up on the edge of the precipice—if they will let him. The Crown Prince, farsighted, level-headed and wary, is one degree more cautious than his father, and will advise keeping a little, just a little, further away from the abyss. Prince George, who is neither Greek nor Russian, but an ancient Viking, pure and simple, looks impatiently at his seniors and tugs at the lace on his sleeve, yearning as did his forbears to seize on some Normandy or some Anglia or to take his Long Serpent up any and every navigable river within his reach, and what, he would say, is beyond the reach of a man with a stout heart and a strong arm? Prince Nicholas and Prince Andreas ask only to be allowed to go wherever George will take them.—Pall Mall Gazette.

ELECTRIC PROTECTION OF SAFES.
Protected in Every Way by Appliances which will Give the Alarm.
The latest idea for the protection of money and valuables is to have the safe which contains them secured inside a cabinet. Where the safe is kept in a vault the vault serves the purposes of a cabinet. In either case an electric lining is used, consisting of strips of metal mounted in connection with the thin metal sheets, so arranged that even a pin thrust through the cabinet and penetrating the lining will sound the alarm. The door of the vault can not be opened, nor can the curtain of the cabinet be raised, until a time lock has disconnected it from the alarm system. In order that the alarm box may be proof against molestation, it is made of steel and placed within a hood lined in the same way at the cabinet. Any attempt at tampering will cause an alarm to be sounded, as in the case of the cabinet. The door is held closed by heavy lag bolts, the partial removal of any of which will give a warning signal. There are several of these lag bolts, and before the door can be opened they have all to be removed, which requires a considerable length of time.

Taking No Chances.

There used to be a peculiar old justice of the peace in Vevay, Ind., down near the Ohio river, who entertained very queer notions concerning court procedure. On one occasion, after all the evidence was in and the plaintiff's attorney had made an elaborate argument, the defendant's attorney arose to begin his plea.

"Hold on there," exclaimed the Court. "I don't believe I can let you proceed, Mr. Smith. I have a very clear idea now of the guilt of the prisoner at the bar, and anything from you at this time would have a tendency to confuse the Court. I know the man is guilty now, and I don't want to take any chances."—Chicago Times-Herald.

DANCED IN HONOR OF '97

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI RECEPTION WAS A SUCCESS.

Although the Night Was Warm, the Three Hundred Guests Danced Away the Evening—List of the Most Prominent Ones.

The social event of the school year of the Plainfield High School is the reception to the graduating class. Last evening the Casino was the scene of the reception to the class of '97, of the Plainfield High School, tendered by the classes of '95 and '96. About three hundred of the alumni and friends of the graduates were present. The reception was held after the commencement exercises, so that it was nearly 11 o'clock when the orchestra struck up the grand march that opened the reception. Then followed two step, waltz and lanciers until 2 o'clock with an intermission for the serving of refreshments.

The reception was pronounced a complete success by all who attended, though the night was an exceedingly warm one and collars melted with unpleasant frequency. The members of the Board of Education, President Merrill E. Gates, of Amherst College, who was the speaker of the evening at the commencement, Superintendent H. M. Maxson, Principal I. W. Travell, of the High School, and several of the teachers attended and remained during the first part of the evening. Many of the preceding classes were represented.

Blue and white, the colors of '97, were used in the decoration of the balcony, while American flags were tastefully draped about the walls. Small flags were used to decorate the electric light fixtures on the walls. A rustic scene was shown on the stage, where the orchestra sat, half hidden in a bower of palms and other potted plants.

The finance committee had general charge of the reception and looked after the welfare of the guests. The committees by whom the reception was arranged were as follows: Finance, Charles B. Morse, '95, chairman; John V. Beekman, Jr., '95, Henry B. Drake, '95; Henry Eggerding, '96, Charles M. Dolliver, '96, Raymond Carroll, '96; (that committee also looked after the caterer and Casino); music order, Miss Mary Hull, '96, Miss Grace E. Overton, '96; printing, Charles B. Morse, '95, Edward O. Clark, '95; decoration, Miss Grace E. Overton, '96, chairman; Wilbur F. Cornwell, '96, John V. Beekman, Jr., '95, Geo. A. Horne, '95, Miss Clyde Burnett, '96.

NO OCCASION FOR ALARM.

Every Precaution Has Been Taken and the Epidemic is Very Light.

It seems only fair and just that something should be said concerning the present condition of the scarlet fever epidemic which has appeared in this city. The Board of Health has succeeded in getting control of the disease, and the number of cases in the city at present need not alarm anyone. The unwise and unwarranted publicity given by certain ones to the affair has in no small measure injured the trade of certain merchants who cannot well afford to lose money. This is just the season when business is apt to be quiet, and any further loss would be disastrous. It can safely be said that at present there is no danger in the city. There is not a business man in Plainfield today but what has felt the recent scare, and in justice to the merchants it is best that they be set right before the people at large. Every precaution has been taken, and people can buy from any and all merchants with perfect safety. The various hotels and boarding houses in this city and vicinity are all perfectly safe, and anyone who has contemplated coming to Plainfield for the summer should not feel alarmed in the least.

Franklin's New Officers.

At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing six months:—Junior past councilor, L. D. Townley; councilor, Arthur G. Adams; vice-councilor, Theodore F. Currin; recording secretary, Horace G. Adams; assistant recording secretary, H. Holder; financial secretary, Theodore Kurzhals, Jr.; treasurer, Peter T. Bogart; conductor, George Townley; inside sentinel, Geo. White; outside sentinel, Henry Palmer; trustee, eighteen months, Thomas E. Currin; warden, Howard E. Bennett.

HELD A PRIOR CLAIM.

DR. WOOD'S OTHER CREDITORS WERE THUS DISAPPOINTED.

Today, Dr. Wood's Household Goods Were Sold to Satisfy the Chattel Mortgage Held by Ludwig, Baumann and Company.

Something in the nature of a surprise was experienced by several local men last week. It will be remembered that Dr. J. D. Waod, who lived at 144 Crecent avenue, left town rather suddenly and his creditors sorrowed greatly thereat. He asked for time and promised to settle everything as soon as possible. His house still remained open, however, and the creditors contented themselves with watching the house to see that nothing was carried away.

Finally, it was alleged that the servants were carefully making away with the portable articles and were taking them to parts unknown. Then the creditors came down on the Wood mansion like wolves on the fold and five attachments were issued on the household goods, whereas the creditors felt fairly secure. A constable was placed in charge to see that nothing was taken away.

Then the creditors heard from Dr. Wood and he asked for time to settle, pleading that it was impossible for him to do so at present. A few days went by and then it was understood that the goods should be sold to satisfy the attachments.

They were not sold with that object for peculiar reasons. The interference did not come from the doctor, but from an entire new factor in the matter. Ludwig, Baumann and Company, of New York, held a chattel mortgage on all the household goods, and they instructed their lawyer, City Judge DeMeza, to serve the required notices and sell the goods. The mortgage had a prior claim on the goods and the holders of the attachments were considerably surprised to find that their action had come to naught.

This morning the last scene in this comedy was played, and the goods were sold by Constable Mattox to satisfy the mortgage. The sale took place at the house on Crescent avenue. The goods were purchased by New York parties. Dr. Wood has not appeared in Plainfield as yet, although the creditors are waiting for him.

CHILDREN'S SUMMER CAMP.

It Will Be Opened on the Mountains Tomorrow Afternoon.

Up on the mountains, on Johnston's drive, there stands a little cottage. The trees have been cut away from in front of it and a fine view of Plainfield and vicinity can be had. That cottage is the Children's Summer Camp, which is to be opened by the City Union of King's Daughters, tomorrow afternoon. Last year it was built by some of Plainfield's carpenters who donated their services for the good of the cause, and this year it has been repaired and improved and will be opened to the public tomorrow afternoon An informal reception will be held at that time to which all are invited. Special stages will connect with the Somerset street end of the trolley line for the convenience of the guests.

THESE WERE HORSE THIEVES.

Stable in Westfield Broken Open—Attempt to Steal a Trotter

Thieves broke into the barn of George W. Wrennick, on Broad street, Westfield, early yesterday morning, and carried off considerable plunder.

Among the missing articles are a whip, two blankets and two sets of harness. The value of the stolen goods is valued at about $100.

Indications are that the thieves were attempting to remove Mr. Wrennick's horse from the barn, but were frightened, and left hastily.

Wrennick is the owner of a large orange grove in Florida, and has a finely appointed stable.

Complaint Against the Dog Catcher.

Complaint has reached this office against Oscar Vaughn, the borough dog catcher. It is alleged that a few days ago he seized a small dog on Fairview avenue owned by a family residing on that avenue, and when the little dog showed an inclination to remain near his home, it is said that Vaughn grasped the canine about the throat and threw him on the ground. One or two persons saw the affair and remonstrated with the dog catcher, but it is said that he paid no attention to the remonstrance. Something more is likely to be heard concerning the affair in a short time.

—The Queen Esther Band, of Grace M. E. church, will hold a "Rainbow Festival" this evening on the lawn adjoining the church. The members of the band have been working very hard for a long time to make the affair a success, and they should be rewarded by a large attendanee.

THE CULMINATION OF THE HIGH SCHOOL LIFE.

Commencement Exercises of the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools Held Last Evening.

Twenty Young Men and Women Bid Adieu to the Plainfield High School—Address by President Gates, of Amherst.

Four years of hard study have ended for the members of the class of '97 of the Plainfield High School, and the class now exists only in the memory of those who worked so earnestly and faithfully for the event that took place last evening. The twenty young people who composed that class are still here, but they have bid farewell to school days and gone forth into the world, some to continue their studies at college and university, and others to learn from experience in the greatest school of all—the school of life.

Last night the commencement exercises were held in Music Hall before a large and warm audience. The weather was of the proverbial commencement kind, warm and humid, and the many fans all over the hall kept time to the music that at intervals floated through the auditorium.

On the left of the stage were the members of the Board of Education, Superintendent H. M. Maxson, Principal I. W. Travell, and the speaker of the evening, Merrill E. Gates, LL D, president of Amherst College. The graduating class, twenty in all, of which but four were young men, marched in at the opening of the exercises and took seats in a semi-circle around the rest of the stage. The young women in front in their lovely white gowns, contrasted strongly with the sombre black of the dress suits of the young men of the class. The faces of the graduates were bright and energetic and showed in them the characteristics of the young men and young women of the coming century, who are to take the leading hand in the management of this great republic.

After the graduates were seated the scenery in the back parted and revealed the chorus of High School pupils, sitting tier above tier; a pretty sight to the audience. The first selection was by the orchestra, "Rousamunde," and then the chorus sang "March, the Men of Columbia," and "Now the Day is Over." Charles L. Lewis led them, while Miss Mabel Maxson acted as accompanist. The many voices, sixty in all, blended very harmoniously together with pleasing effect. The chorus was a new feature for the commencement, and altogether it seemed to find general favor.

The invocation was asked by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, Ph. D. Then another selection, "The Geisha," by the orchestra followed. Dr. Probasco, president of the Board, who acted as master of ceremonies, next introduced Miss Saran Edwards Schuyler, the salutatorian, who gave her salutatory and essay in Latin. While there were many in the audience whose knowledge of the language of the ancient Romans did not admit their understanding of it, those who could pronounced it well written. "Zenda," by the orchestra, followed, after which Dr. Gates was introduced.

Dr. Gates' subject was "Patriotism in Time of Peace." After several glowing compliments to the patriotism of New Jersey and her citizens, he talked of patriotism itself. Love of one country, he said, did not mean the hatred of all the rest. He referred to the intimate connection of the history of this country to that of all the nations of Europe. The United States, he said, had passed the self-conscious age and was beginning to enjoy the delights of old age. He spoke of the thorough reunion of the country since the Civil War and illustrated his remarks with several little anecdotes.

He referred to the things that made this country so united and hence so great in the eyes of the world. It was due to a common language, the modern methods of travel and communication that so easily connected the uttermost limits of the country, and to the strong central government. Everybody is a citizen and is entitled to the same rights, but they must all perform certain obligations. Some wish that the government might run itself and leave them to make money. The ideal state of government would not be reached if an absolute monarch of perfect intelligence were to rule. Men would then become mere puppits.

One principal of the government he characterized as making men realize that everyone was his equal. By following this policy, the trouble between capital and labor could be averted. He talked of the debasement of manhood, especially by the bribery that is now used in politics to

The first graduating exercises of the North Plainfield Public High School, held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. building, were a triumph in every particular. and it can truthfully be said that never before in the history of the school has the department of education received such notable distinction, both at the hands of State Superintendent Baxter, and County Superintendent Rev. James A. Mets. The remarkable progress made by this school during the past year is the admiration and respect of all interested in educational matters, and it has surprised in no small measure those who are at the head of New Jersey's Public School system. During the year the school has received the distinction of being placed on the approved list which is a well earned honor.

The attractive Y. M. C. A. hall never looked prettier than it did last evening. The prevailing colors were red, and this color was arranged so as to produce an exceedingly pretty effect. On the platform there was a display of daisies, red bunting, pretty rugs and banquet lamps, while at one corner was arranged a door which was used for an entrance. On one side was the inscription, "Class of '97. In Limine Primo." The latter part of the above is the class motto, "At the Threshold." On the other side were the words "Closed until '98." Surrounding the door was a profusion of daisies. In the main part of the hall there was an arrangement of red bunting, while the American flag occupied a prominent position. On either side of the gallery were placed the four banners of the classes of 1898, 1899, 1900 and 1901.

The profusion of red gave the hall an appearance that was cheerful and attractive. At the proper time President S. St. John McCutchen, the members of the Board of Education, Superintendent A. D. Warde, and Miss Glass, Miss Petrie, Miss Crowther, Miss Mann, teachers of the High School, took seats on the platform. After a very earnest prayer by Rev H. J. Johnston, pastor of Grace M. E. church, the programme was opened with a piano selection, "Le Tourbillon, Op. 37," by Miss Mabel Ising and Master Bert Simpson. The rendition was pleasing and deservedly won the applause accorded.

Following, was the first essay by Miss Harriette Helen Phillips, class '97. Her subject was "A Nation's Literature, Its Life and Glory," with salutatory. There is very much that can be said in commendation of the above and all credit is due Miss Phillips for the rare talent displayed in delivering her essay. Her subject was rich in material and the clear and concise manner in which she unfolded it was currently spoken of. The ease and grace shown by Miss Phillips in her delivery was noteworthy. She complimented the Board of Education. superintendent, teachers and the people of North Plainfield for their very earnest efforts in giving the graduates such excellent advantages. Her essay treated of great writers and philosophers who had given to the world such literature full of life and glory. The composition of the essay was very good and reflected a great deal of credit on the writer.

A selection by the High School Glee Club, under the direction of William E. MacClymont, followed, and the club certainly acquitted themselves with credit. The selection was a bright and catchy air.

The next essay was given by Miss Edna Louise French, and her subject was "That Everlasting Why." The fruitfulness of the subject was an occasion for much food for thought The speaker was a talented one, and she, like her predecessor, displayed rare grace and ease in delivery. She exhibited a manner of being thoroughly acquainted with her subject, and she gave it most impressively. She claimed for the word "Why" the introduction of the telegraph, cable, steam engine and many other things that have made the present century so much up-to-date.

The next number on the programme was a soprano solo, "Letter Song," (Rip Van Winkle) Planquette, by Miss Eugenia Barker, of Brooklyn, and so well did she sing that she was obliged to respond to an encore. Her accompanist was Richard Menzell, of this city.

The last essay was delivered by Miss Bessie Thompson Day, whose subject was "At the Threshold," with valedictory. Her subject being the class

WAITED FOR THE SUN.

COLORED ODD FELLOWS DANCED ALL NIGHT AT THEIR BALL.

Altogether it Was a Great Success, For the Colored People Turned Out and Made Merry—The Committees.

Union Lodge, No. 4,026, Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, of this city, is composed of the best colored people of the city, and, last night, they held their first reception and promenade in Central Hall, corner of Park and North avenues. It was a gala night among the colored people and they had possession of the entire building from early in the evening until early this morning. P. N. F., Wm. H. Jones, was the master of ceremonies, and right well did he carry out the plans for the evening.

The fair sex was present in great numbers and assisted their male friends in making the affair one of the grandest of the kind ever held in this city. Previous to the festivities a fine address was delivered by Grand Secretary C. H. Brooks, of Philadelphia, who gave the members a good talk concerning the order.

There were present members of the order from Elizabeth, Passaic Lodge, of Newark; Raritan Lodge, of New Brunswick; St. Mark's Lodge, of Jersey City; Pride of Essex Lodge, of Newark. The members of the home lodge wore for the first time their new regalias which cost several hundred dollars.

The grand march was started at 10 o'clock and was led by Grand Secretary C. H. Brooks and lady.

The hall was not large enough to hold all who desired to be present, and this occasioned some inconvenience on the part of the committees. However, everyone present had a jolly time and they would not have missed it for twice what it cost.

Prof. Vandevere, of Elizabeth, furnished the music, and Edward McCray served a fine supper to all. The arrangement committee was composed of the following members of the lodge: Arthur Venable, chairman; Burl Gibson, treasurer; William H. Jones, Nathaniel Pollard, John Murray, William Fisher, Thomas Johnson, J. G. Wade, Thomas Bouser Those on the reception committee were William H. Jones, chairman, Nathaniel Pollard, John Reed, Arthur Venable, Burl Gibson, Tucker Johnson. William H. Jones was in charge of the dancing, as floor manager, and he was assisted by Thomas Bouser and Cyrus Benn.

It was after 5 o'clock this morning when the affair came to an end and those who remained until that time wended their way homeward by the light of the rising sun.

HELD THE WINNING CARD

CHIEF MARSHAL WILSON'S CLEVER CAPTURE OF THREE OFFENDERS.

They Were Bathing in Hyde's Mill Pond When the Marshal Captured Their Clothes—They Were all Fined $5 Each.

"Come out of that water, every one of you," ordered Chief Marshal Wilson of the borough as he mounted guard over a heap of clothing lying on the bank of Hyde's mill-pond, yesterday afternoon. The youthful swimmers looked longingly at the clothes and reluctantly obeyed the command The other boys, who had left their clothes on the other bank, hurried away as fast as they could climb into them.

Swimming or bathing in Hyde's bond is forbidden by city and borough ordinances, and so, when Marshal Wilson spied a party of boys in swimming, yesterday, he raided them. The are a number of houses in the neighborhood and the people have complained of the obnoxious small boy that enjoys a plunge there at frequent intervals.

The three small offenders crawled up the bank and into their clothes. The officer kept a close watch on their movments and then led them to the office of Recorder Thomas.

When arraigned, they gave their names as Peter Winn, Peter Fleming and Harry Mollison.

The offenders found that their bath was a trifle expensive one. Each of them was fined $5, on payment of which they were discharged with a warning to depart to a more secluded spot the next time they wanted to enjoy fresh water swimming.

Change In Management.

Miss A. P. Newton's place in Miss Scribner and Miss Newton's school has been filled by Miss Louise K. Green, and the school will henceforth be known as Miss Scribner and Miss Green's. The intermediate department will be in charge of Miss Sophie W. Brower, who is a graduate of Oswego Normal school, and has had four years experience in teaching.

RUSSELL GILES BACK.

HE CAME HOME BY RAILROAD AND STAGE WEDNESDAY.

Inspector Addis Says That the Boy is Still Ill With the Fever—The Stage in Which the Boy Returned Was Disinfected.

Considerable interest is still centered in the movements of the family of Nelson Giles, through whose supply of milk it was thought by the Board of Health that the scarlet fever has been spread. There has been some comment on the fact that Russell Giles, the first one in the Giles family to be taken ill, has returned to Plainfield although, it is alleged, he has not recovered yet.

Yesterday, Inspector Addis called at the Giles flat and inquired regarding the truth of the rumor that Russell had returned. He was informed, so he says, that Russell was expected yesterday or today. He called again later in the day and found Russell there.

Russell Giles said that he came from the Stelton farm, Wednesday, taking the train Metuchen and coming by stage to Plainfield. Inspector Addis states that he was still suffering from the dread disease and that the flakes of skin were pealing off his hands.

Then Inspector Addis had a short interview with the driver of the Metuchen stage and caused him to leave the vehicle in a hurry by saying that a boy ill with the scarlet fever had been in it. The stage was thoroughly disinfected by the Inspector, who declared it now perfectly free from all contagion.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles were yesterday afternoon freed from their confinement in the quarantine by being thoroughly disinfected by Inspector Addis. Their clothing was carefully disinfected also, so there will be no chance of communicating the disease. They went away this morning, leaving the two boys still in the quarantine together.

MERCHANTS ON THE TROLLEY

They Had a Pleasant Ride and a Pleasant Dinner.

About fifty merchants of this city enjoyed a trolley party and a dinner at Taylor's Hotel in Dunellen, last evening. The party started about 8 o'clock in a finely decorated car and made a trip over the entire trolley route.

During the trip fireworks were displayed from the car and at various places along the route. At 9:35 o'clock the car started for Dunellen. On reaching Taylor's Hotel a sumptuous dinner was eaten and a number of happy speeches followed.

George Thatcher acted as toastmaster, and William Emery as musical director. The dining room was hung about with American flags.

After a most enjoyable time all around, the party returned to this city about 12:30 o'clock.

INJURED AT WORK.

Splinter of Steel Broke Off the Chisel and Flew in His Eye.

Mathew Usher, a marble cutter employed by L. L. Manning, of West Front street, was using a steam stone chisel in his work, on Wednesday, when a splinter of steel was broken from the tool and lodged in one of his eyes.

Efforts to extract it were not successful until Thursday, when the offending bit of steel was taken out. Although much pain resulted, it is thought that the sight of Usher's eye was not permanently injured by the accident.

Alumni Reception Tonight.

The alumni reception of the North Plainfield High School will be held in the school building this evening. A limited number of tickets have been issued for the event. The reception will be considerably different from those of past years. The business meeting that is usually held at the commencement reception has been postponed until the midwinter reception. There will be no programme. The first part of the evening will be a formal reception, after which refreshments will be served, and then the rest of the evening will be spent in dancing.

All But Two to Remain.

All but two of the teachers in the North Plainfield Public High School will remain with the school next year. Miss Mann has accepted a position as assistant principal of the High School at Lakewood, and Miss Johansen will teach in the public school at Rutherford. The many friends of Superintendent Warde will be pleased to learn that he is likely to remain in Plainfield, although he will not be associated with the North Plainfield school.

BESIEGED IN A HOTEL

A Trenton Contractor Pursued by a Mob.

THREATS MADE OF LYNCHING HIM.

Fears That the Men May Become Desperate and Set Fire to the Building — Militia Has Been Called to the Scene.

Trenton, June 25.—Sheriff Aaron of Bucks county has arrived at Morrisville, opposite Trenton, and swore in 50 citizens as a posse to protect lives and property in case of riot by the several hundred Italians who are clamoring for their money for the work they did on the East Traction company's line, now in course of construction.

These Italians, all armed, swarmed about Hoagland's hotel, threatening violence to the contractor, F. G. Wheeler, who was imprisoned within. It looked as if there would be trouble, so the burgess, E. B. Ettinger, on the demand of the citizens, sent for the sheriff. He made an all night drive across the country so as to be on hand early.

Over 100 Italians kept guard all night so that Wheeler could not escape. At daylight these were re-enforced by 100 more, all armed with clubs and pick handles and clamoring for Wheeler's blood.

The sheriff warned the men to disband and to preserve order and then scattered his posse in and around the hotel.

Wheeler is surrounded by some of his foremen, who are armed. The Italian guard has been constantly around the hotel. Only one demonstration that looked like trouble took place, and that was when Wheeler quickly decided that it was best for his health not to take a contemplated carriage ride.

Situation Decidedly Serious.

The situation for Wheeler is decidedly serious. One of the leaders of the Italians, who speaks English fluently, said that with only the greatest difficulty were his angry countrymen restrained from making a concerted attack on the hotel with the object of getting Wheeler.

Unless the men are paid or satisfactorily assured of their money very soon, there is every promise of the burning of the hotel if Wheeler cannot be reached in any other way. The Italians claim that they have no faith any more in his promises.

Wheeler, in an interview, said that he did not fear any attempt on his life, and that he was protected by 16 of his English speaking foremen, who were in the hotel and adequately equipped for any emergency.

The Italians are well organized under several leaders. They have their assigned places around the hotel. Not having any money, they are doing no drinking, and on the whole are very orderly.

The burgess ordered Constables David H. Wharton and Jacob Gorman to disperse the crowd. These officials attempted to do so, and, according to the Italians, they backed their demands by putting their hands in their pistol pockets. The Italians made a similar show of determination not to move, and there the matter ended.

Mr. Wheeler says that he and his partner for the last few days have been in communication with the officials of the company for the payment of the men, and, while they have had every assurance that the money would be forthcoming, yet he cannot state when the men will be paid off. The equity suit over the affairs at Yardley had interfered somewhat, he understood, with the syndicate who were to furnish the money. Mr. Wheeler said he looked to the company for their money.

Only a Small Arrearage.

Mr. Wheeler said that he did not desire to leave the hotel and intended to remain until the trouble was settled. He said that only the May pay was due to the men.

Three Italians under contract with Boody & Wheeler have had the feeding of the men. One of them is Alfred Demayo, who has secured a lien on the company's franchises for $5,320. Demayo says that the men were anxious to attack the hotel, but he persuaded them not to do so. He would not answer for the men after today, and he declared that some of them would go to extremes in having satisfaction. Not a dollar has been paid for labor, according to Demayo. Wages were due to 175 men from May 18 to June 1 and to 100 men from June 1 to last Saturday.

Mr. Wheeler said he desired to contradict the report that the men were starving. The Italians themselves said that they were not suffering for food.

Mr. Wheeler was formerly a foreman in the contracting business for former Senator L. E. Miller of Cape May county. The firm of Boody & Wheeler has been established since the first of the year. Mr. Boody was formerly of the contracting firm of Boody, Williams & Williams of Philadelphia.

There is another group of angry Italians at Yardley, at the other end of the line. They are clamoring for food as well as money. They promise to join forces with the Morrisville strikers and tear up the roadbed.

Shot to Avenge an Insult.

Corbin, Ky., June 25.—Daniel L. Curry, a prominent business man, shot and killed John Corley, a well known Louisville boot and shoe salesman. It is said that Mrs. Curry was insulted by Corley a few days ago while on a train. Mr. Curry took Corley to task for the insult, and in the fight that resulted he fired five shots at Corley, killing him instantly. Curry gave himself up shortly after the tragedy.

Sale of a Railroad.

Chattanooga, June 25.—The Tennessee Central railroad has been sold to the highest bidder by Clerk and Master Dunbar. Colonel Jere Baxter bought the property for himself and associates—St. Louis and Chicago parties—for $125,000. A considerable portion of the road has been already completed The road is to be built from Kingston, Roane county, to Nashville.

Sudden Death of a Sea Captain.

Savannah, June 25.—Captain David D. Jones of Nevin, Carnarvonshire, North Wales, master of the British bark Cambrian Queen, has died suddenly. First Mate Hugh Lewis has been appointed master by the vessel's owners, W. Thomas & Co. of Liverpool.

A PARIS FIRE RUMOR

Bazaar Disaster May Have Been the Work of Anarchists.

SAID TO HAVE FLED TO AMERICA.

Several Persons, It Is Asserted, Are Under Arrest In Paris as Knowing About the Matter—Information Is Refused at Washington.

Chicago, June 25.—The Post of this city says:

According to a story which has reached Chicago from Paris via Washington the terrible holocaust which wiped out over 100 lives at the French capital on May 4 was the work of anarchists thirsting for revenge on the upper classes of France. It is claimed that, while the official inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the catastrophe threw little light on the cause of the fire, the secret service department is working on a clew that points to an anarchistic conspiracy of stupendous magnitude.

It is said the Paris detectives not only have satisfied themselves that anarchists were at the bottom of the awful crime, but that the leaders who planned it fled to America as soon as they had seen with what frightful success it had been executed.

It is also asserted that several persons are under arrest in Paris on the suspicion of knowing more about the affair than they care to tell.

A member of the French legation at Washington is said to be authority for the story.

Information Refused at Washington.

Washington, June 25.—The officials of the French embassy here refuse to impart information concerning any connection that the anarchists may have had with the holocaust of the early part of May.

M. Lefaivre, the first secretary of the embassy, said that there had been no communication received from his government looking to the apprehension of the leaders of the outrage, who, it is said, have fled to America. This, he thinks, would have been the case had it been believed such persons were engaged in the affair and had fled to this country.

M. Lefaivre was in Paris at the time of the disaster and remained there for several days. Immediately afterward there were intimations in some of the newspapers attributing the catastrophe to anarchistic sources, but publications of that character soon ceased.

Newspapers that have since come to hand conveyed the impression that the opinion that the anarchists had been at the bottom of the affair was inconsistent with the real facts in the case which, according to investigations showed that the fire was due to an accident.

Yale's Oratorical Competition.

New Haven, June 25.—The competition for the De Forest prize medal for public speaking, which is the opening of Yale's commencement, took place in Battell chapel and was won by Alexander Wheeler of Bridgeport, Conn. His subject was "The Prometheus of Æschylus and the Prometheus of Shelley." The participants were the six men who won the Townsend premiums this spring for excellence in English composition, and included William H. H. Hewitt, New Haven; William Stone Hubbell, Jr., Buffalo; Walter Dunham Makepeace, Springfield, Mass.; Nathan Ayer Smith, New Haven, and Henry Hotchkiss Townsend, New Haven. President Dwight presided.

Cannot Hear Indian's Suit.

New York, June 25.—Supreme Court Justice Wilmot M. Smith has decided that he was disqualified to hear the suit of the Montauk Indians against the Long Island railroad. The Indians want to reclaim 6,000 acres of land at Montauk peninsula which the Long Island railroad claims to own. Twenty years ago Judge Smith was counsel for the Indians in the celebrated partition suit of Grinnell versus Baker, when the rights of the Indians were determined. This has led to his disqualification, the court says. The case will probably be tried before Supreme Court Justice Maddox.

Rubber Company Economizing.

New Haven, June 25.—It is reported that Charles L. Johnson, secretary and treasurer of L. Candee & Co., the local branch of the United States Rubber company, who was appointed general sales agent of the trust about three years ago, has resigned the last mentioned position owing to a plan of retrenchment instituted by the new board of officers. It has been generally understood that Mr. Johnson received a salary of about $30,000 a year.

Want Land Grants.

Albany, June 25.—Applications have been pending some time before the state land board for grants of land under water on Coney island, on the ocean side and Gravesend bay side, and Engineer and Surveyor Adams, a member of the board, has reported that he opposed the grants on the ocean side, but would favor them on the Gravesend bay side. The board tabled the whole matter until its meeting one month hence.

General Strike Threatened.

Montreal, June 25.—A general strike is threatened among the garment workers of this city. Thirty-three of the men of B. A. Small & Co. went out, and unless their demand is complied with all the others will be called out. The principal grievance is that young girls have been taken in to do the work of men at less wages. They also want shorter hours and larger wages all around.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Spencer, of Brooklyn, who has been the guest of friends in the borough, has returned home.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Harriett, of New York, is a guest at the home of Miss Bonnell, of Manning avenue.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Alfred Garland, night operator at the telephone exchange, will leave the city Monday for Asbury Park, where he will spend the summer.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

NAVY YARD INQUIRY.

Naval Constructor Bowles Is Charged With Showing Favoritism.

New York, June 25.—The charges of favoritism, which have been preferred against Naval Constructor Bowles, were made the matter of an investigation, which has been begun before Commander C. H. Davis at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Philip B. Low, who represented the Fifth congressional district of New York, was present in the interests of one of the parties who had lost his place in the yard. He refused to say whom he represented, but volunteered the assertion that the ability to retain a position in the yard was too much governed by politics.

It was understood, however, that Henry R. Dean, an electrician employed in the construction department, and Charles Hankins, also an electrician, who had been discharged, were before the commissioner and had made a protest.

The hearing was conducted behind closed doors. It was said that the hearing would probably be ended by Saturday, when the commander would submit a report to Secretary of Navy Long at Washington.

The discharges, according to Constructor Bowles, were made strictly on the ground of economy.

TERRIFIC STORM IN ST. LOUIS.

Trees Blown Down, Houses Unroofed and General Devastation Caused.

St. Louis, June 25.—The terrific wind and rain storm which has prevailed here was very destructive in the southwestern section of the city, where are located several of the city institutions. The poorhouse suffered most. One of the buildings, in which were sheltered 75 inmates, all of them cripples, was partly demolished, and glass was shattered in the others.

When the roof was taken off, the bricks fell in among the patients, hitting a number of them, but none was seriously injured. The storm also struck the insane asylum. Not much damage was done there, but the patients were terror stricken.

Forest park, one of the largest in the country, suffered considerably, trees being leveled in every direction. The weather bureau officials report the downpour of rain the heaviest this season.

The storm was particularly severe in the river towns, Keokuk, Alton and Quincy suffering. Reports from Springfield, Decatur, Effingham and other Illinois towns say the rain was very heavy there.

THE CUBAN QUESTION

Minister Woodford Is Making a Careful Study of It.

TO URGE EVACUATION OF THE ISLAND

His First Duty Will Be to Obtain Relief For the Pacificos—A Demand For the Revocation of the Order For Their Concentration to Be Made.

Washington, June 25.—Stewart L. Woodford, the new minister to Spain, who is in the city, is making a careful study of the Cuban question with the aid of the state department documents given him by the president.

The president has given General Woodford a pretty clear idea of the preliminary policy he is expected to pursue in endeavoring to settle the Cuban question, and the minister was urged by the president to depart for Spain at the earliest moment practicable.

General Woodford would have been ready to start by this time, but upon hearing that the queen would not be in Madrid until September or October and that his credentials must be presented to her in person he delayed the date of his departure, which has now been fixed upon as July 2. He will thus have fuller opportunity to study the correspondence in his possession and to consult with Secretary Sherman and Judge Day as to the details of the administration's policy.

To Urge Evacuation of the Island.

The president is determined to urge upon Spain the evacuation of Cuba and the granting of autonomy to the island as a preliminary step to bringing about Cuban independence, either voluntarily by Spain or after the good offices of the United States have been forced upon the Spanish government by Minister Woodford.

His first duty after arriving at Madrid will be to secure relief for the pacificos in Cuba. Those persons who have not taken up arms have been compelled to concentrate in the cities and towns by order of Captain General Weyler.

A demand will be made for the revocation of the order, which is regarded as so plainly inhuman as to fully warrant such a demand from the United States.

If this concession is granted by Spain, it will afford an opening for presenting the further propositions of President McKinley's policy.

It has been learned on high authority that nothing will be done toward bringing about a change of condition in Cuba until after Minister Woodford has presented his credentials to the queen regent. The president has given no serious consideration to the rumored propositions for the purchase of Cuban freedom by an American syndicate, and the scheme is considered here as fanciful.

General Woodford intends to spend as much time as possible in Washington until he leaves for Spain.

A Princeton Superstition.

Princeton, N. J., June 25.—The death of William Nelson Thompson, a prominent business man of Princeton, who was thrown from his wagon and instantly killed while driving, completes the list of strange fatalities which have happened in connection with the old Vandeventer building, it being a tradition that every five years a tenant of the building will meet a violent death. Of the seven tenants who have occupied the building since 1867 Mr. Thompson is the last, all having died suddenly and unexpectedly at regular intervals of five years.

Will Push His Claim as Heir.

Montreal, June 25.—Roland Israel Gideon Barnett of this city has not by any means given up his idea of pushing his claims as the eldest brother of the late Barney Barnato and laughs at the attempts of others to throw cold water on them. He has instructed Mr. James Crankshaw, barrister of this city, to go to London and in conjunction with his London lawyers, Messrs. Barnard, Abrahams & Co., who defended the Cassils, investigate his claims. Mr. Crankshaw sails on the 30th.

For the Opening of Southern Waters.

Austin, Tex., June 25.—Governor Culberson has issued a call for the assembling of a convention at Rockport, Tex., on Aug. 25 for the purpose of considering the developing and opening of the chain of bays, lakes and bayous lying parallel to and along the gulf coast from the mouth of the Rio Grande to the Mississippi. A general attendance of delegates from Louisiana and other states is invited.

Bookkeeper Attempts Suicide.

Middletown, N. Y., June 25.—Robert Richards, aged 36, a bookkeeper, formerly in the employ of the Transatlantic Publishing company, attempted suicide at Midway park, this city. He first cut his throat with a small knife, but failed to open the windpipe. He then attempted drowning in the Wallkill river, but was discovered by the police and arrested. He was placed in Goshen jail.

Strike May Cause Removal.

Hudson, Mass., June 25.—A committee of citizens called on President Apsley of the Apsley Rubber works to inquire concerning a rumor that the company, on account of a strike of its employees, was about to move, a part at least, of its works from Hudson. President Apsley refused to discuss the matter. The strike of the employees is because of a reduction in wages.

Killed by a Train.

Hornellsville, N. Y., June 25.—The dead body of Matthew Wyant, an employee of the Erie shops in this city, was found beside the Erie tracks. He had evidently been struck by a train. It is believed that he was descending a steep bank to the railway tracks ahead of the train and was unable to stop himself in time to avoid being hit.

Masonic Temple Dedicated.

Hudson, N. Y., June 25.—The Masonic temple in this city has been dedicated with imposing ceremonies by Grand Master Sutherland and staff. The Hudson and visiting Masonic organizations had a parade before the dedication and were escorted by Lafayette commandery. The demonstration was brought to a close with a banquet.

WONDERFUL PROGRESS.

Thanks to Dr. Warde and the North Plainfield Board of Education, the first year of the North Plainfield High School came to a most successful termination last night. The really wonderful progress made in the school in the last year was commented on by the State and county superintendents of schools, and both had nothing but the highest praise to offer. The commencement last evening was the culminating point of it all. The exercises were of a kind that would do credit to any high school in the State. The citizens of North Plainfield should realize the fact that their public school is among the best in the State, and that it is due to Dr Warde and the members of the Board. We offer our congratulations to them for the successful accomplishment of their aims to make North Plainfield foremost in educational facilities.

THE PLAINFIELD SCHOOLS.

Twenty-seven years have passed since the Plainfield High School made its initial bow to the public. Last night twenty young men and women were added to the long list of those who have graduated from that institution. The commencement exercises were eminently successful. The Board was fortunate in securing a talented speaker, President Merrill E. Gates, of Amherst College, for the occasion. His address was well worth listening to. Plainfield can well be proud of her schools and of the men who are doing their best for the good of the city and the education of her sons and daughters.

EARLY CLOSING.

It is not pleasant to work hard these warm, sultry summer days, and it is still harder to spend part of the evening by the store counter. The movement which has been started by Edward White and George L. VanEmburgh & Son to close their stores on week nights, except Saturday, of course, at 7 o'clock, is a worthy one and deserves the sppport of every merchant in the city. It shows that they realize that their clerks are human beings and not machines, and are therefore entitled to some consideration. Now let there be a general movement among all the stores.

UNSEASONABLE WEATHER.

Yesterday we had a taste of real summer weather, something that we have not had this season. Hotel proprietors in summer resorts are all complaining about the very cool summer, which keeps the people at home instead of wandering around to seashore, country and mountains in search of cool and bracing air. This summer certainly has been one of an unusual nature, but weather prophets tell us that there is plenty of warm weather in view.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. a considerable extent. It was the duty of every man to see to the affairs and government of his country. The quiet toleration of what we know to be immoral will undermine our moral principles and relax our moral tone, said the doctor. Then he called upon his hearers to seek the blessing of God and pledge their thoughtful, disinterested patriotic service for the welfare of a nation. Long and hearty applause followed the excellent speech.

After another song by the chorus, the rewards were presented by Leander N. Lovell, of the Board of Education. They were as follows:

Melodies from "The Wizard of the Nile" were played by the orchestra. Lewis Squires then delivered an essay, entitled, "Our Obligation to England," and the valedictory. He spoke as follows:—

Just what obligations we are under to England and what our personal feelings to her ought to be, have been questions of great interest ever since we became a nation. The proposed arbitration treaty has offered a fine opportunity for debate upon this important subject. The opposers of the measure have been loud in their denunciation of any measure tending to bring us into closer and more confidential relations with England. They have declared that even though such an allowance might be of advantage to us, we ought not to trust our welfare in any way to the tender mercies of a nation that has shown so little friendship for us in the past. Such sentiment has done much to defeat the treaty. And yet, more reasons exist for kindly feelings towards England and the English people than for distrust. There are peculiar ties which ought to bind us together in mutual good will and friendship; ties which do not exist between any other two independent nations.

England is our mother country. She sent her best and bravest to our shores; those early settlers from whom the proudest families in the land are glad to trace their lineage, and to whom we owe so much that is noblest in our national and private life. If the mother forgot the love due the child and, by injustice, drove her to rebellion, even though the child has far outgrown the need of parental supervision, she ought not to forget the honor due the parent, or cease to remember the sacred tie that binds mother and child.

We must not think that our civilization was an instantaneous growth; that the American Nation and American people sprang into life and power on the Fourth of July, 1776. The vigor of character displayed during and since the Revolution is simply an instance of carefully selected seed removed from its ancient plot and planted in a new soil, well adopted to develop it most highly. Two centuries of life apart from England, in the freer and more invigorating political atmosphere of the new world have wrought many alterations. The varied soil and climate of this vast land have brought into prominence forces latent in the character of our ancestors. That there have been changes in our National character since our birth is due to new environment, but that these changes have resulted in so grand a product is due to the sterling principles of honesty, of industry and of devotion, that inspired our English forefathers. We derived from England that very spirit of freedom and love of liberty that finally brought about the separation. For American manhood of today we have to thank the English manhood of two hundred and fifty years ago.

For nearly the whole fabric of our political institutions are we indebted to the mother country. The calling of that first legislative assembly in Virginia was followed by a century and a half of training in politics and the art of government. The colonists recognized the advantages of England's time tried political systems and based their newly formed institutions upon them. Indeed they did not enter into that long and bloody conflict in the hope of gaining new and broader liberties but to protect and perfectuate the old. It was not until they had lost every hope of maintaining the former relations that they solemnly declared that, "these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States."

Even when independence had been gained, they proved their sincerity by adopting as close a copy of the English political system as the changed circumstances permitted. In each State, the legislature was patterned after the English Parliament. The Governor was vested with many kingly prerogatives, among them the power of pardon. Except for a change in the tenure of office of the judges, the judiciary system of England was adopted in an unaltered form. The common law of England, that great bulwark of the nation's welfare, was transplanted bodily, surely no mean legacy from the mother country. Our national constitution, also, was derived, indirectly at least, from the English political system.

Thus we see that we owe to England our judiciary system, our common law, our state governments, and our national constitution—four systems that have contributed very largely to our present strength and glory. No original creation even of such minds as Franklin's or Hamilton's or Washington's could have equalled in efficiency that slow outgrowth of the struggles and experiences of a people whose love of freedom and whose genius for self-government have never been surpassed.

It may be asked, can we ever love a nation which, when we were weak, oppressed us, sought to take away our liberties, and, when we rose to defend our sacred rights, shed such rivers of patriotic blood? Can we ever honor a nation which tried to impede our progress and entangle our feet while yet the path of independent national action was new and strange to us? A nation so eager, on any pretext to take up arms for a war of conquest? Can we ever trust a nation which, when we were torn assunder by civil war, while our fate was trembling in the balance, cast her influence on the side of disunion and national dishonor?

Our answer to these questions will be easier and its truth more apparent if we regard the distinction that must necessarily exist between the acts of a government and the desire of its people.

Though England, at the time of the American Revolution, had long possessed a representative form of government, the actual administration was far from justly representative. Many large towns were without an exponent in Parliament, while "rotten boroughs," with a constituency of a half-a-dozen or a score, were frequent. This state of affairs naturally fostered bribery and corrupt legislation.

With a servile Parliament, bought and paid for, King George might rule absolutely as he wished. But money was necessary. To tyrannize over England he must first tyrannize over America.

While a corrupt Parliament was levying the unjust taxes, the intelligent people of England were warm in their friendship for America and loud in their denunciation of the king. In the House of Commons their sentiments were voiced in the fiery speeches of Pitt and Burke. One of the most eminent of modern historians, a man to whom Plainfielders delight to listen, has declared that the ultimate independence of the colonies was due to the efforts of the Whigs in England not less than to the patriot arms.

Viewing the question from this standpoint, one would indeed be narrow-minded to treat the English people with distrust for the acts of their foolish and ambitious king. Indeed we ought to place in them the fuller confidence and respect and honor them the more as coworkers with us for liberty and justice. Nor should the attitude of England toward us during the War of 1812 tend to neutralize this feeling. During the Civil War, when the English Government was allowing the Confederate privateers to fit out in English ports and was giving aid and comfort to our foes, the citizens of Manchester and Sheffield were holding mass-meetings to declare their sympathy for the Union and their good wishes for her success.

It is upon this good will of the English people for us that we ought to base our trust and friendship. Ever since the first settlement of our land the people of Eng and have been our firm and devoted friends.

Were England today ruled by king or aristocracy alone, we might hesitate to enter into an alliance with her out of friendship for her people. But when popular sentiment is strong enough to compel the Prime Minister to utterly reverse his policy and to pursue a course which but three months before he had flatly refused to pursue, we need have no fear.

Today the people are the rulers of England, and the people have shown us that whatever may be the sentiments of the aristocracy, they, at least, consider themselves bound to us by more than common affection. Every tie of lineage, of common progress and culture demand a like expression of good will on our part. Why should we who owe so much to England hesitate to return their affection?

Let the two great branches of the English stock come into closer national communion, they and we, who are already so closely allied in commerce and trade, customs and manners, and by the mighty bond of a common language.

Let us not love our country less nor cherish less her individuality as a nation, let us be not less ready to shed our best blood to keep her flag from insult or her name from dishonor, let us enter into no alliance that could harm her or hamper her majestic progress, but let us frankly acknowledge the mighty debt we owe to that land that has done so much to make us what we are and now stands ready to tread with us, as an example to the nations, the holy path of endless peace through international arbitration.

Classmates—Tonight for the last time as a class we meet together. In a few brief moments the class of '97 of the Plainfield High School will have passed on into the ranks of the alumni. For four years we have shared each other's studies and have come to know each other as only they can who have walked together day by day, engaging in the same occupations and inspired by a common purpose. We have enjoyed a full share of that pleasant social intercourse that makes school life sweet in passing and a fond and pleasant recollection when it is done. Our senior year especially has been brightened by friendly gatherings. We have finished our course and now comes the time of parting. We look away from the yesterday to the tomorrow. What fortune the vast and unknown future has in store for us or by how far we may become separated in after years we know not now. But, whatever befalls, let us endeavor to keep strong the ties formed in these our school days, and remain in hearts and sympathies a united band of friends. And now, class of '97, I bid you goodby.

A medley of popular airs of the day was the next selection by the orchestra. The table holding the diplomas, so precious in the eyes of the graduates, was brought in and then Dr. Probasco presented them to the graduates, one by one. The graduates were:—

General Course — Mary Estella Buckle, Edith Louise Burt, Grace Agnes Crane, Emma Cutter, Alice Jenkins, Adeline Mabel Manning, Adah Elizabeth Woolston.

Classical Course—Gertrude Louise Cathcart, Edith Louise Pruden, Sarah Edwards Schuyler, Lewis Squires, Ernest Salisbury Suffren.

English Course—Eva May Dayton, Florence May Duck, Louise Egan, Clara Emma Fellows, Lilla Clifton Livezey, Sarah Cordelia Miller, Sydney Ross Titsworth, William Becker Van Alstyne.

Honor Pupils—First Honor—Emma Cutter, Lewis Squires, Sarah Edwards Schuyler. Second Honor — Grace Agnes Crane, Adeline Mabel Manning, Lilla Clifton Livezey, Alice Jenkins, Adah Elizabeth Woolston.

"America" was sung by the chorus and then the exercises came to an end with the stirring march from "El Capitan" rendered by the orchestra. The fans were laid aside for a moment and the large audience began to disperse, some hurrying to the stage to grasp the hand of a friend in the graduating class and congratulate them on the successful ending of the affair, others departed for home or the Casino, where the reception to the graduating class was to follow the commencement exercises.

There was a profusion of flowers for the graduates and the front of the stage was lined with baskets and bouquets of choice summer flowers. Other gifts were also presented. Henry W Brower, William A. DeLong, Jr., and Henry Pierce, all members of the Junior class, had charge of the passing of the flowers.

So ended the graduation of the class of '97 of the Plainfield High School.

FESTIVAL ON THE LAWN.

HELD AT THE RESIDENCE OF ARTHUR KYTE, OF SCOTCH PLAINS.

Unique Decorations Prevailed in the House and On the Lawn—A Large Attendance—Other Interesting Scotch Plains Items.

The ladies of All Souls' church gave a successful lawn festival yesterday afternoon and evening from 4 until 10 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kyte. The three principal rooms on the lower floor of the house were decorated in a unique manner, the trimmings of one being all of red, those of the second room all of white, and of the third room entirely blue. Each of the rooms was also decorated with cut flowers of suitable color, and throughout the house were tastefully arranged festoons of ferns. The hallway was hung with American flags. The piazza and the lawn surrounding the house were beautiful with scores of flags and lanterns. Within the house, in the red room were the fan table and the bric-a-brac table; in the white room was a tempting display of candy and cakes; and in the blue room and on the piazza and the lawn, were tables for serving the guests with ice cream, berries and other good things. From a prettily decorated booth upon the lawn root beer and lemonade were sold. A slight shower in the afternoon did not interfere seriously with the festival. The attendance was large and a comfortable sum was realized for the church repairs' fund

A FOOD MEDICINE.

How to Cure Ordinary Ills the Easiest Way.

In late years no one remedy has grown more in favor with physicians than Malt Extract. If it is rightly made it is a tonic that can be depended on every time.

It is as much a food as a medicine, but is food of an unusual kind. It is food in soluble and concentrated form all ready to slip into the blood and renovate the system without taxing digestion. Therefore, if your stomach is weak it does you good just the same.

We recommend Crown Brand Extract of Malt as one you can rely on. It is made by a thoroughly reliable house and we have it put up under our own name as an additional guarantee of its merit.

We are also able to save you something on the cost. Other good extracts will cost you at least 25 per cent more. We constantly endeavor to sell the best of everything for less and this is another instance of it. Extract of Malt is especially recommended for dyspepsia, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and general debility. It is the ideal tonic for invalids, convalescents and for debilitated women. 15c. bot., $1 65 doz. Frank Rowley, druggist, 45 Somerset St.

Some of the property owners have been dilatory in complying with the committee's request, and tonight's meeting is called to hasten action.

LINCOLN.

Within the past few days contracts have been filed for the erection of four new houses at Lincoln. Two of the above were started yestesday on Voorhies avenue.

A grand time is being arranged for July 4th at Lincoln, when a large family picnic will be held. The matter is under the care of the Misses Egles who are experts in arranging such affairs. The affair will be held at Lincoln Villa, a beautiful spot, and there will be everything on the programme to attract all lovers of the National holiday.

The Franklin Company, of Bound Brook, has broken ground at Lincoln for a large factory which is to be erected as soon as possible. The structure will be 35 feet wide and 125 feet long and three stories high. The company manufactures paint and certain products for the cycle trade. The reason for building the new factory is that the very large increase in the business has made it necessary that larger quarters be secured. The advantages offered at Lincoln are so favorable that the company were induced to locate at that place.

A good story is related about a Plainfield young man, who prides himself on the fact that he always dresses in the height of fashion and that he never does anything but what is proper. Last Sunday he made use of the telephone in calling, as he thought, his best girl who resides near Lincoln. He obtained assurances that she would meet him that afternoon at the Lincoln station and soon afterwards he took a train for the above-named place. On his arrival he met the genial and hustling Silas Drake, and from him he attempted to secure the information necessary to find his girl. Mr. Drake told the young man that he would have to walk toward Plainfield about one mile and then toward the mountains one mile. He would then find his lady friend. The visitor did as directed, and it is supposed that he is walking yet, for he did not find his friend. The fact was that the Plainfield young man was talking to some other party over the telephone and he was misinformed as to what his girl would do. He now declares that he will never visit Lincoln again, unless it is to enjoy the pleasures on July 4th, when the grand picnic is to be held at Lincoln Villa.

"TAXPAYER" REPLIES.

He Criticises "A Republican" For Looking Backwards.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In this progressive age it is refreshing to take a paper up and read articles from "oldest citizens" in regard to the present as compared with the past. Generally the past is away ahead of the present.

In your issue last night one of your elderly readers seems to think that the present Common Council is away off in these hard and troublous times. His article calls up days less than a quarter of a century ago when Plainfield was in her infancy; when three hacks at the railroad station looked after the incoming stranger.

In those days the yearly expenditures of the city were less than they are now for one month. Our city officials were men who kept down expenses by keeping no books. Memorandum slips were good enough, and even if they got lost or mislaid why it didn't hurt the city much and it made a friend of the taxpayers.

Money has been thrown away on our streets! In those days in the winter and spring months wagons got stuck in the mud. It was only for a few months each year that people suffered, but that was better than taxing the people for street improvement.

Why find fault with the Common Council for doing what any business man of sense would do. To run this city books have got to be kept; competent officials to look after affairs, and no "looking backward!"

Comparisons are often odious.

A FAMOUS EXCURSION RECALLED.

Given to Interest Capitalists in Northern Pacific Stock.

A Northwestern Congressman, who was on the famous excursion which Henry Villard gave to witness the driving of the golden spike of the Northern Pacific road, recalled some of its interesting features recently:

"It was the greatest junketing trip in the history of the United States, bar none," said he. "Villard had completed the road, putting an enormous amount of money in it, and he decided that he could interest English and German capital in the enterprise by taking the capitalists themselves out over the road. So he made up his party, including a large number of distinguished Americans—General Grant among them, I remember—and four trains of Pullman cars, each train hauled by two locomotives, started for the Northwest. You never saw such entertainment as was lavished on the party. Champagne flowed like water, and no one was allowed to pay for anything—not even for a shave or a newspaper. The trip altogether must have cost at least $400,000, for there were 400 persons in the party, and $1,000 per head is a low estimate.

"Well, the tragic part of it was yet to come. The sword of Damocles was hanging over Villard's head all the time, and he did not know it. He had invited the English and German capitalists to go out over the road. They had never seen anything except railroads between cities closely situated, and they could not appreciate transcontinental lines. They could not understand how a road could pay that ran through stretches of unsettled country, and while they were dining off Villard's terrapin and champagne, they were wiring back to New York and London to sell the Northern Pacific stock. The stock, which was worth 78 or thereabout when he left the East, kept dropping until it was down to 50. Villard could not account for the decline. Finally he was telegraphed to hasten to New York to bolster up his property. Hiring a special engine, he hurried East as fast as steam could carry him, leaving his guests to follow behind him, which they did, but marking every mile of the way with a drunken orgie. Champagne bottles were flung around the cars and out of the windows, and costly cigars were trampled under foot, just for the fun of crunching them.

"The sequel of that famous trip always reminded me of Napoleon's trip to and from Moscow. He went out in glory and hurried home on a sled to save his head and crown, while his army followed in a rout behind him. Villard traveling on a special engine to save himself from ruin, was history repeating itself."—Washington Post.

NOBLEMAN A POLICEMAN.

Must Serve Ten Years On the Force to Inherit a Fortune.

The strangest of all the many requests that have been made of Mr. Hanna since he took up his leadership in politics came to him when Baron von Muegge, a young German, solicited his influence to obtain an appointment as Deputy United States Marshal, at any place where the surroundings are agreeable, at any salary, or any amount of fees that might be offered.

The applicant, who is well vouched for and is undoubtedly all that he pretends to be, told a strange story of the will of his mother, a wealthy, but eccentric, German, who stipulated that he should serve ten years as a policeman before he should come into his fortune, her idea being to teach him self-control, develop his character and convince him of the dignity of labor.

As he did not wish to serve in such an humble capacity among his former and future associates, Von Muegge came to the United States to serve his time. He has been on the force in several cities, and is now employed as a watchman by a railroad company in Cleveland.

The man is personally known to Mr. Hanna.

His term of servitude expires in November next, and the baron is anxious to spend the remainder of the period in surroundings which will be more agreeable than those in which he has been situated for the last nine years. He would like to be deputy to the United States Marshal of the District of Columbia for the next six months, and has asked Mr. Hanna's influence to secure that position.—Chicago Record.

Well Named.

"The month of May is very appropriately named," remarked the youth to his friend.

"In what regard?"

"Because its weather is so uncertain."

"How does the name May apply to uncertain weather?"

"Well, it may be hot or it may be cold; it may be wet or it may be dry."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Dusty Dan: "Wot's dis Spring fever dat you hear so much about?"

Roving Rube: "I'll tell yer. De ignorant laboring classes has er follacy dat dere's a time of year dat er man hates ter work more'n udders—dat's Spring fever.—Twinkles.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A DIME FOR DIGESTION.

THE WAY TO HELP YOUR STOMACH OUT OF DIFFICULTY.

When you are taken sick with pain in your stomach or chest, nausea, vomiting, headache dizziness, nervousness, neuralgia, flatulence, constipation, mental depression, weakness, languor, loss of appetite and other similiar symptoms, you are infected with the poisons of undigested food.

Your stomach needs help.

If you really are a dyspeptic, it will relieve you after a few doses. If it does, keep on till you're cured. If not, don't take any more, you're no dyspeptic.

Indigestion or dyspepsia is a dreadful disorder, all the more that so few believe in its dangerousness.

That is because they don't die of indigestion, but of rheumatism, consumption, pheumonia, and other diseases which they would never have "caught" if their bodies hadn't been starved and weakened with indigestion.

Shaker Digestive Cordial acts on the food in your stomach and helps the digestive juices to dissolve it. In this way it aids your stomach to do its work without effort and creates new strength and life for your whole body.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

Write to the Shakers, 30 Reade Street, New York, for an interesting book.

We handle all good kinds of

HEATH AS REFEREE.

Court of Claims Appoints Him to Fix Government Telegraph Tolls.

Washington, June 25.—The United States court of claims, on the recommendation of the department of justice, has appointed First Assistant Postmaster General Perry S. Heath sole referee in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company versus the United States, growing out of Postmaster General Wanamaker's order providing an arbitrary telegraph tariff for the government. He succeeds the former referees, Charles O. Shepard and William H. Browne.

The postmaster general is charged with the duty of fixing the tolls to be paid on all government messages. During the Harrison administration Mr Wanamaker fixed the rate at 1 mill a word, which rate was in operation for a long period, but was finally raised to about 40 per cent of the rate charged individuals. In the settlement of the bills covering the mill rate period a dispute arose, and the case was taken to the courts, where it has been pending since, but will be decided shortly.

Mr. Heath, as referee, will ascertain the exact figures in the dispute, which amounts to nearly $1,000,000, and on his report the court of claims will proceed to determine the question whether the postmaster general may arbitrarily fix telegraph rates for public business. The case probably will be taken before congress in the end.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT VERDICT.

Long Island Road Charged With Being Criminally Negligent.

Brooklyn, June 25.—After having been out for nearly two hours in the Long Island railroad case the jury returned a verdict holding that the railroad was criminally negligent in not having kept the signal at the Merrick road in proper order.

Five separate verdicts were rendered, one for each person killed. Each verdict, after stating the cause of death as a collision between the coach and a train of cars, concludes as follows:

"We further say that the said Long Island railroad was criminally negligent in not keeping in order the electric bell at said crossing."

Coroner Coombs said, after the jurors had departed, that the next step would be for the grand jury of Queens county to meet and take action on the verdicts.

District Attorney Youngs has issued subpœnas for all the witnesses who testified before the coroner to appear before the grand jury.

PRINCE OF WALES' RECEPTION.

An Occasion of Unprecedented Brilliancy In the Queen's Honor.

London, June 25.—On behalf of her majesty the Prince and Princess of Wales gave a state reception last evening at Buckingham palace. The occasion was one of unprecedented brilliancy, the guests numbering over 1,600 and including all the special jubilee visitors and the admirals, captains and officers from Spithead.

An enormous crowd watched the arrivals at the palace, while the streets converging there were filled with carriages.

The ballroom scene was one of dazzling splendor. The guests promenaded through the gorgeous saloons of the palace, while the bands played dance music. Among those present were the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke and Duchess of Coburg, the Duke and Duchess of Fife and the Duke and Duchess of Teck.

CABOT'S ANNIVERSARY.

Celebrated by the Laying of a Cornerstone at Bristol, England.

Bristol, England, June 25.—The four hundredth anniversary of the discovery by John Cabot of the North American mainland was celebrated here yesterday by the laying of the foundation stone for the Cabot Memorial tower on the summit of Brandon hill in the heart of the city. The memorial will cost about $5,000. The stone was laid by the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava.

Prior to the ceremony he was entertained at lunch by the corporation of Bristol, and subsequently he received the freedom of the city. The luncheon company included Sir William Whiteway, the premier of Newfoundland, and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer. No Americans were present.

The date of the discovery of Newfoundland by John Cabot was June 24, 1497.

CHARGED WITH WIFE BEATING.

Edward J. Ratcliffe, an Actor, Held For Trial For That Offense.

Chicago, June 25.—Edward J. Ratcliffe, the actor who was arrested as a fugitive from justice from New York, where he is wanted to answer a charge of assaulting his wife with a deadly weapon, was brought before the court for his preliminary examination. The prisoner appeared greatly depressed.

Ratcliffe maintained his statement that he was innocent and that the charge was made out of malice by his father-in-law, Peter Delacey, the rich New York horseman.

Ratcliffe's attorney was not able to be present, owing to the pressure of other business, and at the suggestion of the police the case was continued until June 30. The court also reduced the amount of Ratcliffe's bond from $10,000 to $5,000.

Ladies' Aid Society Elects Officers.

Auburn, N. Y., June 25.—The Ladies' Aid society, an auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, resumed its business meeting. Mrs. Cameron of Owego, who was elected as installing and mustering officer, resigned, and Mrs. Sarah C. Nichols of Auburn was elected in her stead. Mrs. Lydia E. Tomer of Rochester, president of the society, was chosen as delegate to the next annual encampment at Indianapolis and Mrs. Julia Monghan of Rochester as delegate at large. Mrs. Lizzie W. Cameron of Owego was appointed editor in chief.

Japan May Defeat Her Own Ends.

London, June 25.—The Daily Graphic says editorially Japan is likely to defeat her own ends by addressing a bellicose remonstrance to the United States on the subject of Hawaii. The policy of annexation is not very popular in America, but any attempt at dictation will only be resented and will strengthen the case for the annexationists by

FOR A TAX ON HIDES.

Republican Senators In Caucus Sustain Finance Committee.

SENATOR PETTIGREW'S AMENDMENT.

Wants to Tax All Articles That Are Made by Trusts—Senator Caffery Speaks Against Protective System. Resolution of Regret.

Washington, June 25.—The Republican senators have decided in caucus by a vote of 22 to 11 to sustain the action of the finance committee in placing a duty upon hides, but did not pass upon the question of the amount of the duty to be imposed. The committee was also sustained in the rate fixed upon imported wrapper tobacco. The only other disputed questions considered were watches and watch jewels, and upon these the finance committee was reversed, the house rates being accepted on watches and watch jewels being made free. The caucus was held in the marble room of the senate and was well attended. While the discussion was spirited at times, the meeting was without especial incident.

The greater part of the time was given to the proposition to fix a duty on hides. Senator Lodge led the contest against the action of the finance committee in taking hides from the free list and was seconded by Senators Hoar, Platt, Spooner and others, while Senators Nelson, Allison, Warren and Gear spoke for the duty.

Mr. Lodge contended that the duty, if imposed, would not be of any consequence as a revenue item and that it would add nothing to the farmer's returns on his cattle, while it would have the effect of greatly injuring the industry of leather manufacture, which had grown to immense proportions under the system of free hides. He said that the exports of leather goods amounted to $20,000,000 per annum and asserted that if a stiff duty should be imposed the industry would be greatly checked.

For the Benefit of the Farmers.

In reply, the western senators claimed a direct benefit to the farmer from the duty and asserted that he was as much entitled to the protection it would give as were the manufacturers to the assistance they would receive from other duties. The vote was on the general proposition to impose a duty without regard to rates. The fixing of these, it was understood, should be left to the finance committee, but the expressions were so general in favor of the ad valorem rather than the specific system that the committee probably will feel itself instructed to substitute this system for the 1½ cents a pound rate originally agreed upon. There was also a general expression against any increase upon India tanned goat and sheep skins, which the manufacturers regard as a substantial victory.

The debate on the tobacco schedule was confined to brief speeches by Senators Hawley and Fairbanks. The finance committee had originally fixed the rate on unstemmed wrapper tobacco at $1.50 per pound, in opposition to the house rate of $2 per pound.

The representatives of the leaf growers immediately began a contention for the restoration of the house rate, which was resisted by the smaller manufacturers, particularly of the western states. The finance committee yielded to the growers to the extent of advancing the rate to $1.75. Senator Hawley represented the growers in their efforts to secure a $2 rate, and Senator Fairbanks the manufacturers in their attempt to hold the original finance committee figures. The caucus decided without division to stand by the compromise rate of $1.75.

There was only one vote raised in opposition to the proposition to return to the house schedule on watches and in addition to admit watch jewels free of duty. The finance committee fixed a uniform rate of 40 per cent on watches, while the house provided a compound duty. It is to this compound system that the senate returns.

The questions of reciprocity, trusts, Hawaii, sugar, beer, tea and internal revenue were not discussed.

Senate Still on Wool Schedule.

Washington, June 25.—A stubborn contest over the duties on manufactured woolen goods occupied the attention of the senate. It was a time of constant roll calls and of cross fire debate on the effect of the duties in advancing rates. Many amendments were proposed to reduce the rates, but these were rejected by decisive majorities. Less than five pages were disposed of, carrying the senate through paragraph 370, the first of the paragraphs relating to carpets.

Mr. Caffery of Louisiana spoke at length against the protective system and severely arraigned those Democratic senators who had voted for duties on wool and other raw materials.

Resolutions of deep regret were passed on the death of Representative Cooke of Illinois, and a committee of five senators were named as an escort.

Senator Pettigrew gave notice of an amendment he will offer to the tariff bill providing for a tax of 10 per cent of the value upon all articles manufactured by a trust.

At the instance of Senator Chandler the senate has ordered reports of the proceedings of the recent meetings of the English and French bimetallic leagues printed as a public document for distribution.

New Fraud Order Policy.

Washington, June 25.—Assistant Attorney General Tyner of the postoffice department has adopted a new policy in the issuance of fraud orders, so that, as a general rule, parties against whom complaint has been made may be given a hearing or opportunity to answer charges before orders are issued against them. The action is the result of allegations that many cases of injustice have developed as the result of the representation of one aggrieved person as only one side of the case. An immense number of these orders were made by the last administration.

BOROUGH GRADUATES.

motto, much interest was awakened. As she appeared on the stage through the improvised entrance, she closed the door, and there was displayed the words, "Closed Until '98." In addressing the officials of the school and associates she said: "We say goodbye. We have spent a most pleasant and profitable year together under the guidance of competent teachers. I can truthfully say that I learned more this year than during the entire balance of my High School life. To the Juniors, your days are coming. It must be said that you want our crowns if not our scalps. To the freshman class we owe much for the beautiful decorations, and to our kind friends for the support.

"Classmates, we must part. We have been together a long time and it must bring sadness as we separate. It is not possible to have the past and future at once. We are now at the threshold and it is necessary that we accept every opportunity as we see it.

"In conclusion, we thank all for the kind and faithful treatment and support given to the graduating class."

The essay and valedictory was a most admirable one and too much praise cannot be given to Miss Day for the masterly manner in which she presented her part. She displayed talent equal with her sister graduates, and the efforts on the part of each graduate gave undeniable evidence that three graduates never left the North Plainfield Public School better fitted to enter upon life's duties.

Following the above was a piano solo, "The Last Muster," by Master Bert Simpson. The rendition was a creditable one and won hearty commendation from all present. The next number was an address by State Superintendent, Hon. Charles J. Baxter. Mr. Baxter is a pleasing speaker and he certainly won many friends last evening by his able address. He spoke in the highest terms of the North Plainfield School and its management, and congratulated all who have had anything to do with the direction of the school. He urged the scholars to push forward in their work and strive for better things. He expressed some surprise that his sex was not represented in the graduating class and said that he had noticed in this State that the proportion of male graduates to female was about one to four. This he thought showed that the gentler sex was becoming wiser and by next September would be able to cast their votes for school commissioners. He thought that the mother was nearer the child than any other person and should be entitled to have a say in school matters. The next speaker was County Superintendent, Rev. James A. Mets, who made a most admirable speech in which he congratulated the North Plainfield Public High School on its fine showing. He also congratulated the Board of Education, the superintendent and teachers for the very excellent work accomplished.

The next part on the programme was an interesting and somewhat novel one. It was the presentation of the Class of '97 to the audience by Miss Susie E. Glass, Principal of the High School. Miss Glass in presenting the class made a short address which was full of wisdom and meaning. She paid a compliment to the officials of the school and stated that the past year had been a very pleasant one to her as well as the scholars. She congratulated the graduates on the fine records they had made and she wished them all the success as they step out into the world.

The presentation of the diplomas to the graduating class by President St. John McCutchen, of the Board of Education, was an interesting portion of the exercises. He spoke in a congratulatory manner and remarked that a new volume had been opened and a new page had been turned over in the history of the school. He hoped that the graduates would not accept their diplomas and think that their work was now finished, but that it gave him great pleasure to do so and he extended his best wishes to the class.

After the rendition of the "Spanish Dance" on the piano by W. E. MacClymont, the benediction was offered by Rev. J. A. Mets.

A large horseshoe, made of red roses, was suspended over the platform.

STREET REPAIRS CRITICIZED.

Citizen Thinks That The Work Has Not Been Done As It Ought.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Will The Press not ask its reporter to interview Street Commission Gavett, and if his answer is unsatisfactory, then the chairman of the street committee, and if his reply is not to the point, then Mayor Fisk, how it is that laborer or laborers are permitted to dump on the streets loose stones as if they were filling up a ditch in some back field or some farm on the mountains? It seems to me that somebody needs to be brought up with a round turn right away on this subject of "repairing" the streets.

The sample of work done yesterday by Armstrong's drug store corner, within 50 yards of The Press office, and which has been done in various places around the city, cannot get attention from some proper authority too quickly. If your reporter will take his wheel and ride up Front street to Clinton avenue, and then go under the railroad bridge, he will see there a beautiful specimen of a street for riding over with wheels and carriages; then, if he will go on and make a circuit, getting back to The Press office by any street he chooses, he will find that in places our macadamized streets have been treated exactly as if they were mountain roads over which to drive ox-teams.

This question answered, will he then further inquire why it is that in a city supposed to be civilized, no one, who cares for the streets, ever cares enough for them not simply to refrain from throwing loose stones on them, but once in a while to go around with, say a mule and a cart and one or two boys, and pick up the loose stone, stick, tin cans and other foreign substances and make the roadways look a little respectable.

The wheelmen are at the mercy of these stones, and every day or two some young lady or a beginner at cycling gets thrown and has an ankle sprained because there is nobody who seems to be responsible to make a smooth highway.

If such interviews are without avail, let The Press start a subscription and secure a fund, so as to accomplish these ends, and I will begin it with $10.

Kings Who Carry Pistols.

The different members of the royal families of Europe are not so much at the mercy of fanatics as is generally supposed. Many of them carry concealed weapons, and know how to use them.

The Czar of Russia carries a small revolver, given him by his mother. When out driving in his carriage this weapon is concealed in a pocket within easy reach of the monarch's right hand. A loaded pistol is also carried by the Emperor of Germany, who is firmly convinced that he is doomed to die by the bullet of an Anarchist.

The Shah of Persia has a narrow slit in his handsome robe, in which reposes a long jewelled dagger. He is very accomplished in the use of this weapon, and could kill a man at one blow. The Sultan of Turkey and the King of Greece both carry revolvers. The Emperor of China carries no less than three knives concealed about his person.

THE RAINBOW FESTIVAL

GIVEN ON THE LAWN OF GRACE M E CHURCH.

The Queen Esther Band Arranged it and Carried it Out Very Successfully—Novel Methods of Decoration.

The reputation established by the members of the Queen Esther Band, of Grace M. E. church, is an enviable one and whenever they attempt to raise money for the many objects which claim their attention, they always seem to reach the hearts and pocketbooks of their friends and supporters. For a long time past they planned to hold a "Rainbow Festival," and the active members at once began to make all neccessary arrangements for the affair, which was held yesterday afternoon and evening on the beautiful lawn adjoining the church. Early in the day the members gathered and made ready for the festival. Pretty booths were placed here and there on the spacious lawn, while the many colors of the rainbow were displayed to good advantage about the booths, tables and trees.

The centre of attraction seemed to be the candy booth, which was erected by Miss Marguerite Schuck and John H. Carney. The top was made entirely of grasses arranged in pyramid style, while about the lower part were displayed various colors. At this place all sorts of the finest homemade candies were on sale and they were disposed of very quickly. Tiny Voehl, Addie Carney and Nellie Valiant were in charge and they made excellent clerks. It was impossible for anyone to escape them and all stopped to spend a little money in the good cause

Another attractive point was the old-fashioned lemonade well with the sweep pole, attached to which was an old-fashioned bucket. The thirsty attendants were continually stopping at the well, and it kept Ada Van Horn, Florence Leighton and Jennie DeCamp busy in attending to the wants of their many customers. The decorations at the well were greatly admired and they consisted of many pretty colors.

The grocery table furnished an interesting place for those present. Here was to be found all kinds of groceries at reasonable prices, and a large number availed themselves of the opportunity of buying from such efficient clerks as Mabel Stevens, Carrie Pangborn and Sadie Winckler.

As one entered the grounds they could not help seeing the pretty fancy table in charge of Edith Loomis, Mary Hoagland, Helen Harned and Addie Marsh. There was a choice display of fancy articles, and at this table a goodly sum was received from the large number of sales.

The cake table was in charge of Nellie Vermeule and Kizie DeMott, and the waitresses who served the cake and ice cream were Belle Smith, Hattie Voehl, Grace Gaddis, Carrie Leighton, Eva Titus, Stella Vermeule and Belle DeMott.

In the afternoon there was a large attendance and the sales were most gratifying, but in the evening the attendance surprised the most sanguine. Everything was disposed of and a nice sum of money was received as a result.

The Band is in charge of Miss Marguerite Schuck and Miss Della Voehl, and to them is due much credit for the successful affair. Credit is also due John H. Carney for his efforts in assisting the members of the Band.

The display of lanterns in the evening, together with the many colors of the rainbow, made an exceedingly attractive scene, and many were led to the place out of curiosity and then induced to buy.

The profits of the festival will be used for missionary purposes and the members feel much encouraged by the substantial manner in which they were helped to carry on their work.

A feature of the festival was the music rendered by Samuel Frazee and Mr. Creger. They were stationed in the church and the music attracted a great number of people. This morning it was stated by the officers of the Band that they had made about $75.

Elected to the Stock Exchange.

Another Plainfielder was honored by being elected a member of the New York Stock Exchange. E. H. Ladd, Jr., of the firm of Wood, Hustis & Co., is the fortunate one. Mr. Ladd lives on Franklin place, and he is a shrewd business man of recognized ability. His many friends will congratulate him on his success.

Music Hall Opens August 2d.

Music Hall will open on August 2d, under the charge of Manager Willey, with Kennedy's Players for a week. Last year they made a great hit and this year will appear with a larger company strengthened by several new players of strong reputation.

TO PROTECT CYCLISTS.

MORE WATCHMEN AT LEHIGH VALLEY CROSSING ON PARK AVENUE.

Letter From a Plainfielder Results in Better Protection for Pedestrians, Vehicles and Wheels at the Crossing.

Accidents at the grade crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad on Park avenue have been very infrequent, in fact, it has been many years since anything serious occurred there. Nevertheless, it seems rather remarkable that there has not been more accidents there considering how hard it is to see the approach of the train until the observer is almost on the tracks. There was a flagman there between the hours of 7 in the morning and 7 at night, but the rest of the time the passersby were compelled to look out for themselves.

The day after the terrible Valley Stream disaster when a coach crowded with young people was run into by a train, F. R. Stevens, of East Fifth street, happened to cross the Lehigh Valley at the point mentioned and noticed the similarity with the crossing where the accident occurred the day before. He wrote a letter to J. B. Hunt, soliciting freight agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, with whom he is in frequent communication in a business way, calling his attention to the crossing and to the fact that a watchman was stationed there from 7 to 7 o'clock. He asked that the matter be referred to the proper official and suggested that the time of the flagman be extended or else the engineers be notified to double or threble the usual warning of four short blows of the whistle.

Mr. Stevens has just received a letter from Mr. Hunt, inclosing a letter from Superintendent John Donnelly, of that division, to whom Mr. Hunt had referred the matter. Superintendent Donnelly wrote that he had arranged to have a watchman go on duty at 6:45 o'clock in the morning and remain there until 10 o'clock that morning, and then have another watchman stay on duty from 10 in the morning until 10 at night. He said that a census had been taken for six days and it was found that forty-five foot passengers, ninety-two teams and 251 bicyclists, out of a total of 1,014, had passed there between the hours of 10 o'clock at night and 6 o'clock in the morning. He said that the question had come up at one time of putting an overhead crossing at that point, but the difficulty in the way was from the objections of the adjoining property owners whose land fronts on the approaches, and would raise objections at once.

GILES MAY SUE THE CITY.

HE WANTS REPARATION FOR THE LOSS OF HIS BUSINESS.

He Has Secured Counsel and Has Strong Financial Backing to Aid Him in His Suit—He Is Stopping in New Market Now.

Nelson Giles, the local milkman, whose large stock of milk was seized and destroyed by the health authorities in the late scarlet fever scare in this city, is bound that his rights shall be secured and some recompense given him for what he terms the harsh action of the board in practically destroying his business.

Bernard Meyers, a well-to-do milk dealer, of Finderne, of whom he bought milk, is giving Giles financial assistance and advice, and as a preliminary step in the proceedings against the city, Giles yesterday engaged the services of Reed & Coddington.

When seen by a Press reporter today, ex Judge Coddington stated that no suit has as yet been commenced, and that the course which shall be taken in Giles' behalf will depend largely upon the attitude of the city officials in the matter.

Nelson Giles was in New Market today, and his two sons are still quarantined in the house on Park avenue.

WOMAN DRAGGED TWENTY FEET.

Mrs J. C Benner Injured in a Runaway in Westfield.

A horse attached to a light buckboard and driven by Mrs. J. C. Benner, took fright on Broad street, Westfield, on 8:45 o'clock this morning and ran away.

Mrs. Benner was thrown from the wagon near the Methodist church. She clung to the reins and was dragged 20 feet before loosing her hold.

The horse then ran into the fountain at the intersection of North avenue, smashing a back wheel and axle of the vehicle. The animal ran along North avenue to the railway station where it was captured.

Mrs. Benner received bruises and her clothing was torn. She was taken home and a physician attended to her injuries. It is thought that the horse took fright at a passing train.

GRADUATES RECEIVED.

NORTH PLAINFIELD ALUMNI ENTERTAINED IN THEIR HONOR.

The Reception Was a Great Success and Was Well Attended—School Hall Beautifully Decorated for the Occasion.

The success of the alumni reception of the North Plainfield High School, last evening, was assured even before it was held, for an energetic committee was in charge and everything was carefully planned and arranged. It is but fair to say that the reception was the most successful one that has yet been held. A delightful change from last year was in the omission of the business meeting at the first part of the reception and the change of the affair into a regular reception and dance.

The reception was held in the hall in the school building, which was charmingly decorated for the occasion. Red prevailed and was to be found in the shape of bunting and flowers. The banners of the different classes were hung about the walls, and altogether the general effect was delightful.

The first part of the evening was an informal reception, in which the guests were presented to the fair graduates and to each other. Dr. Warde, the superintendent, was present as were a number of the teachers. Then the music began and dancing followed for the rest of the evening, with an interruption for the serving of refreshments. Everybody did not dance, and seats were arranged for their benefit in the side of the rooms where they could watch the others or chat with their friends.

About a hundred were present. Rogers furnished the music.

All the Household Goods Are Covered By Mortgages.

While all the household property of Dr. J. D. Wood, of Crescent avenue, was not sold at the chattel mortgage sale yesterday, the local creditors of the absent doctor are likely to come out the little end of the horn, for two other chattel mortgages, amounting to $1,300 altogether, are held by Mrs. Annie Wood and E C. Mulford. The attorneys for the latter parties, Swackhamer & Williams, are preparing to take action in the matter and the goods will be placed in storage in security for the debt.

The local merchants still hold bills for the amount of $500, but at present it looks as if they will get left, as there is nothing else on which to make an attachment.

An Incorporated Body Now.

The Town Improvement Association of Plainfield has become an incorporated body. Articles of incorporation have been filed at Elizabeth in accordance with the decision of the association at a meeting some time ago, as was told in The Press at the time. The object of the association as given out is to arouse deeper interest in that city's welfare, and suggest to women how they should discharge their municipal obligations. Besides this, the association will appoint committees to see that the laws and city ordinances are not violated. The officers are:—Francis J. Mali, president; Mary H. Patterson and Emily C. F. Randolph, vice presidents; Francesca B. Krom, recording secretary; Elizabeth Stewart, corresponding secretary, and Louise B. Gilbert, treasurer. The list of membership includes women of the highest social standing.

Fell From His Horse.

Harvey Fisk, son of Mayor C. J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, met with what came very near being a serious accident. He was riding horseback and had just reached the corner of Park avenue and West Seventh street, when his horse slipped and fell on its side. By a quick movement Fisk threw himself clear of the stirrups and just escaped falling under the horse. Some passersby assisted him to get his horse on its feet again.

Will Meet Evenings, Too.

The Commissioners appointed under the Martin Act are desirous that all interested should be made aware that they will meet in the evening of July 8th, from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, as well as in the afternoon of that day, thus endeavoring to give all an opportunity of meeting with them either in the afternoon or evening of the date fixed, July 8th, as convenience may offer.

Politics at an Outing.

The Democratic City Executive Committee of Elizabeth is planning for an outing on August 19th to Whitestone, L. I. The steamer Isabel will be chartered for the trip. The committee intend this to be a big gathering of Union county Democrats.

Delinquent Tax Payers.

The list of delinquent tax-payers will be published in The Daily Press on Monday. It is the regular list, however, and has nothing to do with the Martin Act.

WOMEN IN CITY COURT.

JUDGE DEMEZA FINED TWO OF THEM WHO PLEADED GUILTY.

The Story of the Trouble Between the Two Young Women of Color Was Rehearsed—Other Offenders Tried.

It was "Ladies' Day" at the city court this morning, and City Judge DeMeza fined two of them $5 apiece for different offences.

The two dusky maids came before the Judge for trial. Miss Josephine Davis was the prisoner and Miss Carrie Bundy the complainant. The prisoner's story was that she had been standing on North avenue talking with a young man of color, when Miss Bundy made a remark to the young man that reflected on the character of Josephine. The latter brought her hand down upon the speaker's jaw and there was war. Josephine pleaded guilty and was fined $5.

Harry Fosberry was soliloquising to himself on Liberty street. The trouble was "Jersey lightning." He pleaded guilty.

James Day said that Bridget Neumann, of West Third street, called him bad names and he made a complaint against her some time ago. She pleaded guilty and was fined $5.

The complainant against William Blunt did not show up and the Judge discharged him. The trial of John Keeley was adjourned a week. Patrick Keeley was ill and could not appear to be sentenced. The trial of Howard Doty was also laid over for a week.

FOUND A CORPSE.

It Proved to Be a Dog Although They Thought It a Baby.

Yesterday afternoon while Mr. Gunther, of the borough, was mowing grass on West End avenue, near Grant avenue and the small stream which passes close by, he detected a terrible stench coming from the stream. On investigation he discovered a large mysterious looking bag lying in the water near the bank.

His first thought was that the bag contained a dead baby and his suspicion seemed to be well grounded, for the bag was so large. At the time he did not investigate any further but waited until this morning, when he notified Chief Marshal Wilson, of his discovery. The latter went to the spot at once and found the mysterious looking bag. At first he was of the opinion that the bag concealed an infant.

He secured a long pole with a hook on the end and pulled the bag closer to the bank for investigation. As soon as he turned the bag over he discovered the feet of a dead dog. The animal was a large one and anyone might suppose that a child was hidden away in the bushes. The spot was a secluded one and unless a person was attracted by the terrible stench they would not be likely to find the bag.

Chief Wilson at once informed the Board of Health of the affair, and the dog will be removed and buried immediately.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION ELECTS.

Hereafter the Affairs Will be Conducted in a Business-Like Manner.

A meeting of the North Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association was held last evening in the rooms of Warren Engine Company, when officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, L. B. Woolston; vice president, David Bodine; secretary, Herman Hansen; treasurer, J F. Buckle; trustees, G. F. Fairchild, Gus Feiring and David Bodine.

The members decided that in the future they would conduct the business of the association in a more business-like manner. Heretofore the members have not taken the interest in the association that they should. An adjournment was made to the third Friday in June when other important business will be considered. The treasurer was put under $3.000 bonds and a salary of $15 was given him.

May Build a Theatre.

The site of the Allen Theatre, at New Brunswick, which was destroyed by fire in December, has been bought by William Sutton, of New York. The deed was filed Thursday. The building was formerly owned by the Newark Home Builders' Association, of which Edward Ward is president. The consideration is not set forth. It is understood Sutton will build a theatre.

A Strange Combination.

B. R. Waldron, of Coddington avenue, has quite a curiosity on his front lawn. It is a beautiful Magna Charta rose bush, in full bloom, on a small dog wood tree, he having grafted the rose bush into the top of the dog wood tree. The effect is quite pretty as it resembles a large bouquet of roses on a cane stuck into the lawn.

STITES TELLS HIS SIDE.

HE CLAIMS THAT HIS WIFE DESERTED HIM.

Said That She Refused to Live With Him and Married Another Beau—Other Points of His Version.

Theodore Stites called at The Daily Press office recently and stated that he desired to have his side of the story published as regards his being married to two women as he was accused of by his former wife, who is now Mrs. Benson. Mr. Stites says that he married Miss Kate Sprigg on October 21st, 1889, and that she was not faithful to him. He being a Protestant and she a Catholic was the cause of their family relations not being what they should be. At the time he was employed by P. M. French, of Somerset street, and the $7.50 he received a week he gave to her every Saturday night, and that if she did not have enough in the house to eat it was not his fault. Furthermore, Mr. Stites says that he has a number of witnesses who can testify that she would mix flour for bread and then go off with another man and remain away so long that the bread would be sour when she returned.

"During this time," Mr. Stites continued, "I went to Pennsylvania where I secured work, and while I was there my wife accused me of going with other women. This is false, absolutely. I returned to Plainfield in a few weeks and I then learned that all my furniture had been removed from my house to the place where her parents lived. When I met her I inquired the reason for her actions, and she said that she would not live with me. On a number of occasions I remained at home and watched the baby while she went walking with Benson, the man she afterward married. I have a number of witnesses to show that I did support her and was doing my share toward keeping the home together.

"Last fall I brought action against her for bigamy but for some reason the court never paid any attention to the matter. About two weeks ago I was married to Miss Clara Giddis, of Greenbrook road. As regards taking her out riding, I can say that that is false. I never went riding with Miss Giddis. I felt as though I had a perfect right to get married again after my first wife left me and refused to live with me, and when she says that I would not support her, she says what is not true. All I desire is that fair treatment be given on both sides."

Mr. Stites was very frank in his manner. The reason he gives for going to Pennsylvania was that he could not stand the trouble which was then brewing.

HE WANTS RETRIBUTION

MILNE SAYS THAT SCANDALOUS STORIES WERE CIRCULATED.

Their Object, He Claims, Was to Break His Engagement With Miss Connors—Now He Sues For Damages.

A suit for $5,000 damages has been commenced in the Supreme Court by John C. Milne, of Plainfield, through his attorneys, Reed & Coddington, against George Voehl, the West Front street baker, and Mrs. Voehl, his wife.

The case is one of alleged defamation of character. Milne, who is a carpenter, employed by John Abbott, in this city, alleges that Mr. and Mrs. Voehl have attempted to break off his engagement with Miss Kate Connors, by telling her tales about him which were not true.

A sister of Miss Connors stated today that she once overheard Mrs. Voehl telling her sister that Milne was an excessive drinker.

When a Press reporter called to see Miss Connor at her home, 29 Harrison street, today, she was not there. An attempt to find Milne was also unsuccessful.

The Voehls and the Connors have been friends for many years, and the latter are unwilling to discuss the suit. It is alleged that some of the stories circulated by the Voehls about Milne would be unfit for newspaper publication.

May Open a School.

The many friends of Dr. Warde, who has been superintendent of the North Plainfield Public School this year, are urging him to take the school, which has heretofore been conducted by Rev. Joselyn Johnston, and continue it. Dr. Warde has the plan under consideration for some time. If he decides to take the school, he will make it a military school.

Peck Is All Right.

In referring to the recent agitation among some of the merchants of the city relative to early closing, the Press forgot to state that Peck closes at 7 o'clock, the year around, and asks no questions of anyone.

ST. MARY'S SCHOLARS

ENTERTAIN A LARGE AUDIENCE IN THEIR SCHOOL HALL.

It Was the Occasion of the Closing Exercises of the Parochial School—Delightful Features of the Programme.

The closing exercises of St. Mary's school, which took place in the school's assembly hall, last evening, were something of an innovation, and judging by the enthusiastic applause given by the large audience, the whole affair was a success. The walls of the assembly room were tastefully decorated with pale blue and white bunting, the class colors; and large clusters of exquisite roses were placed on the piano and the front of the platform. Not a seat was vacant in the room, and many were standing in the aisles and at the rear.

The programme commenced at 8 o'clock by a "Welcome" chorus, sung by boys and girls of the school. Next came a solo and chorus, "The Little Old Woman," by Little Miss May Murray and a number of primary girls. Although it was difficult to distinguish the words of this song the sight of the pretty little girls in white completely won the audience, and much applause was given. About forty primary boys next appeared and scored a hit with their action song, "Hear Me Say My A. B. C." In some respects this song was the hit of the evening. The next chorus, by fifty grammar girls, was entitled "School," and was well rendered; eighteen boys of the grammar school department gave a character song, "The Dashing Soldier Boy," in uniform. The piece included some difficult marching evolutions, which were well carried out. The leader of the march was John Traynor.

The second part of the programme began with a drama, "My Uncle, the Captain," which was enacted by six grammar boys. The story of the play was that of an innocent young man who was mistaken for a thief and was identified and rescued at the critical moment by his uncle. The part of "Landlord Hauscomb," who was on the lookout for suspicious characters in his hotel, was well taken by Charles McCann; "Sam Skillings, of Dismaltown," who came to the hotel and was taken for "John Smith," a filcher of silver spoons, was impersonated in litelike fashion by Albert Traynor; the part "Captain Nat Skillings" Sam's uncle, a briny sea captain of a week's experience, was played by John Madden; John Carty and John Berry as "Pete" and "Steve," two waiters who had their eye on Sam Skillings, were good in their parts, as was also Thomas Mack in the part of "Bobby Small," an enterprising bootblack. As a whole the cast of the play showed exceptional talent for an amateur performance.

Tennyson's "Come Into the Garden, Maud," was sung with fine expression by Miss A. Daley. The song gave evidence of fine vocal powers well trained. 'God Bless You, My Boy," was sung by Master T. Carty, as a soloist, and a chorus of twelve boys.

The most lengthy and pretentious part of the programme was a fantasie, entitled "The Nations Greeting Liberty." Miss A. Daley, costumed as "Liberty," stood upon the stage and received the representatives of the different nations as they were brought forward with their flags in hand. After the introduction, a dancer, costumed to represent the nation just introduced, came upon the stage and executed a dance characteristic of the country in question. The dancing was excellent and of interest as it was designed to show the prevailing custom of dancing in each country. The costumes were in good taste and presumably correct. Those who represented the different nations were: England, Miss E Barrell; Ireland, Miss G. Corrigan; Scotland, Miss E. Shea; France, Miss J. Lutz; Germany, Miss M. Doll; Italy, Miss M. Burke; Spain, Miss A. Ryan; Russia, Miss M. Shannon; Switzerland, the Misses R. Roche and F. Hillman; Japan, Miss W. Kane; China, Charles McCann; American Indian, T. O'Keefe; Cuba, Miss E. Johnson.

The representative of China was somewhat embarrassed during his dance, when his Chinese shoes came off. He finished without them, however, and was loudly applauded. T. O'Keefe, as the American Indian, looked like a genuine savage, and caused much merriment. Cuba, represented by a small colored girl, was greeted cordially. Liberty came forward and took her into her arms. A fine tableau, in which all the nations figured, was given as the curtain went down.

NEARING THE FINISH

The Wool, the Silk and the Tobacco Schedules Completed.

CHELTON ON INTERSTATE COMMERCE

He Advocates Its Prohibition In Articles Manufactured by Trusts and Advises Making Its Enforcement Punishable by Imprisonment.

Washington, June 26.—The senate has completed the wool schedule, the silk schedule and the tobacco schedule of the tariff bill, and with this accomplished the tariff leaders had the satisfaction of knowing that all the schedules of the bill and the free list had been gone over once. There now remains only to go through the bill a second time, passing on the items passed over. These are very numerous and important, including hides, gloves, coal, tea and beer.

After that the internal revenue features of the bill will be all that remains Progress has been rapid, although every paragraph relating to carpets was stubbornly contested. The consideration of the silk schedule led to a strong contest against the proposed duties on silk fabrics, Senators Teller and Mantle joining with the Democrats in opposition.

The paragraph was passed by the slender majority of 2. The tobacco schedule went through with little friction after the committee had advanced the duty slightly on wrapper and leaf tobacco.

Senator Chelton gave notice of an amendment he will offer to the tariff bill prohibiting interstate commerce in articles manufactured by trusts, making the offense punishable by three years' imprisonment.

The senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations:

Albert C. Thompson of Ohio, Alexander C. Botkin of Montana and David B. Culberson of Texas to be the commissioners to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the states, as provided for by the act of congress approved June 4.

To be consuls: William Jarvis of New Hampshire, at Milan; Horace W. Metcalf of Maine, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England; Edward H. Thompson of Massachusetts, at Progresso, Mexico.

To be United States marshals: Charles P. Hitch for the southern district of Illinois, Walter H. Johnson for the northern district of Georgia, Addison Davis James for the district of Kentucky.

For a New Immigrant Station.

Washington, June 26.—Commissioner General Stump of the immigration bureau in a letter to the secretary of the treasury gives his views as to the rebuilding of the immigrant station on Ellis island. Mr. Stump recommends that the work of reclaiming the island be continued until about three acres more are added, making the total area about 17 acres.

He further recommends the construction of a main building for the use of immigrants, a hospital, with quarters for the medical corps, and a restaurant and kitchen.

These three buildings, he says, should be of steel and brick construction, fireproof and with all modern improvements. The total improvements, he estimated, would cost about $600,000.

National Banks to Organize.

Washington, June 26.—Authority has been granted for the organization of the First National bank of Edensburg, Pa.; capital $50,000. The Nazareth National bank of Nazareth, Pa., has been authorized to begin business; capital $50,000. Authority has been given the Exchange bank of Springfield, Mo., to convert to a national bank, under the name of the Exchange National bank.

The total receipts from these certificates, as previously published, amount to $12,509,765.

Gun Factory to Shut Down.

Troy, N. Y., June 26.—The big gun factory at the Watervliet arsenal is to be shut down during the month of July. Notice to that effect has been posted. The reason given is that owing to the lack of forgings and the desire of some of the men to have a vacation it will be best to put all on equal terms and close the entire establishment. There are 475 men in the gunshop, and about 40 will be retained to make repairs, while the machinery is not being used. The lower shops will not be closed, as smaller work is done there.

Actor Hoey Insane.

Detroit, June 26.—William Hoey, the actor, widely known in theatrical circles as Old Hoss Hoey, who has been taking the baths at Mount Clemens, has lately developed signs of mental unsoundness, and a party of friends have started with him for New York city, where he will probably enter Bellevue hospital for treatment. Within the last few days his mental vagaries have assumed a violent form, and it is feared by his physicians he will never recover.

Boy's Arm Torn Off.

Batavia, N. Y., June 26.—George E. Shappell, 17 years old, has been frightfully injured. His left arm was torn completely off at the elbow by machinery at the Chapin factory. He was working on a cutting machine, and by a slipping belt was caught and dragged into the machinery. He was lifted several feet from the floor before the arm gave way.

Farm Machinery Makers Assign.

Sandwich, Ills., June 26.—The Sandwich Enterprise company, manufacturers of windmills, cotton planters and farm machinery, has made an assignment to D. K. Crawfoot of this city. The liabilities are placed at $200,000.

Death of the "Astor Tramp."

Newburg, N. Y., June 26.—John Garvey, the famous Astor tramp, died in the hospital at Matteawan yesterday.

IN THE HANDS OF A MOB

Key West Overrun by Colored Men, Who Threaten the Town.

SERIOUS TROUBLE MAY YET ARISE.

Begun at a Trial Held In the Courthouse When a Threat Was Made to Lynch the Prisoner Murder of a White Man.

Key West, June 26.—This city has been virtually in the hands of a negro mob, and a white citizen was killed by them. Silvanus Johnson, charged with assault on a white woman, Mrs. Margaret Atwell, was conducted to the courthouse for a hearing. The courtroom was crowded, and C. B. Pendleton, a well known citizen, arose and asked, "Are there enough white men present to hang the negro." There was a chorus of "Yes," and the crowd closed in on the prisoner. The sheriff and his deputies drew their revolvers and held the crowd at bay while Johnson was at once hurried back to jail. A big mob gathered in front of the building, and one of the negroes cried out to lynch Pendleton, and a rush was made for him. Through the efforts of himself and his friends Pendleton made his escape in a carriage.

The negro mob then gathered again about the jail building to prevent the lynching of Johnson, and open threats were made by them to kill any white man that might come to the jail. About 11 o'clock at night William Gardner, a white man, was sitting in front of the courthouse, when several of the negro mob approached him and ordered him to move on. He arose to obey, and as soon as his back was turned there rang out the crack of a number of rifles, and Gardner received a mortal wound, from which he died two hours later.

The whites are inclined to avenge Gardner's death, and another attempt to lynch Johnson is expected to be made. A serious conflict between the whites and blacks is feared.

The militia is in readiness for any disturbance, having been ordered out by the governor, and the United States troops are at the orders of the sheriff.

Ask Aid From Washington.

Washington, June 26.—The governor of Florida telegraphed President McKinley that a riot is threatened at Key West and asked him that, in view of the distance of Key West from the mainland and the difficulty of getting state troops to the scene of trouble in time to be of any avail, to instruct the commander of the federal troops there to act. The president replied to the governor citing the law in the case and asking for particulars. Secretary Alger has telegraphed to the commandant of the post at Key West asking for telegraphic advices giving the exact situation. The action to be taken will depend upon the response to these inquiries.

A Baker Mysteriously Disappears.

Oneonta, N. Y., June 26.—Frank Parrish, who conducted a bakery in the Niles building on Broad street, disappeared and has not been seen since Tuesday. His wife notified the police that night of his absence, and she don't know his whereabouts now. Numerous creditors were demanding pay at the house. Several firms have issued attachments, closed the store and will sell the stock of goods. The liabilities are not known. On the night that Parrish left an attempt was made to burn the building in which the bakery was located. The fire was quickly discovered by a woman residing in a flat above and promptly extinguished. A quantity of kerosene was thrown over the landing at the foot of the back stairs.

Russian Ironclad Sunk.

St. Petersburg, June 26.—The Russian turret ironclad Gangoot, one of the best vessels in the imperial navy, ran upon a reef near Transund during a storm and sank almost immediately. The crew is reported saved. The Gangoot belonged to the Black sea fleet. She was of 6,592 tons displacement, 278 feet long, 62 feet in the beam and had a maximum draft of 21 feet, with two propellers, and 8,300 horsepower. She was built at St. Petersburg in 1890 and had a speed of 14.7 knots. Her complement was 528 men. She had one 12-inch gun, four 9-inch guns, four 6-inch guns and ten quick firing guns, with five torpedo tubes.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Brockwayville, Pa., June 26.—Adam Leck, aged 62, and his son William, aged 25, were instantly killed by the explosion of the boiler in a small machine shop at Brockport, Elk county. The building was owned by Leck and was demolished by the force of the explosion. Both bodies were blown a distance of about 100 feet and were terribly mangled. Frank Leck, another son, was working but a few feet from his father and escaped without a scratch. The explosion is thought to have been caused by carrying too much steam.

More

Medicinal value in a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other preparation.

More skill is required, more care taken, more expense incurred in its manufacture. It costs the proprietor and the dealer

More but it costs the consumer less, as he gets more doses for his money.

More curative power is secured by its peculiar combination, proportion and process, which make it peculiar to itself.

Oxygen and Iron.

Two Great Essentials of Life. The Latest Discovery of Science.

Doctors of all schools agree that oxygen and iron are essentials of life. It is well known that it is the oxygen in the air which gives the life, and it is the oxygen in the air also which has the greatest power in destroying germ diseases and restoring health. Almost all chronic ailments are quickly killed when concentrated oxygen from the air is brought in contact with them. Nature has arranged that we shall breathe oxygen into our lungs, and that this oxygen shall then be taken up by the blood. It is the iron or Hæmoglobin in the blood which attracts the oxygen from the air cavities in the lungs and carries it to every part of the body. Therefore you must have iron or Hæmoglobin in your blood, for if you have not, your blood becomes thick, heavy, and impure. Pimples, blotches, eruptions and other skin affections result. The tongue grows furred. There is languidness, biliousness, lack of appetite, nervousness and either constant drowsiness or inability to sleep. Ordinary preparations of iron fail to effect a cure because they are not in the form demanded by nature; they cannot be taken up by the blood, merely serving as an irritant to stomach and bowels. Dr. Campbell, an eminent practitioner of London, England, has succeeded in extracting from the blood of healthy bullocks, iron as it exists in the human blood. This is redissolved and enclosed in a soft pointed gelatine covering called Capsuloids. In this form it is being used by the leading English physicians. It has lately been introduced to this country and can be used by anyone, young or old, with the best results.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The marriage of Miss Waldron, of Harrison street, and Mr. Drake, also of the borough, will be solemenized next Wednesday evening at the home of the bride.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Stryker Bros., of West Front street, have nearly completed their new house.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Marguerite Loughlin, of East Third street, who fell from a cherry tree recently and nearly lost her life, is improving nicely at the hospital where she is now confined.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Dr. Mattison, of the borough, has returned from a visit on the mountains.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

CORNELL VICTORIOUS

She Beats Her Nearest Competitor by Over Three Lengths.

AMERICAN METHODS ARE SUPERIOR.

In Spite of English Innovations In Training, the Other Crews Are Left Behind—The Question of Weight In Races Is Settled.

Poughkeepsie, June 26.—American grit, American methods and American training have won, as against American grit coupled with English methods and English training. A crew of American college youths, trained under an American coach, won from two other American college crews in an eight oared contest, the two other crews, Yale and Harvard, having studied, the one under an American coach with a mixture of English and American methods and the other discarding all American teachings and methods and importing an English coach in an endeavor to prove a superiority for Henley methods. No such contest ever occurred in this country before.

Yesterday the leading crews of three leading colleges of this college strewed country started down the four mile stretch together. Yale finished second, and 3¼ boat lengths separated her from Cornell. Harvard, with her newly acquired English methods, finished third, and she was over 8½ lengths behind the Cornellians. Her eight were thoroughly exhausted, while the exponents of American theory as applied to the propulsion of eight oared shells, finished at a hot pace without any distress being apparent.

The tide was slack, the wind favored no particular crew, absolutely no favor of any kind was shown by nature toward the result. The race was rowed entirely on its merits.

The race also set a conclusion upon the long mooted question concerning weights. Yale stripped in their boat today at an average of 171 pounds, and Cornell, 158. Yale used every pound of its "beef" on the leverage of its oar, at times with a nervousness which made the boat fairly lift from the water. Cornell employed her trained down muscle without "beef" in a leisurely, confident manner that pulled her at every stroke toward victory. It was a singular coincidence that the English trained crew, Harvard, pursued exactly the same method as to the number of strokes per minute as did the winning crew, and although they weighed in on an average 10 pounds heavier than Cornell's men, that extra weight told for nothing, and either from too much fineness in training or lack of ability to pull the stroke set for them, they were practically dead after the second mile.

Used Her Usual Stroke.

It is also curious to note that Cornell pulled exactly the same kind of a stroke and the same number of strokes to the minute that she pulled last year when she won in record breaking time, and that Harvard, while advertising that she had entirely new methods, was defeated in exactly the same manner that defeat met her last year.

Briefly the result of the race is that Cornell asserts her superiority in rowing, method of training and capability over the two older universities, and she still holds the record for intercollegiate eights of 19m. 29s., which she made last year.

The race was one of the most brilliant in the history of aquatics in this country. The crews started with a stroke of 32 for Cornell and 36 for Harvard and Yale. Harvard gained a slight advantage over the others at the start, and the usual note of jubilation went up from the Harvard adherents. It was apparent within the first quarter mile that the Cornell crew was using the same method that took them on to victory last year, that of a slow and telling stroke that would wear out their opponents. The boats traveled swiftly, although it was easily noticeable that the tide was at a slack and that the conditions did not favor record breaking. Yale, with a quick stroke, hung in the rear until after the first quarter of a mile, while Harvard and Cornell fought it out. Cornell forged to the front before the end of the first mile was reached, and then began a struggle for the place between Yale and Harvard, old enemies.

Harvard struggled valiantly, but before the end of the mile and a half was in the rear of Yale. Cornell, never varying the stroke, went on with that easy, swinging movement, little Colson in the coxswain's box cautioning them not to turn away with it. Harvard, acting under the instruction of their training master, used at many points the same stroke as to numbers, but it seemed to have little effect, the boat of Cornell running away from Harvard. At the two mile point Yale's crew were going away from Harvard, and the latter seemed unable to prevent it, although they were rowing away at the long 32 stroke that had been predicted as a winning one.

Yale's Desperate Spurt.

After Yale got away from Harvard she turned her attention to Cornell, and just beyond the second mile made a desperate spurt to catch the slim youngsters. Never for a moment did the young white shirted lads from Cornell get rattled. Backward and forward went the sweeps with a rhythmical movement and a powerful swing that was surprising to watch. The weighty youngsters from Yale used every pound of leverage on the end of the oar, but they could not bring their boat alongside of the swiftly moving boat of the Cornell boys. The Harvard men were rowing in very weak fashion during this next mile, and it was evident that they were thoroughly used up.

At the bridge the coxswain of the Harvard crew had to give the Harvard stroke a little water in his face, and for a moment, under the reviving influence, the boat swung along at a goodly pace. But only for a moment, and just as they passed under the big bridge the stroke began to give way. Cornell was rowing at 32, and Yale was working away at 33 and 34 and evidently tired.

The last mile of the race was probably one of the most sensational in the history of college aquatics. Sensational not so much from the fact that it recorded the defeat of the crews of the two leading colleges of the United States, but it demonstrated to the satisfaction of the majority of those who have watched the work of the crews and the different methods pursued in their training that the Lehmann or the Cook stroke must bow to the superiority of the Courtney modification of the two and that while weight and brawn are factors they must be combined with skill, and the skill is that which Mr. Courtney teaches.

As they approached the finish line it was seen that the Harvard eight were nearly to a man in difficulties, while several of the Yale men were showing signs of distress. Then the Cornell crew, as if in mockery at the discomfiture of their rivals, increased their stroke to 34 and shot past the judges' boat, every man as fresh apparently as when he started, and as if not satisfied with their wonderful exhibition, rowed for a quarter of a mile down the river, first giving three rousing cheers to the man who had coached them to victory, Charles E. Courtney.

Ten seconds after Cornell, Yale crossed the line and immeditely stopped rowing, with No. 2, Whitney, and No. 3, Campbell, in a state of collapse.

Then came Harvard, 16 seconds behind, her entire crew used up and three of the men utterly helpless. Hardly had the nose of her shell reached the finish when Boardman, stroke, fell back off his seat. Wrightington, at No. 3, and J. F. Perkins, at No. 5, also lost their oars, and their companions commenced to splash water over them. In the meantime Goodrich, captain, was trying to raise Boardman, but was too weak, and the coxswain was throwing water over the two. After a long wait for their launch, which could not get through the crowd of various craft that seemed to come from everywhere at once, the men were reached and carefully taken to their quarters.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

An Italian Convicted In the First Degree For the Murder of a Woman.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 26.—Nicodemo Imposino, charged with complicity in the murder of the wife of Giuseppe Fuda at East Norwalk Feb. 17 last, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was out nearly two hours. The closing argument was made this morning by State Attorney Samuel Fessenden, who spoke for over an hour.

Judge Ralph Wheeler immediately charged the jury, and it took him nearly three-quarters of an hour to finish his charge. After the jury reported, Attorney Chamberlain, counsel for Imposino, made a motion for arrest of judgment, alleging that some of the jurors visited the scene of the murder without the consent of the court. The motion will be argued before Judge Wheeler next Monday, and sentence was deferred.

COLLEGIATE ATHLETES.

Nowadays the collegiate boat race seem to attract universal interest. Everybody wanted to hear the result of the triangular race between Cornell, Yale and Harvard, at Poughkeepsie, yesterday, and when the announcement came, hundreds of dollars changed hands. All the collegiate athletic contests have risen to a prominent place during the last few years Now all of the small boys know everyone of the prominent athletes by name and discuss their abilities and defects with the air of experts. A few years ago scarcely anyone outside of the circle of the friends of the college boys knew about the games that were played and the races that were rowed. The college boy has increased in numbers with great rapidity and so has the interest in his achievements.

The New York and New Jersey Bridge Company must now begin anew in preparing and filing general preliminary plans for the approval of the Secretary of War, and this will require two or three months' work. If these delays continue the present generation will have little chance of seeing the bridge in practical operation, New Jersey is in sore need of some change by which trains can be run direct to and from New York without the delays and inconvenience incident to the use of ferryboats.—New York Tribune.

The City Improvement League of Perth Amboy is a flourishing organization. Like our own Improvement Association, they wanted a fountain for their city and, better, it has now been completed. There must be something in the air of New Jersey that makes her women so much more energetic than those of other States, for even in the smaller cities of this State, the women are banding together to improve and beautify their homes.

Now that the commencement season is over, the cool summer weather has returned. There is no need to worry, however, for there is plenty of warm weather coming even if the commencements will not come again until next year.

BIG FISH IN RAHWAY RIVER.

School of Sharks May Have Chased Them Up Stream.

Men stood on the Monroe and Bridge streets bridges in Rahway yesterday morning and watched the fish. Some were very large and looked like bluefish.

When a move was made to capture them with a net they disappeared, but soon returned.

The Rahway fishermen think a school of sharks is in Staten Island Sound and has chased bluefish into the tributaries. The Rahway river is one.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. FOUND DEAD BY THE ROAD SIDE.

The Aged Man Had Been Stricken Down by a Sunstroke.

The first death from the heat reported from Middlesex county is that of Timothy Burns, seventy-two years old, who was found dead near his home at Wyckoff Mills, near New Brunswick, Thursday. After a day's work near the mills he started for home and was seen late in the afternoon by Mr. Johnson sitting on a stone by the side of the road. He then complained of feeling ill, and Mr. Johnson offered to take him home, but he said he was in no need of assistance.

Another man passing half an hour later found Burns dead. Justice John M. Lucas, of Monroe township, the acting coroner, decided that Burns had died of sunstroke or of apoplexy and that an inquest was not necessary. The sunstroke theory was confirmed by a medical examination.

An attempt was made yesterday morning by some unknown persons to effect an entrance in the Sanford Staples house near Dunellen. The thieves cut a hole in the screen door in the front of the house and then made an effort to open the next door. On the latter door there is a peculiar latch and the robbers were unable to open the door after the most persistent effort as was shown by the condition of the door. Being foiled in their efforts at this place, they went to the home of A. S. Coriell where they succeeded in getting in the cellar. They found a large batch of eggs and they did not leave one as a memento. That was all they took and as far as can be learned they did not bother any other place. Every bit of evidence leads those acquainted with the facts to believe that the thieves are the same ones who have been making life so miserable for Plainfielders.

WESTFIELD

TO DISCUSS STREETS.

WESTFIELD TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE MET LAST EVENING.

Case of George W. Tice Bobs Up Again—Jr. O. U. A. M. Elects Officers—The Conger-Garrison Wedding.

The meeting of the Westfield Township Committee last evening was called to consider the establishment of a uniform curb line on Broad street. It has been the intention of the committee for some time to repair Broad street in the business portion of the town, but the committee has been waiting for the property owners to repair their sidewalks and establish a uniform curb line before commencing the work. Property owners were invited to be present at last night's meeting and state their views on the matter. The invitation was accepted by a number. H. C. VanEmburgh appeared and stated that there was a difference of two feet in the width of sidewalks on the west side of the street. This, however, would make no difference in the road center. The property owners present agreed not to increase the irregularity in the width of the sidewalks concerned, but to remedy it when repairs became necessary. On Mr. Van Emburgh's suggestion a motion was passed that an agreement be drawn up for the property owners to sign to the effect that they will co-operate with the Committee in the effort to straighten the curb line. George W. Tice was present, and asked the Committee what reparation it intended to make for the tearing up of the pipes connecting his property with the sewer. It will be remembered that some time ago Tice laid a lateral which ran surface water from his premises into the sewer. The action was taken in defiance of the Township Committee's warning that the sewer could not be used to carry off surface water. Acting under orders from the Committee, E. W. Chamberlain, superintendent of sewers, ripped up the pipes as soon as they were laid. A communication was read from Mr. Tice's counsel, stating that unless the Committee took some action in the matter a suit for damages would be brought against the township. The communication was referred to the Committee's counsel, Frank Bergen, with a request that he consult with Mr. Tice's lawyer. Bills to the amount of $25 were ordered paid and the Committee adjourned until next Friday evening when the bids for the issue of sewer bonds will be received and opened.

ABDUL-HAMID'S SINS.

THE RULER OF TURKEY A COWARD AND DESPISED BY HIS SUBJECTS.

Believed to be the Son of an Armenian Slave Girl, and not a Turk—His Household, Consisting of 12,000 Persons, Costs and Endless Sum to Maintain.

As the central figure of an unique political situation, which has long been threatening to plunge all Europe into war, Abdul-Hamid, the present ruler of Turkey, is just now the object of more attention than any other man in the world; more anxiety and animosity, more criticism, and more inquiry and speculation.

Abdul-Hamid is all that eminent authorities have painted him. He has caused old hulks to be filled with obnoxious Christians and sent them to be scuttled into the depths of the Black Sea. He has decorated and otherwise honored the most notorious miscreants and assassins responsible for the outrages upon his Christian subjects. During the massacres following the raid on the Ottoman Bank of Constantinople last September, when the 6,000 victims met their doom, the Sultan could have stopped these assassinations at any moment, but allowed them to go on for three days as a concession to the rage of his people against the Armenians.

The household of the Sultan is a nightmare in flesh and blood—a monstrosity perfectly in keeping with the other monstrosities which go to make up that thing of horror called the Turkish Empire. It consists, writes a Turkish authority, who is evidently familiar wth the palace, in a recent number of the Contemporary Review, of 12,000 persons. Endless sums are squandered in the support of the imperial household and it can be imagined by what exactions and robberies, by what tortures and rapacities this vast amount is extorted from the victims of the Turkish authorities.

Like the Pope at Rome, the Sultan is a self-constituted prisoner in his palace. Like the Pope, too, he eats alone. Habitually he drinks only water, brought to the palace in cases, under special precautions. His food is extremely plain, served in silver saucepans, presented to him at table, sealed.

ABDUL-HAMID.

Curiously enough, this hideous political monster and nondescript is fond of music, and a fair musician, frequently placing himself at the piano. In speech he is a purist, speaking well, in a slow, monotonous voice, but occasionally he lets loose a flood of expression which rises at times to the dignity of eloquence.

In addition to these general and outward aspects of his everyday life, there is a dark and sinister side which is not so apparent. In his harem, in his palace at Yildiz, and in the kiosks which occupy the park around it, the Sultan has more than fifty different rooms and desks where he attends to business. No one knows where to find him at any hour of the day or evening. Uneasy as a specter and as suspicious as a wolf, he flits from room to room, often passing out of a building by a rear door and leaving the sentry at the front entrance to suppose that he is still within. But wherever he is, and whatever may be the hour of the day or evening, he is watched over and guarded by groups of human bloodhounds he has trained for that purpose. Between the principal entrance of the Yildiz Kiosk and the rooms which serve as his habitation, there are four or five doors, before which stand Albanian sentries, and through which no one can pass unless he is accompanied by a chamberlain or orderly of the bodyguard, and none of these dare introduce a visitor of any kind into the presence of their master without special permission. Where the Sultan will sleep on any given night is known only to himself. He has more than fifty beds at his disposal, many of them in the imperial gyneceum or private abodes of his legitimate wives, and others in the palace itself, not to speak of the bolted and barred retreats into which he vanishes when he has especial reasons for taking extra precautions.

These sleeping apartments are invariably seperated from all other rooms by iron doors, the keys of which are masterpieces in all that pertains to the niceties of the locksmith's art. It is even said that the walls and ceilings of these apartments possess dissimulated hiding places which have been elaborated by builders from Western Europe. To crown all his precautions, the Sultan has two large St. Bernard dogs lying before the door of the room in which he sleeps, knowing that the power of money, as used in universal corruptions around him, will have no charm for these four-footed guardians, and that he can depend upon them to arouse him at the slightest noise or footstep that may menace him.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

NARROW SILK FRINGE REVIVED.

Miles of Ribbon and Yards Upon Yards of Lace Used for Trimmings.

(By Special Arrangement with the N.Y. Sun.)

It is evident that foulard is one of the most popular materials of the season, and the use of green on a blue and white silk seems to be a favorite contrast. Black with blue and white is another, and the black satin belt is admissible on any gown, without regard to the mixture of colors. One blue and white model has a yoke of perpendicular rows of black and white lace insertion, a black satin belt, and a full bodice of silk with fine cordings an inch apart running around below the yoke. The skirt is plainly hemmed and made loose from the lining, as all the new skirts are, and eight fine cords are set in around the hips twelve inches below the waist, beginning at the front breadth. Cording and tucking are special features of fashion, particularly in the thin gowns, and the finer the tucks the more up to date they are. Tiny tucks drawn up in shirrings close together in groups are one of the favorite effects for muslin gowns, and they are arranged around the hips on the skirts and for the yokes on the waist.

Fortunately, there are no infallible rules of fashion this season, and almost any form of decoration that can be devised will pass muster. The secret of distinction in dress lies, nevertheless, in pretty harmonies and telling contrasts of color, or in adopting neutral tints for the gowns to make them stand out amid the gorgeous colors that characterize the most generally worn style of costume.

Next in order of popularity after the foulards and transparent canvas materials is muslin of all kinds, and organdies especially. It would seem from the quaint old-time patterns that the simplicity in modes of "ye olden days" must come back to us; but the fashionable muslin gown is anything but simple in price or manner of trimming. Yards and yards of lace and insertion are used in its construction, and the only redeeming feature in the expense is the use of colored dimity for the lining. But the truly elegant muslin has the silk lining. A fashionable model in white organdie is made over mauve silk and trimmed with rows of lace and insertion set crosswise and up and down on the skirt, up and down on the waist, and around the sleeves, and a ruffle of lace finishes the full bodice where it opens in the side, and at the bottom of the skirt. Mauve satin ribbon forms the sash, and loops of the ribbon catch up the drapery at the top of the sleeves. Another example of the dressy muslin gown is of cornflower blue and white organdie over a mauve silk lining. It is trimmed with rows of narrow blue satin ribbon sewed on.

A STRADIVARIUS IN ALASKA.

A $10,000 Violin the Friend and Companion of a Miner.

At the Cornet mine, on Berner's Bay, eighty-five miles northeast of Juneau, Alaska, in probably as bleak and wild a spot as can be found on this continent, can be heard on the long winter nights strains of harmony that have been lauded through the civilized world.

A traveller who has just returned says:

"One evening, as I was approaching the Cornet mine, I heard some one playing a violin, and though I had heard what have been termed the greatest masters of both hemispheres, I must say that such sounds as came from the unseen player I had never heard equalled.

"When I reached the camp I was welcomed by the superintendent, Willis E. Nowell, and after a hearty supper I asked him who was performing so beautifully on the violin as I approached the camp. Mr. Nowell said: 'I was the player, though your praise of my playing rather embarrasses me.' When I questioned the gentleman regarding his instruments he said the one he was playing was a Stradivarius, named 'Eliza,' for which he paid $10,000, but he also had the 'Nero,' which cost him $5,000.

"I discovered in a further conversation with the gentleman that he was an ex-professor of the Boston Conservatory of Music, and that previous to his coming to Alaska he had performed on the same instrument that nightly gave forth its melodious tones in that bleak region, in nearly every place in Europe.

"Mr. Nowell has been at the mine about three years, and says the solitude often inspires him to themes that all the grandeur of civilization could not bring forth. Mr. Nowell told me that from a child he had a love for the violin that gradually grew on him so that by the time he was twelve years old he had sufficiently mastered that instrument to make his professional debut.

"Mr. Nowell will probably stay at the mine a couple of years more, as he has an interest in the mine, and as it is very rich, as high as $27,000 having been taken out of pockets in three days. When asked if he would sell either of his instruments, he said: 'This mine is rich, but not rich enough to make me part with one of my loves, nor are all the mines in the world rich enough to make me part with either.'" —Portland Oregonian.

AN IMMENSE FARM.

It Consists of 1,500,000 Acres. The Fencing Said to Have Cost $50,000.

The largest farm in this country, and probably in the world, is situated in the southwestern part of Louisiana. It extends 100 miles north and west. It was purchased in 1883 by a syndicate of Northern capitalists, by whom it is still operated. At the time of its purchase its 1,500,000 acres was a vast pasture for cattle belonging to a few dealers in that country. Now it is divided into pasture stations for ranches, existing every six miles. The fencing is said to have cost about $50,000. The land is best adapted for rice, sugar, corn and cotton. A tract, say half a mile wide, is taken, and an engine is placed on each side. The engines are portable, and operate a cable attached to four plows. By this arrangement 30 acres are gone over in a day, with the labor of only three men.

There is not a single draught horse on the entire place, if we except those used by the herders of cattle, of which there are 16,000 head on the place. The Southern Pacific railway runs for 36 miles through the farm. The company have three steamboats operating on the estate, of which 300 miles are navigable. It has also an icehouse, bank, shipyard and rice mills.

Dissemination of Seed.

In a recent number of the bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club, Prof. Byron D. Halsted points out that the pods of the well known Chinese wistaria are most effective catapults, expelling their seeds with a pistol-like explosion and scattering them far and wide. Everyone knows that our common witch-hazel acts similarly. Each cell of the woody capsule contains one large, bony, and shining seed, wedged into a cell too narrow to contain it. The seed is finally ejected with tremendous force and considerable noise. If one carries home a fruiting branch of witch-hazel and forgets about it he is alarmed some night by a violent bombardment. Even more surprising is the propulsive action of the sandbox of the West Indies. On one occasion an English traveler, carrying some of these fruits home in a steamer, had them explode in his trunk, and with difficulty proved that he was not a dynamiter. The squirting cucumber ejects its seeds in a fountain-like jet of muscilaginous water. One of the commonest devices resorted to for dispersion of seeds is the use of hooks, grapnels, or adhesive hairs. In some cases, as in Collomia, the hairs are not released until the seed reaches the proper moist locality, when they project and anchor it down.—Cosmopolitan.

He was Running the Theatre.

The late John Stetson, the shrewd but illiterate American theatrical manager of whom so many stories are told, once had a business manager under him whose name was Sharp. One day Stetson came to the theatre and saw a big sign above the door that said: "Matinee to-day at 2 o'clock sharp!" "Hallo," said Stetson, "seems to me that fellow's putting on airs! Take in that sign and put out one, 'Matinee today at 2 o'clock. Stetson.' I am running this theatre."

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

Improvement Continuing In Nearly All Branches of Business.

New York, June 26.—Dun's Review says:

There is no step backward in business, although the season of midsummer quiet is near. Improvement continues, gradual and prudently cautious as before, although in many branches evident where no signs of it appeared a few weeks ago. Business men of the highest standing in all parts of the country, having gradually perceived that the tide has begun to rise, are regulating their contracts and investments and their plans for the future with a confidence quite unknown to them a short time ago. Great changes before the adjournment of congress are hardly to be expected, but removal of uncertainty is with reason expected to bring into operation buying forces which have been restricted for months. Meanwhile it is encouraging that crop prospects still grow brighter, that the industries meet a gradually increasing demand for products, that labor questions which had a threatening aspect have been adjusted, and that the treasury maintains its ample strength notwithstanding some exports of gold brought about by premiums paid on behalf of foreign governments.

The stock market has not been the barometer of anything for some years, unless Wall street apprehension. But its sustained advance appears to mean something, because it is now supported, for the first time in several years, by a genuine public demand.

The main factor at this time is the steadily brightening prospect for crops. Harvesting of wheat has already begun in some winter wheat states, with surprisingly good results in the central region and California, so that 800,000 tons is now called the minimum from the latter state, and statisticians of repute calculate on 60,000,000 bushels winter wheat beyond the government estimate. Spring wheat is doing remarkably well with a practically unknown increase of acreage.

Iron and steel products average a small fraction lower in published quotations, but only because private concessions which are now refused were by various authorities complacently concealed two weeks ago.

There is encouraging increase in the demand for all textile goods, even for cottons, which have so long been slow, and though it is but moderate there is nothing of a speculative character in transactions, and prices are firmly held.

A most encouraging feature is the large demand for commercial loans, of nine large banks one having loaned only on such paper, five others from 55 to 80 per cent of their loans and the rest at least half. Some report the best demand of that character for many years, much of it from eastern textile mills. Exchange is strengthened for the time by interest payments, more concerns being able to pay than in recent years. The southern demand for small notes to move crops has now begun. Failures in three weeks, ending June 17, showed liabilities of $7,718,214, against $8,658,614 last year, $16,509,022 in 1895, including the Cordage company, and $9,683,465 in 1894. Manufacturing were $3,625,861, against $3,848,495 last year and trading $3,567,743, against $3,762,387 last year. Failures for the week have been 216 in the United States, against 217 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 24 last year.

THE ITALIAN STRIKERS.

One Hundred of Them Arrested and Imprisoned—Contractor Released.

Trenton, June 25.—One hundred of the striking Italians at Morrisville have been arrested and placed in the local lockup, and 19 of them were afterward taken to Doylestown to the county jail in charge of a detail of deputy sheriffs.

The arrests were made for the purpose of dispersing the crowd and to permit Contractor Wheeler to leave without danger. Wheeler left the Hoagland House. Before going he said that there was no disposition on the part of his firm to cheat the men, but that some days would be required to enable them to get the necessary funds.

Those of the Italians who have not been arrested are still hanging around the hotel, but they are making no display of hostility.

An effort was made to get some Trenton Italians to raise funds in order to enable the strikers to go to their homes, and this led to rumors that the Trenton Italians would re-enforce the strikers and make trouble. There is a large colony of Italians in Trenton. The chief of police of Trenton was solicited to place officers at the approach of the bridge crossing the Delaware river to Morrisville, and a small detail of police was sent there. The anticipated arrival of Trenton Italians did not take place.

Suicide at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, June 26.—A man apparently about 50 years of age, shabbily dressed in a brown suit and wearing a soft brown hat, walked into a saloon near Reservation park and asked for a piece of paper on which to write a note. After writing the note the man walked directly to Prospect point, overlooking the falls. He handed the note to a lady. She refused to take it and threw it on the ground. The man then mounted the stonework at the brink of the falls and jumped over. The note read as follows: "God bless all on earth and have mercy on my soul." There is no clew as to the identity of the suicide.

Will of a Suicide.

Lockport, N. Y., June 26.—The will of Roger W. Keep, who committed suicide two weeks ago by shooting, has been filed in the surrogate's office. The value of the estate is placed at $135,000. The Lockport Home For the Friendless receives a bequest of $10,000. The same amount is also given in trust to the Lockport Free library. The balance of the estate goes to relatives.

A Leak In the Canal.

Utica, N. Y., June 26.—In a culvert under the canal on the Frankfort level was discovered an extensive leak. The water was drawn from the level, which is but one mile long, and a force of men and teams are engaged in the repairs. Boats will probably soon be running again.

Died From His Injuries.

Buffalo, June 26.—James Martin, who was so frightfully injured in the explosion at the Broezel House on Wednesday, has died from his wounds. He was employed at the hotel as fireman. He was 40 years old and married.

THE NEGRO TROUBLE

The Washington Authorities Appealed to For Assistance.

REFUSED TO PAY THEIR CREDITORS.

When the Officers Tried to Serve Processes Upon the Men, Recourse Was Had to Firearms — Troops on Hand to Prevent Disorder.

Washington, June 26.—Trouble has broken out afresh at Fort Gibson, I. T., where the Cherokee freedman payment has just been resumed, and the Washington authorities have been appealed to for assistance in averting further disorders. News of the disturbance came officially in telegrams which were received by Secretary Bliss, supplemented by similar advices received by the attorney general and the secretary of war. General Frank C. Armstrong of the Dawes commission, which was just leaving Fort Gibson when the trouble occurred, joined with Indian Inspector McLaughlin, who is supervising the payment, in wiring the following to Secretary Bliss:

"Considerable excitement exists among the negroes on account of arrests made by the United States marshals. Negroes are armed and are threatening to attack the marshals. The troops here are able to cope with the situation and preserve peace. If the commander has not authority to patrol the town and to exercise control over the excited negroes, serious trouble may occur.

"The presence and action of the military alone prevented bloodshed. The payment had progressed quietly, but those disturbances are outside the lines and are between the negroes and deputy marshals. Prompt and decisive action is recommended, with authority to remove disorderly persons and disarm all except United States officials. The United States district attorney and United States marshal have wired the attorney general."

Trouble on Pay Day.

The folowing telegram, dated at Fort Gibson, was received from Inspector McLaughlin:

"Agent Wisdom has disbursed $14,211 of the fourth installment of the Cherokee freedmens' fund. The payment progressed regularly. Some trouble occurred outside of the payground limits between the freedmen and deputy marshals through the latter executing processes of the United States district court against certain beneficiaries requiring them to pay the indebtedness to certain creditors after receiving check and leaving the payground.

"Two shots were fired by some persons in the crowd, thought to have been directed at deputy marshals. No person injured except one freedman, who was struck in the jaw with a rifle by a deputy marshal. Considerable excitement prevailed for a time, but soon subsided, and no further trouble is apprehended."

Secretary Bliss forwarded the advices to the secretary of war for his action and wired the inspector that he had done so and reminding him that the troops were on the ground, stated that order must be maintained at all hazards. The individual beneficiaries of the payment are making positive protests, and a telegram has been received here from a woman at Fort Scott, Kan., as follows:

"Am Cherokee freedman, guardian for my children. Money deposited in bank at Fort Scott. B. F. Ware attached it through fraud. How can I get possession? BETTIE CASH."

She is only one of a number in similar straits. The department is endeavoring to see that the negroes' rights are not invaded.

Railroad Sold at Auction.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 26.—Judge Hiram P. Dillon of Topeka, master in chancery, has sold at auction the Kansas Central railroad and rolling stock to Walter B. Horn and Thomas Joyce of Brooklyn for $200,000, which was the lowest bid which could be accepted under the order of sale. The purchasers were represented by P. C. Anderson of New York, son of E. Ellery Anderson, receiver of the Union Pacific, and he deposited a certified check for $20,000 before bidding. His bid was the only one. The Kansas Central company was organized in 1871, and the road was completed from Leavenworth to Holton the following year. A few years later it was extended to Onaga and thence to Miltonvale, the present terminus. It is 206 miles long.

Brutal Murderer Hanged.

Houston, June 26.—Jim Williamson, who was convicted of complicity in the murder of the Crocker family in 1895, has been hanged at Wharton. The murders were the result of a feud over some land in which Mrs. Crocker first killed a member of the Williamson faction named Day. Crocker and his son, a small boy, were then murdered by a mob led by Williamson, who afterward hunted down Mrs. Crocker and shot and beat her to death.

only recitation of the evening was extremely well done by Miss M. Barrell. The title was "My Funny Uncle Phil."

A cantata, "A Quarrel Among the Flowers," was next given by thirty-two little girls. The dispute for supremacy was finally decided in favor of the rose and it was crowned queen by the other flowers. The difficult dances in this piece were executed with much skill and formed an ever changing picture of great beauty. The evening's exercises closed with a good night chorus.

Mrs. Abner Bartlett trained the students for their parts, and the result reflects much credit upon her ability as a teacher. Miss May Smith presided at the piano and accompanied all the pieces with excellent judgment.

There is no graduating class at the school this year.

IAN MACLAREN LIKES AMERICANS.

He Thinks Their Hospitality Exceeds that of the Britishers.

Hospitality is also the essence of courtesy, and every visitor to the States agrees with his neighbor—however he may differ about other things—that the American has revived the ancient Eastern idea and acclimatized it in the West. After a journey in the New World, one returns home convinced that we do not know how hospitality spells in Europe, and smitten to the heart with repentance. When a stranger comes to us with a letter, we receive him with calm civility, hope that he has had a good passage, inquire what he wishes to see in our country, map out his route for him, ask him to a meal, and let him go with a modest disclaimer that he has given us any trouble. If one of us goes over to America, not knowing half a dozen people on the whole continent, letters of hospitality arrive before we start; they are brought on board your steamer with the pilot; they are delivered on the landing stage; they are lying on the table at your rooms, and they all come to the same thing—that you will stay in a hotel at your peril, and that you and your belongings—it is hoped two boys may be with you as well as your wife—must come at once to the writer's house.

If you have an iron will and a profound conviction that your arrangements prevent you being a proper guest—for a guest has his duties as well as a host—you may deny yourself the pleaseure of private hospitality, but you will have to fight your way, so to say, to the hotel. And if you are a guest you will be received at the station—we allow visitors to make their own way to our houses—and welcomed by the whole family as if you were of the same blood, or at least friends of twenty years' standing; and you will be driven over the whole district or city, and your host will be at your disposal as if he had nothing to do—yet judges, university men, merchants and editors have some engagements—and you will depart laden with roses and goodwill.

One is not quite sure whether to admire most of all the grace or tact or spontaneity or completeness of hospitality among our kinsfolk; but that for which one is most grateful, and which counts dearest, is the genuine kindness. The Americans are a kind people, and they are not ashamed to allow it to be seen.

What lends a peculiar character to American manners is their genuine and attractive simplicity; and the traveler does feel that his ideal of democratic citizenship has been in one particular, at least, realized. In one way it strikes the foreigner that the States lose by not having a leisured ruling class, with traditions of public service, of incorruptible honor, of trained statesmanship. In another way, the States gain by counting all their citizens eligible for public duty, because the rulers are not a caste, do not give themselves airs, are affable and accessible.—The Outlook

THEY GOT THERE.

Carried Out Their Purpose to Become Congressmen.

About fifteen years ago there was in attendance at the Columbia Law School at New York two young students, one from Ohio, J. J. Lentz, and the other from Pennsylvania, E. E. Robbins. The fellow-students were room-mates at college and cultivated each other's acquaintance to the point of fast friendship. In discussing their plans at school one day young Robbins asked Lentz: "What do you propose doing when you graduate?"

"I am going back to Ohio and run for Congress," was the reply. "What are your plans?"

"I propose returning to Pennsylvania and trying the same idea," responded Robbins. "We will meet some day in the House."

The other day, for the first time during the session, Robbins, a Representative from Greensburg, Pa., met Lentz, a Representative from Columbus, Ohio.

"You'll call him Ulysses S. Grant Johnson, I suppose," said the friend who was hearing the news.

CAMP WOOLFE TO OPEN.

FRESH AIR WORK TO BE CONTINUED AT WESTFIELD.

The Camp Will Open on July 2d and the Plainfield Endeavor Societies Will Assist in Its Support and Continuance.

The time for the resumption of the Summer work of the Union Fresh Air Mission Association is at hand. To many, the character of the work is well known. The Union Fresh Air Mission Association is a charitable organization, whose membership consists of Christian people, chiefly resident in Union County, whose purpose is, during the heated term of each year, to take worthy mothers and their smaller and sickly children from their crowded tenement homes in New York, to the Fresh Air Camp, at Westfield, for a short rest from their poor conditions at home, where they are given wholesome food, afforded instruction in practical cooking and housekeeping, visited during the day by ladies who give them practical talks, and in the evening by Young Peoples Societies, who hold gospel services for them.

In the spring of 1895, five or six earnest city mission workers seeing the need of this line of fresh air work, which is provided for by no other association, determined to start such an institution in a small way. Accordingly on July 5th, some fifty mothers and children left their East Side tenement homes for one week's vacation at Camp Woolfe, as the camp in Westfield is called.

The camp attracted the attention of well disposed people who heard of it, and it was kept open until September 16th. As a result, 325 mothers and children were given a week's outing. Gospel services were held each evening and Sabbath afternoon and much spiritual interest was manifested. The Young People of Westfield, Plainfield and vicinity had by this time become so greatly interested that they united with the founders for the continuance of the work, and in March, 1896, delegates from many of the Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Societies of Union county met and formed the Union Fresh Air Mission Association. Officers were elected and committees were appointed who conducted the camp of that year with still more gratifying success. Permanent buildings and sanitary arrangements were established, gospel services and educational work were continued, greater numbers were accommodated and more effective results were obtained.

A feature of the work at the camp is a day nursery for the infant and sickly children of the mothers who come to the camp. By this means sick children have been restored to health, and the relief from care afforded to the mothers has given greater opportunity for rest. The nursery was continued throughout last winter, at 204 Avenue C, New York city. It is the purpose of the association to increase its capacity this year. A cot can be furnished and maintained throughout the season for $10.

The camp will open this year on July 2nd, and continue open for two months, each party staying about ten days. The work is a growing one and in order to be carried on successfully this year will require money, workers and contributions of food. It will be necessary to enlarge some of the buildings and replace the tent formerly used by a wooden building.

The most efficient way to help is by a cash contribution, as those in charge are able to purchase provision at first cost, and thus utilize all money to greatest advantage. The treasurer is Miss Edith Morehouse, Westfield who will gratefully receive all contributions of money. Donations of food should be sent direct to the camp, which is situated in Westfield in a beautiful grove about one half-mile south of the railroad station. The matron will be pleased to welcome visitors and show them around the camp daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

RED MEN'S ELECTION.

Miantonomo Tribe Chooses Officers, and Enjoys a Spread.

Miantonomo Tribe No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, met Friday evening and elected the following officers: — Prophet, David Morning; Sachem, Robert Schlorer; Senior Sachem, Bro. Johnston; Junior Sagamore, Edward Hanglighter. After the meeting the braves adjourned to the Crescent Hotel and then partook of a feast prepared for them by the new officers. A social time was enjoyed, and the warriors at a late hour adjourned to their own private wigwams.

Runaway on Somerset Street.

Charles H. Angleman, of West Front street, and Miss May Woodruff, of New York, were runaway with on Somerset street yesterday afternoon, Both were thrown out, and the buggy smashed. Neither was seriously injured.

MODERN METHODS HERE.

STREET COMMITTEE IS TRYING SOME OF COL. WARING'S IDEAS.

The Latest is to Have The Streets in the Business Section Swept at Midnight—It Was First Tried Saturday.

Plainfield has no Col. Waring, but she has men who are just as much up-to-date as the man who runs the street department of New York city. The introduction of Col. Waring's methods of street cleaning is a new departure for Plainfield and it was tried last Saturday night for the first. Employes of the city could be seen at midnight on Front street sweeping and cleaning the streets. Three men were in the party and the aid of a horse and cart was employed to carry away the scrapings, etc. The only difference from the New York methods was that the men are not attired in a regulation garb such as are used in New York.

The chairman of the street committee, Mr. Frost, is the originator of this plan for Plainfield.

There is no doubt but what the present street committee has accomplished more this year in a systematic way than previous street committees. They have profited by the mistakes of the former members and today Plainfield is in a fair way to have the best roads in the State, if the good work is continued.

If the merchants about the city will only assist in keeping the streets clean much can be accomplished. Heretofore, Mr. McFadden and his assistant, who keep the streets clean, have had a tendency to do all of their work in the heart of the city, and it is only of late that the street committee has been able to impress on their minds the fact that other streets are to be looked after as much as the above. Orders have been given that papers, etc., are to be removed from the heart of the city once a week. If the merchants persist in allowing their clerks to sweep papers and dirt from their stores into the streets the committee will take the matter in hand and see that someone is punished for the offense. This is the decision of the street committee.

The object in having the streets cleaned at night is that the men are not bothered in their work and more effective work can be done.

FAINTED, THEN PUT OUT

SUCH IS THE STORY OF MRS. BERTHA R. GUINAUD.

Galbraith, Whom She Charges With Assault and Battery, Says She Was Intoxicated and Could Not Even Talk Straight

Mrs Bertha R. Guinaud appeared before Justice E. D. Moffett this morning, and preferred a charge of assault and battery against Edward Galbraith.

Mr. and Mrs. Guinaud operate a truck farm near this city, and as her husband is in rather poor health, Mrs. Guinaud herself sells the produce from a wagon. One of the places where she frequently sold goods was the saloon of William Willis, on West Third street, where Galbraith is employed. She called there on Friday morning, and sold some of her wares.

At about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Guinaud returned to the saloon and asked for a glass of brandy and soda, saying that she was feeling ill. She then left her wagon and entered the saloon and being in a very weak condition took a seat upon a chair in a room adjoining the barroom. The woman claims that she then fainted from weakness, and that while in an unconscious state she was roughly ejected from the place by Galbraith. In support of her statement she exhibited an ugly bruise on each arm where a violent grasp had been taken up n her. Galbraith appeared before Justice Moffett this morning and gave a $200 bond to appear for trial tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Galbraith's version of the affair is that Mrs. Guinaud returned to the saloon Friday afternoon in a state of intoxication. She entered the place, called loudly three times for brandy and soda, and every time she received the stimulant she indulged in the luxury of a fall from her chair. She then, Galbraith alleges, made her way to the rooms at the rear of the building and quarreled with the family of Mr. Day. Remonstrances were of no avail, and he consequently ejected the woman. Galbraith feels confident that he can prove by a number of witnesses that Mrs. Guinaud acted in a disorderly manner.

—Those who have business with Assessor Hubbard can meet him by appointment at his office on any evening before July 10th. His office is at 109 Park avenue.

ENDEAVORERS AWHEEL.

THEY COMBINED THE DELIGHT OF A PICNIC WITH BICYCLING.

The Inovation of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational Church Proves a Success—Various Adventures.

The Congregational church may be small, but it is certainly progressive, especially where bicycling is concerned. The first church run ever heard of was arranged by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, last summer and this year another new departure had its source in the fertile brains of the social committee of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. Sociables in the church, even with delightful programmes, are not things of joy in hot weather, when no one likes to be shut up in a hot, crowded room, and ice cream is the most enjoyable feature of the evening; even bicycle runs are no longer a novelty. So the social committee planned for something entirely new; namely a bicycle picnic; and Saturday afternoon the affair took place, the picnic being a thoroughly enjoyable one, and a perfect success.

The start was made from A. C. LaBoyteaux's pleasant home on Fairview avenue, at 3 o'clock, Rev. C. L. Goodrich leading. A generous supply of luncheon was carried by the party. The afternoon was perfect, not too warm for riding, and not wind enough to change pleasure to work. The party in their pretty and becoming cycling costumes, made a pleasant picture for passersby as they took their way up Front street to Scotch Plains, and then through the gap, past the old mill to the pretty "deserted village," seldom deserted in these days, Glenside Park. Luncheon parties are not allowed within the park limits, however, and a watchman cast disapproving eyes at the parcels carried by the picnicers, until the chairman of the social committee took pity on him, and called out gaily, "No, we won't eat our lunch here!" No watchman, or any one else, could object to the party "doing" the sights of the Park, and a circuit was made, everyone enjoying to the utmost the charm of the beautiful spot, unusually lovely in the clear afternoon air, with the brilliant June sunshine falling over it and making every shadow more distinct, and the glorious summer sky over all.

The wanderings about the Park ended, the company took their departure and went into camp a short distance outside, near a large farmhouse. Supper was prepared, and some of the men of the party were sent to the house after water. They were dreadfully alarmed by the barking of a number of dogs, and bade their friends a solemn farewell as they started on their dangerous errand, John Burnett calling to A. C. La Boyteaux to explain matters at his office in case he did not return alive! No loss of life was sustained by the adventurers, however, and they returned safely, bearing the water for the feast, which was exceptionally good, or else the cyclists had procured an amazing appetite somewhere in their travels. Supper over, the party mounted their wheels once more, and rode homeward through the golden June evening, arriving about 7 o'clock, having found the afternoon all too short. Glorious weather, a lively and congenial party, and very few accidents, made up a thoroughly successful excursion; only one wheelman, John Messersmith, was unfortunate enough to meet with a puncture.

Funeral of Mrs. Hatchett.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Henry Hatchett were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Rev. P. S. Gibson, pastor, officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The remarks by the pastor were comforting and impressive. He drew many helpful lessons from the exemplary life of the departed. Interment was in Plainfield avenue cemetery.

Women to Be Cared For.

A meeting of the Plainfield Camera Club will be held this evening at which a full attendance of members is requested. An important amendment to the by-laws will come up to be voted upon. It relates to the admission of women to the club without the payment of the initiation fee.

Graduates Dined.

The members of the graduating class of the North Plainfield High School and a few of their friends enjoyed a dinner at the Mountain Park Inn, Saturday evening. It was an informal affair but a very pleasant one.

A Pleasant Invitation.

The members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., have received an invitation from Clinton Commandery, of Brooklyn, to join them Saturday, July 10th, in an outing to Patchogue, L. I. It is expected that a large number of the members will enjoy the trip.

REVIEW ILLUSTRATED.

TWO SPECIAL SERVICES OF THE CONGREGATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Missionary Day Was Observed in the Morning Session While a Novel and Interesting Review Was Held in the Evening.

The next generation of men and women in the Plainfield Congregational church will certainly be a generation trained to interest in missions, for the children of the Sunday school contribute regularly to home and foreign missions, and have periodical missionary days, when they hear reports from the mission stations to which they send contributions and listen to missionary addresses. Such a missionary day was observed yesterday morning, the quarterly review of the school being postponed until evening, in order that it might be conducted by means of stereopticon views.

After the opening exercises, the report of the missionary committee was read by the superintendent, J. A. Robinson, showing that during the year the school had appropriated for missionary work, $107, partly for home and partly for foreign missions. Letters from two workers in the home field were then read, one from Mrs. Anna Wade Richardson, the principal of a mission school for colored children in Marshallville, Georgia, and one from R. A. Rowley, telling of work in the great west.

A brief but very bright and entertaining address by Rev. M. E. Dwight, followed, telling in a few words the fascinating story of William Cory, the first missionary to India, and teaching lessons of zeal and devotion in extending Christ's kingdom in the world today. The attendance at the service was large, and the exercises were much enjoyed by all.

The review lesson which was held in the evening covered the Sunday-school lessons of the past six months. The pupils of the Sunday school, with their parents and friends, attended in large numbers, and thoroughly enjoyed the novel way in which the review was conducted. A large screen was placed in the front of the church, and after the opening exercises the lights were extinguished and a number of fine stereopticon views, illustrative of the lessons of the past half-year, were thrown upon the screen.

The titles and golden texts of the lessons were read by J. A. Robinson, superintendent of the school, with occasionally a portion of the lesson text, while Rev. C. L. Goodrich explained each picture in an informal talk, carrying the thread of the history straight down from the ascension of Christ to the close of the council at Jerusalem. A map of the Roman Empire, ahead of the Emperor Claudius, various painters' conceptions of the appearance of the apostles most prominent in the Acts and many fine colored photographs of the cities and buildings referred to, were included in the views, as well as the best-known pictures of the occurrences described in the apostalic history.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.

Miss Kiely Passed Away After a Long Illness.

Miss Bessie Kiely, who has been a resident of Plainfield since its early days, died at her home on the corner of Spooner avenue and West Fourth street, early Sunday morning. She was ill for two months before her death and has been gradually failing until death came. The end was a painless and peaceful one. Miss Kiely was in her sixty-second year, and has been a resident of Plainfield for forty-six years. She had many friends in this city and was greatly beloved by all who knew her. She was an aunt to Sergeant Kiely, of the Plainfield police force.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the house at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 9:30 o'clock. High mass will be said.

The Autocrat Again.

The second number of The Autocrat, the little quarterly published by the students of the North Plainfield High School, has made its appearance. While the first issue was excellent, this last attempt is even more successful. Photographs of Dr. Ward and the graduating class are shown. Then there are the essays of the graduating class and a poem by the county superintendent, Rev. J. A. Mets. The little volume is very creditable in general appearance and reflects no end of credit on its student editors.

A Conclave of Heptasophs.

J. H. Primose special deputy organizer, will institute a conclave of Heptasophs in this city on Wednesday night, at 7:30 o'clock in the hall of the Coward building on Park avenue. It is important that every member be present as the insurance does not take effect until that night. It will have over fifty members.

OFF TO THE GOLDEN GATE

SPECIAL TRAIN OF ENDEAVORERS START FOR THE CONVENTION.

It Will be Held in San Francisco This Year and New Jersey is to be Well Represented in the Convention.

No international Christian Endeavor convention for some time past has aroused the interest that is felt in the grand gathering which will be held in San Francisco, California, July 7 12. Besides the meetings that will be held with the finest speakers the world affords, music like a great sea of harmony, and a general atmosphere of Christian Endeavor enthusiasm, which will send the delegates home to do such work as they never did before, the trip offers other attractions, which conventions held in the east or middle states could not afford. Railroads have made special rates, and a large number will gratify the desire of many years to see the sights of the great west.

Rev. T. E. Davis, of Bound Brook, is transportation manager for New Jersey, and everything has been arranged for the comfort and pleasure of those who will go from this State. A special train, in two sections, is now on the way, and about four hundred applications for tickets were received. The first section left New York at nine o'clock this morning, closely followed by the second, stopping at Plainfield to pick up a number of enthusiastic travelers. The journey will be a long one, but every hour will be full of pleasure, as all know who have ever traveled in a Christian Endeavor special train.

Among those from this city and vicinity who go on the excursion are the following:

Plainfield—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Roberts, Miss Mary E Robinson, Miss Adeline B. Parsons, Miss Barber, Miss Bullock, Daniel Loizeaux, Miss Janes, Elie Loizeaux, Alfred Loizeaux.

Bound Brook—Miss Jessie Cook, Rev. and Mrs. T. E. Davis, Mrs. Thomas Davenport, Miss Elfleda Dunham, Miss Mary Hickman, Edwin Powelson, Miss Alice Rockfellow, Miss Addie Tappen.

New Germantown—Mrs. R. T. Craig.

Raritan—Chris Ehni, Edward C. Ehni, J. C Kinyon, Mrs. A. B. Rohn.

Somerville—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bateman, N. Y. Dungan, Mrs. A. A. Emery, Miss Leigh, Miss R. Anna Miller, Miss Amelia Porter, Mrs. G. W. Sanborn.

Basking Ridge—Mrs. Oscar Conklin, Miss Conklin.

Dunellen—Rev. A. I. Martine.

Kingston—Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Warne.

East Millstone—Rev. A. P. Peake, Miss Anna Ribble.

Another Plainfield representative at the convention will be Miss Elma Thayer, who will be in San Francisco at the time of the great gathering, and has been appointed a delegate by her pastor.

WILL STOP COASTING.

IT IS A DANGEROUS PRACTICE ON GLENSIDE HILL.

So the Scotch Plains Township Committee Has Introduced an Ordinance To Prevent It—Other Business Also.

The Scotch Plains Township Committee held a meeting last Friday night and passed to its second reading an ordinance regulating the speed of bicycles to twelve miles an hour. The purpose of the ordinance is to prevent coasting upon Glenside Hill, where so many serious accidents have recently happened. Town Clerk Hand was instructed to post a sign at the top of the hill and one at the bottom, warning cyclists of their danger. The committee decided that it could not at present grant the petition sent in by citizens for three arc lights in the town, as the appropriation for street lighting for the current year has already been used up.

Winfield S. Angleman, of Plainfield, appeared before the committee as counsel for Bucket and Engine Company to urge it to purchase the company's fire engine for $150, with the proviso that it could be bought back again by the company for the same price at any time within five years. In view of the fact that W. C. Stanbery, executor of the Baker estate, which has a claim of of $150 against the company, objected to the sale on the ground that it would interfere with the settlement of the claim, Mr. Angleman was told to talk with the township counsel, ex-Judge W. R. Codington, about the matter.

Before adjournment the township treasurer was ordered to pay a number of bills for crushed stone and for work upon the township roads.

—The roadbed on Belvidere avenue has been repaired by the use of crushed stone in the breaks in the macadam.

HE IS A HAUNTED HERMIT

DISAPPOINTED OF A FORTUNE HE RETIRED FROM THE WORLD.

Now He Lives in the Shell of a House Near Netherwood and Converses With His Departed Friends—History of His Life.

New Jersey has a haunted hermit.

In the shade of Netherwood, a fashionable suburb of Plainfield, lives William Hetfield, says the New York World. While all around are modern villas, he occupies a house of the revolutionary period.

Hetfield's only visible speaking companion is his trusty gun. He is a sure shot, and on that accout the fact that he is worth $50,000 offers no temptation to robbers.

William, the hermit, says he is the only haunted man in New Jersey. Day and night he hears voices of those dead and gone. He is more than sixty years old, and a long, lonely life has told upon him.

He lives at Two Bridges, has always lived there. At one time, long ago, he was a man of note in Fanwood township, being collector of taxes. He also taught the village school, the schoolhouse still standing a mile away from his lonely home.

William's life, always secluded, became a thing of the past when he lost a large sum of money through the law.

Daniel and Frazee Lee, his cousins, bachelors, had by miserly habits accumulated a fortune estimated at $300,000.

The Lees died together as they had lived. Both were taken ill, and Daniel died first. When Frazee learned that his brother was dead he said he would not live. Before he died he called in a lawyer and left his money, then all his own, to the Scotch Plains Baptist church.

Alive he was not so generous. In the testimony in the suit brought by William and Jacob Hetfield to break the will it was proved that in ten years he had given but $1.50 to the church for charity, festivals, Sunday-school picnics and Christmas trimmings.

When the decision of the Court gave the personal property to the church and divided the real estate among relatives, William Hetfield withdrew in his shell. He owns his house, however, and a large tract of land besides, the results of his own shrewdness.

William ever since has lived the life of a hermit. He cooks his own food, makes his own bed, is careful of his bolts and bars, seldom goes out, never goes off his premises, and he talks only with the voices he hears.

That he hears these voices nobody talking to him would doubt. On all other points he his an intelligent man, shrewd and full of hard sense.

In person he is tall and stout, with a full face. He wears a farmer's suit topped with an old straw hat.

His neighbors, except the dead ones, never call on him, he says.

He has made friends with a neighbor's horse. As the horse does not know that his friend is a hermit he comes into the back yard to get his nose rubbed.

The house is a mere shell. One part has fallen into a decay so that it cannot be used. But there is plenty of room remaining for the hermit, as his wants are few.

He stopped going to church when the church got the money he still believes should have come to him.

Jacob, the brother, would be a hermit but for the fact that he has two sons. No women, however, is allowed in the house, which matches William's home in age and is still more dilapidated.

Jacob is the elder. He was married nearly fifty years ago.

With his brother he fought for the Lee hundred thousands and in sympathy with him retired from the world as much as possible after the courts decided against him. The presence of these men in their old shells of houses in the very centre of a district popular with New York commuters is as strange as if a bit of West Virginia or Kentucky had been transplanted on Plainfield soil.

Runaway in the Valley.

J. H. Weber, superintendent of the Campbell Printing Press Company, and three friends from New York, went out driving, yesterday afternoon, and met with an accident while going down a hill on the Washington Valley road, about two miles from this city. The bolt holding the shafts came out and the shafts were loosened. The horse became frightened and ran away, throwing out the occupants of the carriage. All received sprains and bruises, but no one was seriously injured. The horse was finally caught. They returned to this city in another carriage and had their wounds dressed at a local pharmacy.

MAY BE FINAL WEEK.

Republicans Hope to Finish the Tariff In That Time.

MANY DIFFERENCES WERE ADJUSTED

Democrats, However, Seem to Desire to Prolong the Debate, as They Intend to Discuss Some of the Questions at Length.

Washington, June 28.—The Republican tariff managers are still hopeful that the present may prove to be the last week of the tariff debate in the senate. All the schedules have been gone over once, leaving nothing to be done but to consider the paragraphs in the various schedules which have been passed when reached in their regular order because of differences of opinion among the Republicans themselves.

Many of these differences have been adjusted in the Republican ranks, but the Democrats will naturally take advantage of their knowledge of the feeling existing among their opponents to debate some of the questions at length. It is understood now that coal, leather, hides and lead ore will each be vigorously discussed, as will also the questions, though more briefly, of reciprocity, the treatment of trusts and the disposition of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty.

In view of the determination of the Democrats to exploit all these questions and others as well, it would seem impossible to conclude the senate's work on the bill before the end of the week, and it is more than probable that the final word will be reserved for the following week.

The house will continue this week its policy of adjournment until Thursday. After that its course will depend upon the action of the senate. If by any chance a vote should be had on the tariff bill Wednesday or Thursday, the house probably will remain in session to receive the bill, disagree to the senate amendments and appoint conferees.

American Bicycles In Germany.

Washington, June 28.—Charles de Kay, United States consul general at Berlin, in a report to the state department calls attention to the fact that German bicycle makers are deeply concerned at the now very large and growing competition of American machines. The League of Industrials at Bochum, an important manufacturing center, has taken up the matter, and in a memorial to the German government calls attention to the fact that this great industry is in imminent peril owing to the rivalry of American bicycle manufacturers.

They complain that the United States levies a duty on foreign made wheels of about $14.28, while the German duty, being only $5.71 on 100 kilograms, only from 71 to 95 cents duty falls on the American wheel. On these and other grounds the aid of the German government is asked in behalf of the home industry.

The consul general in his report says it is not because the American wheels are of foreign make that they sell so rapidly in Germany, but because they are the strongest, lightest, soundest and most elegant in shape. They have quite taken the field, he says, from Belgian, Austrian and British wheels. He also expresses the opinion that large concessions could be made with safety to the Germans in the way of lower duties on German made wheels, because the German public is now so well convinced of the superiority of the American wheels that we will continue to hold the market so long as this high standard is maintained.

Consul Monaghan, at Chemitz Saxony, in a report to the state department, also calls attention to the effort that is being made by German bicycle makers in that province to secure higher rates on American wheels. To this end, the bund of German industries have petitioned the foreign office on the subject, asking for immediate relief from the threatened danger.

Objects to Boat Races.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 28.—Rev. Mr. Gates of the Hedding Methodist Episcopal church, this city, took boat racing for his subject. He said in part: "What profit are the races to Poughkeepsie? Many were made poorer by the races; many a man took his first glass of whiskey after the race. I am opposed to the races. When I saw ladies and gentlemen and children yelling on the streets, I thought that if they were only at prayer meeting, opening their mouths as loud as they did for Cornell, what a great meeting we would have."

Arrested on Suspicion.

New York, June 28.—Two colored men, Louis Hayden and Charles Johnson, alias Taylor, of Rondout, N. Y., formerly of Long Branch, who are suspected of being concerned in the robbery of the Pelham Manor railroad station, have been arraigned in the Center street court and remanded for examination. At the time of their arrest they had in their possession 12 boxes of cigars, a loaded revolver, a razor, a knife, tools used by burglars and a new pair of ladies' silk gloves. Both men refuse to talk.

Steamship Ashore.

Champlain, Que., June 28.—The steamship Turret Bay, Captain Klitgaard, Montreal for Sydney, C. B., is ashore at Point Aux Roches, near here. The vessel is in a dangerous position, resting on a rocky bottom. Attempts made by the vessel to pull herself off have been so far unavailing. There is very little rise and fall of the tide at the point where the vessel lies.

Death of the Earl of Sefton.

London, June 28.—William Philip Molyneux, fourth earl of Sefton, is dead. He was a Knight of the Garter. He was born in Croxteth hall, Liverpool, Oct. 14, 1835. Since 1858 he has been the lord lieutenant of Lancashire. The family estates are about 20,000 acres. He is succeeded in the earldom by his eldest son, the Viscount Molyneux, now in his thirty-first year.

Duke of Cambridge's Dinner.

London, June 28.—The Duke of Cambridge gave a jubilee banquet at Gloucester House, Park lane. Among the guests were the Prince of Wales, all the visiting royalties, and the special envoys, including Mr. Whitelaw Reid, the special envoy of the United States. No ladies were present.

JAPAN'S CONTENTION

Why She Objects to Our Annexation of Hawaii

INTERFERENCE WITH TREATY RIGHTS

That, According to the Japanese Legation at Washington, Is the Basis of Protest—Japs Claim Never to Have Wanted the Islands.

Washington, June 28.—The Japanese position on the annexation of Hawaii by the United States has been made known from a very high source. The Japanese base their opposition to annexation almost entirely upon the ground that it is an interference with the treaty rights of Japan and complain especially that the treaty was negotiated in the face of the most friendly protestations from Japan and at a time when the Japanese authorities had been led to believe that no such treaty would be undertaken. The following may be accepted as an absolutely accurate outline of the position of the Japanese legation at Washington:

The Japanese insist, as on all former occasions, that the Japanese government has not now and never has had any designs against Hawaii. This they consider a most important point because of the talk about colonization, which, they say, has apparently had so much weight in the discussion of the question. They contend that the Japanese first went to Hawaii in response to the demand for labor in the islands under provision of a treaty concluded in 1886 at the solicitation of the Hawaiian government. They call attention to the fact that the Japanese government has always been averse to having its people go abroad as coolies, as the Chinese do, and that the government has always striven to prevent such immigration. As a consequence the Hawaiian treaty was so worded as to prevent even the suspicion of anything like coolie labor.

Say All Interests Were Protected.

The interests of all parties were, they say, protected, and as a consequence the Hawaiian planters secured a high class of agricultural labor upon fair terms and under circumstances that did not give the least occasion for the dislike and opprobium which generally attach to contract labor. This treaty, they say, worked admirably for years and until the planters became restive under the conditions imposed by the treaty, thinking, the Japanese hold, that they could secure labor more cheaply with the restrictions removed.

At the same time the question of annexation came up, and the adherents of union with the United States thought it would be necessary to make changes in the method of obtaining the labor absolutely necessary to the prosperity of the sugar industry of the islands. This was, they claim, the origin of the so called "voluntary" system of immigration to Hawaii.

The development of this situation led to the framing by the Japanese government of its immigration law. This law is very strict in prohibiting the exportation of Japanese, except where employment is assured, and it is claimed that under its provisions it would be impossible to flood the Hawaiian islands as has been asserted to be the Japanese purpose, without the connivance of the Japanese authorities. This, they hold, could not be secured, in view of the policy of Japan against the exportation of coolie labor and in view of the repeated denials of Japan of any designs upon Hawaii.

A Suspicious Move.

They assert that Hawaii took no steps to restrict immigration from Japan until last February, when a sudden and suspicious demand was made upon Japan to this end. This, they claim, is evidence sufficient that there was no flooding of the islands. They regarded this demand from the island government as capricious and concluded that it was made for the purpose of increasing the agitation in the interest of annexation and to furnish a pretext for speedy action in that direction. To the same end they consider the cry of danger from Hawaii on account of Japanese aggression to have been raised.

They hoot the idea that this fear had any foundation in fact and say that the danger existed only in the minds of the zealous advocates of annexation. They assert that Japan has freely explained every step taken in this controversy with Hawaii to the United States, and they hold the fact that such explanation has been made should be accepted as proof positive that Japan has no ulterior designs upon the islands. In view of these explanations on their part to the United States they complain of the suddenness of the announcement of the Hawaiian treaty of annexation and say that the treaty was consummated when they had reason, from official assurances, for believing that no hasty action in that direction was contemplated.

They consider that many subjects of Japan are entitled to damages on account of Hawaii's summary refusal to permit them to land, and that they are deprived of their remedy by the consummation of this treaty. On this account they are inclined to regard the action as unjust and arbitrary. They also hold that Japan has rights under treaties with Hawaii other than those detailed, including reciprocal immunities, which they fear may not be renewed if Hawaii becomes part of the United States.

The present purpose, they hold, appears to be to terminate these rights without privilege of appeal, and against this proceeding they protest. They hold that while Japan has no purpose of asserting any authority in Hawaii the Japanese government has the right to remonstrate in the interest of her citizens and to demand that their legitimate rights be respected.

The True Remedy.
W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—Owing to the fact that July 4th will be celebrated next Monday it is quite probable that the regular meeting of the City Council which fall on that day will be postponed until the following evening.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

—The regular meeting of the Borough Council will be held on Friday evening of this week.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

James Cousins, of this city, left for Canada last week where he has secured a position.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. J. M. Brown, of Washington avenue, is stopping at Asbury Park.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L. will meet this evening and consider important business.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A BAND OF COUNTERFEITERS.

Believed to Have Been Broken Up by a Little Rock Arrest.

Little Rock, June 28.—Deputy United States marshals attached to the Fort Smith court have captured three men whose arrest, it is believed, has effectually broken up the once famous band of counterfeiters known to secret service operators all over the United States as the Bullfrog valley gang. The gang was one of the most dangerous organizations of counterfeiters that has operated in the United States in recent years. Their headquarters "mint" was situated in Pope county, Ark. The gang had branches for the purpose of floating their bogus money in nearly all the principal cities in the country and even, so the secret service men say, in Toronto and the City of Mexico.

Some of the most noted counterfeiters and confidence men in the country were its members and agents. At the last term of the federal court held in this city eight indictments were returned against members of the band. These parties are now in custody awaiting trial. Several other members of the gang have been convicted for passing counterfeit money in various cities and are now serving terms of imprisonment.

At secret service headquarters in Little Rock has been received information from Fort Smith that officers of that district have succeeded in capturing three more members of the gang. It is the opinion of the officers that the capture of these men effectually wipes out the gang.

The work of locating the headquarters of the Bullfrog valley counterfeiters is considered one of the best pieces of detective work accomplished by the secret service operators in the past decade. The members of the gang sought a remote spot in the fastnesses in the mountains of Pope county and settled there as rough mountaineers.

They dressed like the natives and adapted themselves to their customs to such a degree that the residents of the county paid no attention to them, supposing the men to be honest mountaineers.

The money was manufactured in the moutain mint and shipped to agents in all parts of the country to be floated. All efforts on the part of the officers to locate the mint were baffled for a long time. Detectives in Chicago discovered that counterfeiting materials were being shipped from that city, and by a fine piece of work they traced the shipments to the Pope county mint of the Bullfrog valley gang.

HORRIBLE MYSTERY

Portions of a Mutilated Body Found at Different Places.

POINT TO A DIABOLICAL CRIME.

One Part Found Floating In the River and the Other Miles Away In the Woods—The Victim Had Been Dead but a Short Time.

New York, June 28.—The lower part of the trunk of a man was found by two boys in the woods at One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street and Undercliffe avenue, this city, yesterday afternoon. It was terribly mutilated and shows plainly that a murder has been committed. It was wrapped in linoleum oilcloth and manilla paper, exactly as was the upper part of a trunk found in the East river off Eleventh street Saturday. The two are parts of the same body.

The two pieces were found more than eight miles apart, one in the water, the other on land. The part found yesterday comprised the lower part of the trunk from the fifth rib to the hips, the legs having been severed from the body at the hip joints. It was wrapped in three folds of paper and two of oilcloth. The oilcloth was evidently cut from the same piece as that which inclosed the upper part of the trunk. It was new and of a cheap pattern, brightred with gilt figures on it. It is like that commonly used for tablecloths in tenement houses.

The find of yesterday was in a bulky bundle, lying against a wall next to Undercliffe avenue, where the shrubbery was very thick. It had not been dissected, which does away with the belief that it had been handled by medical students. Besides, it had been terribly hacked where separated from the upper portion. It was sent to the morgue, where it fitted the part found Saturday exactly.

The Deputy Coroner's Autopsy.

Deputy Coroner O'Hanlon performed an autopsy on the upper part of the trunk before the other had been found. He discovered two stab wounds, one between the fifth and sixth ribs and one between the sixth and seventh, in the region of the heart. There was also a stab wound back of the left collar bone that extended down to the apex of the left lung.

Dr. O'Hanlon found, too, a bruise on the left forearm, and under the right forearm was a contusion showing the shape of a heel, with the imprint of hob nails, like those in heavy boots.

He found an incised wound in the palm of the right hand, which, he said, was probably caused by the victim seizing the weapon with which he was attacked. There was no water or serum in the lungs. The lungs were well filled with air.

There was a knife wound two inches long in the apex of the heart corresponding to the wound between the ribs. Numerous contusions were also found on the body, which Dr. O'Hanlon thinks could have been inflicted after death.

The doctor stated that the man could not have been dead more than 36 hours and perhaps not more than 24. He calculates the man's age at about 35 years and height at 5 feet 10 inches.

The central office detectives and the detectives of the two precincts in which the parts of the trunk were found are investigating the case.

Hudson Iron Company to Dissolve.

Hudson, N. Y., June 28.—Justice Chester has appointed Frank H. Stott of the Stott woolen mills, Stottville, receiver of the Hudson Iron company. His bond was fixed at $25,000. The concern is perfectly solvent, having assets above all liabilities of $25,000, exclusive of valuable real estate. During its corporate existence, for nearly 50 years, it has yielded to its stockholders an average dividend of 12 per cent. The decadence of the iron industry in eastern New York is the cause of the dissolution. The plant has not been operated for the past three years.

Death of Attorney Cross.

Newark, N. J., June 28.—Philip W. Cross, former city attorney of this city, is dead. He had been ill for several months of jaundice. Mr. Cross was born at Sharon, N. Y., in 1843. He entered Oberlin college, O., and when the war broke out enlisted in company K, First Ohio volunteers. He was several times city attorney, the last time during the administration of former Mayor Lebkererber. He also served in the assembly in 1867 and 1877. Mr. Cross left a widow and two children.

Floods In Galicia.

Vienna, June 28.—The town of Kolomea, in Galicia, has been flooded by the rising of the river Pruth. Many houses have been destroyed, and the bridge between Kolomea and Turka has been swept away. The collapse took place while a train was crossing, and it is believed that many have been drowned. The government has ordered the soldiery to assist the inhabitants in the effort to save their property.

Run Over by a Tallyho Coach.

Medina, N. Y., June 28.—Julius Crasant, 34 years old, living on Clifford street, in Rochester, has been probably fatally injured. A tallyho coach containing 26 persons and drawn by four horses, ran over him just north of this place. Crasant was evidently asleep in the middle of the road and was not discovered by the driver of the coach until too late to prevent running over him.

German Embassy's Dinner.

London, June 28.—The German embassy has given a banquet and reception in honor of Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia and of the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg. Among the guests were Embassador Hay and Miss Hay, with the leading members of the German colony in London.

Church Dedicated.

Amsterdam, N. Y., June 28.—St. Stanislaus' Polish Catholic church has been dedicated by the Right Rev. T. M. A. Burke of Albany, assisted by a number of priests. The church cost $25,000 and is free of debt.

Telegraphic Communication Restored.

London, June 28.—The Anglo-American Telegraph company, limited, announces that telegraphic communication with Siberia has been restored.

A COMMENDABLE ENTERPRISE.

The long and continued effort to secure a Y. M. C. A. building came to an end in this city several years ago. Now Montclair has been working hard to secure a building to accommodate her Y. M. C. A., and has at last raised $30,000 for that object. If the Association building in Montclair adds as much to the beauty and usefulness of the city as does the building in Plainfield, the citizens of Montclair will never be sorry that they gave their money for such a cause.

THE ENDEAVORERS AND THE BICYCLE

This year the Plainfield Endeavorers and Epworth Leaguers have utilized the bicycle in their work with great success. The plan was an innovation, but it found favor with people immediately. The pleasures of a bicycle run in the cool of the evening were far more attractive than a programme, no matter how good, given in a warm room. The young people of the churches all ride wheels, and what would be more suitable than that they should gather together and enjoy a spin.

A WISE PRECAUTION.

The action of the Scotch Plains township committee in attempting to stop coasting on Glenside Park hill is a very commendable one and the sooner the ordinance that will have that effect is passed the better. The hill is a dangerous one and already several cyclists have had serious accidents there. It is far better to take precautions to stop the coasting and not wait until some foolhardy rider receives fatal injuries through a tumble on that hill.

NEWARK BARBERS IN LINE.

The barbers of Newark are following the example set by their fellow craftsmen in Plainfield some time ago and have started a movement to close their shops on Sunday. It is planned to close them only through the summer, however.

AT WASHINGTON'S CAMP GROUNDS.

The Programme for the Independence Day Celebration—No Fireworks.

The committee having charge of the Independence Day celebration on Washington Camp Ground, near Bound Brook, has put the finishing touches to the arrangements.

Instead of spending money for fireworks this year, an appropriation has been made for the free conveyance of people from Bound Brook to the camp grounds.

The programme on the camp ground will begin at 3 o'clock and will be as follows:

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. AVOIDED AN ICE WAGON.

But the Wheelwoman Turned too Suddenly and Fell.

A lady cyclist narrowly escaped being trampled under the feet of horses on West Front street, last Friday afternoon. As an ice wagon of the Plainfield Cold Storage Company, driven by John Morton, was turning into the alley way at the side of Scheuer & Co's store, the woman attempted to run past in front of the horses.

She turned her wheel too quickly and was thrown to the ground and one of the horses trampled upon the back wheel of the bicycle, damaging it considerably. The driver quickly stopped his horses and the woman scrambled out of danger, unhurt. Her name could not be learned.

MAARKEN WEDDING.

AN INTERESTING CEREMONY IN THAT QUEER LITTLE ISLAND.

An Engagement of Five Years is the Usual Custom and During that Time the Lovers See Very Little of Each Other and are Never Alone.

It was a bright Sunday in June that I chose for my visit to this little triangular island of Maarken, situated in the Zuyder Zee, whose inhabitants, according to Washington Irving, have settled conclusively, to their own minds at least, the long-disputed question concerning the situation of the Garden of Eden. Inclosed by a broad dyke, that keeps out the encroaching waters of the Zee, these fishermen, with their families, live their quiet lives. Many of the women, and even the men, have never ventured beyond its narrow limits. An air of unusual excitement prevailed over the whole island the day of my visit. Following the direction taken by the various groups, I found myself in front of the church, and when a few minutes later, hand in hand, a couple, in holiday attire, gravely entered I knew instinctively that it was a wedding that had so moved the calm, stolid Dutch peasantry. The bridal couple approached the altar, entirely alone, and the burgomaster addressed a few remarks and questions to them. Then he extended his hands in blessing and solemnly shook hands with first the groom, then the bride, and the ceremony was ended. Quietly, without a word or sign to or from any one, they turned, and, hand in hand, slowly left the church and walked in the middle of the street to their new home, which the groom, according to custom, entered first, the bride following about a minute later, both having removed their shoes and left them on the outside. Not a word or a glance was exchanged between them. The little bride was most picturesque. Her dark stuff skirt over a white petticoat was just short enough to show her feet, incased in blue knit stockings and leather shoes with silver buckles. A white spenser, over which was a bodice or corselet, green in front and red behind, heavily embroidered in gold and silver thread. These bodices are works of art; the embroidery is most gorgeous, and it takes years to finish one. They are handed down from mother to daugher as heirlooms. Like all the women on the island, old and young, the little bride wore a white cap covering all the hair excepting a square bang in front, and a long yellow curl on either side of the face. The groom's knickerbockers would have made a bicycle girl envious. He wore a striped waistcoat over red shirt, a long silver chain, and collar buttons, also heirlooms. At a certain age, somewhere near sixteen, the girls assume the "shako" or cap worn by the women. After this they can "smuggle," as the term is, or in English they make their debut. In the evening, after the fishing boats come in, the young men and maidens assemble in the harbor and sit in the boats together. As soon as they become engaged, all this is changed. The girl stays at home and learns to be a good housewife, weaves and makes her lines, etc. The engagement usually lasts five years. During this time the young couple seldom see each other, never alone. The man fishes, builds a home and makes ready for his bride.

Miss Isabella Titsworth, of the borough, is visiting friends at Elizabeth for a few days.

J. N. Apgar, of the borough, is visiting D. S. Campbell and family, at Fairmount, this State.

F. S. Cutter and his sister, of Plainfield, enjoyed Saturday afternoon at New Market with friends.

The cases of Werner against Blackford and Casey against Cronin, will be tried this week before Justice Storms at New Market.

The courts of the Dunellen Lawn Tennis Association were thronged Saturday afternoon with enthusiastic players. It was indeed a social event of note.

The condition of Charles A. Beekman, of Front street, is not so well since his return from Centreville, where he spent several weeks for the benefit of his health.

The Borough Council will probably hold their regular July meeting Tuesday evening following July 5th, which will be celebrated instead of July 4th which comes on Sunday.

The pulpit of the New Market Baptist church was occupied yesterday morning by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D,, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, of Plainfield, and a very excellent sermon was delivered. Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the New Market church, preached in Mr. Schenck's church, at Plainfield.

Through the efforts of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., an attempt will be made to keep some of the town people home next Monday, July 5th. It is proposed to have a genuine celebration of the 4th and the members of the above order are now arranging to give everybody a good time. It is to be hoped that the people of the borough will assist all that they can in making the affair a success.

Last Saturday a lively runaway was witnessed in the borough. The horse who was responsible for the damage is owned by Mr. Case, of Greenbrook, and while Mr. Case was changing the bridle the animal took a notion that he would run away. He was attached to the wagon and the rapid speed at which he traveled resulted in his breaking the wagon all to pieces. When the horse was caught in Dunellen there was hardly a thing left of the wagon. The horse did not seem to be injured very much, but was winded. Shortly after the horse reached Dunellen Mr. Case appeared and took charge of him. The latter says that it is the first time his horse has ran away. Fortunately there was was no one in the wagon or else the damage would have resulted more disastrously.

WESTFIELD

AETNAS EASY VICTIMS.

WESTFIELD TEAM DEFEATS CRACK BROOKLYN PLAYERS.

Fresh Air Camp Opens for the Season—Death of Mrs. William Hodge—A Westfield Man Married—Some Other Items.

The Westfield Club baseball team played a game with the Aetnas of Brooklyn, on the North Broad street grounds Saturday afternoon, and won by the score 17 to 9. The large crowd which was present in the expectation of witnessing a closely contested game, were disappointed, as the home team had everything its own way from the start. The visitors were first at the bat and started out by making two runs. Westfield made only one run. At the beginning of the next inning Higgins, Westfield's pitcher, increased his speed, and the Aetnas made no runs in the second, third and fourth innings, while Westfield scored 8, making the score at this stage of the game 9 to 2. In the fifth inning Higgins slowed up somewhat and allowed the visitors to do some batting in order to give the fielders some practice, and the Aetnas got in two runs. Westfield also scored two. After this Wier, who pitched a strong game against the Newark Field Club last week, giving them only three hits, was easily hit by Westfield's batters. Six runs were scored in one inning. Crooks in the sixth made a home run, while Roth at short stop made three brilliant stops. In the remaining three innings the Aetnas were allowed 5 more runs, leaving the score 17 to 9. Westfield played an errorless game. Higgins struck out twelve men, and Wier, of the Aetnas, retired three.

The Westfield Fresh Air Camp will open next Friday and remain in operation during July and August. The camp was organized in 1895 by the Union Fresh Air Mission Association for the purpose of a brief outing in the country to mothers with sick babies from the tenement districts of New York city. The camp accommodates about 100 at a time, and each party stays about ten days.

Miss Anna E. Sheppard and John A. McMillan were married at the home of the bride's brother in Penn Yan, N. Y., last Wednesday evening. The groom is connected with the Rheostadt Company of this place, and has lived here for the past year. He is a graduate of Princeton College. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left for a short wedding trip through the south. On their return they will take up their residence in Westfield.

Mrs. William Hodges, aged twenty-nine years, died at her home, corner of Broad and Clark streets, Saturday afternoon, of consumption. The funeral services were held in the M. E. church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. W. H. Ruth officiated. Interment was made in New York city. Mrs. Hodges is survived by a husband and five children, the oldest of whom is only eleven. The case is a particular sad one, and kind hearted people in town are endeavoring to find some place where the children can be cared for. A suggestion to have them placed in the Children's Country Home for the summer, has met with much approval, and it is hoped that the board of managers of that institution will give their consent to the plan.

CHILDREN'S NURSES.

THEY ARE TRAINED FOR THE OCCUPATION AND IN GREAT DEMAND.

Good Salaries Paid—The Maids Engaged Ahead of Their Graduation — Not Enough to Fill the Many Requests from Almost Every Country in the World.

In these days, when all fields of work, especially woman's work, are said to be overcrowded, it is a relief to find one exception. This exception is the profession of trained nursery maids, the demand being from fifty to a hundred per cent greater than the supply.

"We can graduate about twenty-three girls a year," said the Superintendent of the New York Training School for Nursery Maids, "and we have applicants for several hundred during that time. The subject of training nurses for the care of children is receiving each year more attention, and intelligent parents are beginning to feel that the old idea that any person can mind a baby is about exhausted.

"This training school for nursery maids is the oldest in the world, and up to two years ago it was the only one. The idea, I believe, originated with Mrs. Robert W. Chapin, who, owing to some serious mistake of a nurse, began to think what a good thing it would be if we could have intelligent women with training to care for our babies. She thought the matter over, and, selecting the Babies' Hospital as the most suitable place, offered to support two or three nurses for the year if the management would give her plan a trial. This trial proved so satisfactory that the school was founded, and has been enlarged, though, as I said before, it lacks a great deal of supplying the demands for trained nurse maids. Our waiting list is large, owing to the very limited number of girls we can accommodate. An applicant, to be admitted, is required to be not under twenty and not over thirty, to be perfectly healthy, to come well recommended, and to have a good common school education. Under no circumstances do we consider an applicant where there is a suspicion of lung trouble. The reason for this is perfectly obvious to any one with any knowledge of the relations between a baby and its nurse. The applicants are received on one month's probation, and if at the end of that time they prove satisfactory they finish the course of six months.

Their wages on leaving the school are in a measure regulated by us. The wages paid our graduates on first leaving us—they are always engaged several months ahead of their graduation—are $20 a month. After that time, of course, their wages depend on their own efforts, for if a nurse makes herself valuable a mother is always willing to increase the pay to a reasonable amount. Many of our graduates receive as much as $50 a month, which is very good when one takes into consideration the few expenses of a nurse. She has one of the most desirable rooms in the house, for the nursery is always a good room. When the family travels she goes in the same coach. Next to their parents, the children love and respect her.

"In our training we do not attempt to give medical knowledge, for we consider 'a little knowledge a dangerous thing,' but we seek to make them capable of taking a healthy baby and keeping it healthy. The nurse learns nursery hygiene in its broadest sense, with the rudiments of kindergarten. As a life work for women this profession seems much to be preferred to that of a shop or factory girl. We have applicants for our graduates from every State in the Union and almost every country in the world. Several of our graduates are abroad now as nurses in the families of the nobility. Of course, as I remarked at first, the demand is greater than the supply, so we are forced to answer 'No' many times where we would be only too glad to supply a good nursery maid. Only a short while ago we had an application from the West Indies, and the place was an admirable one, but we had no one to send there. Every girl graduated up to August is already engaged.

"During the last two years there have been similar schools founded in Montreal, Newark, Brooklyn and Detroit. All of these institutions have been modeled after this school. The managers of one of these have frequently visited us, and in one case sent their superintendent to us for several months' experience. Whenever a new institution of the kind is projected the call immediately comes: "Have you not some one whom you can send to us to organize the work?' We are always forced to say 'No.'"—New York Sun.

That Old Cork Leg.

In the time of the Crimean war a regiment of infantry was ordered to a position where some sharp work was going on.

In the action an Irish soldier named Thady, whose father was a second-hand dealer, happened to get his left leg blown off just above the knee.

A comrade, seeing him fall, picked him up, and carried him to a place of safety.

When asked by an officer if he felt grieved at the loss of his leg he replied:

"Faith, no, yer honour; for now me puir old fayther will be able to get rid of the old cork leg that he has had on his hands so long."—Answers.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable; NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. THE TAILORS' STRIKE.

Contractors Said to Have Ignored Their Agreement Made With the Men.

New York, June 27.—A large number of contractors who had entered into settlement with the Brotherhood of Tailors last week have, according to members prominent in the Clothing Contractors' association, ignored the new agreement, closed their shops and turned their employees adrift. The number of contractors who are said to have thus acted is set down at 400, employing between 1,000 and 1,500 operators.

Leader Schoenfeld characterized the statement as a lie made out of whole cloth. In the face of this denial a huge force of idle tailors was found congregated at the tailors' headquarters. Many of them said they had been locked out and made no concealment of the fear entertained by them that they were face to face with another period of idleness.

Leader Schoenfeld had decided to hold forth the next two weeks at the headquarters of the United Brotherhood of Tailors. He intended to relinquish his charge of the tailors on Saturday, but for some unknown reason has decided to remain at his post until the middle of July.

Instructions have been given to all idle tailors by Schoenfeld not to work under any condition for contractors who had yielded to the demands.

If the threat of the contractors is carried out, over 10,000 tailors will be locked out before the middle of the present week.

FIGHTING IN CRETE.

Mussulmans Attack Christians Near Candia, and Many Are Killed.

Khania, Crete, June 28.—An armed force of 1,200 Mussulmans made a sortie from Candia Saturday, crossed the military cordon and surprised the insurgents at Canticartel, three hours distant. A desperate combat ensued, in which 13 Mussulmans were killed and 12 wounded. The Christian inhabitants of the district are preparing to make reprisals by land and sea.

Later advices show that many Christians were killed as well as many Turks.

The trouble arose from the encroachments of Mussulman refugees, who attempted to pasture their cattle within the limits of the neutral zone.

Hostile Attitude of Turks In Epirus.

Athens, June 28.—The Turkish army in Epirus having occupied several positions overlooking Agrapha, thus threatening the Greek retreat in the event of a resumption of hostilities, the Greek government has decided to occupy Karpenisi with a strong force.

FIRE IN BOSTON.

Causes Some Excitement to a Theater Audience, but No Panic.

Boston, June 28.—The five-story building 55 and 57 Appleton street has been damaged $5,000 by fire. The fire caught on the second floor, occupied by O. J. Faxon, piano and bicycle manufacturer, and the four upper floors were badly damaged. Other occupants were the Ideal Trading company, dealers in bicycle supplies, and the Rollins Press company. The total loss is roughly placed at $15,000 on stock; partly insured. Four firemen were slightly injured.

The rear of the factory backs upon an alleyway in the rear of the Castle Square theater, and the alarm created some little commotion among the large theater audience, but there was nothing approaching a panic.

Meeting of Irishmen.

Dublin, June 28.—A meeting, convened to bring further pressure to bear upon the British government to grant amnesty to the Irish political prisoners now at Maryborough jail, has been held in Phenix park. Considerable surprise was expressed that the jubilee week had passed without the release which had been expected. Mr. William Field, Parnellite member for the St. Patrick's division of Dublin, in the course of a fiery speech, said: "It is useless to look further to the English government. We will call upon the voices and perhaps the arms of our countrymen in America."

The Nashville Fair.

Nashville, June 28.—More than 100,000 persons passed through the gates of the exposition last week, and but for violent rain on Thursday this number would have been largely increased. College men from all the states will be in attendance.

SHIP ON FIRE AT SEA.

City of Rome Arrives After a Thrilling Experience.

BROKE OUT IN THE FORWARD HOLD.

Only Prompt Action by the Captain and Crew Saved the Vessel—No Cause Can Be Assigned For the Fire.

New York, June 28.—The Anchor line steamer City of Rome, Captain Hugh Young, has arrived from Glasgow and Moville, after a thrilling experience with fire on board ship, which fortunately was quickly got under control by the ship's splendidly equipped and well drilled fire crew.

Captain Young reports that the City of Rome sailed from Glasgow and Moville on June 19, with 56 saloon, 90 second cabin and 150 steerage passengers and a cargo of general merchandise. Fine weather was experienced during the entire passage. On June 24 from 9:30 a. m. to 7 p. m. the steamer sighted no less than 20 icebergs of various dimensions. Saturday proved a very pleasant day, and the City of Rome was steaming along rapidly toward the American coast. At 2:30 p. m., in latitude 41.28, longitude 63.29, the bridge detected smoke issuing from No. 4 hold, immediately forward of the bridge.

The chief officer was quickly sent forward to investigate, and the captain's worst fears were verified, as dense volumes of smoke began to ascend from No. 4 hold. The fire alarm was quickly sounded, and the ship's crew beat to quarters.

Prompt Action of Officers.

Meanwhile an officer was detailed to notify the passengers, who were calmly sitting or promenading the decks. The ship's fire crew promptly responded to the captain's call, and in a few minutes hose was stretched along the deck from the engine room to No. 4 hold, where the fire was then raging. Steam and water were quickly turned on into the burning compartment, and at 5 p. m. the fire was under control. Further precautions were then taken to prevent the possible outbreak and spread of the fire to the adjoining compartment.

Another detachment of the crew were ordered to stand by in case of emergency, and streams of water were kept constantly pouring into the burning compartment and on the main deck in the immediate vicinity of the fire. The cargo in the burning hold consisted chiefly of jute goods and other general cargo and will probably be a total loss.

Captain Young is unable to assign any reason for the cause of the fire, but it is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. The City of Rome proceeded at once to her dock, after a brief inspection at quarantine. The exact nature or the amount of damage cannot be ascertained until the steamer hatches are taken off and the cargo discharged.

Chile's New Cabinet.

London, June 28.—A dispatch from Santigao, says that President Errazuriz has accepted the following cabinet, to succeed the ministry of Senor Antunes, which resigned June 22: Senor Orrego Huco, minister of the interior; Senor Morta Vicuna, minister for foreign affairs; Senor Ismael Tocornal, minister of finance; Senor Amunategui, minister of justice; Senor Vergara, minister of war, and Senor Prats, minister of public works.

Horses Perish In a Fire.

New York, June 28.—Fire in the lumber yard and packing box factory of Frederick Buse, 1104 to 1112 First avenue, did damage to the amount of $20,000. Thirteen horses which were stabled on the premises were burned, the firemen being unable to save them. The fire began in a pile of rubbish in the boiler room. The Manhattan Cornice and Roofing company, whose building adjoins the box factory, suffered to the extent of $4,000.

Suicide of a Labor Union Officer.

Milford, Mass., June 28.—Charles Schrieval, treasurer of Cigar Makers' union, No. 109, and a director of the Central Labor union, died from the effects of a quarter of a pound of paris green, taken with suicidal intent. Schrieval had been despondent for several weeks and leaves a widow and daughter.

The Polk Place Sale.

Nashville, June 28.—By decree of the chancery court Polk place, in the center of the city, the home of President James Polk, was sold for distribution among the heirs and brought only $15,000. It is not probable the sale will be confirmed, but that the property will be again offered at public sale.

Steamer Sunk.

Huntington, W. Va., June 28.—The steamer W. F. Nisbet, owned by the Cincinnati-Pomeroy Packet company, bound for Pomeroy, has sunk one mile below Central City. The boat is on the bar in but five feet of water. Her cargo is not damaged, and the passengers are all safe.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Partners Liable for the Firm Until Notice of Dissolution is Given.

Some time ago the case of Herman Boker & Co. vs. Cobb & Archer, partners, came up for trial before Judge Van Syckel in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth. It appeared from the evidence in the case that the plaintiffs had sold hardware etc. amounting to somewhere in the neighborhood of $700. The evidence showed that these goods were ordered by one of the firm of Cobb & Archer and ordered to be charged to the firm of Cobb & Archer. The evidence also showed that at the time the goods were ordered the firm of Cobb & Archer had been dissolved for some months. The defendants sought to avoid payment on the ground that there was no such firm in existence at the time of the purchase

Assemblyman Codington, who represented the plaintiffs, however, insisted that all the partners would be liable under such circumstances where no notice of the dissolution of the firm had been given, either to the creditors in person or by advertisement. The court on Saturday handed down its decision sustaining this view, giving the plaintiffs judgement for the full amount. Lawyers Hetfield and Kirch represented the defendants.

TO REORGANIZE THE CATHOLIC CLUB.

A Meeting Was Held Yesterday Afternoon to Discuss the Project.

The members of the Plainfield Catholic Club met at their club house on Liberty street yesterday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the advisability of reorganizing the club and putting it on a better foundation than heretofore. George J. Tobin was chosen temporary chairman, and the discussion of the subject was thorough and interesting. Nearly everyone of the seventy-five members present were heartily in favor of reorganizing and they expressed their opinion that way.

In accordance with a motion the following members were appointed a committee to draft resolution and by-laws and ascertain how many of the members are in favor of reorganization They will report at a meeting to be held next Sunday afternoon at the same place and hour.

DOWNED PERTH AMBOY.

THE CRESCENTS DEFEATED THE UNIONS BY A BIG SCORE.

The Fun Began in the First Inning and Continued to the Last—Lots of Base Running by the Home Team.

Perth Amboy's strongest aggregation of baseball players came to Plainfield Saturday afternoon and were mercilessly defeated by the Plainfield Crescents by a score of 25 to 10. The high score was more due to the fault of the Unions, as the Perth Amboy nine was called, than to anything else, but it was very evident that the visitors were outplayed and fairly beaten.

Those who saw the game with the Westfield Athletic Club a week ago were pleasantly surprised by the showing that the Crescents made. Several very needful changes had been made in the team and Saturday last everybody played good ball. Vroom, a catcher from Staten Island, was behind the bat and made a very satisfatory impression. He was strong and quick as a cat while his throwing to bases was a delight to the lovers of the National game. At batting, he was a great addition to the team. McLarty was hit rather freely during the game, but he did not lose his head and pitched a good game. He made the only home run of the game by a hit in far left field.

The fun began at the start and the rooters were given a chance to yell immediately. Some costly errors by the Amboy infield, two passed balls, and singles by Lederer, Symous, Corbin, Mumford and Vroom, netted seven runs before the agony was ended. In the third, Bradley, the visiting pitcher was batted freely and three more runs were the result. Then Noonan, an old league player, was put in the box. After one inning to get used to him, a three-bagger by Vroom, a single by Lederer and more errors on the part of the visitors allowed four men to cross the plate. Then they took it easy until the last inning when ten runs were scored on errors and a home run by McLarty. There was lots of base running in which Bolsterli especially distinguished himself.

The fielding of the visitors was very ragged at times while they showed remarkably poor judgment while on bases. Only two bases were stolen off Vroom while he nabbed several in their efforts to get to second and third. In the sixth inning, the visitors had a batting streak and with two doubles and five singles made things lively for a time Haddon Ivins, of the Perth Amboy Chronicle, the scorer, woke up and delighted the cranks with an exhibition of Amboy enthusiasm.

Although the score was uneven, there was plenty of excitement and the crowd was satisfied with the game.

The score in detail was as follows:

Accident at the Newark Bridge.

An accident occurred on the Newark Bay bridge, near the draw, this morning.

One of the rear wheels on the tender of the P. and R. engine 619, of the B. and O. express train, burned off in the journal box, letting one side of the tender down on the rails. Fortunately the tender did not leave the track. Traffic was delayed about one hour.

James Egany, of Mountain avenue, spent Sunday with friends in New York city.

TROTTING IN FAST TIME.

TWO EXCITING MATCHES AT THE GENTLEMEN'S DRIVING PARK.

There Were Several Single Heats Trotted Besides—Summaries of the Principal Matches Saturday Afternoon.

Lovers of fast horses and good sport have found the Gentlemen's Driving Park a very congenial place on Saturday afternoons, this month. The attendance at the matches on those occasions number up in the hundreds. Plainfield and the surrounding towns have a number of fast trotters and pacers and their owner like to meet weekly and try conclusions with their friends.

Saturday afternoon, there was a large crowd at the track and a number of the prominent men from the city were present. There were a number of single heats between some of the local horses, but the events of the afternoon were two matches which were closely contested and furnished lots of excitement to the audience in the grand stand.

One match was between the horses of W. E. Brock, Thomas Brantingham and J. W. Johnson. Three heats were trotted and the finishes in all were very close. Brock's "Active" passed under the wire a winner by a nose from Johnson's "Sidnut" in the first heat. Brantingham drove his pacer, "Myrtle Twig," to victory in the second heat, winning by a small distance. "Active" took the third heat in a race equally exciting. The fastest time was 2:26.

The second match, although not quite as fast, was of equal interest. The horses of Mr. Hayes, W. L. Smalley and N. B. Smalley were the contestants. Three heats were trotted and each horse finished first in one.

The summaries of the races were as follows:

FIRST MATCH.

W. E. Brock's b. g. "Active" (Campbell) 1 2 1
Thos. Brantingham's b. m. "Myrtle-twig" (owner) 3 1 2
J. W. Johnson's b. h. "Sidnut" (Osborn) 2 3 3
Time—2:26; 2:26; 2:28½.

SECOND MATCH.

Mr. Hayes's b. g. "Andy" (owner) 1 3 2
W. L. Smalley's b. m. "Belle" (Smalley) 2 2 1
N. B. Smalley's ch. m. "Bolette" (owner) 3 1 dr
Time—2:43½; 2:37½; 2:43½.

An informal hop was held at the Hotel Hunterston, Saturday evening. It was attended by a number of the residents of Netherwood and the guests at the hotel. The evening was a delightful one and all had a very enjoyable time.

ADULTERATION OF RUBBER.

The Collectors Augment Its Weight with Earth and Stones.

In spite of the constant talk of a substitute having been found for it, rubber seems likely to be for some time to come the standby of the electrician for insulating purposes. The manufacturers who prepare the rubber for the electrical and other markets complain of the increasing adulteration of the raw material, especially of that coming from Assam and Burmah. According to H. N. Thompson, the Chinese have a practical monopoly of the trade. The forests at the head of the Upper Namkong basin are rich in rubber, and the trees attain a height of 200 feet, with enormous girth. The great tribe of rubber collectors is the Sana Kachins, who go vast distances for their rubber harvest in the dry season. The chiefs levy toll on the produce as it passes down the river. The Chinese who control the trade, pay the Kachins for it in provisions and cloth, and as they are adepts in the art of concealing stones in it, by the time it reaches Rangoon its weight and bulk are largely augmented by foreign substances. The Assam supply is fed mainly by the Nagas, who, having got in their crops in December, set off for the rubber forests within the drainage area of the Tareu River, where they know every tree, the knowledge being in many cases passed on from father to son. The rubber in this district is said to be growing so scarce that it often takes a man forty days to collect a coolie load. In spite of this, the Singpho villages levy a tax on each collector. When first collected the rubber is very pure, but the Nagas have acquired the trick of adulterating it with earth and stones, and the Assam rubber is not regarded with favor in the Calcutta market. It is a sore point with the Chinese merchants that the Nagas so exhaust the capacity of the rubber to receive adulteration that there is no opening left for the exercise of their own ingenuity in the same direction.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

DAY OF FATE AT HAND.

BLOOD-CURDLING REVENGE AND SELF-DESTRUCTION PLANNED

His Neighbors Allege That Liebie Says That His Day Has Come, But That Four of His Friends Must Go First.

Next Sunday is the day of fate for Burnett Liebie, an old resident from the clump of dwellings spoken of as Greenbrook, or Sebring's Mills. He says that he has been called, that his time has come and that on Sunday next he will be laid six feet under clay. But before he goes, and as he says this a wild smile lights up his rough features, there are four of his friends that must precede and then he will join them down in the cold damp earth. Such, at least, is the story that all his neighbors tell, and from their earnest faces it would seem as if they spoke the truth.

Last Friday, an old man was brought before Justice Storms, of New Market, on the charge of carrying a revolver and threatening the lives of his neighbors with it. He was held for the Grand Jury and was bailed out by his son and a friend. There was apparently nothing very strange about the case, but a queer story has leaked out that puts a far different face on the matter. The authorities for the facts are the farmers living in Greenbrook and they have sworn to the truth of their statements.

Greenbrook is a small settlement in the neighborhood of the mill and electric plant of Charles P. Sebring, about three miles from Dunellen. The road that leads to it turns off from the main thoroughfare to Bound Brook, at the corner where Mannion's roadhouse stands. A mile down this road lives Burnett Liebie with his two sons. He is fifty-seven years old.

For nearly a year, his neighbors say, he has been acting queerly at times. He said that his time had almost come and that soon he would be under six feet of clay. Then he told them that there were four others there that must go before and he told them how he had planned to invite the fated four to his house on the eventful night and there drink and make merry. He had two big casks of wine that they would broach and all would be well until midnight, when he would draw his revolver from his pocket and kill them all in cold blood and then end his own life. He constantly carried a revolver in the breast pocket and refused to give it up, despite the earnest solicitations of his sons.

Two weeks ago, the Greenbrook people say, he declared that the time when he was to go was only two weeks off, and he picked out next Sunday as the day for the ending of his life. Then he stopped work. Next he announced who his companions in the wild revelry were to be. The four were August VonEssen, David Jones, John and Jacob Sebring, all farmers living in the immediate neighborhood, according to the testimony of the four and the others that heard the remarks, and they were many, for Liebie has talked of it often.

Liebie says that once John Sebring called him a name, a mean, contemptible name, and that "Jake" Sebring laughed and August VonEssen heard it. For that they must die. The reason he has for the doing away with Jones was not learned. The farmers there say that the man is stark mad on that subject, although perfectly rational on any other. They say his madness is caused by drink.

While he is accused of saying much, the first of his alleged actions took place on Monday evening of last week. Ed Jones, the Beekman boys and the Lavender children drove up to Abram Giddis' home to get their pay for picking strawberries. When they returned it was dark. They were just going up the road to Greenbrook when a shadowy form stepped out from behind the bushes and pointed something at them. There was a flash, a crash; and a bullet sailed over their heads. Two more followed in rapid succession and then the horses broke into a run and soon carried the children out of danger. It is alleged that Liebie was the one that did the shooting.

Thursday night Liebie came to the rear door of the VonEssen homestead. Mrs. VonEssen went to the door while her husband stood unobserved behind the door. The story told by Mr. and Mrs. VonEssen is that Liebie came and demanded VonEssen, and his wife said that he was out at the barn. Then he raved about the four men and continued to say that his time had come.

"I'll pour wine into 'em," he chuckled, "and then I'll give 'em something they'll never forget." Then his wandering mind turned in the direction of religion. At last he departed for the barn with the injunc-

HE POISONED HIMSELF.

ABRAM GULICK WANTED TO PREVENT SCARLET FEVER.

His Friends Told Him That Camphor Would Prevent Contagion and So He Tried it Internally as Well as Externally.

The recent scarlet fever scare in this city nearly resulted in the death of Abram Gulick, the twenty-three-year-old son of J. S. Gulick, a wealthy farmer living at Lincoln.

One day last week young Gulick came to this city to see some of his Plainfield friends and then learned of the epidemic of scarlet fever in town. Gulick had never had the dread disease and he didn't want it. He feared that he had exposed himself to contagion when he came to Plainfield and he worried over the fact considerably. His worry did not stop when he returned to his home and he asked his friends what was the best thing to do to preserve him from the fever, and camphor was suggested.

Gulick purchased a stock of camphor and filled all his pockets with it, but still he worried about the scarlet fever. His presence could be detected by the strong odor of camphor and he had to make frequent trips outdoors to relieve the household of the all-pervading odor. That did not satisfy him. While he felt that the outside was thoroughly protected, it was the inside that worried him. He was afraid that he might eat or drink something that contained the germs of the dreaded disease, and so all his precautions might come to naught.

There is no doctor in Lincoln, and Gulick had nobody to consult. Not caring to be laughed at by his friends who thought it a great joke about the camphor, he prescribed for himself. As long as camphor was so good a preventative on the outside, why should it not be as good within, he wondered. So last Wednesday afternoon he took a lump of camphor, in inch in diameter, and ate it, although it did not have a particularly pleasant taste.

The result of Gulick's little experiment was very serious; in fact, it nearly proved fatal to the young man. He was taken ill soon after he had swollowed the camphor. He lost his reason temporarily and raved terribly to the horror of his family. Dr Fisher was hurriedly summoned from Bound Brook and attended the young man.

At first no one knew what the matter was, but it was finally learned and he was brought back to consciousness. He was very weak, however, and it was several days before he fully recovered from the effects of his little experiment. Dr. Fisher said that the only reason that the young man did not die from the effects of camphor poisoning was that he took so much. Had he taken thirty grains, instead of a hundred, as he did, the result would undoubtedly have been fatal.

GERMAN SINGERS ENTERTAIN.

The Afternoon Was Spent in the Mountains and a Supper Enjoyed.

The members of the singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein met Sunday morning for the regular lesson which was postponed from last week. In the forenoon the members enjoyed a treat by having an unexpected visit from Prof. Hermann Eichorn, of Elizabeth, who stopped at Plainfield on his way back from Philadelphia where he was in attendance at the National Festival. Prof. Eichorn, while in tne Quaker City, acted as leader of one of the singing sections which captured one of the best prizes.

In honor of their guest, the Plainfield members of the Gesang and Turn Verein went to the mountains in the afternoon and had a very pleasant time playing games, while the singing section rendered several of their most popular songs under the direction of Prof. Eichorn. During the afternoon a beautiful lyre made entirely of wild flowers was presented to Prof. Eichorn, who received the gift in a short speech. He said that he appreciated the kindness of his Plainfield friends and there had not been any feature of his recent trip more enjoyable than that of yesterday.

After the presentation a fine supper was served and the assemblage numbering about one hundred returned to this city fully satisfied with the time they had passed on the mountains.

THEY DINED IN UNITY.

MANY OF THE DEMOCRATS GATHERED AT ELIZABETH.

The Dinner Was Gotten Up By the Union County Democrats—Some of the Strongest Gold Men Were Absent.

After many unsuccessful attempts, the gold and silver Democrats of Union county got together at the big Democratic banquet given by the Union county Democrats last night. Some of the strongest gold Democrats stayed away. The guests declared the banquet a success.

The guest of honor was Senator Wm. D. Daly, of Hudson. James E. Martine, of Plainfield, the farmer orator, was present. B. J. Lawrence presided and made the address of welcome. The toastmaster was Wm. J. Lansley. Wm. D. Wolfskiel spoke on "Our State," urging concentration of action and insisting that gold and silver must not separate Jersey Democrats.

Senator Daly spoke on the last Legislature. He said that Democratic defeat was due to "uncalled for legislation, prompted and suggested by alleged leaders of Democracy, who were willing to sacrifice their party for personal gain." His remarks were taken as direct raps at Allan McDermott, and seemed to please the assemblage.

MR. HIGGINS' NOVEL IDEA.

To Foil Thieves He Took a Wheel from Each Carriage.

Wm. Higgins, a New York merchant, owns a handsome country place in Stelton, about two miles from New Brunswick. Some months ago the family went to Chicago for a time Before going away Mr. Higgins hit upon a plan to make his four carriages safe from thieves. He took a wheel from each carriage, and these he stored in the garret of his residence.

'Now, if anyone attempts to steal those carriages while we are away they will have a job to get along with three wheels," he thought.

But the home of Mr. Higgins was burned down while the family was away. The four carriage wheels stored in the garret vanished in the flames.

A wheelwright was summoned from New Brunswick last week to supply the missing wheels. Possibly Mr. Higgins may find it necessary to equip every one of the four carriages with a full set of new wheels.

Hospital to Have a Fire Alarm Box.

The regular meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held last evening at the Public Library. There was a great deal of routine business considered, but the only thing of any great importance was the appointment of Mayor C. J. Fisk as a committee of one to arrange for the placing of a fire alarm box close to the hospital. This will be done so that practically those at the hospital will have the exclusive use of the box. The need of this has been apparent for some time. It will be intended for the protection of the hospital property, but if it is necessary it will be pulled for any fire which might break out close to the above institution.

A Nuisance Stopped.

Health Inspector Addis has notified Jeremiah Manning that the nuisance just off of Washington avenue, back of Front street, on Manning's property, must be stopped. Cartmen are in the habit of dumping papers, etc, on the above property and then they are allowed to burn and cause an unbearable stench which has been complained of. Saturday Mr. Manning sent a man to the place and had the fires extinguished which has been burning for several days. The Board of Health allows Mr. Manning to have ashes, etc., dumped on his property, but he is obliged to look after it and see that there is no nuisance.

Building Committee Met.

The building committee and the trustees of the Gesang and Turn Verein held a meeting Sunday afternoon for the purpose of preparing a report to be presented at the regular meeting of the society next Thursday evening. The report will be a final one concerning the proposed changes to the present building, which will be started this summer.

Thieves Around Metuchen.

The gang of burglars operating in Metuchen show no abatement of activity. Saturday night they robbed G. A. Hoffman's home, on the Amboy turnpike, of money and several hundred dollars worth of silverware. Local crooks are supposed to be responsible.

'TWAS EXCITING HISTORY

STORY OF AN ALLEGED ASSAULT TOLD IN COURT.

The Testimony of the Plaintiff, Mrs. Bertha Guinaud, and the Defendant, Edward Galbraith, Did Not Agree.

A page from the history of a West End saloon was read over in Justice Moffett's court this morning, in the examination of Edward Galbraith on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Bertha Guinaud.

Judge DeMeza appeared in Galbraith's behalf, and cross-examined Mrs. Guinaud as to her condition previous to the visit to Willis' saloon on Friday afternoon, when the alleged assault took place. Under cross-questioning the witness admitted that she had drunk more or less beer during the day. She was not drunk, however, she said, but was faint from the heat and went into the saloon to get some brandy to revive her, when she fainted. While in that condition Mrs. Guinaud stated that Galbraith roughly ejected her, using unnecessary violence in doing so. She exhibited an ugly bruise on each arm to bear out her story.

John Scott, Thomas O'Keefe and Daniel Galbraith, a brother of the accused man, were called and gave evidence to the effect that Mrs. Guinaud was under the influence of drink when she visited the saloon. O'Keefe, in answer to a question from Justice Moffett as to the woman's condition at the time, replied:

"Well, if a doctor had been present he wouldn't have said she was sick."

While O'Keefe's evidence was being taken Mrs. Guinaud caused a sensation in the court. Without warning she arosed and started through the crowd for the door exclaiming hysterically:

"It's no use! That evidence is bought!"

She was reprimanded by the Justice and soon became calmer and sat down.

Edward Galbraith was put upon the stand and told his story. He was upstairs, he said, when Mrs. Guinaud came into the saloon on Friday afternoon. He heard her fall and came down stairs. Twice he raised her to a chair. He believed she was intoxicated and told her she must go. When she refused, he went after Policeman Flanagan to remove her. He could not find the policeman and returned to find Mrs. Guinaud in his mother's apartments at the rear of the house. She attacked him, pulling his hair and scratching, and he forced her out upon the sidewalk.

Policeman Flanagan testified that he saw Mrs. Guinaud after the trouble. She had evidently been drinking, but was not drunk. Chief Grant testified to the good character of Mrs. Guinaud.

The Justice, after hearing all the evidence, held Galbraith in $200 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury.

A QUIET WEDDING.

An Allentown Couple United at a Plainfield Home.

Miss Caroline Ehrie and Miles Smith, both of Allentown, were married Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Crouse, of 217 East Fourth street. Rev. Christian G. Fischer, of the Lutheran church of Elizabeth, performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouse, the Misses Saxton, Miss B. Wilcox, Miss Marion Wilcox, John Ehrie, a brother of the bride, and others were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left yesterday for Allentown, where the groom has a successful business.

A Sewing Circle Formed.

The members of Paughcaughnaughsinque Council, No. 34, Degree of Pocohontas, met a few days ago at the home of Mrs. Leland, of Elmwood place, and organized a sewing circle. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Ada Nash; secretary, Miss Sophie G. Wilson; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Netherwood. The Circle will meet every Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and tomorrow afternoon they will meet at the home of Mrs. Baker, of 61 Warren street.

Attachments Discontinued.

The attachments held against the property of Dr. John D. Wood by Neuman Bros., and Smalley Bros., of this city, were discontinued yesterday morning. This action was probably caused by the existence of chattel mortgages which rendered the attachments valueless.

Bids for Coal Asked.

The Board of Education of North Plainfield is now receiving bids for coal to be delivered at the school building. Bids are asked for on one hundred tones of hard Lehigh coal, stove size, to be delivered when and in such quantities as the Board wishes.

CITY SOLONS' TROUBLES.

ONE COUNCILMAN OBJECTED AT NOTIFICATION TO CURB.

A Coolness Was Also Caused Between Members of the Police Board—Two Members Claimed That They Were Ignored.

A coolness, it is said, is existing at present in the club car Plainfield, among the members of the City Council who use that means of conveyance to and from New York. It seems that at the last session of the Council, during the absence of a prominent member, a resolution was passed directing, with others, that a sidewalk curbing should be placed around his residence. When the absent member returned and was informed of the occurance he was indignant, and said that he would curb his place when he got good and ready. It is hoped that a reconciliation will take place at the next meeting of the City Council.

In connection with the above there is another breach recorded in the "happy family." It appears that at the last drill and inspection of the police department, the chairman of the Police Board notified the other two members of the board that such a drill and inspection was to take place on a certain evening and hour. The time arrived and the two members went to the Cycle Academy to witness the performance. When they arrived at the academy they saw the policemen coming out of the building and walking down the street double file, and from all appearances they decided that the drill and inspection had taken place. They also seemed to realize that they had been ignored by the head of the department, and for a time there was a coolness existing between the head and the other two members. It is now said that all differences have been amicably adjusted.

MET THE PASTOR'S FAMILY.

Epworth League of the First M. E. Church Held a Social.

The sociable of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, held last evening at the parsonage on Central avenue, turned out really to be an informal reception. It was the first gathering of the kind at which all the pastor's family were able to be present, and the evening was spent in getting better acquainted with them. It was also the first glimpse of the new parsonage, and everybody was pleased with its appearance. The reception was held in the parlors, on the piazza and on the lawn, where seats were placed. A row of Japanese lanterns were hung about the piazza and illuminated the scene.

There was a steady buzz of conversation from the first, for everybody found plenty to talk about. Although it was an Epworth League sociable, the older people came as well as the young people, over one hundred being present.

Refreshments were served to the guests by a committee from the League.

Working Against the Martin Act.

F. C. Lounsbury, of Plainfield avenue, who is affected by the enforcement of the Martin Act, has charge of the resolutions which were adopted at the meeting of citizens who oppose the measures of the act. He is now securing signatures to the paper and it will be presented to the commissioners when they meet Thursday, July 8th. The City Council will meet in the evening of the above date for special and regular business.

Energetic Women.

The Town Improvement Association, of Rahway, held its first public meeting yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city, delivered an address on "The Mother's Duty Towards the Public Schools," and Mrs. Clarence Butler talked on "What Town Improvement Has Done for Montclair.' An open discussion followed on "How May We Best Secure a New Public Hall?"

Another Attempt.

The Freeholders of Middlesex county and officials of the Brunswick Traction Company will on Wednesday try to come to some understanding regarding the crossing of the Albany street spanning of the Raritan River at New Brunswick. The question has been under consideration for three years.

Disinfecting Machine Here.

The disinfecting machine, purchased by the Board of Health, arrived yesterday from the factory in Maine. The one which was borrowed from the Asbury Park authorities was returned several days ago.

Not on the Ice Wagon.

John Morton denies that he was on the ice wagon which was nearly run into by a girl on a wheel last Friday afternoon near Scheuer's grocery store.

WANTS HER WHEEL BACK

MRS. SADLER CLAIMS THAT HER WHEEL WAS ILLEGALLY KEPT.

Says That She Was Arranging a Trade With Frucht and Left Her Wheel While She Considered the Deal.

Miss Pauline Sadler, a young colored woman, has started proceedings against Mrs. Rosa Frucht, in whose name the bicycle store of her husband at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street, is conducted. The suit was started in Justice Nash's court yesterday.

The suit is brought to recover possession of a wheel which Miss Sadler alleges is in the illegal possession of the Fruchts. The story she tells on which she bases her claim is that she went to Frucht's store several weeks ago and made inquiries regarding the purchase of a new wheel. She had an old wheel that she wished to trade in if she could make satisfactory arrangements. She says that she was offered a new wheel for her old one and $20 in cash. Then she says that she left her own wheel at the store while she went back to the place where she was employed to consult her employer as to the bargain. She claims that she was to bring word in the morning.

The next morning, according to her story, she returned to Frucht's store and said that she had decided not to make the purchase. Then she says Frucht refused to give her back her old wheel, saying that he had put new tires on it and sold it and tried to force her to make the purchase. She absolutely refused and tried to get the wheel back but was unsuccessful. Now she has started suit through City Judge DeMeza, in Justice Nash's court, to recover the wheel.

The claim made by the defendants in the case was that she agreed to take the wheel and gave her own wheel in trade and then tried to back out of the agreement.

DAMAGE SUIT POSTPONED.

It Concerned the Claim of E. C. Winters Against the Plainfield Trolley Company.

The damage suit of Edward C. Winters against the Plainfield Trolley Company which was docketed for trial at Elizabeth yesterday, was postponed until Thursday, July 8th.

Winter is a carpenter living at Westfield. Early on the morning of April 14th he was driving his horse attached to a light wagon along East Fifth street, opposite the Bryant school building. A trolley car in charge of Motorman Welch was coming in the opposite direction. When Winter endeavored to turn his horse to the side of the street it balked, but soon became tractable again, and the car advanced. When it reached a place beside the horse the animal suddenly backed and threw the wagon in front of the car.

The motorman stopped the car in its own length, but the wagon was struck and overturned, and Winter was thrown out. The witnesses include S. R. Hope, John Adleman and Motorman Welch.

AN OFFENDING CARTER.

Alleged to Have Dumped Garbage on Manning's Flats.

William Thornton, of Park avenue, a licensed ash-carter, was brought up before the City Judge yesterday morning on the complaint of Inspector Addis of the Board of Health. Inspector Addis charged him with dumping a load of garbage on Manning's flats, near the Washington avenue bridge over Green brook.

Thornton has a regular city license to cart ashes, but he is not allowed to cart garbage. It is also violating a city ordinance to dump garbage on a city dumping ground. Thornton pleaded guilty to the charge and Judge DeMeza fined him $10, warning him that a second offence would mean the full penalty of the law.

A DISPUTED TITLE.

The Property Formerly Belonged to Watson J. Tunison, Then Went to C. H. Hand.

The case of Henry E. Ludovici against Charles H. Hand and others, concerning the title of a piece of property on Manson place came up in the Chancery Chambers at Trenton today. W. S. Angleman for the plaintiff and H. C. Runyon for the defendants appeared and argued upon a motion to strike out the answer of the defendants.

The property in question belonged to Watson J. Tunison, and Mr. Hand claims that he knew nothing whatever about it until he was sued in foreclosure proceedings upon a deed which had been made out in his name without his knowledge.

Miss Williston, of New York, is spending the season at the home of Harrison Coddington, of Mountain avenue.

PUTS DUTY ON HIDES

The Senate Settles Another Perplexing Tariff Schedule.

TRUSTS AGAIN UNDER THE LASH.

The Sugar Combine Severely Arraigned by Caffery and Lindsay—McCord's Nomination For Territorial Governor Still Hangs Fire.

Washington, June 29.—The senate has made good progress on the tariff bill, disposing of the paragraphs relating to hides, which have been the source of much controversy. As finally agreed on, the duty on hides is placed at 20 per cent ad valorem in place of 1½ cents per pound, as originally reported by the finance committee.

The discussion was protracted, drifting into a general debate on trusts and from that back to the Sugar trust. Mr. Smith of New Jersey spoke at length against the duty on hides, while Mr. Allen of Nebraska supported the duty. The new paragrph was agreed to—39 to 20—one Democrat, Rawlins of Utah, and several Populists and silver Republicans voting with the Republicans in the affirmative.

The incidental debate on the trusts led to severe arraignment of the Sugar trust by Messrs. Caffery and Lindsay and a general discussion of means to deal with trusts by Mr. Hoar. Among other paragraphs disposed of during the day were all those relating to gloves, a substitute for the paragraph on live animals, iron ore and stained glass windows.

Senator Davis has reported from the committee on foreign relations an amendment to the general deficiency bill to pay $6,000 to the families of three Italians lynched at New Orleans.

The senate has confirmed the following nominations: Henry Fink of Wisconsin, to be collector of internal revenue for the First district of Wisconsin; Hector Decastro of New York, to be consul general at Rome; Irving B. Dudley of California, to be minister to Peru; Thomas C. Dawson of Iowa, to be secretary of legation of the United States at Rio de Janeiro; Frank C. Denison of Vermont, to be consul at Woodstock, New Brunswick; Frank Dillingham of California, to be consul at Auckland, New Zealand; H. S. Harkins of North Carolina, to be collector of internal revenue for the Fifth district of North Carolina; M. W. Sutton of Kansas, to be collector of internal revenue for the district of Kansas; Colonel C. H. Carlton, Eighth cavalry, to be brigadier general; Captain G. C. Remey, to be commodore in the navy, and numerous naval promotions, and First Lieutenant Deakyne, corps of engineers, U. S. A., to be a member of the California debris commission.

The nomination of M. H. McCord to be governor of Arizona was under discussion by the senate in executive session for about half an hour, but no conclusion was reached. A great part of this time was spent in an effort to reach an understanding as to when the case should be disposed of, though there was also more or less discussion of the merits of the case. Senators Shoup and Carpenter spoke in defense of McCord and Senators White, Bate and Berry against. Senator Shoup took occasion to deny the charges of collusion published against himself in the case as chairman of the committee on territories. No time was set for disposing of the case.

The Republican members of the senate committee on judiciary will hold a meeting to consider the various forms presented for an antitrust amendment to the tariff bill. There are a dozen antitrust amendments in print, and others have been suggested. The judiciary committee is striving to secure a form that will be acceptable to all Republican senators and that will also stand the test of the courts.

The President to Visit Canton.

Washington, June 29.—Unless the condition of public business prevents, President and Mrs. McKinley will leave here Friday for a visit to Canton, O. They will remain until Monday.

Telephone Companies Elect Officers.

Chicago, June 29.—The directors of the Chicago Telephone company have elected Robert T. Lincoln president pro tem. with all the powers of the president, to take effect on July 1. The directors of the Central Union Telephone company have elected W. A. Jackson president, to take effect on July 1. Mr. Jackson has been the vice president and general manager of the company. Both of these elections have been held to fill vacancies caused by the resignation of H. B. Stone as president of both companies.

Superintendent Tetlor Arrested.

Providence, June 29.—Superintendent Joseph Tetlor of the local railroad company has been arrested, charged with assault on several police officers. The police say he persisted in running a trolley car so as to interfere with a circus parade despite the fact that the policemen stood on the track to prevent its passage. The officers were forced off the track to save their lives. The warrant was ordered sworn out by the mayor.

Death of Hon. Matthew Winne.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 29.—Hon. Matthew Winne, the oldest ex-member of the New York state legislature and father of the present assemblyman of Schenectady county, Hon. Thomas Winne, died at his home in Niskayuna, this county. He was a member of the assembly in 1854, representing Schenectady county. He was 91 years old, and death was caused by old age. He is survived by a widow, daughter and two sons.

Original Lunch Cart Man Assigns.

Worcester, Mass., June 29.—T. H. Buckley, the originator of the night lunch carts, which are now common all over the country, has filed a voluntary petition in insolvency, with liabilities estimated at $30,000. The handsome cafe which he recently opened in this city is said to have caused the failure.

Suicide on Account of Ill Health.

Chicago, June 29.—Guy C. Ledyard, Jr., manager of the American Starch company and son of Guy C. Ledyard, Sr., a pioneer sugar broker of Chicago, shot himself through the heart with a fowling piece. He died instantly. Ill health had caused him to be despondent.

THE MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

No Progress Made In the Identification of the Mutilated Remains.

New York, June 29.—The mystery of the murdered man, one portion of whose body was found in the East river and another at Kingsbridge, is still unsolved. Thorough search has been made for the head in the neighborhood of the place where the lower part of the body was found, but without success. Apparently the detectives are no nearer to a solution of the case than they were 24 hours ago.

Many people who have relatives or friends missing have called at the morgue, but no one has yet been able to identify the mutilated body. A number have thought they found resemblance to missing persons, but in no case was the identification complete or at all satisfactory to the coroner and detectives.

A dozen or more theories have been advanced as to the probable manner and motive of the crime, some plausible and some otherwise. Among these theories are the following:

That the man was murdered as the result of a deliberate plot.

That he was lured to the place where the crime was committed and killed after a desperate fight.

That he was a victim of the Mafia or some secret organization, whose laws he had offended and whose death as a spy or a traitor had been decreed.

That he was murdered for whatever money he possessed.

That a woman figured in the case, and that he was a victim of jealousy.

That a lunatic committed the crime, and the fact that two men who escaped from King's Park Insane asylum are still at large is pointed out.

All of these theories are speculative, as there are yet no developments in the strange case upon which to base definite conclusions.

Volcano Eruption.

Manilla, June 29.—The volcano Mayou has been in a state of violent eruption, and the flow of lava has done great damage in the province of Albany, particularly to the village of Liboug, where the tobacco crop has been completely destroyed. There has been considerable loss of life. More than 275 years have elapsed since the last eruption.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Rather Remarkable.

A Half-Dozen Ideas Will Suggest Themselves to the Reader While Perusing This.

It is seldom that a passenger on board a train gives a thought to the man at the throttle, and rarer still that a man chosen above all others by the people does so. Of all the flowers placed on the Presidential train on its way through Pittsburg and Alleghany City on its way to Washington, there is one cluster of white carnations destined to be preserved for generations and handed down to children and grandchildren as long as the petals and stems will hold together. That was the handsome boquet presented by President McKinley to the locomotive engineer in charge of the train we have just spoken about. This graceful act of the President has nothing to do with locomotive engineer Frank McCleary, of 210½ Van Horn street, Jersey City, N. J., engineer on the D., L. & W. R. R. We merely introduce him in this way so that in a measure the reader may know whom we are talking about, and if afflicted in this way, the benefit of this valuable advice can be utilized. Read what he says:—"I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy for the kidneys and they are becoming well known among railroad men, especially engineers and firemen as lame back and kidney ailments are quite common among railroad employes. I was troubled with backache and other symptoms of kidney disorder and hearing everyone who had used Doan's Kidney Pills speak well of them I got a box at a drug store. I had not used them long before I was entirely freed from backache and lameness across the shoulders and in the loins. I take pleasure in endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills as a splendid remedy."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

BUYING PAINT is not an every day occurrence — like buying a cigar. Buy a mean cigar and you have but a moment's disappointment and little is lost. Buy mean paint and it's a lasting annoyance and waste of money. For this reason it is wise to inform yourself about makers with a reputation — a reputation covering 100 years, like the House of Harrison who have goods that are guaranteed pure and warranted to wear — like the Town and Country READY MIXED PAINTS. Then find the dealer who sells their goods and (if the big "H" is on the label) your paint investment is a safe one.

Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whoop-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Marguerite Loughlin, of East Third street, who has been confined to the hospital for several days, the result of a fall from a cherry tree, has been removed to her home. She has about recovered from her injuries.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Edward Nelson, ticket agent at the North Avenue station, was the guest of Brooklyn friends Sunday.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Joseph Dunham, of Arlington avenue, has secured a position at the Pond Tool Works.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Charles Haggerty, of this city, has secured a position at Scheuer's grocery store.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

IRON MILLS TO CLOSE

To Remain So Until the Wage Scales Are Settled

NO SERIOUS TROUBLE EXPECTED.

The Question Is to Be Taken Up and Settled Definitely—No General Strike Is to Be Ordered—The Proceedings Are to Be Friendly.

Pittsburg, June 29.—All the union iron mills in the country, the tin plate plants and sheet mills will close tomorrow night and remain closed until the wage scales are settled. No serious trouble is expected, and the failure to adjust the wage schedules before the close of the year is not an indication that a strike is to be inaugurated.

President Garland of the Amalgamated association denies a telegraphic report from Chicago that he will order a general strike at the plants of the Illinois Steel company if the scale is not signed for the Bay View mill before Thursday.

He said the Bay View and all the union iron mills in the country will close on that day, pending a settlement of the scale, but that a suspension is necessary at this time for annual repairs, and that manufacturers are not in a hurry to come to a settlement at once.

The iron scale will be taken up at the conference at Youngstown tomorrow. As the present agreement expires on tomorrow night, all the tin plate plants, with the exception of four nonunion concerns, will close at that time. There will be no difficulty in arranging the iron and steel sheet scale. It is practically settled now, but the manufacturers will not sign until the tin plate scale is adjusted at the mines at the rates that are now being paid.

Another meeting of the board will likely be called within a week or two, but President Donan did not care to venture a prediction on the result.

Children Accidentally Burned.

Lockport, N. Y., June 29.—During childrens' day exercises at St. Mary's church, in Swormsville, Erie county, a veil worn by Grace Regnett, aged 12, was ignited accidentally by a candle bearer. The child was enveloped in an instant in flames. The veil and clothing of a little girl named Denner also caught fire. A panic in the crowded church was imminent, when Mrs. Frank Reink of Buffalo and Mrs. Regnett seized the burning children and put out the flames with their hands. The Regnett child is so terribly burned that she can hardly recover. Miss Denner's injuries were slight. Mrs. Reink was very badly burned about the hands and arms.

Death of a Celebrated Engineer.

Philadelphia, June 29.—William S. Stamm, a retired chief engineer of the United States navy, died at his home here, aged 72 years. He entered the service in 1851. In 1858 he was engaged in the work of assisting in laying the Atlantic telegraph cable, receiving as a token of his energy and ingenuity a gold medal from the New York chamber of commerce. He became a chief engineer in July, 1861, and during the latter part of the war was superintendent of repairs of the ironclad fleet off Charleston harbor. He was placed on the retired in December, 1887, when he attained the age of 64 years.

Refuses to Sign Requisition Papers.

Providence, June 29.—Governor Dyer has decided not to sign the requisition papers from Governor Black of New York for the surrender of James Sheridan and William Smith, alias William Connors, alleged fugitives from justice, on the ground that no evidence has been furnished him to show that the two men are those who are indicted in New York. In the absence of such evidence, Governor Dyer says, he feels that it would be manifestly unjust to require them to be taken to New York under custody to defend themselves. Sheridan and Smith will now probably be discharged.

Killed by an Explosion.

Rockland, Me., June 29.—By a premature explosion in the engine lime quarry owned by the Cobb Lime company, Silas Banker, a workman, lost his life, and two other employees were badly injured. A dozen men had just completed drilling and loading with dynamite eight holes. Three of these had been connected when lightning struck the battery wire, igniting the charges, a tremendous explosion following. About 1,000 casks of rock were lifted into the air and fell, with Banker beneath. The other workmen were hurled in all directions and most of them stunned.

Railway Incorporated.

Albany, June 29.—The Saratoga Northern railway has been incorporated with the secretary of state, with capital stock of $1,000,000. The company proposes to construct an electric railroad from Saratoga Springs to the village of Wilton and Mount McGregor, in Saratoga county, a distance of 11 miles. The directors are: A. C. Kaufman, Harrison Hale Schoff and Edward A. Maurice of Pittsfield, Mass.; J. B. Robertson of New Haven; C. F. Arnold, H. McGonegal and L. C. Jordan of New York city; A. J. Voyer of Albany, and J. B. Hampton of Philadelphia.

Persecution of Jews.

London, June 29.—The Daily Chronicle publishes this morning, under reserve, a letter from Teheran, the capital of Persia, describing a terrible persecution of the Jews. According to the correspondent, a mob of fanatical Moslems has savagely attacked the Jewish quarters of the city and is threatening to exterminate the Jews unless they embrace Mohammedanism. The government, although it has dispatched troops to quell the disorders, appears to be almost powerless to stem the tide of fanaticism.

Philadelphia's Large Custom Receipts.

Philadelphia, June 29.—The largest receipts in the history of the Philadelphia custom house for any one day were taken in by Collector of the Port Read yesterday. The largest previous record was made on March 31 last, during the flurry in the tobacco trade, when the receipts aggregated $414,789. Yesterday's receipts were made up largely of withdrawals of sugar from bond, over $300,000 in clearing house certificates of $10,000 being paid in for these duties, the total receipts for the day being $439,342.

POLICY OF WEYLER.

Outlined In a Speech Made In Santiago de Cuba.

HE DESIRES TO PACIFY THE ISLAND.

He Says, However, That if War Is Necessary He Has Plenty of Troops Behind Him—Arrival of Prisoners at Havana.

Havana, June 29.—Addressing the local authorities yesterday evening in the palace of Santiago de Cuba, the captain general said he remembered with pleasure that region where he had engaged in a campaign during the previous war in Cuba. Continuing, he explained that he was coming to pacify that part of the island, and that though he was strongly desirous of peace his system of making war was to be rigorous toward the rebels who refuse to accept the clemency which Spain and himself offered them. The general added:

"Notwithstanding the examples in rigor set by other colonial nations, I attend to the reconstruction of the wealth of this island. This was the purpose which inspired my last decrees, and I propose to continue this policy, though I have been compelled in some instances to countenance destruction, owing to the fact that circumstances have made it necessary in some cases to destroy the resources of the rebels."

The captain general then referred to the sincerity of the Spanish government in its desire to introduce reforms in Cuba, concluding with the remark:

"I come to bring peace or war. If the former is accepted, we will then return to the law; but, if the latter is desired, behind me come 40 battalions of troops."

At 9 o'clock the same evening Governor Ordax banqueted the captain general. Much enthusiasm is said to have been manifested by the people.

The coasting steamer Triton, which has arrived here from ports in the province of Pinar del Rio, brought 11 officers and 25 sick soldiers in addition to 14 prisoners of war.

Arrival of Prisoners.

The coasting steamer Alava, which has arrived here from Santa Clara ports, had on board 52 prisoners of war.

The Puerto Rico battalion, in the district of Sancti Spiritus, has destroyed an insurgent rifle store and captured 9 insurgents and 14 women.

Advices received from official sources at Sancti Spiritus announce the surrender there to the Spanish authorities of the insurgent governor Felix Companioni, an insurgent major, three insurgent prefects, three insurgent mail carriers, six insurgents belonging to the escort of Velloso, the insurgent leader, and 84 men and 344 women and children.

Official dispatches from Trinidad, province of Santa Clara, say that 390 persons have surrendered there to the Spaniards. The families, it is said, are lodged in the railroad station, which is overcrowded. Fifteen of the party died from fever.

Small skirmishes only have taken place recently in the other provinces, with but slight loss on either side.

A Remarkable Suicide.

St. Louis, June 29.—Minnie Rose, aged 20, the only daughter of Louis Rose, a prominent business man, has committed suicide under remarkable circumstances. The girl's mind was unbalanced by the great tornado of May 27, 1896. The home of the Rose family was in the heart of the tornado and was wrecked by it. The fright and terrible ordeal through which Miss Rose passed developed a hysterical mania, which after the first attack never deserted her. Sunday morning an attack worked her into a frenzy, as a result of the thunderstorms on that day, which had been frequent and terrific, during which she took a dose of paris green. She lingered for a time, but finally died in terrible agony.

Will of a Chewing Gum Manufacturer.

Portland, Me., June 29.—The will of the late John B. Curtis, the wealthy chewing gum manufacturer, has been filed for probate. The testator's entire property, amounting to $500,000, is left to the care of trustees to be named by the court, the income from which is to be paid to testator's widow during her lifetime. After her death the residue, after some small personal bequests, is to be divided among several public institutions and $20,000 to be used to establish a free public library in the town of Bradford, Me. The will expressly disinherits an only son, to whom it refers as "an alleged issue of my body."

General Row at a Picnic.

Louisville, June 29.—A special from Vanceburg, Ky., says: Tom Logan and Wyatt Cooper brought about a shooting affray at a picnic on Straight fork Saturday in which two were killed instantly and many wounded. Logan and Cooper were enemies, and when they met at the picnic Logan opened fire, killing Cooper at the first shot. He fired five other bullets into his prostrate body, and then the latter's friends took up the fight, and the shooting became general. An unknown man was killed, and about 20 were wounded, some fatally, it is believed.

Murderer Removed Under Guard.

Louisville, June 29.—George Dinning, a negro murderer, has been escorted from this city to Franklin, Simpson county, by a company of the Kentucky state guard. Dinning is charged with the murder of Jodie Conn. His trial will begin this afternoon, and the soldiers will guard him during its progress

Hohenlohe Visits Bismarck.

Friedrichsruhe, June 29.—Prince Hohenlohe, accompanied by Prince von Bulow and Baron Wilmowsky, paid a four hours' visit to Prince Bismarck yesterday while on their way from Kiel to Berlin. The party also drove out for an hour and a half, Prince Hohenlohe sitting with Prince Bismarck.

Copper Bullion For England.

Revelstoke, B. C., June 29.—A train of eight cars loaded with copper bullion and matte from the Hall mines, has left here for Montreal for shipment to England. This is the first copper made in Canada and goes high in silver and gold. Its value is about $500 per ton.

SOME REMEDY NEEDED.

If the members of the Plainfield Common Council were obliged to sit on their piazzas these summer evenings and digest the amount of dust and dirt that the residents along the line of the Plainfield street railway are compelled to, it would not be long before some action would be taken to remedy the difficulty. It is one of the greatest impositions that the people living on the route of the trolley have to put up with, and especially is this true from Grant avenue to Dunellen. Residents along that thoroughfare are compelled often to forego the pleasure of enjoying their piazzas owing to the unbearable quantity of dust raised by the trolley. On the trolley road between Elizabeth and Newark, a special car for sprinkling the roadway is kept constantly in use. Some similar action should be taken here.

HARD TO TELL.

It is rather difficult to learn what really did happen at the Democratic union dinner in Elizabeth, last evening. All the Republican and gold Democratic papers declare that it was a complete failure while the silver Democratic organs are just as enthusiastic over what they call the complete success of the dinner. The silver Democrats, who were present all declare that everything was as harmonious and successful as could be wished.

NEW JERSEY'S SENATOR.

Senator James Smith, Jr., one of the two representatives of New Jersey in the United States Senate, made a very strong speech against the duty on hides in the Senate yesterday morning. The speech was an eloquent one and held the attention of the galleries as well as the Senators. Senator Smith advanced many strong arguments to back up his statements.

WORKING FOR THE CITY'S INTEREST.

The Town Improvement Association of Rahway is going to work without delay. A public meeting was held yesterday and there was a discussion on the question of a new public hall. The Rahway women evidently believe in going to work at once and not waiting for the slow revolution of the city machinery.

FOUND ON THE MOUNTAIN.

The Skeleton of a Romance Discovered in a Letter.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—While a Plainfielder was traveling on our mountains on Wednesday evening, near the Mountain Park Inn, he saw lying on the side of the road a letter marked "Important," which upon opening he found to be the skeleton of a romance. It had been given to some messenger who had unfortunately lost it. It was filled with reproaches to the young man for his faithlessness, he had evidently failed to keep the fire of love burning and for some reason had fallen off in his attentions to the fair one.

It is very entertaining and can be had by addressing,

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. It was that of a man about thirty-five, with a stubby beard. The clothes seemed to be fair quality, but much worn. It is thought the man was stealing a ride on a freight and fell beneath the wheels.

tion to the frightened wife that he would soon return and fix her.

The door was quickly barred and the couple retired to the upper story to spend the long night anxiously watching for the mad man.

Then Liebie went to the home of Mr. Johnson, nearby, where "Jake" Sebring was calling. "Jake" quietly departed at the first appearance of Liebie, fearing trouble. At 10:30 o'clock, three shots were fired down the road and the farmers supposed that Liebie was practicing for his promised slaughter.

The next day a warrant was sworn out for Liebie's arrest, and he was taken to the New Brunswick jail to be released Saturday night after bail of $400 was furnished by James Mannion and Charles Liebie. Then the Elder Liebie returned to his home and sat about the place waiting for the time to come.

The neighbors are very much worried over the present state of affairs, and it is needless to say that none of the four will accept any invitation from Liebie for Sunday, even if the most alluring time is promised.

Westfield Township Committee Cannot Give Relief—Simpson-Benner Wedding —Mr. and Mrs. Cruttenden Serenaded.

Several property owners of Westfield have fallen into a serious predicament because of mistakes in their sewer assessments, and the efforts of the Township Committee to give relief are likely to prove unavailing. When the construction of the town's sewer system was nearly completed the court, according to law, appointed a commission to estimate the cost of the work and levy assessments upon the real estate. Maps of the township were draughted, showing the location and the number of feet frontage of each piece of property. These maps were placed in the township rooms and property owners were invited to inspect them and report any errors that were detected. In two weeks' time the commissioners levied assessments in accordance with the maps, reported their work finished, and were discharged by the court. At the next meeting of the Township Committee a communication was received from a Mrs. Hickock, of Clark street, asking that an error in the assessment upon her property be corrected. The frontage of her lot is 75 feet, but the assessment was upon 122 feet. Similar complaints of over assessment were afterwards received from about a dozen other property owners, and when the Township Committee sought the advice of counsel upon the matter, it was told that it had no power to remedy the mistakes. This news spread consternation among the interested parties, and they have since been trying to discover some means of escape from their dilemma. With the Town Committee powerless in the matter, it is difficult to say who can give aid, unless it be the courts or the State Legislature. The general opinion among lawyers now is that it will be necessary to wait until the Legislature meets and then to secure an amendment to the law which will empower the Town Committee or the courts to rectify the errors.

A PRESIDENT'S LOVE.

ANDREW JOHNSON'S COURTSHIP OF MISS SARAH WORD

She Rejected the Future Chief Magistrate for a Saddler.—He was not Illiterate when Young, but to the Contrary was Exceptionally Intelligent.

Three-quarters of a century ago, in the little village of Laurens, in the State of South Carolina, there lived and labored at the tailor's trade a young man who was destined to play an important part in the affairs of this Nation. Of humble origin and having had practically no educational advantages, he had in his character the elements of true manhood, and by force of brain power and ability attained the highest position of honor and trust in the Republic

Andrew Johnson left his home in North Carolina by reason of some trouble with his employer, and went to the then ultra-exclusive and aristocratic village of Laurens. He had no influential family connections, and was as poor as the traditional church mouse, his worldly possessions consisting only of the clothes he wore. To one acquainted with the social conditions of the ante-bellum South, the difficulties incident to obtaining recognition by a man handicapped as Johnson was can be readily imagined. The sterling worth of the young tailor, however, made itself felt, and demanded the admiration and respect soon accorded him by those who were wont to consider one not to the manor born deserving of but condescending notice.

Johnson's stay at Laurens marked a very important epoch in his life. It was there that he met his first love, Miss Sarah Word, a charming young woman of education and refinement, who saw in the modest and retiring young journeyman tailor, a man of character and strength and promise. Johnson's regard for Miss Word was reciprocated, and the young people entered into an engagement to marry. They were thrown constantly in each other's society, and the future President of the United States once assisted his fiancee in laying, stuffing and quilting a quilt.

The irresistible tendency that young men in love have to carve their sweethearts' names on everything movable and immovable in their immediate vicinity was not wanting in Johnson. On the bottom of an old split-bottomed chair he engraved the inscription "S. W.—1820." It is needless to say that it was the chair in which Miss Word was accustomed to sit on the porch of her home.

Having satisfactorily adjusted the trouble with his former employer in North Carolina, Johnson decided to return and resume his place. Before leaving Laurens, as a token of his affectionate regard, he gave to Miss Word his dearest possession, the goose with which he had worked at his trade. This act shows the tender simplicity of the young tailor. He had no false pride about the matter. He was leaving the woman he loved for an indefinite time, and not ashamed of his lowly calling, gave her something that would be a constant reminder of him and his work. After leaving Laurens differences arose between Miss Word and Johnson, and their engagement was terminated, but the tailor's goose was never returned. Miss Word rejected the tailor and married William Hance, a saddler. The tailor became President of the United States.

Johnson's biographers have all maintained that in early life he was uncouth, illiterate and ignorant, with no refinement nor grace of manner. It has been stated that he could neither read nor write, and that his wife taught him both after marriage. This error has become so firmly fixed that it is generally accepted as an historic fact, and school children are told the romantic story of how a man who afterward became President was taught to read and write by a wife who was ambitious for his advancement. This story may be a beautiful object lesson on the grand possibilities of American youth, but it has the fatal defect of being untrue. When Johnson lived in Laurens he could both read and write, and was considered a young man of considerable intelligence. Miss Word, to whom he was engaged, is authority for the statement that she received many notes and letters from him, and that he wrote a good business hand. She has also frequently said that he was a man of more than ordinary intelligence, of elegant address and a brilliant conversationalist.—National Magazine.

Song Birds for Market in Italy.

Dr. Carl Landstriner, president of the Vienna Society for the Protection of Animals, says that in the large cities of Italy "huge piles of nightingales, larks, finches, and, of late, even swallows," are seen on the market stalls. These little creatures are caught by the wholesale in fowlers' nets during the fall of the year, when the birds are migrating to the south.

Matrimonial Business Rushing.

First Preacher—Doing much in the wedding trade now?

Second Preacher—Yes; business is good. People get married this year who never got married before.—Truth.

Miss Mobile—Well, Martha, how is your husband now?

Martha—Po'ly, miss, po'ly. He's got the exclamatory rheumatism.

Miss Mobile—You mean inflammatory rheumatism, Martha. "Exclamatory" is to cry out.

Martha (with solemn conviction)—"That's it, mum; that's it! He don't do nothing but holler!—Northern Chrostian Advocate.

READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING.

A Young Industry which has Rapidly Increased—Fair Profits for Merchants.

The popularity and sale of ready-made, or "ready-to-wear," clothing, as the merchants now prefer to call it, has greatly increased in the last eight or ten years, according to good authorities. The cause is not hard to find. It is due to the greater care exercised in the making up and the style of the goods. More pains are taken to make up the clothing in good style, and in such varieties of shapes and sizes, that it is rarely that a man cannot be fitted, and where alteration is necessary it is no more than a custom-made suit usually needs. A man may decide some morning that his cutaway is a little shabby, and, as he may be going out that evening, he requires something better. It is only necessary to visit one of the clothing houses in New York city to find just what he wants, at almost any price, try it on, and have it sent home during the day; any necessary alteration is made in the course of a few hours, and he can comfortably pass the evening, confident that his appearance is all that can be desired.

The cost and profits of the business make interesting reading. The fancy suit, everything except plain black, which retails for $15, is sold at wholesale for about $11. In small towns and out-of-the-way places, the retailer puts the price at whatever he thinks he can get, but in the larger places the profits are practically the same in the reliable stores. In addition there is a discount of from 7 to 8 per cent. allowed by the wholesale dealer, which the retailer seldom fails to take advantage of.

The manufacturer's profit is, as a rule, about 15 per cent. It requires three and a fourth yards of cloth for a suit, which, at $1.50 per yard, makes the cost of the cloth $4.87½. The cutters are paid on an average $20 a week, and it is estimated that the cutting of a sack suit costs the manufacturer 35 cents. For making up the suit they pay $1 for the coat and 50 cents each for trousers and vest—$2 for the suit. The linings, buttons, canvas, padding, silk, stay-tape, &c., cost about $1.50 more. These items cannot be figured exactly, as they vary with different suits, being much cheaper for black clothes. The manufacturers purchase black buttons, linings, &c., in large quantities, and get them proportionately cheaper, whereas, for brown, gray, or other fancy suits, the buttons and trimmings must match the cloth, and the great variety of shades necessarily limits the quantity purchased. This makes the suit that the manufacturer sells for $11 cost him about $8.72½, and leaves him a profit of $2.27½, not including the discounts allowed to the retail merchant.

POSITION OF FRENCH WIVES.

It is Dignified and that of a Comrade and Loyal Helpmate.

French women have a loyal champion in Mrs. Crawford, the brilliant and well-known journalist, who, having lived amongst them for a period extending over thirty years, should know something about their characteristics. To quote her own words in speaking of French women: "They occupy a very dignified position, and the wife is more the comrade of her husband than in England. In the higher circles she makes his social position by her grace and tact, and if she has special culture and aptitude she forms a salon, and becomes a great power. In business the wife is frequently the dominant partner; she studies the markets, secures customers and invests the money." Mrs. Crawford very poignantly remarks that "although the influence of women upon politics is more indirect than it is in England, since they do not come on to the political platform, yet, as the first Napoleon discovered, they direct men how to act.

Sight Said to be Restored by Prayer.

The story comes from Anderson, Ind: The Rev. Charles Morton, the evangelist, who has been totally blind as the result of a fall, was divinely healed. Dr. G. N. Eldridge, pastor of the M. E. Church, and wife, and Mr. Morton spent one entire day in fasting and prayer. Late in the evening they were joined by Mmes. Andrew and Finnegan and T. N. Stillwell, and all united in prayer. After reading the following passages in the Bible, James v., 14th, 15th, and 16th verses; I John v. 14th and 15th verses; Mark xi., 24, Dr. Eldridge annointed Mr. Morton with oil, and then, with silent prayer, the healing was claimed and the miracle wrought. Mr. Morton appeared in the M. E. Church that night and told the story of his healing. The event created intense emotion, and crowds lingered in the church until a late hour.

She Mistook Him.

It is not every great man who carries his honors as meekly as the Mayor of Inverness, who rebuked an admiring crowd in the words: "Fr'ens, I'm just a mortal man like yersels." Sir Wilfred Lawson tells the following story: "A woman was once pursuing her fugative cow down a lane, when she called out to some one in front: 'Man, turn my cow.' The man took no notice and allowed the cow to pass. When she came up she said: 'Man, why did you not turn my cow?' He replied: 'Woman, I am not a man; I am a magistrate.'"—Household Words.

Minnie—"I want to introduce you to a young lady—a very nice young lady—and she's worth her weight in gold." Bob—"Stout girl, I hope."

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drives will receive your work.

DASHED TO DEATH.

Two Men Killed and Another Wounded by a Falling Derrick.

Atlanta, June 29.—A derrick on the roof of a new building fell, knocking three workmen from a scaffold on the ninth story. Two of them were dashed to instant death on the ground, 125 feet below, and the third was saved in a miraculous way.

The killed are: Palmotto Ayres, colored, aged 40, living at Austell; Charles Kargill, colored, aged 35, of this city. W. M. Brown, white, carpenter, was cut about the head and arms.

The men were standing on a platform which skirts the edge of the ninth floor when the derrick fell, the part of the scaffolding upon which they stood was swept away, and the men were thrown into space. Brown grasped one of the derrick ropes as he shot through the air. As the boom of the hoisting engine fell, the ropes on the tackle were set in motion, one going up and the other going down. It was Brown's good fortune to catch the rope being drawn upward, and he was hauled safely to the roof. To another boom of the derrick projecting out on the other side of the building was attached a car, in which four men were standing. This boom likewise fell, but was held up by the roof. The car was dashed over the side of the building and swung there in safety. The men were shoved through a window, none of them being injured.

DEADWOOD BANK ROBBED.

Four Masked Men Take All the Money In Sight and Escape.

Deadwood, S. D., June 29.—Four masked men have robbed the Butte County bank at Bellefourche. Entering the bank with revolvers drawn, they ordered the customers present and bank officials to hold up their hands. A little hesitation on the part of Cashier Marble drew a shot from the gun of one of the robbers which clipped off a large portion of the cashier's right ear and forced compliance with the demand. The safe and counters were relieved of the cash they contained, and the robbers, mounting their horses, which had been conveniently stationed, rode away.

An alarm was immediately given, and in a few minutes a well mounted and armed posse was in pursuit of the robbers. A few miles from town the posse came up with the fugitives, and a running fight ensued, which resulted in one of the robbers surrendering. The others, being better mounted, continued their flight, but are being closely pursued and have very few chances of escape.

The day was favorable for a raid on the bank, as the weather was such that it kept the townspeople off the street, and the robbers, having little opposition, had quite a start before the alarm could be given.

A QUEER SHOOTING SCRAPE.

Instead of Hitting Burglars the Town Marshal Wounds a Neighbor.

Cleveland, June 29.—A most extraordinary shooting affray occurred in Lakewood. For some time past Mrs. Mary Obermiller has been troubled with burglars. Two of her neighbors, Edward Ratcliffe and William Beneke, suggested to her that she obtain a tin horn and blow it when the burglars came again. She blew the horn yesterday morning.

Ratcliffe and Beneke jumped out of bed and started for the house. Mrs. Obermiller was very much excited and shot off a revolver. Ratcliffe and Beneke shot off theirs and made such a racket that they awakened the town marshal, who came running to the scene with a shotgun loaded with buckshot.

He emptied the contents of the gun into Ratcliffe. The burglars existed merely in the imagination of Mrs. Obermiller. Thirteen buckshot were extracted from Ratcliffe's thigh. He will live.

PRISONERS RETURNED.

Two Counterfeiters Who Broke Jail Gave Themselves Up Again.

Canton, N. Y., June 29.—George Flint and Henry Mashaw, who were held here for the United States grand jury on a charge of counterfeiting and who broke jail on Thursday night last, are back again in their cells. They were traced by the sheriff through letters they had received in jail from women.

After escaping they separated, but were located at Natural Dam and a search instituted. They were not found by officers, but Flint returned to jail, and Mashaw followed his example. The sheriff refuses to give any details and merely states that the men were not regularly rearrested. Mashaw and Flint say they made their escape by loosening the bolt of their cell lock and using a wooden key in the other doors. This is not according to the sheriff's story.

The Paris Bomb a Fake.

Paris, June 29.—An iron quart pot, supposed to be filled with an explosive powder, has been found near the Strasburg statue on the Place de la Concorde. The theory at first was that this was another attempt on the part of the anarchists to cause an explosion at that spot, but subsequent investigation showed that the whole thing was a hoax, for the supposed bomb was merely a pot filled with sand.

Prominent Physician Indicted.

St. Louis, June 29.—Dr. Richard L. Metcalfe, a venerable and wealthy physician of this city, has been indicted by the grand jury for assult with intent to kill. He gave himself up. Willie Smith, the youthful victim of the doctor, was shot and wounded in the shoulder while trespassing on the latter's property. For some time he was in a precarious condition, but is now recovering.

Cotton Mills Closed.

Lowell, Mass., June 29.—The Massachusetts Cotton mills have been closed and will not be reopened until July 12. The mills employ 1,900 hands. The shutdown was decided upon because of the low price at which goods are selling and the poor demand.

Strike of Pilots at an End.

Quebec, June 29.—Louis Belisle, secretary of the Pilots' association of the river St. Lawrence, announces that the strike is at an end and that the pilots will go to work again. Many of them will not be employed again, however.

Church Falls In Spain.

Madrid, June 29.—Nine children have been killed and many others injured by the collapse of a church wall at Solana in the province of Ciudad Real.

A TARIFF COMPLAINT

A Prominent Argentine Republic Citizen Makes a Protest.

SAYS THEY ARE UNFAIRLY TREATED.

Shows How England and European Countries Allow Argentine Goods to Be Admitted Free—Says Our Trade Will Be Greatly Injured.

Cincinnati, June 29.—The most significant feature of the tour of the pan-American commercial men thus far was the expression on the tariff question made by one of the foreigners. The speaker was Carlos Lix Klett of the Argentine Republic, editor of the most prominent newspaper in his country and a specialist in wool, hides and skins. The place where he voiced his views was the chamber of commerce. What he said follows in part:

"The United States have never had a better opportunity to extend their commercial relations than this one offered by the Philadelphia museums in assembling noted business men of Latin America, as my colleagues are. I am perfectly sure that all of the delegates are inspired with the best wishes in regard to closer relations with the United States, and I should feel very glad if the Argentine Republic should find herself in the same position, but unfortunately our visit to the United States and our good will are put aside by the tariff bill that is now passing in your congress, and whose result will render difficult the realization of closer commercial relations with Latin America.

"The two principal products that we export to the United States are wool and hides. We have over 1,000,000 sheep, which produce every year about 250,000,000 kilos of wool, and this article has always been imported into the United States free of duty the same as we import free of duty your machinery and your petroleum.

"But now the new tariff bill has imposed a prohibitive tax upon our wool. We have been exporting to your country our hides during the past 25 years free of duty, but now you have taxed them with 1½ cents per pound. You may consider how much this duty will affect our trade when you think that we have over 22,000,000 of oxen.

Treated In an Unfriendly Manner.

"We have been treated in an unfriendly manner, and at the same time you submit to us the idea of a reciprocity treaty. I am very sorry to say that under the circumstances the statesmen of the Argentine Republic will not accept any kind of treaties, not only for certain reasons that you can easily understand, but because our products are exported free of duty to England, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy, and we receive from Europe all the goods we require, all the capital that we need for our commercial development and all the immigration necessary to populate our extended territory.

"As we find no compensation or any reason to tie ourselves to the United States under the present circumstances, we think that, taking into consideration the protectionist doctrine of this country, we have nothing to do but to use the same principle in our own defense and impose prohibitive duties upon all the American goods that may be imported into Argentine Republic.

"We regret very much to take such action, but we will be compelled to do so, and it is convenient to note that Europe is trying by all means to hold the Latin-American markets and is sending to all of the republics to study the resources, the commerce and the financial state of each.

"I think I am right when I call your attention to the opportunity that is offered to you to control the markets of Latin-America, which offer a most extensive field for the consumption of your manufactured products. All you have to do is to put to one side the obstacles that I have noted, so that the way will be completely open, and the commercial relations with the country of Washington can be easily extended."

Race Trouble Ended.

Key West, June 29.—Quiet prevails here, and the trouble between the blacks and whites over Johnson, the alleged assailant of Mrs. Atwell, is believed to be at an end. The local papers are censuring county officials because they have not arrested the leaders of the negro mob and are urging the county commissioners to offer a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of Gardner's murderer. A special session of the circuit court will be held next month to try the negro Johnson.

Big Mortgage Filed.

Buffalo, June 29.—A mortgage for $2,000,000, given by the Cataract Power and Conduit company on its property and effects to the Metropolitan Trust company of New York, has been filed with the county clerk. The mortgage is to bear interest at 5 per cent, payable semiannually, and is to become due and payable in the gold coin of the United States not more than 30 years from date. The company will secure the mortgage by issuing 2,000 bonds of $1,000 each.

Damage by a Windstorm.

Macon, Ga., June 29.—A wind and rain storm, which struck Cordele, Ga., blew down a Methodist church and the steeple off another church, prostrated telegraph wires and blew down trees and many fences. There is also much damage to crops in the path of the storm. Advices from Carrollton report much damage to crops. Several people were badly hurt, but no one was killed.

A New York Lawyer Contributes.

Staunton, Va., June 29.—James C. Carter, a New York lawyer, has contributed $5,000 to the Randolph Tucker Memorial hall, to be erected at Washington and Lee university, Lexington, Va., at a cost of $50,000, for the accommodation of the law school.

Iron Works Resume.

Reading, Pa., June 29.—After being idle for some weeks the tube department and the sheet mill of the Reading iron works have resumed operations. The former gives employment to over 900 hands, while 250 will be given work at the sheet mill.

SUIT FOR SLANDER.

It Will Come Up For Trial In Elizabeth, Thursday.

The series of robberies in the West End are still fresh in the memories of the inhabitants of that district. They will also remember the rumors that spread about there which implicated a man named Neal, living on Clinton avenue. He accused Mrs. Annie Sherman of starting the rumors and sued her for slander. The case has been adjourned a number of times, but will come up for trial on Thursday before the district court at Elizabeth.

It was said that Mrs. Sherman positively stated that she saw Neal in her home one night, robbing or starting to rob her bureau. A number of subpœnas have been issued for prominent men in this city and the case promises to be a lively one. The plaintiff is represented by Prosecutor Fred C. Marsh and the defendent by City Judge DeMeza of this city.

EACH ONE FOR ALL.

SUCCESS OF AN INTERESTING COLONY OF SOCIALISTS.

Labor Problem Solved—No Matter What the Work, Each Member Receives the Same Wages. Their Chief Business is Publishing a Socialistic Paper.

There is in Ruskin, Tenn., a thriving community of some two hundred souls. It is a successful socialistic colony, and probably the most interesting on the continent. Its people are persons of high ideals, who seek to carry out in actual life the dreams of their philosophy. They could be more prosperous. They are happy and contented.

"Every member of this association shall surrender his natural freedom which leads him to disregard the rights of others, for the sake of civil or social freedom which, being based upon the principles of right and justice, has regard for his rights and the rights of all."

That is the corner stone of the community. Each member is an equal stockholder in the association, and all share exactly alike. Every member is guaranteed employment by all. A day's labor is fixed at nine hours. Every member receives exactly the same compensation for his work, no matter what it is; if sick his pay goes on just the same.

There is no interference with individual tastes or private, religious or domestic affairs. The association owns all the land and means of production and distribution, and owns all buildings, but each member owns his own household furniture and clothing. Members have separate houses, but there is a common kitchen and dining hall. Some of the best laundry machinery has been put in. Schooling, medicine and medical attendance are furnished free, and there is a good school and kindergarten going, with twenty-five or thirty children.

The people in this little ideal world are nearly all Americans. There are a few Germans. They come from all over the Union, but there are few if any from the South. Ohio and Pennsylvania furnish the largest quota. Very few come from farms, and those who do have lived at least for a few years in cities, so that it can be said to be wholly a city community.

There is no church or minister in the place, and no official religious services. If any one wished to start religious services there would be no objection, but I doubt if it would be possible to get them officially recognized by the association. Some of the members are pronounced free thinkers. Almost all of them are bitter against church organizations as not doing their duty, but all of them admire Jesus Christ and many are deeply religious. The animating spirit of the colony is distinctively altruistic.

Imagine a community without police or sheriffs. Such a place is Ruskin. There are no officials save that one member is a notary public and another postmaster. There is no immorality, no thieving, no drunkenness. They do not keep or sell liquors.

The principal business of the community is the publishing of a socialistic weekly paper. This paper accepts no advertisements and prints no news, but it has an outside circulation of 35,000 copies, and on one occasion sold an edition of 100,000. They also publish a telegraphers' journal that has a considerable circulation, and issue yearly a number of books, chiefly on socialistic topics. The authors and editors are all members of the community, and receive for their literary labor precisely the same wages as woodchoppers and farmers and stablemen.

DISABLED SIXTY-FOUR WHEELS.

Malicious Person Sprinkled Tacks Where Bicycle Tires Would Suffer.

The bicycles of many wheelmen who rode into Woodbridge, Sunday, to visit Boynton Beach, were injured by the act of some malicious person who strewed the bicycle path near the beach with tacks, causing the puncturing of tires on sixty-four wheels.

The place where the damage was done is a narrow path running from the sidewalk to the smooth path for the wheelmen. The road at this point is very dusty, and the tracks could not be seen.

About 100 yards south of the place is a bicycle repairing shop, which has recently been opened.

Several of the wheelmen said they would report the matter to the L. A. W. committee.

John Daly, of East Second street, is just recovering from a sprained wrist, that he received last week by a fall from his wheel in Brooklyn. He was run into by another wheelman and thrown against the wheels of a truck.

THE WHEEL PARAMOUNT.

ITS SUCCESS AS USED BY ENDEAVORERS DEMONSTRATED.

The Christian Endeavor Bicycle Squad Will Go to Marconnier Tomorrow Night—Epworth Leaguers' Second Run Friday.

The second of the visitation runs of the cycling squad of the Local Union of Christian Endeavor Societies and the second of the bicycle sociables of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church are both to be held this week if the weather is propitious.

Tomorrow evening the Endeavorers will again try their novel scheme of visiting the outlying societies in the Union. This time the destination of the run will be Oak Tree and the Marconnier chapel. The ride is over some of the finest roads in New Jersey and those who did not go to Mount Pleasant on account of the rough roads need have no fear on this occasion.

Miss Ernestine Smith, who so successfully managed the first run, will again be in command, and Miss Elizabeth Allis will act in the capacity of color bearer. Miss Smith's lieutenants have not yet been formally selected and she will not make her choice until the night of the run when it is known who will be able to go. The repair squad will also be organized that evening but preparations for their outfit will be made beforehand. It is understood that a man well-versed in wheel repairing will fill the position of "bicycle-surgeon."

Miss Smith has announced her orders for the evening. The Endeavorers will assemble in front of the Seventh-day Baptist church at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow evening. The column will start promptly and proceed along West Fifth street to Park avenue, there turning to the right. Then the cyclers will enjoy a delightful spin along the smooth surface of Park avenue to Holly's Corners; there the procession will turn to the left along the charming road that leads to the front of the chapel. Provision has been made for the care of the wheels and they will be placed in security from dampness and bicycle thieves.

The Endeavor Society of the chapel changed the night of their meeting to suit the wishes of the cycling squad. A short service of prayer, praise and testimony will be held after the party arrives. Then the inner man will be remembered and the party will bid adieu to their hosts and return homeward. The distance to the chapel is three miles, over the best roads in Union county. There are no hills to encounter, going or coming, and the pace will be one that everybody will be able to keep without trouble.

The next attempt of the Epworth Leaguers to enjoy an evening on wheels will be held on Friday evening. The success of the first attempt won over every member that rides a wheel to be an enthusiastic supporter of that kind of sociables. The success of James A. Stafford in arranging and carrying out the bicycle sociable was marked. Mr. Stafford thought that everybody ought to have a hand in arranging these delightful affairs and refused to be reappointed as committee to take charge of the next one. Miss Madeline Day is a committee of one in charge of Friday's affair and it promises to be as successful as the first. Of course, the moon won't be out to guide the riders on their way, but the nights are comparatively light and the lamps will illuminate the road sufficiently for the most inexperienced rider of them all to navigate his machine safely and without trouble.

Mr. Stafford will act as one of Miss Day's lieutenants and the other will be Ray T. Snodgrass, who served so efficiently at the last one.

The party will gather in front of the First M. E. church at 7:30 o'clock and then ride in the direction of Springfield, at which place they hope to reach and make a short halt for refreshments. Then the party will return by the same road they went.

Poor Thing.

An imprisoned dog, in the 'stockade" back of the Schepflin block, makes the nights hideous with his frantic appeals for freedom. Unless his petitions are heeded, by those responsible for this disturber of the peace, the poor suffering canine will doubtless soon be relegated to the "Shades of Tartarus."

BUSINESS COLLEGE OVER

A Class of Eight Received Their Graduation Diplomas—Addresses Given by Rev. C. E. Herring and S. S. Swackhamer.

The closing exercises of the Plainfield Business College, under the direction of Prof. A. A. Phelps, were held last evening in the rooms at the corner of Park avenue and Front street. Considering the excessive warm weather, the attendance was remarkably good and the programme presented was listened to with pleasure. After an opening prayer by Rev. C. E. Herring, the opening remarks were given by Prof. Phelps.

This was followed with an essay, "Electricity," by Albert V. V. Hibson, of Cranford, who is a student in the college. A reading by Miss Mary G. Morrison, of this city, also a student, was followed with the reading of the class history by Mrs. Roberts, wife of Prof. N. H. Roberts, of the commercial course. At this point Rev. C. E. Herring delivered a short address on "Honesty," in which he said many interesting and helpful things.

Alvah B. Davis, student, of this city, gave a reading, which preceded a stump speech by Garrett Kiely, who used the nom de plume of Hon. Perverse Peabody. An essay, "If," by Miss Ada B. Chandler, another student, was well given. This was followed with another address by Lawyer S. S. Swackhamer, who selected for his subject, "Life Work."

"The New Woman," was the subject of an essay delivered by Miss G. M. Vail, a student, of Dunellen. Miss Caroline M. Borrup, of Netherwood, also a student, gave an excellent reading.

In conclusion Prof. Phelps presented the graduates with diplomas as follows:—Commercial course, Miss Mabel B. Potter, Mount Pleasant; Miss M. E. Vail, Dunellen. Shorthand course, Miss Mary E. Miller, Delaware; Miss Cornelia Shearn, Raritan; Miss Bertha E. Needham, Miss Adelaide G Ball, North Plainfield; Charles A. Coriell, Jr., Dunellen; Miss Clara L. Williams, Plainfield.

This closes the second year of the college. During the first year there were sixty-five students and six graduated. This year there were seventy-eight students and eight graduated. The students attending the school have come from almost all of the nearby towns and one was in attendance from Delaware. They all speak very highly of Prof Phelps and his assistants, Prof W. K. Klugh, of the shorthand class, and Prof. N. H. Roberts, of the commercial course.

WILL THE TROLLEY GO?

EVERYTHING IS BEING PREPARED TO START WORK.

The Men and Tools Have Arrived and all Lacking are the Ties—Great Secrecy About the Movement.

From all appearances the work of building the extension of the trolley to Mountain Park Inn will be started this week and before a great while people will probably have the pleasure of riding up through Washingtonville to the top of the mountain.

Last evening a colony of Italians arrived in Plainfield and settled in quarters in North Plainfield. Just what time the work will be started has not yet been learned, but it is understood that it will be commenced on Friday or Saturday of this week. A delay is caused just at present for the reason that the ties have not yet arrived.

The necessary tools to be used have arrived and have been located on Hudson lane It is said that the line will run through the remaining portion of Somerset street to Washingtonville and from that point will make a circle around the mountain to the Mountain Park Inn, where the road will end.

If the above is true, and The Daily Press has every reason to believe that it is, it will prove a great boon to Washingtonville and Inn.

A Daily Press reporter made a number of attempts this morning to secure positive information from those interested in the building of the extension, but there seemed to be an air of secrecy about the affair.

The courts will close Friday, and will not reopen for several days, and the work will probably be started right after court adjourns. This will give the street railway company an opportunity to build their road in front of the property of owners who have objected to the trolley before an injunction could be secured.

EVENTFUL FIVE YEARS.

ENDEAVORERS OF EAST THIRD STREET MISSION SUCCESSFUL.

Last Night They Celebrated the Fifth Anniversary of the Organization of Their Society—A New Building to Be Erected.

The fifth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the East Third Street mission was held in the mission last evening, at which time an appropriate programme was presented in honor of the event. The superintendent, L. W. Randolph, was in charge and announced the several numbers on the programme. Mr. Randolph conducted the opening exercises, consisting of Scripture reading and prayer.

Following this an address was made by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church. He spoke on the "Three-Fold Meaning of Christian Endeavor, Evangelization, Enthusiasm and Energy." From each of the above sub-topics Mr. Schenck presented many strong and helpful lessons. His remarks were listened to with a great deal of pleasure by all in attendance. At the close a vote of thanks was extended to the speaker.

A vocal solo, by Miss Nancy Randolph, and a piano solo, by Miss Libby Joseph, were given. Just at this time there was an intermission and refreshments, consisting of cake and lemonade, were served in abundance. Following this there were vocal solos by Miss Lena Jomini, recitations by Miss Beulah Waters; charade, "Sunshine and Shade;" plantation songs, the Misses Freeman.

Those who served as waitresses were the Misses Kyle, Smith, Randolph, Thompson; Messrs. Hepburn and Waters.

During the past year there has been an increase in membership and interest, and the society is in good working condition. The members have accomplished much and they start the new year with bright prospects of doing a great deal more. With the prospects of having a new chapel they feel as though a great work is before them.

The attendance at the anniversary last evening showed conclusively that the society is awakening an interest among many friends of the mission and society.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John Case Celebrated Their Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary.

A pleasing event of last evening was the celebration by Mr. and Mrs. John Case, of Greenbrook, of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, which was held at their home. The grounds and house were beautifully illuminated with Chinese lanterns, and the effect was very pretty. The celebration was continued from the afternoon until late in the evening, and during that time a large number of guests called and extended congratulations to the bride and groom. Many expensive and useful presents were received from relatives and friends. Pleasing refreshments were served to the guests and the sociability of all was a marked feature of the happy event.

During the stated hours Prof. Naylor and his orchestra discoursed the latest selections.

Among those present were the following:

Mrs. S. Richardson, Mrs. T. J. Todd, Mrs. Henry Vail and daughters, Charles Tilton and family, Mrs George Vail, of Greenbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, of Raritan; Mrs. Mary Dean, of Flemington; Master Horace Vail, of Plainfield; Mrs. George Vail, of Greenbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Hague, of Clinton avenue; Mrs. John Stein, Fred Whyncoff and Stanley Emmons, of South Plainfield.

Sunday-School Teachers to Meet.

The New Jersey Sunday-school Teachers' Association will meet in conference in the Asbury Park Auditorium next week and, besides, conduct a "summer school of methods." First on the programme will be ten lessons in blackboard sketching by Miss Struble, of Trenton. This will be followed by ten lectures on 'Child Nature" by Miss Cushman, of Newark, and five conferences on practical classwork by Mrs. J. W. Barnes, of Newark. Four illustrative lessons will be given by Miss B. F. Vella, Miss I. H. Polhemus and others. A paper on "Separate Primary Lessons" will be read by Miss Julia E Peck The subject of primary music will also receive special attention.

The Town Clock is Silent.

The tongue of the old clock in the tower of the First M. E. church is paralyzed. A little skillful surgery on the part of the janitor might avail to set the "unruly member" wagging again. People miss its cheerful tones and are asking "What's the matter with the clock?"

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

THE BOARD HELD AN IMPORTANT MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Ordinances Providing for the Licensing of Milk and Ice Dealers Considered Favorably—Inspector Addis' Report.

The recent scarlet fever scare and the campaign against the carters who have overstepped the powers of their license have both combined to attract attention to the actions of the Plainfield Board of Health. A rumor to the effect that the city jail was to be closed by action of the board at the meeting, last evening, was another cause of the unusual interest in the proceedings of the meeting. Despite all the rumors that flew about town, there was nothing definite decided upon by the board, although several interesting questions were discussed and favorably commented on.

Mayor Fisk has been taking a great interest in the work of the board and he has been of great assistance to the members in their efforts. He was present at the meeting, last evening, and was an interested listener.

A very interesting report was submitted by Inspector Addis, which was as follows:

To the Honorable, the Board of Health, city of Plainfield:

Gentlemen, I herewith submit my report for month ending June 29th, 1897:

No. houses under quarantine last report...	1
No. houses under quarantine during the month...	48
	49
No. houses relieved from quarantine during the month...	2
No. houses now under quarantine...	47
No. of persons in above houses with contagious diseases...	59
No. visits to h uses under quarantine...	337
No. inspections on complaint...	10
No. inspections, water test...	29
" peppermint tests...	7
" air tests...	3
" sewer connections...	71
" new plumbing systems complete...	10
No. house inspections as per daily memorandum...	56
Total...	573

I am pleased to say that the quarantines are being maintained, with one exception.

I have disinfected the following places and contents of rooms during the month:

K. Rottburg, 462 Orchard place; K. Rottburg, 505 W. Third street; James Melvin, Cottage place; M. Ettinger, Cottage place; Mrs. Waters, Third and Washington streets; Catholic School; Hon. Chas. J. Fisk Golf Clubhouse; Wm. Warnock, North avenue; Nelson B. Giles.

On June 19th, as per instructions of the president, I caused to be emptied into the city sewer all of the milk that I found at the Madison avenue milk depot, and supposed to be owned by Nelson B. Giles. Also one can of milk found at McVey's restaurant, and 15 qts. including sugar, at the Italians 124 W. Front street, was also emptied into the city sewer. Sunday morning, June 20, I found Mifford Giles with can of milk in his wagon; I learned that he had left one can at McVey's restaurant, which I caused to be emptied into the city sewer; also the can of milk which was in the wagon.

My reason for this was that I forbid him to handle any milk until such time as he had received permission from the board or inspector.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

W. ADDIS, Sr.,
Sanitary Inspector.

The recent epidemic has drawn the attention of the Board to the milkmen with unusual force. The investigation among the milkmen showed the necessity of some ordinance to govern their care for sanitary conditions. The report of George W. McGuire, dairy inspector for this part of the State, told of his personal visits to the milk depots in this city. The different places were mentioned and their equipment described. In a few of them, the conditions were such that the inspector stated that they must be cleaned at once or the proprietor ought not to be allowed to continue in business.

There was a general discussion regarding the necessary regulations for the furnishing of the milk supply of the city and there seemed to be a general sentiment in favor of the adoption of an ordinance similar to the one in Asbury Park.

The Asbury Park ordinance provides for one or more inspector to investigate the sources of milk supply, and the methods used in handling the milk before and after it reaches the city.

It also provides that no milk shall be brought into the city that has been adulterated, has been transported or stored in an unclean place or manner, or which has been produced from cows that are stabled in an unhealthy manner. Each milkman shall be duly licensed and shall furnish the Board of Health with a list of all his customers, which shall be corrected weekly. The violation of the ordinance shall incur the payment of a fine of $50.

The board also discussed the adoption of an ordinance relating to ice men somewhat similar to the other and necessitating the securing of a license and of reporting where the ice is harvested and by whom and the circumstances of its transportation and then how it is delivered and by whom.

The members of the board decided that the scavangers in the city had been very lax about providing air-tight barrels for their use and it was decided that they should be called to account if they did not promptly comply with the present ordinance that regulates that subject.

There was some talk about the closing up of the public dumps at the

BICYCLE THIEF AT WORK.

CARRIED AWAY TWO WHEELS LEFT AT THE CURB.

A daring bicycle robbery was committed in the centre of the business section, this morning, at an hour when the streets were filled with vehicles and pedestrians. Two wheels were taken and there is not a trace of the thief to be found.

Lawyer Robert M. Clark rode down on his wheel from his home near Washingtonville, this morning. His brother, Edward O. Clark, who is studying law in the offices of McNabb & Clark, rode his wheel also. The law offices of the firm are located in the new City National Bank building at the corner of Front street and Park avenue. The Clarks left their wheels in front of the entrance to the second story which is on East Front street and then they went upstairs.

People passed and repassed. Then the thieves appeared on the scene. There must have been two, for both wheels were taken. They probably came up to the wheels and carelessly jumped on as if they owned them and rode away. Both wheels were '96 Crescents.

Robert M. Clark came downstairs at about 10 o'clock and started to ride away on an errand, but his wheel was not there. At first it was thought that it was all a joke and that some of their friends had taken the wheels and hidden them for fun. Neither wheels have been found as yet, although the owners and the police have searched for them.

Many business men are in the habit of leaving their wheels outside on the sidewalk and there was a panic among them for fear that the bicycle thief would continue his course and make other appropriations. None have been reported as yet, however.

EXPENSIVE CHERRIES.

WHILE PICKING THEM BRENNAN FELL AND WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED.

A Limb Gave Way and He Fell Over 30 Feet—Collarbone Broken and Possibly He Received Internal Injuries.

James Brennan, Jr., a fifteen-year-old boy, fell from a cherry tree yesterday afternoon and narrowly escaped being fatally injured. The boy lives with his parents at 17 Rose street.

Brennan has a habit of climbing, and has often been warned that he would some day meet with a serious accident. Yesterday, shortly after 12 o'clock, he mounted a particularly high tree that stands in his father's yard. He went from limb to limb after the fruit, until he had reached a position about 30 feet from the ground.

Suddenly there was the snap of a branch, followed by a cry, and the next instant Brennan was lying unconscious in a heap upon the ground.

Neighbors come to the help of Mrs. Brennan, and the injured boy was carried into the house and a physician summoned.

Dr. Marc. Clawson responded, and after making an examination declared that the boy's collarbone was broken. There is also a possibility of internal injuries.

Dr. Clawson set the injured bone and gave what further treatment was necessary and in half an hour the boy revived. He has suffered much pain ever since. Considering the height of Brennan's fall it is thought that he escaped rather luckily. Dr. Carman will be able to decide tomorrow whether internal injuries exist.

CHIEF GRANT'S ORDERS.

Independence Day is to be Celebrated On July 5th Only.

This year the Fourth comes on Sunday and so that holiday will be celebrated on Monday, July 5th. So the small boy must remember that he is to celebrate on that day and no other.

It has heretofore been the custom among the boys of the city to begin their fun a week or two in advance and make things lively during the daytime with firecrackers and at night with fireworks. Last year Chief Grant began a campaign against the youthful offenders. This year it will be continued. The Chief has not the slightest objection to all the firecrackers and fireworks anybody wants on the Fourth but what he does object to is the preliminary celebration. He has issued a notice stating that it must not be done and he says that the police will be instructed to arrest anybody who shoots off fireworks or firecrackers before midnight Sunday night.

Returning the Cut in Prices

A Press reporter called at the store of the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company to interview Charles C. Lister regarding the cut in the prices of his cycles, but he was not there.

BIG CUT IN BICYCLES.

THE POPE MANUFACTURING COMPANY STARTED THE MOVEMENT.

The Price of Columbias Was Reduced From $100 to $75, and Hartfords in Like Proportion—Local Dealers Talk.

Like a bomb-shell in the midst of the camp of the bicycle dealers comes the announcement that the Pope Manufacturing Company, makers of the Columbia and Hartford wheels, the oldest bicycle manufacturers in the country, have reduced the price of their '97 wheel from $100 to $75. Everybody expected a cut in the price of wheels in the spring, but when it did not come the general impression was that the present price would remain until the beginning of the season of '98.

There are few families in town, one member of which does not know how to ride, and so the news of a fall in the cost of a mount will excite general interest. Plainfield has one of the highest percentages of wheelmen and wheelwomen to her population in the State, and is generally looked upon as a wheeling centre.

With the news of the cut in the prices of Columbias and Hartfords, comes the information that the J. P. Lovell Arms Company has reduced the price of the Lovell Diamond to $65. While to an outsider, there is nothing particularly startling in the fact that two manufacturers have decided to reduce the price of their product, it means considerably more to the trade. The Pope Company has been one of the most persistent advocates of the $100 wheel and has prided itself on the fact that the Columbia could not be bought for less than $100. There are other firms that have sold machines, marked at $100, for almost anything they could get for them and they will be only too willing to follow the lead of the Pope Company and rate their wheels somewhere nearer the price they have been selling them for. Other companies will be compelled to drop their price to keep in the "swim" and place their wheel on an even basis with the others.

The cause of the drop in prices may be attributed to several causes, among which the most important are the advent of the chainless bicycle and the growing popularity of the cheap wheels. Department stores all over the country have been playing havoc with the bicycle trade. In some cases they have had really excellent wheels bought from manufacturers who had failed or were about to do so. Others are machines that are put together hastily and are poor specimens of cycle workmanship. It is an easy thing for a clever salesman to convince an uninitiated buyer that one of the latter is just as good as any other, simply because it appears so.

Economical buyers throughout the country have therefore looked among the cheaper wheels for their purchase and the sale of the first grade wheels has suffered in consequence. Local dealers have reported from the first of the season that there was a much greater demand from the start for a second grade of wheels at a reduced price.

The effect of the cut will be that most of the other manufacturers will follow and reduce their prices in comparison. The smaller companies will be called upon to make still greater reductions of their inferior wheel and will, in consequence, be pushed to the wall. It will be a survival of the fittest and the manufacturers will find all their energies taxed to keep out of the rut that may be their ruin.

One of the largest manufacturers said yesterday: "It means that Col. Pope is tired of the tactics of the small dealers and makers—men that list their wheels at a fair figure and then take whatever price is offered, provided it leaves any margin of profit, however small. I think the price will be still further lowered if such a course shall be found necessary to drive the small men out of business."

N. C. Overman said: "We shall not lower the prices of our wheel, no matter what other concerns decide to do; but I feel sure there is going to be some stiff competition among the small fry."

Others said practically that a big bicycle rate war is on, and that the public will get some cheap wheels this summer. But next year, when only one or two large firms are left, it may be different.

A Press reporter visited the managers of the principal bicycle stores in town this morning and took a census of the opinions. The announcement came as a surprise to them and they had different views of the matter.

When seen by a Daily Press reporter today, W. L. Price, manager of the Eldridge Cycle Company's store on Park avenue, said:

"Yes, we are the agents in this city

THE UNKNOWN VICTIM

Little Progress Made In Identifying the Remains.

A CLEW RECEIVED FROM BALTIMORE.

A Resident of That City Says He Believes the Murdered Man Was His Uncle. Had Met With Heavy Financial Reverses.

New York, June 30.—But little progress has been made in the search for the perpetrators of the East river and Kingsbridge murder mystery, but several clews, which seem to give some promise of aiding in solving the mystery, are being followed up.

The police of the Highbridge station have in custody an eccentric sort of an individual, who described himself as Henry Gardner, a peddler, 54 years old, and a lodger at 347 West street.

About 5 o'clock last evening the prisoner approached Michael Faith, a foreman on the street improvements on Sedgwick avenue, near where the abandoned valise was found on Monday evening, and said he had seen a human head in the woods.

Gardner exhibited a hatband which, he claimed, he had picked up near where the head lay. Faith took the crank to the police station, and a search was made of the woods, but the missing head was not found.

Then it was discovered that Gardner had torn the hatband which he said he had found from his own headgear. As the man is doubtless unbalanced, the police decided to hold him for further investigation.

A Baltimore Clew.

Baltimore, June 30.—A statement made to a press representative here may help to establish the identity of the mutilated body found on Saturday last in the East river. A young German Hebrew, called S. Weinkrantz and residing at 909 East Baltimore street, says that from information he has received he believes the headless trunk to be that of his uncle, also called S. Weinkrantz.

Weinkrantz says that since the finding of the remains he has made numerous attempts to communicate by telegrams and otherwise with his uncle, who resides at 119 Park row, New York, but has received no response.

The supposed victim visited Baltimore about six weeks ago, and in a conversation with his nephew acquainted the young man with the facts relating to his domestic and commercial reverses, saying that he had many enemies and was reasonably afraid that they would resort to violence.

Young Weinkrantz says that his uncle was 32 years old and a bookbinder by trade. He was recently divorced, and his wife's relations are said to feel bitterly toward him. According to the nephew, Weinkrantz was a man of exemplary moral habits and handsome in appearance, standing about 6 feet and weighing between 180 and 190 pounds.

Appeal For Destitute Greeks.

Boston, June 30.—The many appeals for help sent out by individuals and societies in Greece have called forth liberal responses, but it would seem that the returns are by far insufficient to relieve the destitute citizens and refugees in the country. A communication just received by the consul at Boston says, "We beg of you to make a fervent appeal not only to our countrymen, but to every charitably disposed person to lend a helping hand."

Bookkeeper's Accomplice Arrested.

Louisville, June 30.—Louis Gallot, who in conjunction with Individual Bookkeeper Colomb abstracted about $300,000 from the Union National bank by juggling the balances so as to always show a credit to Gallot in the bank, has been found guilty on about 40 counts in the indictment against him. The discovery of the frauds led to the closing of the bank, and Colomb committed suicide before he could be arrested.

Held For Causing Boy's Death.

Buffalo, June 30.—William Drennan, a saloon keeper, has been arrested, charged with manslaughter in the first degree in causing the death of Antoni Providero, aged 10 years. The boy claimed that Drennan struck him with an ice shaver. Drennan claims that he merely spanked the boy for stealing a kimmelwecht from his bar. The assault occurred on June 2, and the boy died yesterday.

To Establish a New "Heaven."

Monett, Mo., June 30.—Schweinfurth, the so called Messiah of Rockford, Ills., has returned from Benton county, Ark., where it is reported he has contracted for the purchase of 2,000 acres of land of Senator Blackburn, with the view of removing his proteges from Illinois and establishing one of his "heavens" there. People in that section are wrought up over the matter.

Bicycle Mile Record Broken.

Springfield, Ills., June 30.—Arthur Gardiner of Chicago, in the races of the national circuit bicycle meet held at the State Fair grounds, broke the world's one mile handicap record. There were 18 starters in the race. Gardiner won the race, his time being 2m. 5 1-5s. The world's previous record was 2m. 5 3-5s., made by Mertens this year.

The Key West Murder.

Key West, June 30.—The murder of William Gardner by the negro mob last Thursday night is still being investigated by the coroner's jury, and a verdict is soon expected, when it is probable several arrests will be made. The city remains quiet. The sheriff's posse of citizens and the militia patrol the city on alternate nights to keep order.

Planing Mill Burned.

Sandy Hill, N. Y., June 30.—The Griffin Lumber company's planing mill has been burned. Loss, $20,000; insurance, $9,950. Much valuable machinery and workmen's tools were destroyed. The fire started among the shavings. The piles of lumber were saved by the efforts of the firemen.

To Investigate Panama Scandal.

Paris, June 30.—The chamber of deputies has appointed another committee of inquiry to sift fresh charges brought against members of the chamber in connection with the Panama scandal.

DEBS' COLONIZATION SCHEME.

Not Abandoned as Reported, but Will Be Carried Out.

Milwaukee, June 30.—The Debs colonization scheme has not been abandoned as has been reported. Victor L. Berger, editor of The Vorwaerts of this city, who attended the conference of the leaders of the Social Democracy at Chicago recently, says the whole matter has been misunderstood. He says it is the intention of the Social Democracy all over the country to go on organizing in the hope that eventually they will get into power and revolutionize the social system of the United States.

Meanwhile, as fast as they get means, they intend to send unemployed people from the cities to a point in the west, still to be selected, where they may have a chance to earn a livelihood. The colonization scheme is only a side issue with the Social Democracy, but Mr. Berger says the press of the country have made it the main plan. Mr. Debs is in full accord with the plan outlined by Mr. Berger.

The latter says there are 3,000,000 unemployed in the country, and he will consider his party lucky if it can raise money enough to transport only 10,000 to the west. There was never any intention of forming a vast army to invade the west in search of homes and a livelihood.

LITHOGRAPHERS ASSIGN

Chicago, June 30.—The Clinton Lithographing company, which was organized about two years ago as the successor of the Orcutt company and began business with one of the most extensive lithographing plants in the city, has made an assignment to Albert M. Baker. The failure was precipitated by a suit against the corporation which has just come to trial. The assets, according to a statement filed about a year ago, are nominally $419,694, and liabilities $104,442. It is said, however, that this does not represent the true state of the company's affairs at the present time. Attorneys for the company say that the assets that can be realized on will not meet the liabilities. The company has suffered greatly from the general business depression.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Woods, the murderer who recently escaped from jail, and McDonald, the escaped burglar, were captured near Nelson, B. C., after a struggle.

The well known sealing schooner Agnes McDonald of Victoria, B. C., Captain Cutlet, was wrecked off the coast of Japan. All the crew and 489 skins were saved.

Robert J. Powley was put to death in the electric chair at Auburn, N. Y. The execution was successful. His crime was the murder of his wife on March 8 at Niagara Falls.

Acting under orders from Judge Owers of the district court, a posse of deputy sheriffs raided every gambling establishment in Leadville, Colo. All the proprietors of the gambling houses were arrested.

Governor Steunenberg is advised that 300 Indians, mostly Bannocks from the Lemhi agency and some from the Nevada, are ghost dancing on the prairie near Haley, Ida. The settlers are greatly alarmed and have appealed to have them removed.

Charles Bertrand, known under the alias of Colonel Hay, an alleged brother of the United States embassador, who was committed for trial on June 19 charged with fraud, has been sentenced in Old Bailey, London, to ten years' penal servitude.

Dated, June 21, 1897. 6 22-29 30

AN ORDINANCE

WHEREAS, The Common Council has judged and hereby judges that the public good requires the widening of Westervelt Avenue between the points named in the title of this ordinance, therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Westervelt Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, from the northwesterly side line of East Front Street to a point one hundred and eight and 66-100 feet southeast of Orange Place, be widened and laid out so that said Westervelt Avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the center line thereof, which said center line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of East Front Street, said point being distant three hundred twenty-four and 56 100 feet in a southwesterly direction along said northwesterly side line of East Front Street, from the centre line of Sandford Avenue, as now laid out and opened; and running from said point in a magnetic course of north forty-four degrees and fifty-six minutes west, a distance of three hundred sixty and 3-100 feet to the northwesterly line of property owned by William C. Kelly.

The land to be taken for the widening of said Westervelt Avenue includes that portion of the property of Antoinette De Bard, Mrs. Sarah Bird and William C. Kelly, which lies between the present Southwesterly side line of said Avenue as now laid out and opened and a line parallel with the center line of said Avenue and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a Southwesterly direction.

The land to be taken and the lines of Westervelt avenue, as the same is hereinabove ordered to be widened, are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled: "Assessment Map for the widening of Westervelt Avenue from East Front Street to a point 108.66 feet Southeast of Orange Place, March, 1897," to which reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The Vessel of Life.

The Strangest Vessel Ever Made.

The body of a pauper who died in the London Hospital was delivered to the doctors that they might demonstrate the amount of iron in the ordinary man. Later one of them fashioned the iron into the form of a vessel and named it the "vessel of life." As cattle eat natural food their blood is always well filled with iron, but man's food, often fancifully prepared, is nearly always lacking in iron. The blood of animals, therefore, furnishes the best source from which to refill the blood of man with iron. Dr. Campbell has secured natural iron from bullocks blood and put it up in the form of Capsuloids. Any one can take it.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

When a mistake is easily avoided it's scarcely worth while to run the risk of making one. Buying poor paint is a needless waste of money. It's paying for something you don't want, because it won't answer the purpose. Only paint that wears and is proof against the exposure of our climate is worth the cost of putting on. CURED

For sometime I have been a sufferer from rheumatism in one of my knees. I have tried many remedies and physicians' prescriptions, but with no relief, and had almost given up hope of being other than a pain-racked person. I saw your challenge advertisement to give away free sample packages of Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills and I took advantage of it, procuring a trial package from Dr. Willard Wright's drug store, corner of Virginia and Atlantic Avenues. I took the pills according to directions. The result was marvelous, and I can now conscientiously recommend them to my suffering friends, for after using one box I am sure they are the best and only remedy for what they claim to cure. I am free from pain and have the use of my limb, to me a great blessing, and Dr. Hobbs' has my heartfelt good wishes. MRS. H. B. GARRISON, Atlantic City, N. J.

Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Katheryn Baxter, of Putnam avenue, is sojourning at Belmar.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. V., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June 1894, Mr. Evens, then salesman fo the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A valuable calf was received from the south yesterday by A. O. Trust, of the borough.

A. H. Patter, with E. C. Atkins & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I have never before given a testimonial in my life. But I will say that for three years we have never been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house, and my wife would as soon think of being without flour as a bottle of this Remedy in the summer season. We have used it with all three of our children and it has never failed to cure—not simply stop pain, but cure absolutely. It is all right, and anyone who tries it will find it so." For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

William Miller, of the graduating class of Lehigh University, is stopping on East Front street with friends.

"There's no use in talking," says W. H. Broadwell, druggist, La Cygne, Kas., "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy does the work. After taking medicines of my own preparation and those of others, I took a dose of Chamberlain's and it helped me; a second dose cured me. Candidly and conscientiously I can recommend it as the best thing on the market." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Physical Director Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., returned Monday from Springfield, Mass., where he was in attendance upon the International Conference of Physical Directors.

Hundreds of thousands have been induced to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy by reading what it has done for others, and having tested its merits for themselves are to-day its warmest friends. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

CONATY'S ELEVATION

Honor Conferred on the Rector of the Catholic University.

MADE A MONSIGNEUR BY THE POPE.

The Announcement Was Given at a Dinner to Archbishop Martinelli at the De La Salle Institute and Came as a Surprise.

New York, June 30.—The rector of the Roman Catholic university at Washington, Dr. Thomas A. Conaty, has been elevated by Pope Leo XIII. The distinguished theologian is now Mgr. Conaty, domestic prelate to the holy see, with the title of right reverend.

The announcement of Dr. Conaty's elevation was made last night for the first time by Archbishop Martinelli, papal delegate, at a dinner given in the latter's honor by Brother Justin, president of Manhattan college, in the De La Salle institute, on West Fifty-ninth street.

Archbishop Michael Corrigan, General O'Beirne, Dr. Morrisey of Hartford, Father Charles, prior of the Dominicans in Florida, Brother Elogius, director of the De La Salle institute; Brother Quintinian, assistant visitor general, and about a dozen other eminent clerics were present when the papal delegate made the pleasant announcement of Dr. Conaty's elevation.

The Announcement a Surprise.

The guests were at dessert when the rector of the Catholic university entered the dining hall, accompanied by Brother Bernard. The latter said, "Permit me to introduce Dr. Conaty."

At that moment Archbishop Martinelli stood up, and, waving his hand for silence, said, with a smile: "Pardon, but it is no longer Dr. Conaty. It is now Mgr. Conaty." All were taken by surprise, and Dr. Conaty could scarcely realize what he had heard, for he had had no intimation that the great honor was even contemplated.

Archbishop Martinelli then explained that he had the day before received word from Rome of the elevation of Dr. Conaty, and he also told how it came about and what the title is to be.

Archbishop Corrigan and the other prelates present then congratulated the Right Rev. Mgr. Conaty.

Belgian Miners on Strike.

Mons, Belgium, June 30.—A very extensive strike is in progress in the district of Borinage, province of Hainaut. At least 12,000 borains (miners) are out. The district of Borinage is important for its coal mines. It comprises the communes of Jemmapes, Quaregnon, Hornu, Paturages and Frameries, with a population of about 32,000. Mons is the capital town of the province of Hainaut. It is a center of manufacturing interests, chiefly linen, woolen and cotton fabrics, firearms, cutlery and musical instruments. It has also copper, lead and pewter foundries and carries on an active trade in lumber, the transfer of which is facilitated by canals.

Increase In Patent Office Business.

Washington, June 30.—Commissioner of Patents Butterworth says the business of the patent office for the current calendar year will be an increase of 7 per cent over last year, and that the receipts will be over $100,000 more. In view of this encouraging showing and of the inadequacy of the force, he has asked congress to insert in the urgent deficiency bill an appropriation of 40 per cent of this increase for additional appointments. Over $4,500,000 is now in the treasury to the credit of the patent office, and this fact and the crippled service have been pointed out to congress.

Failure of a National Bank.

Washington, June 30.—Comptroller Eckels has received notice of the failure of the Keystone National bank of Erie, Pa. The bank's statement of May 14 showed the following condition: Capital, $15,000; surplus, $10,000; individual deposits, $340,000; demand certificates of deposit, $156,000; notes and bills rediscounted, $35,000; loans and discounts, $433,712. It is said at the comptroller's office that the bank has been in a weak condition for a long time, and its failure created little surprise. Bank Examiner Hugh Young has been placed in charge.

Found Dead In a Hotel.

Stroudsburg, Pa., June 30.—A man, registered as J. B. Davison of Buffalo, has been found dead in bed at the Central House, on Main street. Davison arrived at the hotel Monday morning and was well dressed and of good appearance. The coroner's jury held an inquest and found a bottle containing opium on his person. Davison were a Masonic button, and local Masons had the body embalmed, awaiting telegrams that have been sent out to identify the body.

Price of Bicycles Reduced.

Boston, June 30.—After years of ironclad agreement to maintain prices the Boston bicycle pool has broken at last. Colonel Albert A. LEAD PARAGRAPHS.

Disposed of by the Senate After Short Debate.

TILLMAN AND CHANDLER ARGUE.

An Amusing Colloquy Between the Two Senators—Senator Gallinger's Report Upon the Pension Bill—One Consul's Nomination Confirmed.

Washington, June 30.—After tedious consideration of the tariff bill the senate wound up with a half hour of lively and amusing colloquy between Senators Tillman of South Carolina and Chandler of New Hampshire.

The former had proposed an amendment to the tariff bill providing a $10 head tax on immigrants, and a restriction against all those not coming to the United States to become citizens.

Mr. Tillman made an earnest speech on the depressed condition of labor, but he was soon diverted from his theme by Mr. Chandler. The latter, adopting a style of mock gravity, directed the discussion toward Mr. Cleveland's administration.

This in turn brought from Mr. Tillman a vehement criticism of the late president, while Mr. Chandler drolly protested against these assaults on Mr. Cleveland by a member of his own party.

When the fun had been fast and furious for some time, the Tillman amendments were defeated—yeas, 3; nays, 43. The three affirmative votes were cast by Messrs. Butler, Quay and Tillman.

During the day the senate disposed of the lead paragraphs, the committee rate of 1½ cents per pound on lead ore being agreed to—yeas, 30; nays, 23. The other paragraphs considered were of comparatively minor importance.

The nomination of Soren Listoe of Minnesota to be consul at Rotterdam was confirmed.

The senate, in executive session, has ordered that all the testimony in the case of Hon. M. H. McCord, nominated for governor of Arizona, be printed. The order was made on the motion of Senator Berry, who opposes McCord's confirmation.

Senator Gallinger from the pension committee has favorably reported the bill providing "that upon the consideration of any application for a pension under any law of the United States the fact that the applicant was accepted and mustered into the military or naval service of the United States shall be taken and held as prima facie proof that such applicant was of sound body and mind at the time he was so accepted and mustered."

Silver Certificate Counterfeit.

Washington, June 30.—The first counterfeit of the new design of silver certificates has reached the secret service bureau. It is of the $5 denomination and bears check letter B, plate No. 4. It is a photolithographic production and is printed upon two pieces of paper, between which silk fiber has been distributed, then pasted together. Much of the work on the note is blurred and indistinct.

Especially is this true of the face of the figure representing "America," the imprint of the "Bureau of Engraving and Printing," right end border face of note, most of the parallel ruling and "Series 1896" in scroll at the lower right center face of note. The seal is much darker red than the genuine and badly blurred. The numbering is too large, and the dark outlines of the original numbers can be faintly discerned beneath those stamped on the counterfeit.

The back of the note has a dull, faded appearance. The green ink is a lighter shade than that used on the genuine. The portraits of Grant and Sheridan are flat and do not stand out in relief as in the genuine.

The note has the appearance of having been circulated, owing in a degree to the soft, fibrous character of the paper.

Consuls Nominated.

Washington, June 30.—The president has sent the following nominations to the senate: To be consuls general of the United States, Church Howe of Nebraska at Apia and Nukualofa, Tonga; John P. Bray of North Dakota at Melbourne; to be consuls of the United States, Hugo Donselmann of Wyoming at Prague, Bohemia; Louis A. Dent of the District of Columbia at Kingston, Jamaica; Samuel S. Lyon of New Jersey at Osaka and Hiogo, Japan; Rounsevelle Wildman of California at Hongkong; Charles V. Herliska of the District of Columbia to be secretary of the legation of the United States at Vienna.

Queen Lil Visits the Senate.

Washington, June 30.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani of the Hawaiian islands spent some time in the private gallery of the senate yesterday, accompanied by three members of her suit. She first appeared in the senate marble room and sent her card to Senator Perkins of California, who, after exchanging a few words with her and introducing her to many of his colleagues, escorted her to the gallery, where she took a front seat and appeared to be an interested listener to the debate on lead ore.

Sale of an Iron Mine.

Milwaukee, June 30.—The Aragon iron mine, largely a bessemer producer, located at Norway, Mich., has been sold by Angus Smith of this city to the Commonwealth Iron company of Cleveland, which company takes possession July 1, and the mine will then resume on full time. The price paid was under $200,000.

Receiver Removed.

THE TROLLEY AND THE DUST.

The residents along the line of the Plainfield street railway still continue to enjoy, if they can find any enjoyment in it, the clouds of dust that follow the passage of each car as it whirls along. The dust did not begin to blow yesterday, nor the day before, it first came when the trolley did, but the people are beginning to wake to the realization of the unpleasantness which they are condemned to suffer during the summer months unless the railroad company or the Common Council comes to their assistance. Especially is this so on the outskirts of the city where the sprinkling carts never go. Of course, where the streets are watered, there is no trouble about the dust.

It is very evident that the people who have daily to encounter these clouds of dust have real grievance that deserves immediate attention.

Weehawken has been troubled with the same thing and the people of that place have unsuccessfully petitioned the street railway company there for relief. Then the Board of Council of Weehawken took the matter in hand and have been trying to devise a method to compel the company to water the streets through which the cars run. One of the Weehawken councilmen hit upon the expedient of stopping the cars from running through the town on Sunday until the company shall do what is asked. It is claimed that this can be enforced under the old blue laws and measures will be taken to carry it out.

A TUMBLE IN PRICES.

A war for existence is now on among the smaller bicycle manufacturers and the public will benefit by it by getting wheels at greatly reduced rates. The Pope Manufacturing Company reduced the price of their wheel yesterday, and most of the other leading manufacturers will fall in line. The news came as a surprise to all and many opinions are hazarded as to the result. The spring trade, the greatest of the year, is over, but the reduction of the prices will enable many who hitherto could not afford a wheel to invest in one. The bicycle has become such a necessity to the American people that great care should be exercised in its manufacture and none but the best material used. If the cut in the prices will result in the extinction of the many small companies that make up wheels out of the cheapest material to be had without regard to the life and limb of the riders, then the movement just started will be a good thing for wheelmen and the community, for no one cares to have a relative or friend brought home in small pieces as a result of a fatal defect in the wheel they were riding.

A GOOD WORK.

Street Commissioner Gavett's "White Wings" were at work in the business portion of town yesterday picking up the loose stones out of the roadway. Street Commissioner Gavett is a wheelman and appreciates the fact that loose stones are dangerous things to have in the path of the cyclist, especially at night. He has now set his men at work picking them up and carrying them away. The work is a good one and will be much appreciated by every rider and pedestrian in the city.

Now that Montclair has a Y. M. C. A. building, her citizens want a town hall and the matter has been brought to the attention of the Common Council of that city.

BIG CUT IN BICYCLES.

for the Columbia and Hartford wheels. I know nothing about the Pope Manufacturing Company's cut in prices except that it will go into effect tomorrow. I received a circular letter yesterday announcing that fact. The truth of the matter is that while the Pope Company has kept prices up, never cutting below the list, the other makers have been secretly cutting their prices. It is a common practice to give away bells, lamps and cyclometers with machines, which is practically a reduction in price. Then in New York city wheels of well-known makes are sold at auction for whatever they will bring. I saw a wheel listed at $100 go for $40 yesterday, and shortly afterward an $80 wheel was knocked down for $26. This sort of thing has made it impossible for the Columbia people to maintain their price, and rather than indulge in secret cutting, while ostensibly maintaining the price, they have decided to make the reduction openly that all may know and take advantage of it. As to agreements among makers to maintain prices, the past history of the trade shows that they are always broken and amount to nothing in the end."

Manager George W. Macintyre, of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company's store, said: "The Cycling Board of Trade's agreement to maintain prices has been smashed by the Pope Manufacturing Company. The action was taken, I believe, without consulting the other makers. I am convinced that there will be no reduction this year in the price of the wheels we handle. Of course, the smaller manufacturers will feel the effects at once, and they will be forced to come down. Many of them will probably be forced to the wall. In fact, I am not sure that is not designed expressly to accomplish this. When the small makers are partly exterminated, a trust may be formed of the larger concerns. If this should happen the price of high grade wheels will be maintained at $75 or a figure slightly less."

Wm. H. Rogers, the North avenue bicycle dealer, was also interviewed. He said:

"The cut in Columbia bicycles is undoubtedly made by agreement with the other dealers, and they will soon do likewise. The reason for the cut is that people have been buying the '96 models instead of the '97, until they have exhausted the stock of the former. The demand for the old model continued, and rather than manufacture more '96 wheels the makers have decided to close out their '97 stock, which is quite large, at a reduced price."

Successful Entertainment.

The members and friends of Hope Chapel were given a treat last evening when they had the privilege of witnessing a cinemetrograph exhibition which was given under the direction of J. Hervey Doane, of the Camera Club. The entertainment was one of the best ever held in the chapel and the large crowd present fully enjoyed the excellent views displayed. Mr. Doane worked the machine to perfection and he was complimented highly for the evening's entertainment.

Miller Controls a Wheel and Pedals About While on Begging Expeditions.

Locked up at New Brunswick is George Miller, a bicycle tramp. He has been begging about that town for a number of days. When run down he wore a nondescript bicycle costume. He was dressed in blue bloomers such as some women wear, black stockings, white tennis shoes, a negligee shirt and a linen duster.

Miller told a peculiar story as to how he got the wheel. He claims he paid $2 for his suit and $25 for the wheel. He bought the latter, he said, from a man in Paterson. It is a "Wynnewood," of 1896 model, No. C, 63,416.

Within a short time the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company will provide bicycle rooms at stations in the Oranges and Montclair and check wheels for commuters. Many commuters who ride from their homes to the station now take their wheels with them to New York, and the railroad officials think it will be cheaper to check the bicycles and store them than to carry them on the trains.

of John A. Thickstun, located at the corner of Madison Avenue and Third street, will be sold at public auction. The property is 330 feet long, has a railroad siding the entire length of the yard, sheds for storage of coal, large platform scales, two office buildings, large barn, and is in a good condition. Undoubtedly it is the best available site in this city for the coal and wood business. $7,000 of the purchase money can remain on the property on bond and mortgage. The property must be sold, and the sale affords an excellent opportunity for a good investment.

WHAT NEW ENGLAND GRIT DID FOR ONE BOY.

Charles L. Tiffany Was but a Country Lad 15 Years Old When He Began Business in a Village Store—Now He is at the Head of the Jewelery Trade of the World

On the 15th of February, in the historic year of 1812, in Danielsonville, Windham County, Conn., was born Charles Lewis Tiffany, founder of the house of Tiffany & Co. Mr. Tiffany is now 85 years old.

The first fifteen years of this remarkable man's life were spent much as the average country boy's, in working from time to time on the farm, and during the Winter months attending the little red schoolhouse. When Mr. Tiffany was only fifteen years of age, his father, Comfort Tiffany, opened a little country store in Danielsonville, giving his son Charles complete charge, and it was in this humble and modest way that the great jeweler made his start in life. In the capacity of village storekeeper Mr. Tiffany spent the following ten years of his life, making frequent trips to New York City to buy merchandise for his store, and where he formed many valuable business acquaintances. In 1837 he decided to move to New York and establish a business there for himself.

CHARLES L. TIFFANY.

Borrowing $1,000 from his father, he entered into partnership with John D. Young, a former neighbor and schoolmate, who had come to New York some six months previously.

By 1841 the business had grown to such proportions that it was decided to send a member of the firm abroad to purchase stock from the foreign markets. To-day this would seem a step of little or no importance, but at that time it was an almost unheard-of thing for an American to send a buyer abroad, and it was considered a bold and hazardous business venture. But this idea, which was Mr. Tiffany's, like all other of his ideas, proved to be full of wisdom and success.

In 1850 the Paris branch of the house was established. As in the case of the New York house, the Paris branch rapidly developed, and soon became one of the largest jewelry establishments of France.

Mr. Tiffany can look back with satisfaction at the results he has accomplished not only in the mercantile world, but in the mental as well, for it is largely due to his efforts that the minds of the general public have become as well educated in the fine arts as they have.—New York Times.

4,000 DUELS A YEAR IN GERMANY.

1,000 a Year in France and 2,759 Duels in the Last Ten Years in Italy.

More duels are fought in Germany than in any other country. Most of them, however, are student duels, which culminate in nothing more serious than slashed cheeks or torn scalps. Of all German university towns little Jena and Goettingen are most devoted to the code. In Goettingen the number of duels averages one a day, year in and year out. On one day several years ago twelve duels were fought in Goettingen in twenty-four hours. In Jena the record for one day in recent times is twenty-one. Fully 4,000 student duels are fought every year in the German Empire. In addition to these there are the more serious duels between officers and civilians. Among Germans of mature years the annual number of duels is about one hundred.

Next to Germany, France is most given to the duelling habit. Of the serious duels, France can boast fully 1,000 from New Year's to New Year's. The majority of those are among army officers. More than half of these result in wounds; nearly 20 per cent in serious wounds.

Italy has had 2,759 duels in the last ten years, and has lost fifty citizens by death on the field of honor.—New York Sun.

A Re-adjusted Programme.

"Things seldom turn out as we expect," remarked Mr. Harkins thoughtfully. "When I first went to the city I made up my mind that I would live in a suburb and lead a double life."

"Sir!" exclaimed the lady to whom he was talking.

"I merely meant I would have two suits of clothes. I would be a swell in the city and a farmer in the village."

"And didn't this plan work?"

"Not the way I expected it to. It wasn't six weeks before I acquired the firm impression that I was a farmer in the city and a swell in the country.—Washington Star.

HOW KENNAN LEARNED.

By Perseverance He Lost the Fear that Had Possessed Him.

"When I was 17 or 18 years of age," said Mr. Kennan, "I went as a telegraph operator to Cincinnati. I had become so morbid and miserable by that time that I said to myself one day, 'I'm going to put an end to this state of affairs here and now. If I'm afraid of anything, I'll conquer my fear of it or die. If I'm a coward I might as well be dead, because I can never feel any self-respect or have any happiness in life; and I'd rather get killed trying to do something that I'm afraid to do than to live in this way. I was at that time working at night, and had to go home from the office between midnight and 4 o'clock A. M. It was during the Civil War, and Cincinnati was a more lawless city than it ever has been since. Street robberies and murders were of daily occurrence, and all of the 'night men' in our office carred weapons as a matter of course. I bought a revolver, and commenced a course of experiments upon myself. When I finished my night work at the office, instead of going directly home through well-lighted and police-patrolled streets, I directed my steps to the slums, and explored the worst haunts of vice and crime in the city. If there was a dark, narrow, cut-throat alley down by the river that I felt afraid to go through at that hour of the night, I clenched my teeth, cocked my revolver and went through it—sometimes twice in succession. If I read in the morning papers that a man had been robbed or murdered on a certain street, I went to that street the next night. I explored the dark river banks, hung around low drinking dives and the resorts of thieves and other criminals, and made it an invariable rule to do at all hazards the thing that I thought I might be afraid to do. Of course I had all sorts of experiences and adventures. One night I saw a man attacked by highwaymen and knocked down with a slungshot, just across the street. I ran to his assistance, frightened away the robbers and picked him up from the gutter in a state of unconsciousness. Another night, after 2 o'clock, I saw a man's throat cut, down by the river, and a ghastly sight it was, but although somewhat shaken I did not become faint nor sick. Every time that I went through a street that I believed to be dangerous, or had any startling experience, I felt an accession of self-respect.

"In less than three months I had satisfied myself that while I did fear, I was not so much daunted by any undertaking but I could do it, and then I began to feel better.

"Soon after this time I went on my first expedition to Siberia, and there in almost daily struggles wth difficulties, dangers, and sufferings of all sorts, I finally lost the fear of being afraid which had poisoned the happiness of my boyhood.—From the Atlantic.

HER HANDS ARE MAGNETS.

Wonderful Power Demonstrated by a Georgia Girl.

A strange exhibition of a wonderful power was recently given in the presence of Governor W. G. Atkinson, of Georgia. The demonstration occurred in the Governor's reception room in the Capitol at Atlanta, and the possessor of the marvelous power was Miss Fannie Hester, of Greene County, Georgia.

The first experiment tried with the young lady before Governor Atkinson and his party was with a silver dollar. This was placed near the palm of her hand, and the muscles immediately began to twitch and jump. Several of those present felt her hand, and noticed the strange pulsation. A large, round stick was then placed in her hand, and as long as it touched the palm it kept continually in motion, whirling around with great rapidity. Several tried to push against her, but she could not be moved from her tracks. The Governor's private secretary, a strong, powerful young man, used all his strength to push the girl back, but could not move her.

Experiments were then tried with a chair, and although four men caught hold of it and attempted to keep it still, Miss Hester moved it easily in all directions with one hand. She seemed to use no exertion whatever, yet the four men opposing her were powerless in resisting her. It was the greatest difficulty to lift her from the floor, and when she stood on wood it was an impossibility to lift her feet more than an inch from the floor.

In this respect Miss Hester's abilities are very similar to the celebrated Lulu Hurst, but the magnetic palms are a distinctive feature.—New York Journal.

Test for Seasickness.

Many people have a genuine curiosity to know if they would be seasick in case they should take an ocean voyage.

An easy way to put the matter to a test is to stand before the ordinary mirror that turns in its frame, and let some one move it slowly and slightly at first, and gradually growing faster while you look fixedly at your own reflection.

If you feel no effect whatever from it, the chances are that you can stand an ordinary sea voyage without any qualm.—Golden Days.

Toys of Ancient Egypt.

It seems very odd to have unearthed the playthings as well as the tablets and weapons of antiquity, and yet among the objects found recently in the Assiob necropolis, in Egypt, was a whole company of wooden soldiers, fifteen inches in height. The soldiers carry lances, and give a good idea of the style of military equipment prevailing in the time of the Pharaohs.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A CORNELL BANQUET.

Arrangements Being Made For a Grand Reception to the Crews.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 30.—The business men and citizens of Ithaca held an enthusiastic meeting in Music hall last evening to make arrangements for a grand reception to the Cornell crews on their return to this city. The navy management has sent word that the crews will probably arrive in Ithaca at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening. It was decided last night to have a display of fireworks, general illumination of the city, a parade and a banquet in honor of the occasion. Several well known speakers will be invited to be present at the banquet.

The reception will be the largest ever given to a victorious Cornell crew. Cornell alumni of Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Elmira, Binghamton, Albany, Troy and other cities of the state will be invited to be present. An active movement was also inaugurated to raise a testimonial fund to Charles Courtney in recognition of his years of efficient service as coach of the Cornell crew.

A considerable amount has already been subscribed to this fund, and the alumni all over the country will be given a chance to contribute. At last night's meeting the work of raising the fund was placed in charge of Professor E. H. Hulent, president of Cornell's athletic council, and Hon. D. F. Van Vleet. In case the varsity race on Friday is postponed until Saturday the reception to the crews will occur on the following Monday.

INSURANCE DECISION.

Kansas Insurance Commissioner Deprived of a Certain Power.

Topeka, June 30.—Judge Foster, in the United States district court, has made a decision that deprives State Insurance Commissioner Webb McNall of the power he has assumed in preventing certain big eastern life insurance companies from doing business in Kansas.

The case was one brought by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company to restrain the commissioner, who had attempted to stop the company from transacting business in this state because it had not paid certain claims. Judge Foster holds that Commissioner McNall has no right to revoke a company's license unless the holder of the policy has secured a judgment against the company and this judgment has remained unpaid 90 days.

It is understood that this opinion carries with it the right of the New York Life, Mutual Life of New York and the Connecticut Mutual to continue business, although licenses had been refused them on the ground of nonpayment of the Hillmon claims.

RIGHTS OF POLICY HOLDERS.

Attorney General Knowlton on the Case of a Massachusetts Company.

Boston, June 30.—Attorney General Knowlton, in response to a request by Governor Wolcott for an opinion as to whether the rights of the policy holders in the Massachusetts Benefit Life association has been infringed upon improperly and whether, if this be the case, any remedy exists, has filed his answer with the executive.

In it the attorney general criticises sharply the legislature of 1885 for its action in legalizing such methods of insurance and corporations which had been condemned by Commissioner Tarbox, and he charges the officers of the association with deceiving and misleading the policy holders, but he finds that the commonwealth has no right to interfere, and that the policy holders themselves must fight their own battles. He does not find that the insurance commissioner is derelict in his duty.

The Queen to Receive Commoners.

London, June 30.—In the house of commons Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, the first lord of the treasury and government leader, read a message from the queen in reference to the reported dissatisfaction of certain members of the house of commons with the arrangements made for the reception of commoners at Buckingham palace last Wednesday. In the message the queen expressed a desire to receive all members of the house of commons, with their wives, at Windsor castle on Saturday next.

Gang of Boy Thieves.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 30.—For some time past this city has been afflicted with numerous petty burglaries. Almost nightly stores have been entered and cash registers and drawers ransacked. Boys were suspected of the crimes, and six of them, whose ages range from 13 to 17 years, have been arrested. The boys are all sons of respectable and industrious parents. The gang was regularly organized. The boys have been sent to the State Industrial school at Elmira.

Plans For Immigration Buildings.

New York, June 30.—Mr. John L. Smithmeyer, a Washington architect, has left Washington by direction of Secretary Gage, for Ellis island, where he will make an examination of the soil and topography of the island with a view to submitting plans and specifications for the erection of new buildings for use of the immigration service in place of those recently destroyed by fire. It is understood that congress will be asked to appropriate $600,000 for this purpose.

Searched For Concealed Weapons.

Franklin, Ky., June 30.—The trial of Green Dinning, the negro who is charged with the killing of Joe Conn, a farmer, has begun. Eighty-seven members of the Kentucky state guard are present to protect the negro from the hands of a mob. Acting on instructions from Governor Bradley, Colonel F. H. Gaither searched every person who entered the courtroom for concealed weapons.

The President to Visit Portsmouth.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 30.—Captain H. W. Lyons of the United States dispatch boat Dolphin stated that President McKinley would visit this city some time this summer, in the course of an extensive cruise along the coast in the Dolphin. It is his intention while here to stop at the Wentworth and also at the isle of Shoals. From here he will go to Bar Harbor and Sorrento.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT

A Perth Amboy Woman Brains Another With a Hatchet.

THEIR QUARREL WAS OVER A MAN.

One Accused the Other of Trying to Attract Her Husband — Desperate Attempt Made to Kill Her Victim. She Acted Like a Fiend.

Perth Amboy, N. J., June 30.—A young girl, pretty and of good family, developed an awful streak of jealousy, and in her rage assaulted in a fiendish manner her next door neighbor.

The girl's name is Agnes Brett, 18 years old, living on Penn street, and her victim, who is at death's door, is a Mrs. Martin Shumley.

The Brett girl buried a hatchet in the woman's head, tried to bite off a finger, and finally, in an excess of blind rage, jumped on the prostrate body and tried to stamp out the woman's life. Even then, not satisfied, she called a large dog and set it upon her victim.

The two women quareled because Mrs. Shumley accused Agnes of attempting to attract the admiration of her husband.

Words ran high, and finally Mrs. Shumley struck the girl in the face.

Struck Her With a Hatchet.

The Brett girl ran into her house and emerged a moment later carrying a hatchet. Rushing at Mrs. Shumley, she whirled the hatchet wildly around and struck the luckless woman just behind the ear.

As Mrs. Shumley fell she threw out her hand and struck her assailant in the mouth. The girl closed her teeth with an angry snap and bit nearly in two one of the fingers.

The Shumley woman lay groaning on the ground, and the girl in her frenzy jumped on the prostrate form. She then called a dog from the house, and the animal, inflamed by the sight of blood, caught and tore the woman's arm almost to shreds.

The shrieks and cries from the Shumley yard had attracted other residents in the street, and neighbors arrived just in time to tear the dog away and to drag away the Brett girl, who had stamped on the face of the unconscious woman until the features were hardly recognizable.

Mrs. Shumley was carried to the house, and doctors who were summoned said that she was in a very critical condition.

The blow from the hatchet had been enough to make her hold on life precarious, and the attack of the dog will probably make amputation of the arm necessary if Mrs. Shumley should recover sufficiently to stand the operation.

Dr. Brace said that, in his opinion, the wound inflicted by the hatchet would prove fatal.

Agnes Brett was arrested after a hard fight with the policemen and taken to Perth Amboy jail, where she is held awaiting the outcome of her assault.

Must Obey Court Orders.

Cleveland, June 30.—It appears that officials of the United States government must obey the orders of courts whether they are engaged in government business when summoned or not. Some time ago Major W. B. Stockman of the weather bureau was fined for failing to answer a summons to appear as a witness before Judge Ong. Failing to pay the fine, he was committed to jail, but was almost immediately released. He appealed to Washington, and Judge Ong suspended the fine until Stockman could hear from the government. Stockman has just received a letter from Secretary Wilson advising him to pay the fine. Judge Ong feels vindicated and is disposed to let Stockman off with the costs.

To Preserve Jersey's Records.

Trenton, June 30.—Governor Griggs has appointed William Nelson of Paterson, William S. Stryker of Trenton and Henry S. Haines of Burlington, a commission under a law of the recent legislature to examine the condition of the records of the state and of the different counties and cities, with a view of recommending necessary changes in the matter of preserving these records. The law under which the commission is appointed recites that some valuable records have been lost because of the poor provisions for preserving them, and the recommendations that this commission is expected to make are designed to remedy this defect.

Result of Butter Shipping Experiment.

Washington, June 30.—As a result of the recent experimental shipment of American butter to England under the patronage of the agricultural department an order has just been placed by a London firm of merchants for the entire daily product of the Iowa Agricultural college, which was one of the two places from which the butter was taken. The product is 800 pounds daily, and other merchants are attesting in letters the good results achieved by the experiment.

Denies a Reported Railroad Sale.

Marinette, Wis., June 30.—Vice President John Bagley of the Wisconsin and Michigan road, denies the reported sale of the road and car ferry line to the Big Four and scouts the rumor that Peshtigo South Chicago route is to be abandoned, as this would render useless a line of new track extending from Peshtigo to Fathom Junction on the Soo road.

Parry, a painter, while working on a swinging scaffold 40 feet above the ground lettering a store front, was precipitated to the sidewalk by the slipping of a rope, which caused the scaffold to fall. TEMS INTERESTING TO DEVOTEES OF THE STEEL STEEDS.

The Popular Exercise Provides Incidents and Expressions That are of Especial Moment When Wheeling is the Rage.

Fred Harold and Walter Frey, of this city, will ride their wheels to South Beach next Sunday, weather permitting.

A 10 mile bicycle road race is announced for Saturday afternoon, July 24th, over the Rahway Elizabeth course on St. George avenue. Entry blanks and full information may be obtained by addressing H. J. Smith, captain of the U. C. R., Rahway.

Frank E. Maxson, who has been employed in the Potter Press Works, of Plainfield, started from here Monday morning for his home in Westerly, R. I. He will make the entire trip on his wheel, following the road along the shore of Long Island.

A league bicycle run has been arranged by members of the Y. M. C. A for Thursday night. The route will be to Montclair and return, a distance of twenty-four miles, and in order to finish in good season the start will be made from the Y. M. C. A. building at 6 o'clock.

The first 100-mile bicycle race to be given in this country will be held at Manhattan Beach, New York, Saturday, July 10, under the auspices of the Harlem Wheelmen. This sort of race has been quite popular in the larger cities in Europe. The secretary of the club has already received a large number of requests for entry blanks, as the prizes will aggregate considerably over $500.

"Cycling Knowledge" is the title of a handy volume just issued in the interest of patrons of the wheel. It is replete with information touching every conceivable subject likely to interest cyclists, and will doubtless be warmly welcomed by those who desire to know about the bicycle and all that relates to cycling—mechanical, general and racing. The work has been carefully compiled by George Isaiah Breakey. Gibb Bros. and Moran, publishers, 45-51 Rose street, New York.

One week from next Saturday the Manhattan Bicycle Club, of New York, will hold a double century run over the route from Weehawken to Plainfield, winding through the Jersey towns on the route. Each rider who finishes the double century will earn two points, and each survivor of the single century one point for the club to which he belongs. The club which scores the greatest number of points will receive a costly silver trophy, appropriately engraved, and bearing the names of the men who won it for their club.

The bicycle fete to be given at Long Branch on Saturday, July 17, promises to be very fine and the parade will be much larger than last year. The road extending from Long Branch to Pleasure Bay will be brilliantly lighted with torches of varied colored fires, and lanterns will be suspended from all the trees, fences and houses. The grounds at Pleasure Bay will be brilliantly illuminated with thousands of incandescent electric lights of different colors, a fine display of fireworks will be given both on land and water, and there will be lots of music for dancing.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Edward Marshall and wife, Miss Brown and Dr. Pocock, of this city, left Plainfield this morning at 5 o'clock for Boynton Beach, where they will spend the day fishing.

SOCIAL SEASON ENDED.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Monroe Avenue Church Held its Last Social.

The social season for the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church came to a very successful close last evening, when an entertainment and sociable was held in the church. The rain of the early part of the evening kept a few at home but the attendance was good and the affair proved very successful.

The programme occupied the first part of the evening. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell acted as master of cermonies. Vocal solos were given by Miss Alice Carroll, Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Charlotte Messersmith, and a vocal duet by the Misses Carroll. Fred Van Eps and Fred G. Smith gave a very pleasing banjo duet. Miss Amy G. Burt gave a recitation and responded to the hearty applause with an encore. The rest of the programme consisted of a number of charades, the titles of which were guessed as follows: "Childhood," "Cicero," "Patch work," "Attenuate," and "Metaphor."

The committee in charge of the programme consisted of Mrs. Grannett, Miss Brouwer and Miss Forster.

After the programme, the guests were invited to one of the adjacent rooms to partake of ice cream and cake. The evening was a warm one and the tables were soon crowded. The refreshments were served by the members of the Aid Society.

The appointments were made upon nomination of Edward J. Anderson, vice-chairman of the Republican State committee, who is acting chairman in the absence of Franklin Murphy.

Dropped the Wood and Saved the Child.

Yesterday afternoon a Plainfield woman, accompanied by her baby in a carriage, stood near the corner of Park avenue and Second street looking in one of the store windows. She was intently watching things in the window and did not see the carriage rolling toward the gutter with the prospect of seriously injuring her child. As the carriage approached the gutter someone called to the woman to catch the wagon, but she was not quick enough, and before she could capture the rolling vehicle, William Addis, Jr., happened along on his wheel just in time to stop the carriage and save the child. Mr. Addis was carrying a heavy load of wood, but he dropped the wood as well as his wheel just in time. The mother was so delighted to know that her child was saved that she burst out crying for joy, and profusely thanked the hero of the moment.

PUSS IS SAFE NOW.

She Won Forgiveness by Her Wonderful Feline Intelligence.

Mrs. Mary J. Hawkins, of 437 West Fourth street, has a cat which possesses to a marked degree that feline accomplishment known as "coming back."

One day in May Mrs Hawkins decided to get rid of the cat, and taking it in her carriage she drove to Scotch Plains and dropped it in one of the streets. Nothing more was seen of puss until yesterday, when she was found asleep in the sun in her accustomed place on Mrs. Hawkins' front piazza.

Mrs. Hawkins is full of admiration for the cat's intelligence in finding its way so long a distance, and declares she will not send it away again.
